OCEAN BEACH HOTEL, NEW LONDON, BURNED EARLY THURSDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 6—Fire of an unknown origin completely destroyed the Hartford house, a three story wooden structure, on Riverbend place, Ocean beach, owned by William Rulnick, of Hartford, early this morning. The flames spread rapidly and, before the department arrived the structure was doomed. The building was quickly consumed by the furious flames, which were fanned by a strong wind and with its contents a loss of close to $15,000 is estimated. The building was insured for $12,000, but this, it is said, will not cover the loss.

How the fire originated is a mystery, but the police and Fire Chief Thomas Shipman are making an investigation.

The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock and at the time flames were leaping from the upper part of the building. An alarm was sent in from Box 515, corner of Bentley and Stuart avenues. The department responded in good time, but by the time that the first of the apparatus arrived at the burning building, it was evident that the structure could not be saved. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds had a half dozen streams of water emptied upon the howling furnace, but the water was of little or no avail for the building was soon reduced to a mass of smouldering embers and all that remains of the building are charred timbers and the chimney.

The roming house was conducted the entire season by Rulnick's sister-in-law. With the closing of the beach season Monday, Mrs. Rulnick, it is said, left for her home in Hartford, but several of the help were allowed to remain in the building. They were there last night, but none of them could account for the origin of the fire nor could they advance any possible theory as to how the fire started. The hotel did not have especially good patronage this season, it is understood as was the case with most of the roming houses at the shore resort.

A helper in the house, Mrs. Margaret Keith, warned several other servants asleep on the top floor. There were no guests at the house. Mrs. Keith went to the attic to awaken Roscoe White of Providence, dishwasher, Charles Painchill of Hartford and Mart Marholin of New Britain, waiters and Marholin's guest over night, George Cohen of Springfield.

Officer Tooker was painfully injured while performing duty during the progress of the fire. The officer was directing traffic, for hundreds of automobiles were driven to the shore when flames illuminated the heavens. An automobile owned by Samuel Manholm, 138 Bailey avenue, New Britain and driven by the owner's son Maurice, 16, temporarily staying at the rooming house, struck and knocked down the officer when the driver failed to heed a signal. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. In the police court today the case was continued to Tuesday next. The young man furnished a surety on his bond for his appearance at that time. Tooker was taken to police headquarters by Robert Lyons and later was taken to the office of a physician where it was found that he had sustained a sprained left wrist and sprained muscles of the trigh thigh. He was taken to his home and will be off duty for a week at least.

The funeral of John McKenna was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. George Clark. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang, "Some Sweet Day." The bearers were George McCaskey, Walter O'Neill, Carlos Selesnitsky, Albert Iverson, Cornelius Moriarty and Louis Wheeler, members of the New London police department. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Lavinna Hull, of 259 Williams street; Mrs. Simon Gonzales and twin daughters, 51 Hempstead street; Mrs. Michael Frankowich and infant son, 18 Lewis street; Joseph Bowsza, Mystic and Robert Hanley, 42 West Pleasant street, were patients dismissed at Lawrence-Memorial hospital today.

Edward H. Fitzhugh, a former resident of New London and for many years general manager of the Grand Trunk railroad, has returned to his home in Toronto, Canada, after having spent several days in this city. Mr. Fitzhugh and family for several years occupied the sightly residence at Neptune park, now occupied by the Berry family.

The traffic blinker, corner of Jefferson avenue and Bank street, was discovered out of commission by the police last night, for the signal failed to function. The defective signal was reported to the highway department today.

Nine young ladies from this city and two from Waterford have entered the Joseph Lawrence training school at Lawrence Memorial hospital, as student nurses. The course upon which they are entering will require two years of study. They are, Corinne Kelley of 32 Acordion street, Helene McDonald of 33 Lee avenue, Louise Murphy, 66 Montauk avenue, Alice Onuparik, 57 Lewis street, Julia Pennella, 58 West Coit street, Cecilia Rondamanski, 24 Willetts avenue, Mary Elizabeth Ross, 870 Bank street, Anna Lamphea, 62 Gorton street, Nora Dennison of Durfee Hill and Ines Davison, Waterford.

Miss Margaret Bennett Smith of East Hartford, was united in marriage last night in that city with Lieutenant Arthur Graham Hall of Washington. A number of local persons attended the affair, as both participants are well known in this city. After a honeymoon trip they will reside at Cobblehurst, this city. The groom was graduated from the U. S. Coast Guard academy at Fort Trumbull in the class of 1920.

About sixty members of Trumbull commandery, U. O. G. C., enjoyed the annual picnic of the organization which was scheduled for Labor day at Riverside park in Holy Ghost hall, Bayonet street. After a delicious dinner those present had an afternoon of games following which supper was served. The luncheon and supper were in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Derry.

Miss Helen Gorton of 109 Montauk avenue entertained a group of fitends the other evening on her eleventh birthday. The evening was spent in playing games, after which refreshments were served.

At a meeting of Orient Rebekah lodge, held in Odd Fellows hall tonight plans were made for a bazaar to be held next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Williams, 394 Broad street, have announced the engagement of their daughter Miss Ruth Williams to John H. Shea, son of Mrs. John Shea of 17 Viets street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Seivert of Wightman street entertained last night with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Bertha Seivert of Tacoma, Washington, who is to be married shortly to William Steele of Rock Hill, S. C. The wedding, it is understood will be held in this city.

When the lifesaving corps held its annual meeting at the Red Cross hut at the beach early in the week officers elected were:

Captain, John Jarvis; first mate, John Andrews; second mate, Bernard Farnham; secretary and treasurer, Richard E. Hancock.

This is the fourth term of Secretary-Treasurer Hancock, the third for Captain Jarvis and the second for Andrews and Farnham.

Capt. John Jarvis left later for Tuckahoe, N. Y., to assume his duties as physical instructor in the Eastchester high school there. He is also a Westchester county basketball official in winter.

The Red Cross hut during this season has given attention to 1,889 cases, 20 of which were serious enough to require calling a doctor to the hut. This is nearly double the number of last year, which was 996. The nurses were Miss Margaret M. Murphy and Miss Bessie A. Ryan. Arrangements have been made to keep two of the paid lifeguards on duty the rest of the week, though the service was expected to end with Labor day. First and Second Mates John Andrews and Bernard Fernham will remain on duty. Neil Leary of Newark, N. J. John Simmons of Hartford and Joseph Edwards of Bridgeport were non-resident members of the volunteer life-saving corps present at the annual meeting.

STATE GRADUATE NURSES' ASS'N TO MEET OCT. 10TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 6—At a meeting of the alumnae association of Lawrence Memorial hospital held last night, plans were discussed for the annual meeting of the Connecticut Graduate Nurses' association which is to be held in the Second Congregational church of this city October 10. Tentative plans were also made for giving a banquet to the graduating class of the hospital, October 19.

TWO N. Y. DRUG ADDICTS COMMITTED TO NORWICH S. H.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 6—Two drug addicts, Robert J. Platner, 75 East 156th street, New York, and James N. Tompkins, 368 West 57th street, New York, presented a pitiful sight when they went to police headquarters last midnight seeking treatment. This was more particularly because they were suffering from the want of narcotics, a habit they had formed, and lacking cocaine or opium they were made highly nervous, a condition manifested as they stood before the office desk and related the story of their craving for a deadly drug. So nervous was the condition of the young men that Drs. Charles Kaufman and George P. Cheney were summoned and after being prescribed for, the drug addicts were taken to Norwich State hospital in the police car, by Acting Lieut. James D. Gaffney and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin. There they will receive special treatment.

A batch of nine cases of intoxication was presented in the police court today, this being the greatest number of such cases to claim the attention of the court in many weeks. Four of the accused were discharged, while two were fined $5 and costs. Three were sentenced to 30 days in jail. There were also presented two cases of breach of the peace, Bernardo Andrada, a Filipino, had his case continued to the 20th inst. Joseph Chiboski, 23 Eastern avenue, had his case put over also until the 20th inst.

Harry Witkin, 263 Central avenue, Norwich, Alpheus J. Pelletier, Willow Point, West Mystic, and Charles Klega, 44 Kenneth street, Hartford, were charged with violation of the city's law, parking overtime on State street. Neither appeared in court and their respective bonds of $2 were declared forfeited. James Guardacosta was charged with driving with defective brakes and blocking traffic. His case was continued to Saturday next. Guardacosta was arrested at Ocean Beach by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin. James Bracelli, 27 Harrison street, was charged with driving a truck without having a license. He was fined $10 and costs. Bracelli was arrested this morning by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky after the truck had run over and killed a dog on Bank street.

But one drunk occupies a cell at police headquarters tonight. He will be presented in court tomorrow. The accused was arrested on Douglass street this evening by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Russell C. Watts of the local coast guard would in all probability have drowned the other day had it not been for the prompt action of Gunner's Mate John Beraqua of the Coast Guard academy. Watts, while swimming off the wharf, suddenly became in difficulty and was in serious trouble when spied by Beraqua. Hastily removing his shoes, the latter leaped into the water and was able to keep the sailor afoat until assistance arrived. Upon reaching the shore Watts was in an unconscious condition and was not revived until after artificial respiration was resorted to. After treatment he quickly recovered.

Indications are that the plant of the Atlantic Fisheries, Groton, will soon be operating at capacity.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frigidaire

Shipments of the new Frigidaire will be allotted to dealers upon a strictly factory quota basis, according to word that has been received by Mr. Brown, local representative. The two Dayton plants, covering 53 acres of floor space, are being operated at full speed to meet the tremendous demand which has been created by the newest product of General Motors.

"This radically changed and greatly improved electric refrigerator evidently represents what multitudes of people have been thinking about and waiting for," said Mr. Brown. "It is quiet to the superlative degree. There is absolutely no hint of the mechanical in its appearance. It will deliver ample refrigeration under all circumstances.

"Many who have visited our sales room were surprised to find that the remarkable advantages of the new Frigidaire are not confined to the de luxe line. They are found in each and every one of the 13 models from the smallest and least expensive to the largest and finest automatic refrigerator in the entire line.

"This makes it possible for families in moderate circumstances to have the same high type of refrigeration which is provided those with more money at their command. The self-sealing freezing trays, which gives Frigidaire its universally recognized ice-making ability are found in all models.

"Like its predecessors, the new Frigidaire has lots of reserve power This means that it will function perfectly, under the heaviest load. Some people might never require such surplus power, but the new Frigidaire is built to meet any demand under any circumstances. In a room temperature of 100 degrees it makes ice cubes quickly, without reaching its refrigerating capacity.

"Such performance is made possible by the recently developed forced draft which literally drives heat taken from the food storage compartment into the open air. This directed air circulation, supplied by two highly efficient fans, is one of the outstanding features of the new Frigidaire."

Strand Theatre

Showing today and tomorrow at the Strand theatre is "The First Night." The claim that it is one of the funniest farce comedies of the year is borne out after a view of this fast-moving picture.

There is not a dull moment from the very start until the finish. It tells in broad, laughing lines the troubles of a young couple who are engaged, much to the chagrin of another young man, who covets the girl. He threatens to tell of his engagement to the young doctor who has captured the girl, and, to circumvent him, the couple elope. The defeated rival, masquerading as a Frenchwoman, confronts the young bridegroom and tells him that she is his wife, married while he was overseas during the war The complications that ensue situations and continuous mirth.

The principal roles, that of the young couple, is admirably handled by Eert Lytell and Dorothy Devore, and capably assisted by such well known screen players as Walter Hiers, Harry Myers, Frederic Kovert, Lila Leslie, Hazel Keener, Joan Standing, Nellie Bly Baker and James Mack.

Palace Theatre

A "wind tunnel" similar to those used in testing air currents for airplanes and in the United States bureau of standards played a strange role in motion pictures when it was used to knock Karl Dane, huge comedian, down.

In "Detectives," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new co-starring vehicle for Dane and George K. Arthur, now playing at the Palace theatre. Dane had to walk into a hurricane and be knocked flat. Dane is big. To knock him over took plenty of wind.

The new picture is a comical thriller, something entirely new in picture stories. Dane and Arthur, as amateur detectives, blunder into the thrills, adventures and hairbreadth escapes of a genuine mystery plot, with sinister shadows, secret passageways and trapdoors, an underground grotto, filled with weird mummies, and other hair-raising experiences. Chester M. Franklin directed the story.

Marceline Day plays the heroine, and Tenen Holtz the villain, the mysterious Orloff, and others in the cast are Polly Moran, Clarence Lyle, Tetsu Komai, the Japanese character actor, and many others of note.

Breed Theatre.

One of the seasons most unusual productions has been booked at the Breed theatre here for two days beginning today.

The picture is "The Big Noise," a First National picture based on a story written directly for the screen by Ben Hecht, the prominent short story writer and novelist.

Hecht has drawn from his vast experiences as a reporter and feature writer in Chicago dailies for his plot for "The Big Noise," which involves a political campaign in which a nonentity is made famous through publicity for a short space of time, then dropped back into oblivion when the purpose has been served.

Chester Conklin has the best role of his career as the "headliner" who rises to fame with breath-taking rapidity and sinks into obscurity at the same bewildering gait.

Alice White and Jack Egan have the ingenue and juvenile leads respectively, and Sam Hardy and Ned Sparks, both veteran troupers, play important comedy roles. David Torrance, Bodil Rosing, Fred O'Beck and other prominent players are in supporting roles. Allan Dwan directed "The Big Noise" from Thomas Geraghty's adaptation of Hecht's story.

CONTROL POLLUTION OF INDOOR SWIMMING POOLS

The monthly health bulletin issued by the state department of health says that in considering drinking water and indoor swimming pools as compared to salt water beaches and large inland streams, there is the difference that ready methods of purification by chlorination or filtration are available in the former case, whereas we are dependent on dilution and natural purification in the latter case.

There is another distinction which should be borne in mind between the presence of bact. coli in salt water beaches or inland streams and in indoor swimming pools. The source of water supply of the indoor swimming pool is either a public supply or a private supply that is relatively free from bact. coli. Therefore, the bact. coli in the indoor swimming pool must be regarded as of human origin. Bact. coli in the waters of inland streams may be of animal origin and of no great sanitary significance. The same may be true to a lesser extent of harbors receiving a large flow of fresh water from land subject to contamination from animal sources—cultivated land, manure piles, etc.

In the very nature of indoor swimming pools, pollution should be carefully controlled by constant presence of free chlorine to destroy possible direct transmission of germs from one bather to another. Overcrowding of salt water beaches esnecially at times when tidal movement is at a minimum, may bring about a somewhat similar condition. Possibly a remedy which has been used to some extent — the chloroboat—may be used more widely in the future for such conditions, chlorine being applied directly to the water in the affected area.

MILLS FAMILY HOLDS THIRD REUNION AT WILDWOOD

Wildwood park, near Dayville, was the scene of the third annual Mills reunion when a total of 54 persons from four states gathered Saturday for a day of enjoyment together. Probably the biggest event of the day was that of disposing of the bountiful basket lunches provided. There was everything to eat from salads, beans and sandwiches to pickles, cookies and candy—some of the several champion eaters sampled about everything on the board, too.

For sports there was target shooting for men and women, while the youngsters used the glide, see-saw and the swings. Several rounds of horseshoe pitching were enjoyed by ten or a dozen of the male followers of this sport. In this latter connection it was apparent that one or two of the men, who had not pitched since the reunion last year, would benefit by more frequent reunions.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bickford and son, Jack, of Oyster Bay; Edward C. Corbin, of Worcester; George Corbin and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vogel, of Pascoag, R. I.; Benjamin Chappel, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lyon, Miss Ruth Lyon, Miss Pearl Lyon and Mrs. Ruth Lyon, all of North Windham; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hopkins, Miss Dorothy Pike and Miss Winifred Pike, of Hampton; Charles Pike, Mr. and Mrs. John Scranton, Melvin Bickford, Mr. and Mrs Floyd Pike and two children, all of Elliotts. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Mills, of North Uxbridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills and two children, of South West Harbor, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mills, of Whitinsville, Mass.; Mrs. Minnie Boyce, of Worcester; Mrs. Joseph Mills, of Attleboro; Mrs. Wetherbee of Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wetherbee and three children, of Worcester; Mrs. Cora Perrin, of Dayville; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pike and two children, of Pomfret; Mrs. R. L. Wiggins, of Willimantic; Mrs. James Higgins, of Uxbridge, Mass.; Miss Alice Brown and Miss Burgess, of Jewett City; Mr. and Mrs. Foster L. Burgess and five children, of Central Village, and Miss Alice Pike, of Lowell.

At the business meeting, called to order by the president, F. J. Mills, the various reports were read. A $5 gold piece was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morse, of Medfield, Mass., the only couple to have been married during the year. The bride is Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mills. The new baby in the family during the past year was Paul Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster L. Burgess, and this young chap was presented a ring, according to the custom of the reunion.

It was voted that the same officers be re-elected—F. J. Mills, president; George Mills, vice-president; F. L. Burgess, secretary-treasurer. The sports committee next year will include Charles Pike, Kenneth Wetherbee and Raymond Mills.

OVER 4,000,000 JEWS IN AMERICAN CENSUS

American Jews, including those who do not profess the Jewish faith, number 4,228,029, according to estimates based on a survey by Dr. N. S. Linfield and made public by the American Jewish committee through the Jewish Telegraph Agency this week. Forty-two per cent. of the total in the entire country live in New York city, 93 per cent. live in larger cities and more than 90 per cent. live in the northern group of states.

The increase of Jews has been more rapid than the increase in the general population during the past decade, the figures reveal, the proportion of Jews to total population having increased 10 per cent. during that period. However, it is pointed out that this rate is decelerating, the proportionate increase having been 600 per cent. during the four decades ended in 1917, when there was comparatively unrestricted immigration.

A bronze lock found on a tomb near Jerusalem and dating back to the early Christian era is pronounced a safety device of an elaborate type not known in modern Europe before the end of the 18th century.

ENROLLMENT OF SCHOOL CHILDREN SHOWS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

An increase of 59 pupils over last year is shown in the registration of children in the public schools of the town of Norwich which has just been completed by Miss M. Evelyn Whitehead, secretary to E. J. Graham superintendent of schools. On the last day of school last June there was a registration of 4,508 while the registration on Thursday, the fourth day after the opening of school for the 1928-1929 year was 4,567 pupils.

At the new Samuel Huntington school in Norwich Town, just opened for school use, there are 12 rooms in use at the present time and a registration of 362 pupils. There is an exceptionally large eighth grade and it is expected that another room will have to be opened and the eighth grade divided into two parts. The opening of the Huntington school has reduced the attendance at the Town street school from 196 last term to 79 for this term, the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades having been removed to the Huntington school. From the Yantic school the fifth grade was moved to the Huntington school, reducing the attendance at Yantic from 73 to 56.

Broadway school shows an increase of 21 scholars with 113 pupils in the eighth grade, being the largest eighth grade class in the history of the school. Elizabeth street shows an increase of 23 scholars, while the Bishop school shows the largest increase of 41 pupils. The schools to show a decrease from last term are Laurel Hill, East Great Plain, Taftville, Falls, Smith avenue, Hobart avenue and High street. Taftville shows the largest decrease of 31 scholars.

It is expected that by the end of September the increase will be nearer 100 than 59, as many children are now at the beaches and it is known that many are confined to their homes with illness.

The following table shows the comparison of the attendance, with the Samuel Huntington school being compared to the West Town street school of last year:

TALK OF ORGANIZING BOAT CLUB IN NORWICH

It is understood that a number of young men of this city are planning to organize a boat club during the winter, with a view to having things in full swing by the spring of 1929. One party of men is to engage in constructing a boat during the winter. Out-board motors are to be used by practically all club members and as this type of sport is on the increase all about Norwich, this city may soon see the boats tearing down the Thames, and once again the Norwich harbor will take on an appearance of the old days, when boats were plentiful and the old Norwich Boat club was in its prime.

Slightly Injured In Auto Accident

A truck owned and operated by Peter Nawrocki of Yantic and a truck owned by Nadelson's Spruce lodge, Fitchville, were in collision at 8.30 o'clock Wednesday evening on the Norwich-Fitchville road. It is understood that the Nawrocki truck was following a load of hay drawn by a team of horses and driven by his son, Clipquie, when it was struck by the Nadelson truck. Nawrocki received injuries to both feet and was attended by Dr. John W. Callahan at his home.

SINCLAIR WAS PICKED AS A VICTIM FOR EXTORTION

Three Internal Revenue Agents Are Said to Have Attempted to Obtain $35,000 From the Oil Magnate—They Are Alleged to Have Agreed to Approve His Claim for a $250,000 Tax Reduction if They Were Given $35,000—In the Hat of One of the Accused $10,000 in Bills Was Found.

NEW YORK, September 7—(AP)—It was learned at the federal building today that Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, is the man from whom Edward F. Brown and Elmer F. Andrews, internal revenue agents are alleged to have obtained $35,000 by extortion.

The agents were arrested yesterday on a charge of extortion but the name of their intended victim was not made public at that time. At the time of the arrest $10,000 in bills was found in Andrews' hat and was said by authorities to be the first instalment of a $35,000 extortion fee.

Reginald W. Ragland, lawyer who made the complaint against the agents said that they had agreed to approve his client's claim for a $250,000 tax reduction if they were given $35,000.

Sinclair claimed deductions aggregating $2,000,000 on his income tax returns for 1925 and 1926. About $250,000 of this amount represented losses through his racing stables. $1,250,000 through the Selah Oil company and $500,000 through bad debts

SMITH TO CAMPAIGN IN WEST AND NORTHWEST

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7—(AP)—Although the scope of Governor Smith's first campaign swing has been determined, he has not decided what he will discuss in the six-speech tour through the west and northwest, which will get under way a week from Sunday.

Guided by his experiences in gubernatorial battles, the democratic nominee for president intends to await last-minute developments, particularly in the republican camp, before mapping out definitely the line of attack in his addresses on the stump. He will prepare no speeches, planning on all occasions to talk extemporaneously.

The expectation is that the governor will take up farm relief in his first speech at Omaha, Sept. 18, but he said today even this program might be upset, perhaps by the address Herbert Hoover will deliver the night before in Newark, N. J.

As for Smith's appearances in Oklahoma City, Sept. 20; Denver, Sept. 22; Helena, Mont., Sept. 24; Minneapolis, Sept. 27, and Milwaukee, Sept. 29, he indicated that he hasn't even tentative subjects in mind as yet, and threw cold water on speculation that he would discuss prohibition at Milwaukee.

MUSICIANS RETURN TO THE CHICAGO THEATRES

CHICAGO, Sept. 7—(AP)—Movies in 350 outlying theatres flickered tonight to the music of jazz and sentimental ballads played by peaceful musicians whose Labor day walkout was terminated today with an agreement that both the exhibitors and the musicians hailed as a great victory.

The trouble, punctuated with a federal injunction restraining officers of the Musicians' union from calling a strike, and with threats of moving picture machine operators and stage hands to tie up all Chicago theatres in a sympathetic strike, was settled after an all-night conference in which both sides made concessions.

The musicians agreed to cancel demands that certain outlying theatres employ orchestras of at least four member and that orchestras of six members be retained in houses where talking movies were used, and the exhibitors in turn agreed to employ musicians for a stipulated period each year and some of them that had not been hiring orchestras reconsidered.

SENATOR CURTIS IS CAMPAIGNING IN MAINE

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 7—(AP)—Reductions of income taxes, government expenses and of the public debt during the seven years of republican administration were detailed tonight by Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, in a speech at the City auditorium.

The senator came to Maine to apply the finishing touch on an extensive republican campaign for the state election to be held on Monday, and on the platform with him tonight were the party's headline candidates, Senator Frederick Hale, seeking re-election, and William Tudor Gardiner nominee for governor.

Republicans here still make use of the old adage: "As Maine goes so goes the nation." It is a normally republican state and those looking on the election Monday as a barometer for the national event coming November seem interested in the size of the vote, so Senator Curtis added his word for the state ticket in his speech tonight with a strong plea for an all-republican delegation to congress.

THIEF CLAIMS TO BE SON OF WEALTHY MAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 7—(AP)—A 16-year-old youth who claims to be the son of a wealthy Boston man, was arrested today for the robbery of a gasoline filling station of $40.

He gave his name as Richard Eames and said his father was Allister Eames, 15 Babcock street, Boston, manager of a large office supply house.

He told police he was graduated from a fashionable boys' school in Pittsburgh this summer and worked his way to Europe on a cattle boat.

Police said he came here to visit an aunt and being without funds decided to hold up several all-night places. James Kirkpatrick of Rochester a companion, was also taken into custody.

The youths confessed holding up another filling station the night of Labor day. They obtained $16 at that time.

Eames said a gun which they used in the hold-ups was purchased while he was abroad.

OBTAINING REPAIR PARTS FOR THE "CANARY BIRD"

PERPIGNAN, France, Sept. 7—(AP)—Sergeant Jean Assolant arrived by airplane today en route to Paris to obtain parts needed to repair the "Canary Bird" in which he and two companions had flown to Casablanca, Morocco, he declared his intention, with Sergeant Rene Lefevre, of carrying on his flight to Brazil as soon as the plane is repaired. He left by train for Paris.

BROADCASTING PROGRAM OF POLITICAL SPEAKERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Republican campaign speakers will broadcast over radio networks three nights a week, beginning Sept. 15, and democratic speakers two nights weekly, beginning Sept. 17, the National Broadcasting company announced tonight.

The schedules were laid out after members of both parties had chosen the stations they desired to use, the announcement said. The socialists have arranged for at least two broadcast programs, one in the east and one over the Pacific coast network.

Democratic programs will be on the air Wednesday and Friday nights from 10:30 to 11 (eastern daylight time) over a nation-wide network. On Mondays democratic speakers will broadcast from 10:30 to 11 a. m. (E. D. T.) over eastern and middle western stations, and on Wednesdays from 11:30 a. m. to noon (E. D. T.) over the same territory.

The republican schedule has been arranged as follows: Mondays from 8 to 8:30 p. m. (eastern daylight time) over 32 stations in the east, south and middle west Thursdays from 9 to 9:30 p. m. over a nation-wide network of 37 stations; Saturdays from 9 to 9:30 p. m. over 23 stations in the east, south and middle west; Tuesday from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. over 11 eastern stations; and Thursdays from 10:30 to 10:45 a. m., over 6 eastern stations.

On Mondays and Wednesdays from 11 to 11:45 a. m. (central daylight saving time) republicans will go on the air from Chicago over 20 middle west stations.

JOHN COOLIDGE ASPIRES TO BECOME RAILROAD MAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept 7—(AP)—John Coolidge, the president's son, is going to be a railroad man. His job is with the New York, New Haven and Hartford—perhaps in the freight department—and he'll start at the bottom and work his way up.

News that young Coolidge had decided on his career came first today from Superior, Wis., where the executive offices of the summer white house are located. It was quickly confirmed by E. G. Buckland, vice-president of the road.

John himself was rather non-committal. At the family home in Northampton, Mass., where he went earlier in the week, he said the report of his railroad job was "true as far as it goes," adding that any further comment by him might be embarrasing to the New Haven.

Mr. Buckland, however, made this statement:

"The matter of employment of John Coolidge is having favorable consideration. It is his desire to begin at the bottom and, depending solely upon his own efforts, to work his own way up and learn railroading. What kind of a job he will have or where he will be located is not yet determined."

FOSS ANNOUNCES THAT HE WILL VOTE FOR HOOVER

BOSTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Declaring that the "election of Governor Smith on the wet platform would set this nation back 50 years," former Gov. Eugene N. Foss announced today that he would vote for Herbert Hoover for president.

This announcement by Mr. Foss, who served three terms as governor of Massachusetts and has been a leader of the democratic party in this state for many years, was contained in a letter to Arthur Lyman, state chairman of the democratic finance committee.

In declining an invitation to become a member of the committee, former Governor Foss recalled that he had come out publicly for national prohibition in March, 1915, and that his position "as an uncompromising advocate of" constitutional prohibition was again stated in 1916, when the 18th amendment was pending in congress and, with Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, I was one of two of the national committee appointed to prepare a special memorial to congress advocating the submission of the amendment to the states.

COOLIDGE MAY STUMP PRIOR TO ELECTION

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 7—(AP)—Although still believing his best contribution to the republican campaign is to continue to so conduct public affairs that his administration may commend itself to the electorate, President Coolidge is willing to be guided by future developments and, if necessary, to deliver a speech or two before election day.

It was indicated the first opportunity for such an address might present itself during a visit to Vermont which the chief executive is planning to make shortly after his return to Washington next week.

MAN ESCAPED FROM HOUSE OF CORRECTION

BOSTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Raymond A. Williams, 23, of Boston, a prisoner in the Deer Island house of correction, escaped from the institution today by sawing the bars of his cell. Williams escaped some time between breakfast and noon and was thought to be hiding somewhere on the island.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, Sept. 7—(AP)—The federal railway administration has ordered that milk markets be installed at strategic points to enable railwaymen to quench their thirst.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 7—(AP)—With full naval ceremony the bodies of forty-one officers and men of the submarine L-55, which was sunk by the Russians in the Baltic in June, 1919, were buried in the naval cemetery here today.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 7—(AP)—Abolition of examinations for high school boys and girls, except as tests for entrance to universities or to professions, was urged before the educational section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science today by Dr. Cyril Norwodo, head-master of Harrow.

Dem. State Convention Opens in New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 7—(AP)—The democratic convention opened in the Arena which was in gala attire, the overhead rafters draped with colored bunting, and the spaces bright with electric lights. Its seating capacity is fully six thousand yet the audience on the tiers of seats massed well toward the platform at one end made an impressive showing. The delegates were seated in blocks of seats in front of the platform which was erected at one end.

The delegates were slow in assembling as many had not calculated that it was quite a walk from the Taft hotel to the convention hall. But the early arrivals had a good time. The Norwalk delegation with placards headed by a band, came into the hall to a lively tune and marched through the aisles in the wake of "Miss Houston," the juvenile donkey which Mrs. Lillian S. Abbott, national committeewoman bought in Houston, Tex., and had shipped home to be an animated exhibit during the campaign.

The band played "Sidewalks of New York" and the crowd did a lot of cheering.

At 8:20 State Chairman James J. Walsh began pounding with the gavel to bring the gathering to order but his voice for a time was lost in the vastness of the place and smothered in the uproar as delegates with placards meandering around trying to find their seats.

Then "Miss Houston" after resisting efforts of her escort to put her upon the platform, and being bodily lifted, persistently refused to be led off. She was finally gathered in the arms of four men and lowered to the floor.

Quiet came upon the gathering after a short interval and Rev. George B. Gilbert of Middletown offered prayer. Miss Hazel Hall, of New Haven, sang "Star Spangled Banner" with the audience on its feet, followed by "Dixie" and "Sidewalks of New York." Mrs. Raymond Newell, of West Haven, being the accompanist. The audience lustily joined in the chorus of the last song and the 102nd regiment band came in with brass accompaniments.

When Kenneth Wynne, temporary chairman was presented to give the keynote speech, the band played "The Gang's All Here."

Every reference by Chairman Wynne to Gov. Smith was applauded. When he had concluded, Secretary Lynch read a message of greetings from Gov. Smith which was sent to Chairman Walsh. The convention recessed to permit senatorial districts to select members for convention committees.

Upon resuming, National Committeeman Spellacy had a motion adopted to have the chair name three from each congressional district to prepare a list of presidential electors. The following were named: First district, Marion Roberts, Frank Nolan, Harvey Thompson. Second, Lucy Kretzer, Joseph Williams, Edward Keegan. Third, D. J. McCoy, Lawrence Gallagher, Leo Sullivan. Fourth, Paul Connery, Archibald McNeil, Mrs. Hugh Fox. Fifth, William Palmer, Mrs. Alice Mooney and John F. Addis.

The memberships of convention committees were reported to the secretaries, and the convention adjourned until morning.

The situation as it affected the various candidates for office on the party ticket was decidedly beclouded late tonight. The Lonergan men declared that P. B. O'Sullivan was beaten for the senatorship but in the background, looming more formidable each hour, was the candidacy of Robert P. Butler, who was referred to as the "organization candidate."

Charles G. Morris appeared to be maintaining a lead claimed by his friends over Mr. Thome, of Waterbury for the governorship

Mayor Paonessa of New Britain, showed a statement he had prepared commenting on the action of the republican convention in refusing Secretary of State Pallotti a nomination for lieutenant governor.

Frank Fenton remained alone in the field for lieutenant governor but a contest appeared ahead for the secretary's place. The forecast was for at least three roll calls tomorrow and as there are over a thousand delegates the session will be a protracted one. There seemed little possibility of compromises being preached in night conferences.

The resolutions committee met at the Taft to hear those who had planks to offer and its meeting seemed likely to be an all-night one.

YOUNGEST AUTHORIZED PLANE PILOT IN AMERICA

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Sept. 7—(AP)—Joe Garside, 14, said to be the youngest authorized airplane pilot in America, left here today on a non-stop flight to New York. Tomorrow he expects to continue to Boston, his home.

The lad came to Charlotte six weeks ago to visit relatives and became interested in becoming a pilot. He took an aviation instruction course and, although on account of his age a pilot's license could not be obtained for him, he secured an official government permit. Today's flight was the first long one he has attempted. He was accompanied by a passenger L. E. Shealey of Charlotte.

HOOVER ON ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE REP. NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Breaking his rule of silence, Herbert Hoover declared today that the republican administration had made the three greatest contributions to the cause of world peace since the signing of the armistice.

The Kellogg-Briand treaty to outlaw war, the naval limitations treaty and the Dawes reparations plan were the three accomplishments named by the republican presidential candidate to newspaper correspondents in reply to what he said was the claim of the democratic platform that the republican party had made no substantial contributions to the cause of peace.

The pilot had been instructed before leaving the ground not to do any stunts although the boy's father had requested stunt flying in hopes of restoring his son's hearing.

The dead are: Pilot Charles Potholm, 25, of 399 Broadview terrace, Hartford, Conn.

Abraham Mazer, 21, of 208 Belmont avenue, Springfield.

Luke Briotta, six years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Briotta, of 90 Melrose street, Springfield.

Mazer and Briotta were passengers in the plane. All three were killed almost instantly, death being caused by a compound fracture of the skull. Pilot Potholm was unconscious, but breathing when lifted from his wrecked plane. He died a few moments after being dragged from the wreckage. Potholm has been flying for the last three years and held a transport pilot's license. He returned from a barnstorming tour of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine Thursday.

The ship was in the air about ten minutes when the pilot decided to do a loop. He started the loop at about a 2,000 foot altitude. As the plane was coming out of the loop, spectators were horrified to see the left wing crumple and slide away from the plane. A moment later there was a sharp explosion and the plane took a terrific vertical dive straight for the earth. The other wing of the plane collapsed as the plane hurtled to earth.

Mechanics and spectators at Randall field, conducted by the Massachusetts Airways corporation, owner of the ship, started on a run to locate the plane. Hundreds of tenants living in the vicinity who had witnessed the crash, joined in the search. The plane was soon located in a swamp, more than a mile from the airport. Parts of the wing and fuselage were scattered over a wide territory.

The nose of the motor buried itself about three feet into the soft marsh. All three victims were still strapped into their seats when found. They were quickly extricated and doctors called, but they were beyond medical aid. The bodies were later removed to Graham's undertaking parlors here.

Bodies of all three victims were badly mangled, a pipe penetrating the head of the Briotta youth, Briotta's father, it was understood, was on the field when the plane in which his son was riding crashed. The accident was the most serious that has happened in this vicinity since aviation was taken up seriously here.

EARL ROWLAND CONTINUES TO LEAD THE TRANSCONTINENTAL AIR RACERS

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 7—(AP)—Speeding southward across southern Oklahoma and northern Texas, at the same gruelling pace he has set since Wednesday, Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kansas, led class A, transcontinental air racers across the finish line here today to maintain his advantage for the third successive day. Rowland's maroon-nosed Cessna monoplane landed at municipal airport at 1.07 o'clock, 25 minutes in advance of Robert Dake in his American Moth.

Fourteen of the remaining 27 entries had reached the night control point here by mid-afternoon.

Albert R. Jacobs, Philadelphia, returned to Kansas City after having been forced down by engine trouble at Gardner, Kansas and Samuel H. Turner of Alexandria, Va., arrived at Oklahoma City later in the afternoon, he plane of M. E. Grevemberg of Toronto Canada, a Travelair, arrived at Wichita late today.

Despite the fact that a coal black cat which he carried for good luck was stolen from him at Kansas City, Tex Rankin finished third, landing at 2.05.

Continuing to show speed which his plane did not exhibit when the air derby started, Dale G. Jackson, who left Kansas City in tenth place this morning, reached here in fourth position.

S. L. Wittman of Byron, Wis., who was sixth in at Oklahoma City, provided the first thrill of the afternoon to 3,000 spectators who had assembled to see the racers when he came in on the field with an intake valve missing from his plane. The valve dropped out after leaving Oklahoma City and he continued in the race without it. Wittman finished twelfth. The pilot declared he would be able to take off at 5 a. m., tomorrow when the fliers head west for Abilene, the next fueling point.

Favor Disarmament As War Deterrent

Representatives of Germany, Greece and Japan Laud the Kellogg Peace Pact.

GENEVA, Sept. 7—(AP)—Plain speaking on war and peace, on the meaning of the Kellogg pact and on the need for disarmament characterized today's session of the assembly of the league of nations.

Hermann Mueller, socialist chancellor of Germany; Nicholas Politis, a brilliant legal light of Greece; and Minelchiro Adachi, Japanese ambassador to France, led the delegates of half a hundred nations into storms of applause as they eloquently pictured dire results that might follow acts of international injustice.

Disarmament must come or the league of nations will be a failure, Mueller said, voicing a plain warning that Germany could not go on indefinitely under the limitations of armament imposed on her by the Versailles treaty while other countries were permitted to build up their land, sea and air forces. He warned too that the method, by which the league handles the problems of minorities in the several European states which shelter alien strata of populations, will have much effect upon the eventual life or death of peace.

But conditions were never less favorable for war, he added, and he gave hearty approval to the Kellogg-Briand pact on behalf of his government.

M. Politis' legalistic dissection of that treaty aroused the admiration of the delegates. They discussed his effort in the lobbies between the morning and afternoon sessions and characterized it as "masterly."

They seemed especially struck by the Greek's statement that the Kellogg pact had given positive force to the Geneva protocol of 1924, a pronouncement which he had helped frame and which denounces as an aggressor any government which refuses to resort to arbitration for settlement of international disputes.

Under the league covenant, M. Politis pointed out, war might be considered legitimate. The league might find a resort to arms justifiable in defense of legitimate claims, but the Kellogg treaty, containing its renunciation of war as a matter of national policy, made all wars of aggression illegal.

"Skeptics who say this has only moral value are sadly mistaken," he said. "They do not give sufficient weight to public opinion which will condemn any country which is first to take up arms. Such a country will be anathematized."

He held that in renouncing war as a policy the signatory nations had given up one of the chief prerogatives of sovereignty.

"This is more than a great innovation. It is a great revolution," he proclaimed.

He believed that the pact would make any nation hesitate to start an aggressive war, and thus give an opportunity for the league peace machinery to function.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET HARMONIOUSLY SELECTED

Frederick C. Walcott Was Nominated For U. S. Senator—Gov. Trumbull Was Renominated—For Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers Was Selected—William E. Higgins of Coventry is the Nominee For Secretary of State—The Platform Was Largely Devoted to the Endorsement of the Administration of Gov. Trumbull.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 7—(AP)—A republican state ticket for the November election, with a nominee for United States senator and seven presidential electors to vote for Herbert Hoover, were placed before the electors of Connecticut today. It was a convention in which harmony at all times prevailed and with only pleasant words in the short addresses which were made. The intensity of the preconvention campaign for two places on the ticket had pointed to a period of examination but this did not materialize for the convention, as it has done so many times in the past, dispensed with nominating speeches in the two major contests, while for the balance of the ticket the sponsors were brief and to the point in asking for action.

The ticket follows:

For U. S. senator: Frederic C. Walcott, of Norfolk.

For governor: John E. Trumbull of Plainville, renominated.

For lieutenant-governor. Ernest E. Rogers, of New London, twice elected state treasurer.

For secretary of state: William L. Higgins of Coventry, who has had eight terms in the general assembly.

For treasurer: Samuel R. Spencer, of Suffield, twice in the house and once in the senate.

For comptroller: Frederick M. Salmon, of Westport, who is named for a fourth term.

Presidential electors: Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins of Norfolk; Edward O. Goss, Waterbury; Frank Arrigoni, Durham; Dewitt C. Page, Bristol, Benedict M. Holden, Hartford; Francis T. Maxwell, Rockville; George H. Wilcox, Meriden.

The platform was of some length and largely given over to endorsement of the administration of Gov. Trumbull with declarations in favor of humanitarian objects which brought words of appreciation from Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington, acting head of the Connecticut League of Women Voters which has advocated some of them. One thing the league wanted and did not get was a plank in favor of jury service for women which forecasts another struggle at the legislature in an effort to get it.

Mr. Walcott, as the nominee for the place which Senator McLean will relinquish next March, addressed the delegates and in so doing said he agreed with the views of the chairman, Congressman Merritt, as expressed by the latter in his keynote speech, on the prohibition question.

Gov. Trumbull told the delegates that the state is better off financially now than when he took office and that he expected to leave it even in better shape—out of debt.

The convention proceedings went along smoothly under the guiding influence of Chairman Merritt who held the gavel at a convention four years ago. Two roll calls were taken to settle the Walcott-Blodgett contest and the Rogers-Pallotti one, the latter being for lieutenant governor. The full membership of the convention was 596 with only a few delegates absent. Tax Commissioner Blodgett stayed in the race, his friends said, that he might keep his promise to Litchfield county delegates who were for him even after the outcome was only too evident. He endeavored to have the convention depart from its usual course and have the contest settled at the outset by a poll of Litchfield county but the convention would not have it so. Blodgett held a majority of votes in his county but promises liberally made from other counties were only scatteringly kept.

In the Rogers-Pallotti contest with every indication that the tide was against him Pallotti kept his promise to friends that he would stick to the finish. Many delegates who were inclined to vote for Pahotti are said to have felt that Hartford county was not entitled to three places on the ticket if Senator Spencer was to be the nominee for treasurer and so many votes drifted away and to Mr. Rogers, who, however always had a commanding lead from the outset.

The naming of presidential electors was the work of but a few moments and after Samuel Eddy had read the platform and it had been adopted the convention adjourned.

EVIDENCE AGAINST CAPT. OF DETECTIVES IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7—(AP)—Immediate removal from office of Charles Beckman, captain of the city detective force, was recommended by the grand jury today. A few minutes later Mayor Mackey ordered Beckman suspended pendiig trial before the civil service board.

The jury, which is investigating bootlegging and gangster shootings, in its second report in a week found that Beckman "is not fit to hold any office under the municipal government."

"We report," the document set forth, "that our investigation thus far, among other things, has developed that there has been and is now in this county a direct connection between certain members of the police force and a well organized group of persistent lawbreakers who comprise the most dangerous element in our community, desperate men, defiant even of the fundamental rules under which our citizens live. x x x

"We x x x regard it as our duty at this time to call the attention of the court to the oral and documentary evidence dealing with Charles Beckman, captain of detectives. We believe this evidence warrants the conclusion that he is not fit to hold any office under the municipal government, and we recommend that he be removed immediately."

The grand jury report did not indicate the nature of the evidence presented against Beckman. The jury, in its first report last week said that it had evidence that high police officials had been bribed by bootleggers.

Judge Edwin O. Lewis, to whom the report was presented, granted the jury another month to continue its investigation. In telling the jurors to go ahead with their work Judge Lewis said that "the court will support you to the limit of the law in further prosecution of this investigation."

Beckman became captain of detectives with the advent of Mayor Mackey's administration several months ago.

After ordering Beckham's suspension Mayor Mackey said he would suspend any police official who was derelict in his duty.

KELLEY RESIGNS AS CHIEF OF FIRE DEPT.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 7—The resignation of Henry J. Kelley as chief of the Willimantic fire department is now in the hands of Mayor Charles A. Gates and will be acted upon by the common council at the monthly meeting next Monday night, it was announced today. Chief Kelley has been head of the department for the past three and one-half years and has been a member of the department for 12 years. Ill health is given as the reason for the resignation. Chief Kelley is now on a visit with his sister in New York and has been on leave of absence since March 1st of this year. At that time he was granted three months' leave and last June 1st he was granted another three months. Although his health has shown improvement during the past six months his condition is such that physicians advised his resignation.

Chief Kelley was one of the first five men appointed to Engine Company No. 1 as permanent members when the department was reorganized from an all-volunteer department to comprise one permanent company and call men in June, 1917. The other four members of the original quintet of permanent members were the late Fire Chief James J. Tighe, Lieutenant Edward R. Grady and Hosemen Michael J. English and Amost Barber. Kelley entered the service when the United States entered the World war in the early summer of 1917 and after training at Camp Devens as a member of Company C, 301st Ammunition Train, went overseas. Upon returning in January, 1919 he resumed his position as member of Engine Company No. 1 and later was promoted to lieutenant. Upo nthe death of Chief James J. Tighe in April, 1925, Kelley was appointed chief. Since March the office of chief has ben in charge of Acting Chief Michael J. English.

Members of the fire committee and of the fire department learned with regret of his resignation. Chief Kelley had been conscientious in his work and always above board in his dealings with the men. He inaugurated a system of record fire department activities that has proved valuable and to the best interests of the city and the members of the department. He also accomplish much constructive work in eliminating fire hazards about the city and spread wide the gospel of precaution. TROLLEY CO. OFFICIALS CONFER WITH CITY ENGINEER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 7—Superintendent Anderson and other officials of the Connecticut Trolley company were in conference with City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell today relative to the company's share of regrading and surfacing Main street from the New Haven railroad crossing to Thread Mill square. It was indicated that to put that section of the tracks from the square to the terminal near the railroad crossing into proper condition would cost about $1,800. This was considered excessive in view of present patronage being received by the company and a tentative agreement was made, subject to the approval of the common council and the company officials, that the trolley tracks be put into "fair" condition so that the service can be maintained. The surface that is to be laid on the street is tarvia-lithic.

Rev. and Mrs. Stone will spend the week end in Bethlehem, Conn., the town in which Mr. Stone was born, and will worship in the church in which Mr. Stone was baptized when an infant and admitted to membership at the age of fourteen. This is the church with which the celebrated New England theologian, Dr. Joseph Bellamy spent his life. He was graduated from Yale college while in his sixteenth year, preached in a barn the first sermon ever delivered at Bethlehem, was ordained and installed as the first pastor, was twice called to the pastorate of a large church, one in New York city and one in Boston, but refused to leave his first love. His ashes now lie in the North cemetery of the town. Dr. Bellamy, as was the custom with prominent ministers of that day, took into his home for study young men who were anticipating the ministry as a life calling. He had so many with him that the parsonage was called a school, and Bethlehem now boasts of being the first place in the country in which a theological schol was located.

The pulpit from which the doctor preached is still preserved and in the church standing at the right of the more modern one for the use of any minister who may feel inclined to occupy it in delivering his modern day sermon, while the large arm chair, the right arm of which is equal in size to some tables, and upon which the doctor wrote many of his sermons and theological treatises, remains in the parsonage and has been used by certain of his successors in office, possibly with the hopes of drawing inspiration therefrom.

CONTEST ANTICIPATED AT TOWN CAUCUS MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 7—A contest for places among the nominees for selectmen on the republican town ticket when the party caucus is held next Monday evening was forecast this afternoon. The developing situation appears to have had its origin in the second voting district of the town. On today's information, Joseph Ware will contest against Selectman N. P. Gingras for a place among the republican nominees. In a measure, it will be a duplication of a situation that arose in the republican town caucus last September.

Selectman Gingras said this afternoon that he was informed as to the situation. An interesting sidelight is information that Selectman Gingras said had come to him relative to democratic workers in the second district soliciting. he was informed, other democrats to go out and solicit republicans to be at their party caucus to vote for Ware.

Mr. Gingras said his interpretation of this was a desire of the democrats to make, if possible, their control of the board of selectmen more complete than it has been this year, throughout which, excepting for a few weeks, pending a court decision, a democrat has been at the head of the board. Selectman Gingras, who has been repeatedly elected as a member of the board as a republican, said he felt that members of the party should know of the contest that is to be waged against him.

TO CONSIDER REVISION OF BY-LAWS AT MEETING TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 7—A special borough meeting called for Saturday evening rates of more than ordinary importance, for it will have to do with consideration of revision of the by-laws of the borough as made by a committee appointed at the annual borough meeting in April. The committee has given much time and thought to preparation of the by-laws that it is proposed shall be adopted. Antiquated and now useless provisions of the old code have been eliminated, others modernized and certain new provisions have been added, all with a view to the better management of borough affairs.

The outstanding new provision of the by-laws is relative to the appointment of a fire marshal. This is contained in section 24 under the head of public safety. It reads in part: "For the public safety, there shall be appointed by the warden and a court of burgesses a marshal of public safety, who shall thoroughly and systematically inspect the borough to ascertain the existence of any fire hazards, and an existence of any conditions that are a menace to public health."

The section further provides for a monthly inspection of the commercial and manufacturing centers of the borough, and at least once a year, or more frequently should the marshal deem wise, for inspection of the borough as a whole. In his official capacity the marshal may order the correction of any condition that appears a menace, to health or property, and failure to obey written notices he may send out may involve a fine up to $25. Failure to correct such conditions as have been referred to within the period specified by the marshal, he shall proceed to abate or rectify the fire hazard or menace to public health. Included in the duties of the marshal shall be the inspection of electricity and gas installations in all buildings, and no gas or electric service shall be turned on for such new installations until the marshal has approved. A fine that may be as much as $100 is provided for violation of this section. The same sort of provision is made relative to installation of plumbing.

Still another provision is that no chimney shall be built without a clean out at the bottom, and that all chimneys shall be cleaned at least once each year.

The duties of the fire marshal and health officer may be performed by the marshal for public safety and in lieu of fees, he shall receive a salary of $20 per week.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., are invited by the Mary Wooster chapter, D. A. R., of Danbury to make a pilgrimage on Saturday, Sept. 15 to Putnam park, Redding, this state, Connecticut's Valley Forge. The Mary Wooster chapter cooperates with the Sons of the American Revolution in commemoration exercises on this 150th anniversary of a Revolutionary event.

Just now, developments indicate, the republican outpouring from this town on Saturday of next week to attend the monster party rally at Woodstock will be the largest for such a pilgrimage in years, and without doubt the assemblage at Woodstock will be without parallel for many years past. A perfect flood of motor vehicle traffic is expected to converge on Woodstock from all parts of eastern Connecticut, but arrangements are being made to handle it with precision. State officers from the Danielson barracks will assist other traffic officers in bringing about this end.

Monday afternoon a Killingly high school football squad that numbers 35 members this year will take the field for the first practice of the season under the direction of Coach William Schonfeld. There is promise in this year's material for the development of a good team, though numbers of the players are inexperienced and must drill hard to attain the form the coach desires. To date five games have been booked for the team.

Given good weather a large attendance of members and their wives is indicated for the get-together meeting of the Danielson Rod and Gun club at the grounds off the Wauregan road Sunday afternoon. Preparations for the gathering were about completed today.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings respectively of the coming week the republicans and democrats of Killingly are to hold caucuses to nominate their candidates for town offices. The nearness of these caucuses finds the present week and marked by considerable political activity. The town election comes the first Monday in October, and will be barely out of the way before the national campaign will be in full swing in its local phases.

Experiences of the past summer in Danielson as to lost hotel business that might have been had from hundreds of tourists who expressed a desire to stop here may be one additional reason for reviving the project of giving this community a modern hotel. Both hotels here have been filled to capacity many a night during the summer now drawing to a close, but a great deal of such patronage the town might have had was lost through inability to accommodate all who wished to stop. Over the Labor day period hotels here were besieged for accommodations.

The Baptist church of Brooklyn will observe its one hundredth anniversary Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. A program of interest has been planned. Among other items will be an address by Mr. Wallace Pond of Providence, R. I., and special numbers by the Laymen's league quartet of Danielson. The public is cordially invited to help make this service a success. Letters will be read from former members and friends and a brief history of the church will be given by some of the older members.

Mrs. Charles A. Downs has just returned from a visit with a sister living at Elyria, Ohio and is now being visited by another sister, Mrs. D. H. Case from Hawaii. Mrs. Case is accompanied by her husband, who is a judge of the second circuit of the U. S. courtr of the territory of Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. Case are enjoying a three months vacation touring the United States.

The Goodyear United Community church begins its fall services next Sunday morning, the church service being at 10:45 with Sunday school following. During the summer the interior of the church has been improved which will be pleasing to those who attend.

Today Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer was engaged in summoning jurors who have been drawn in Killingly and surrounding towns for the October trial opening at Willimantic next Tuesday. In this case the sheriff is required to make personal service on each prospective juror.

F. E. Bitgood left this afternoon for New Haven to attend the democratic state convention.

There were 22 prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn this morning, the number later being increased by two committments on intoxication charges, from the Killingly town court.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Viens were at Arctic, R. I., today to attend the funeral of Mr. Viens' brother, Arthur.

A Well Child conference is scheduled to be held at the town hall building next Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. William Swainson of the Congregational church at Dayville returned to his pastorate at Dayville after visiting at Chesterfield, Me.

From North Sterling comes the interesting item that John Grinnell is engaged at charcoal burning in Plain woods, and that he is the only man in Rhode Island who continues to follow that calling.

George A. Landvich of New Bedford is spending the week end with friends in Danielson.

Next week Borough Tax Collector Sidney H. Perry will begin his annual collections.

Directresses of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield congregational church for the month of September are: Mrs. Agnes H. Paine, Mrs. Oliver Downs, Mrs. W. K. Litch, Mrs. John Merrick Paine, Mrs. Amelia Tillinghast and Mrs. A. Putnam Woodward.

Cornstalks 16 feet in height from the farm of Michael Harrington in Brooklyn were on display in the business section here today, and seemed to serve as an adequate refutation of the early season statement that "there'll be no corn grown in this territory this summer."

Sidney W. Bard and Dolard Grenon were in New Haven today attending the republican national convention.

Miss Ethel Teeter was reported as resting comfortably today after having undergone a surgical operation earlier in the week.

From East Killingly the announcement is made that Prof. Reuben Johnson, noted New York violinist who spends his summers near East Killingly, has purchased 15 acres of land in that section and is to erect a fine bungalow for use in future summer seasons.

Present indications are that Danielson will not have any noteworthy observance of Armistice day, as many of those who might further such plans here intend to be at New London for the big 10th anniversary celebration.

The 100th anniversary of the founding of a Baptist society in Brooklyn is to be observed Sunday afternon.

PUTNAM

THOMPSON DENIES THAT HE WILL OPPOSE W. P. WARREN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 7—The rumor circulated about the city Wednesday and Thursday, that Dr. H. W. Thompson was a candidate for the office of selectman, and would oppose Selectman William P. Warren, was openly denied this afternoon by Dr. Thompson.

There has been more or less talk in the circles relative to nominating a candidate to oppose Selectman Warren, yet his political foes have been thus far unsuccessful in obtaining a candidate who will oppose him. A Bulletin representative approached Dr. Thompson this afternoon and inquired as to the truth of his intended candidacy for the office of selectman. "There is no truth at all. I was approached and informed my supporters that I would consider the move, but my decision was unfavorable." Dr. Thompson said.

The withdrawal of Dr. Thompson from the race leaves Mr. Warren unopposed as far as could be learned this afternoon. It was understood that there is considerable friction among a certain group of republicans because they were affected by his drastic changes in methods of carrying on the town business, and they have attempted to take advantage of the oncoming election to oust him from office.

The republican town caucus will be held Monday evening, and today it was forecast that real political fireworks would be enacted, but the denial of Dr. Thompson this afternoon that he is a candidate for office leaves the field open to Selectman Warren, unless a new man is approached and accepted. First Selectman William E. Pierce will met no opposition, it was said today.

Arthur Routhier, for the past ten years assistant pastor of St. Mary's, arrived in Putnam this afternoon to assume his new duties at St. Mary's. Father Boileau was formerly assistant pastor to Rev. F. J. O'Neil, of Stafford Springs.

Father Boileau is a native of Waterbury having been born there on April 27, 1895. He received his early education in the grammar schools of his home town. Completing his elementary studies his fondness for a priestly life led him to enter Montreal college, where he spent six years, studying theology. Father Boileau also studied for two years at the Laval seminary at Montreal and devoted a year's study to philosophy at Montreal.

On completion of his studies in Canada he was sent as a novitiate to Africa with the White Fathers, where he labored among the Negroes. On his return, Father Boileau entered the Baltimore seminary in Baltimore, Md., where he devoted two years of his life to the further study of theology and the following year entered the Catholic university at Washington, D. C., where he completed his education.

On May 26, 1923, ordained by Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan. Father Boileau was assigned to East Portchester, Conn., and thence to Stafford Springs, where he worked for exactly five years. He comes to Putnam with the wishes of his former parishioners for a successful career. Father Boileau will officiate at his first mass at St. Mary's on Sunday morning and will probably deliver his first sermon here.

On Thursday evening over 500 members of St. Mary's parish gathered in St. Mary's hall on Marshall street, where they were received by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, who has been transferred to St. Anthony's parish in Bridgeport where he will be pastor. Father Routhier spoke a few words of farewell to each of his parishioners. On the eve of his departure to his new field, Father Routhier was presented with a purse of $1,400 given him by the various church societies, and contributions from worshippers of all denominations who regret his leaving this parish.

Father Routhier left this morning by automobile for his new parish in Bridgeport, where he will officiate at his first mass Sunday.

The democrats of the town of Putnam met in caucus at the municipal building Thursday evening and elected candidates for town office in the coming election to take place in November. The slate was made up a week ago and no contest for the nomination of any office ensued. The meeting was opened by Moderator Edmund Dubois, chairman of the democratic town committee, with George Potvin as clerk.

Daniel Labossirre was nominated as a candidate for assessor and Alexander Gilman was nominated for a position on the board of relief. Selectman Edward Girard was re-nominated to succeed himself. He met no opposition. John J. McGarry was nominated as town auditor, with Thomas Duquette, John Harrington and Edmond Keane being nominated for the office of town constables. George Potvin was elected as the nominee for registrar of voters. The word passed about the city late yesterday afternoon that the democrats were to oppose John H. Bulger as candidate for a berth on the town school committee, was without foundation, as Mr. Bulger was nominated for re-election without any opposition. Library directors appointed for office were George L. Padgett, Mrs. Dorothy J. Bartlette and Mrs. Orice Girard. A motion was also passed to authorize the town committee to appoint successors to any vacancies that might occur during the term of office.

The caucus was largely attended, there being over 100 members of the party present.

Officer John Murphy of the Westport state police barracks was at his home in Pomfret Thursday.

Leonard Wolfenden of Pomfret, who figured in the escapade of Kenneth Light of Putnam in June relative to the theft of an automobile, was presented in the superior court of Willimantic yesterday at the opening session and was sentenced to one year in the state reformatory, with judgment being suspended for that period, pending his good behavior. Kenneth Light of Putnam, who stole the car and later turned it over to Wolfenden and escaped from Putnam with another stolen vehicle, was to have been presented in court along with his confederate, but he was removed from the county jail at Brooklyn and committed to a sanitarium in New York where he has been undergoing treatment for an ailment and his name was not entered upon the docket.

John Characz of Oak street, Putnam, is also on the criminal docket, charged with operating under the influence of liquor. He was tried in the Killingly town court several months ago and was found guilty of the offense. Through his attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, he took an appeal to the superior court.

Supt. Miss Nellie Bloxham said this afternoon that Albert E. D. Sparks and Maxwell Burry, who were seriously injured Sunday morning at Mechanicsville bridge, continued to improve today, as has been the case since they were committed to the Day-Kimball hospital.

The republican delegation to the state convention in New Haven will return to Putnam Saturday, following the close of the convention.

Sergt. and Mrs. George Liard of the Putnam police spent Friday in Providence.

Chandler Morse, son of Atty. and Mrs. E. C. Morse of Seward street is spending a few days at the home of his parents. Mr. Morse is a graduate of Amherst college.

The new water commissioners of the city water department, appointed to office Tuesday evening by Mayor Charles A. Richard, have been sworn into office by the mayor and have assumed their new duties as directors of the city water department. Mr. Thurston and his assistants, who took office Wednesday, have been well received by the population of the city. Their views as to the water question have not been expressed. After his appointment Tuesday evening Mr. Thurston failed to disclose what manner of supply he favored. He stated that he would give careful consideration to both plans. Storcement reservoir and the steel standpipe, before he made any recommendations to the mayor and council. There are many other matters to be attended to before the old question of reservoirs and tanks is revived, and the new commission will look into these matters first before they begin to direct their attention to tanks.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

Republicans of Connecticut have gathered in convention at New Haven and presented a state ticket that will carry a strong appeal to all corners of the state. It was a convention in which there was good natured rivalry for two places, but after the delegates had declared themselves the selection was made unanimous and harmony prevailed. The outcome was in keeping with expectations and predictions.

In conformity with the wish of the great majority of the delegates Senator Frederic C. Wolcott of Norfolk was nominated for United States senator. Mr. Wolcott made a fine impression during his period of service in the general assembly, is thoroughly qualified to give Connecticut the kind of representation it needs at Washington and upon election should make an admirable successor to Senator George P. McLean. He has long been a strong Hoover advocate as the result of long standing acquaintance and close knowledge of his accomplishments. The choice of Mr. Wolcott means the retention in the state of a tax commissioner whose services have demonstrated his high capabilities in that office.

It was a foregone conclusion that Governor Trumbull would be renominated. It is a deserved recognition for the magnificent business administration which he has given the state. Connecticut could ill afford to dispense with such a head of state government. This was apparent to the convention and it will make the same impression upon the electorate.

The choice of Ernest E. Rogers of New London for the lieutenant governorship indicates the widespread sentiment throughout the state in his behalf. It is in recognition not only of his fitness for the office but of his excellent record as state treasurer. His record in business and politics has been of the best.

Inasmuch as Secretary Pallotti was unwilling to accept another nomination for that office, the nomination of Dr. W. L. Higgins of Coventry places before the people a candidate of merit, long a legislative worker and a Tolland county figure whose qualifications have been repeatedly recognized by his constituents.

Strength to the ticket has been added by the selection of Senator Samuel R. Spencer of Suffield for the treasurership while the renomination of State Comptroller F. M. Salmon and his election will mean the retention of an efficient and conscientious state officer.

The convention has selected a strong and well balanced ticket, with all sections of the state receiving deserved consideration. With full republican support, and there is no reason to expect anything else, it should be a winner.

SIMMONS FOR HOOVER

There has been no disguising the fact on the part of the democrats that the attitude of Senator Simmons of North Carolina was not being received with complacency. They were temporarily deriving as much satisfaction as possible out of the fact that while he was opposed to the Smith candidacy he had not indicated that he was going to take an active part in behalf of Mr. Hoover.

But now Senator Simmons has done what it was feared he might do. He has bolted the ticket so far as the presidential candidate is concerned and has declared his intention and readiness to participate in behalf of the Hoover candidacy. This means much in North Carolina because of the influence which the senator wields in his own state. He has been the leader of his party for the matter of three decades. His influence even as a non-active opponent of Mr. Smith would be considerable but when he shows himself ready to take the field as a Hoover worker it means worry on the part of the democrats.

North Carolina has been pointed to as one of the doubtful southern states. It is a state where there has been a sizeable republican vote on previous elections and with such a prominent leader on the democratic side lending his influence and efforts to increasing it in November it is quite natural that there should be worry on the part of those who have been figuring North Carolina secure in the democratic column. The solid south is less secure than it has been before.

Senator Simmons is apparently not only displaying his own sentiment but indicating the attitude of many North Carolinians, even as ex-Senator Owens has done in the state of Oklahoma.

THE AIR DERBY

Perhaps the greatest interest in the cross country airplane flight will center in the winner, but it is a test of machines and pilots that should have no small benefit upon aviation in general.

There are the mail fliers covering long distances and there have been a few attempts at transcontinental flying with fine results, but such an opportunity for demonstrating the ability of the fliers and the merits of the machines is far preferable to those long distance flights over water with only the slight chance of being rescued if forced down and the ability to get away from bad weather and disabled machines.

It is not solely the machines that undertake the transatlantic flight that are likely to encounter trouble. Those flying over land are subject to the same weaknesses, and possibly more. This was made clear by the number which were forced down soon after the take off. It makes it evident that they are subject to much the same uncertainties that automobiles are and emphasizes the need of having proper places for them to alight under such circumstances.

The machines that go through without a hitch and the pilots that win the race will be entitled to all the honor and the prizes. The contest should bring about a demonstration of relative merits, bring to light weaknesses that should be known and remedied and pave the way for better accommodations for air transportation. And what stands out particularly prominent is that by means of an air derby these facts are being ascertained with the least danger to those who are directly involved.

Many a city along the line of flight will better recognize the importance of establishing more landing fields as the result of such contests.

SECRET TREATIES

Secrecy in the making of agreements between nations was a common practice in other days. Today it is frowned upon. The appeal for open treaties openly reached is voiced today, and it is noticed with particular interest that this includes the British.

Between France and Great Britain there has been recently negotiated a treaty for the reduction of naval equipment. So far as known there is nothing detrimental about it for the British, but it has been impossible for the people of Great Britain to find out anything concerning its terms.

There is nothing to cause them to think that there are conditions involved which ought to exist except that it is being kept a profound secret. They are frank to admit that there is no distrust of the French but they want to know something about the terms and they are unable to find out.

The whole affair has brought to mind the fact that it was not so long ago that the British played quite a conspicuous part in the failure of the disarmament negotiations undertaken at Geneva. It is likewise being talked that it is not a desirable step to take to negotiate an agreement concerning disarmament which is proclaimed to the world as a profound secret, so much so that it cannot be entrusted to those who are directly involved. Heretofore British opinion has displayed some consideration for the attitude of this country under such circumstances but that is apparently getting no consideration.

While the general explanation of the treaty has been put forth and it has been stated that it will benefit both countries and that it should be an aid to the cause of international peace, the very fact that it has been cloaked in secrecy as to the details creates distrust to such an extent that the government cannot fail to take cognizance of what the sentiment is even though it is not moved from its position in declining to make explanations. The fact that it is a display of home sentiment is especially significant. Secret treaties do not get the approval they once did.

MARKING LANDMARKS

Frequently attention is called to the fact that too little attention is paid to the places of literary and historical importance along the highways. The point is that with the great army of motorists these days an effort ought to be made to call their attention to some of the real attractions which they are passing, and do so in a manner that will give them a chance to stop and inspect or admire them if they so desire.

New England is making an effort to get more visitors. It recognizes the importance of catering to this kind of trade and it is not difficult to see that whatever can be done to make the visits of tourists more interesting the greater will be the number attracted.

It is easy enough to refer to books and find out where certain prominent personages were born and to express the wish to see those places. It is not infrequently the case that many travelers find themselves on routes which are rich in such notable landmarks, but if they are not marked and their attention is not called to them in some such manner they never know anything about them until it may be called to their attention by chance some day when they are far from such locality.

In attracting more tourists and in catering to them after they get here, New England can do no better than to make reasonably conspicuous more of its historic spots for the benefit of those who may be interested. Great satisfaction is felt in many instances at the mere sight of such a place if nothing more is possible.

Many communities have appreciated the importance of such markings, but the appeal for more manners shows that there is opportunity for more of the good work to be done.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

A few weeks before the vacation period, a friend gave to the writer a copy of Elbert Hubbard's "The Liberators", and during the leisure hours of his vacation he read the volume with much pleasure and profit. In theology I suppose that Hubbard would be classed as a radical, but one need not agree with all his statements in order to find him a very interesting and stimulating writer. I believe he is one of the greatest masters of clear and forcible English that this country has produced in several generations. How little did Hubbard think when he wrote that graphic sketch of the sinking of the Titanic in 1912—in which he depicted the amazing courage of John Jacob Astor, George Widener, Mr. and Mrs. Isador Straus and others—that three years later he would lose his own life in 1915 when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine.

While Hubbard would style himself as a rationalist, he says many things that all of us can readily endorse. Take as an illustration the following: "The men who will bring about the Kingdom of God on earth will believe that sewerage is just as important as prayer; and they will likewise realize that the useful work of Martha was just as much the 'better part' as that of Mary who merely sat and listened to the beautiful words of a beautiful teacher." In this age of practical scientific knowledge as it is applied to civic life we must realize that prayer will be of little value if we ignore the laws of sanitation. We have no reason for believing that an epidemic disease that is caused by filth is going to be removed by prayer alone. There will be no sense in praying as long as filth is a menace. First remove the cause and then pray.

The keenness of Hubbard's thinking is seen in the answer to the question once asked him, "Would you like to live your life over again?" To this he makes the following reply, "Not only is it a common question but a very foolish one, since we were sent into this life without our permission, and are sent out of it against our will, and the option of a return-ticket is not ours." Then he proceeds to give the answer that was once made by Benjamin Franklin when the same question was asked. "Yes, provided, of course, that you allow me the writer's privilege of correcting the second edition." Hubbard goes farther than this, probably farther by a good deal than most of us would be willing to go without some hard thinking. "If, however, this is denied," he still says "I would still say 'Yes', and say it so quickly it would give you the vertigo." I wonder how many of us would care to go so far!

One of the most beautiful things to be found in "The Liberators" is the following tributes given to his gifted wife: When Charles Kingsley was once asked what was the secret of his success, he replied, "I have a friend." Hubbard says that if he were asked the same question he would make the same reply, but would explain by saying "the friend is my wife, legally and otherwise. She is also my comrade, my companion, my chum, my business partner. There has long been a suspicion that when God said, 'I will make a help-meet for man', that the remark was a subtle bit of sarcasm. However, the woman of whom I am speaking proves what God can do when He concentrates on His work. My wife is my helpmeet, and I am hers. I do not support her; rather she supports me. All I have is hers—not only do I trust her with my heart, but with my pocketbook."

The following statement seems rather bald without explanation: "The world was not discovered until 1492; but man was not discovered until 1776." I suppose Hubbard means by that that this world in its entirety, as a globe, was not discovered until the western hemisphere was found to be the complement of the eastern. Is there not a subtle bit of wisdom in his second statement that man was not discovered until 1776? Does it not mean that man did not find his full political freedom until the Declaration of Independence? The French Revolution opened men's eyes to see its possibility, but that possibility had to be worked out on a newer soil. I am inclined to think that Hubbard was right because in 1776, there appeared a new "heaven and a new earth."

I cannot, however, quite agree with this gifted writer that "woman was not discovered until 1876." If we look at the long list of real women from Semiramis to Victoria, who have made a lasting impression upon the world, we must conclude that real women were here a bit earlier than 1876. Hubbard makes this remark: "Her existence before this was not even suspected, and the few men who did have their suspicions were considered unsafe, erratic, strange and peculiar. In youth, when she was pink and 20 she was a plaything; when she grew old and wrinkled she was a scullion and a drudge." In too many cases this was unfortunately true. A change did come about 50 years ago, but it was three years after Hubbard's tragic death that woman received her full and equal recognition when the 19th amendment was made to the constitution of the United States that put the ballot into the hands of woman.

While for many centuries woman was tenderly looked upon as man's plaything and also as his physical and intellectual inferior—which is true today in most heathen countries, her moral heroism and fidelity to duty in seasons of trial and disaster has never been disputed. That she can rise to higher realms of glory and sink to lower degredation than man has generally been admitted. One of the finest things that Hubbard ever wrote was the courage and splendor of Mrs. Isador Straus refusing to leave the sinking Titanic without her husband. "Help that woman in," shouts an officer. Two sailors seize Mrs. Straus. She struggles, frees herself, and proudly says, "I will not leave my husband." Mr. Straus insists, quietly and gently, that she shall go. He will follow later. Mrs. Straus is firm and says, "All these years we have traveled together, and shall we part now? No, our fate is one." Not anything, even physical force could separate her from her husband, and together they went down to a watery grave, and also—into immortality.

William T. Stead, editor of the English Review of Reviews, was a passenger on the ill fated Titanic when she struck an iceberg off the Grand Banks in 1912, and carried a precious cargo of human beings to a watery grave, and it is said that he stood hatless, grim, with furrowed face and with an iron bar in his hand as a life boat is lowered. "Those men in the steerage," he said, "I fear will make a rush—they will swamp the boats." But they didn't when they saw the strong man with the iron bar. Hubbard writes the following eulogy: "William T. Stead, you were a thinker, a writer, a speaker, a doer of the word. You proved your case; sealed the brief with your heart's blood; and as your bearded face looked in admiration for the last time at the twinkling, shining stars, God in pardonable pride said to Gabriel, 'Here comes a man!'"

Shad fishing in the Hudson river has increased about 200 per cent in the last two years, since the dwindling supply of shad is being increased by planting several million fry each year.

THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF AND PROSPERITY

Upon "The Protective Tariff and Prosperity" John Q. Tilson, majority leader of the house of representatives and congressman from Connecticut, writes as follows in The Tariff Review:

Ever since the principle of a protective tariff has been a political issue in this country the opponents of this policy have from time to time raised the cry that tariff duties high enough to be protective necessarily increase the cost of living, and on this plea have several times succeeded in committing the country to brief periods of non-protection. Those who adhere to the theory of increased living costs are partially right, but only partially so. The opponent of protection who declares that this policy in some instances increases the cost of living in the United States is stating the truth, but only half the truth. The fact is that protective duties in some cases do increase the cost of living, but it is even more true that the effect of such duties is to increase wages proportionately much more than living costs.

If an American workman receives five dollars a day and a foreign workman two dollars, while it costs the American five dollars to buy the same things here that the foreign workman buys for his two, it is apparent that the American workman is no better off than his foreign competitor. If this were in fact the situation created by a protective tariff, the opponents of the policy would be justified in their contention. On the other hand, praying as long as filth is a menace. First remove the cause and then pray. If the American workman receives five dollars a day and the foreign worker two dollars, while it costs the American only three dollars to buy what the foreign worker can buy for two dollars, it is equally clear that the American is better off, and this is, in fact, the situation that now prevails, though the actual figures show a somewhat greater variance than the illustration given between the buying power of the American's wages and the buying power of the foreigner's wages, to the advantage of the American.

In considering the effect of protection, in order to be perfectly fair, we should always look not to the amount of wages paid but to their buying power. Even were there no figures to sustain the claim that the buying power of American wages is greater than is the case with the wages of any other country of the world, no one would have any doubt on this point if he stopped to consider the better foods, better living conditions, conveniences and luxuries enjoyed by American wage earners that are unknown to foreigners doing similar work, and which can be bought by the American only because his wages are not only higher in amount but have a vastly greater buying power. The fact that millions of people in Europe would gladly leave their homes to come to America, if not stopped by strict immigration laws, proves that even the most ignorant classes abroad thoroughly understand these conditions.

The American wage earner receives in return for his services a greater wage in money than any foreign workman, and the buying power of wages in the United States is higher and more stable under protection than in non-protective periods. The further point that the American's wages have a vastly greater buying power than the wages of foreigners is proved by the fact that he can afford to buy comforts, conveniences and luxuries for himself and his family that no comparable foreign worker can buy.

A table of comparative figures shows that the Philadelphia wage earner can buy 78 per cent. more or nearly twice as much with his wages as the wage earner in similar industries in London, nearly three times as much as the wage earner in Berlin, more than three times as much as the Parisian, and four times as much as the wage earner of Rome. It should be remembered that this means buying power and not merely the amount of wages in money, the difference in the money amount of the wages being in fact much greater. American wages as shown in the table already given are from three to five times higher than abroad.

It is not claimed, of course, that protection alone has been responsible for increasing the buying power of wages in the United States or that alone it can maintain such a condition. It can be properly claimed, however, that without protection other forces could not have brought this condition about and without protection such a condition cannot be maintained in free competition with foreign articles manufactured and produced under other standards. The tariff cannot control purely domestic disturbances of the American market and economic conditions, but it can and does protect us from foreign influences and foreign living standards.

Seeking every point of attack upon the protection policy, its opponents have attempted to take advantage of the real distress in certain branches of agriculture growing out of the dislocations caused by the war to persuade the farmer that in some way or other he is being injured by the tari. Nothing could be further from the truth. The fact that farm products receive the same benefit from protection as other products of industry is clearly established by an examination of comparative prices in periods of protection and non-protection. Such an examination shows that in periods of protection farm products have increased in price faster than all commodities, and that in periods of non-protection, except during the World war, prices of farm products have decreased much faster than the prices of all commodities.

The bureau of labor statistics has for many years kept records of all commodity prices and translates the prices for each year into an index figure showing how much the average is above or below the average for the year 1913, which is used as the base. In the following table the index figure 102, for example, shows that the average price of the year indicated was 2 per cent. higher than the average price for 1913, and the figure 98 shows that the prices for the year indicated averaged 2 per cent. below those of 1913.

Examination also shows that under the McKinley protective tariff act the prices of all commodities dropped 4 points while farm products rose 1 point; that under the Wilson-Gorman non-protective tariff farm products dropped off 16 points in price while all prices dropped only 10 points; and that under the Dingley and Payne-Aldrich protective tariff laws the prices of agricultural products forged steadily upwards much faster than all prices. From 1896 to 1913, under protection, agricultural prices advanced 80 per cent., while the prices of all commodities advanced a trifle less than 50 per cent.

When we examine the situation from 1913 to the present day, we find that under non-protection and the stress of the war agricultural prices went up 27 per cent., while all other prices were going up 55 per cent. from 1913 to June 1, 1921, and that from June 1, 1921, to the present, under protection, agricultural produces have advanced 16 points, while all prices have dropped 10 points.

It should be remembered that we had practically no foreign competition of any kind in the years 1914 to 1919, owing to the World war, which interrupted all foreign trade. The Underwood low tariff law was passed late in the fall of 1913, but before the greater part of our crops were ready to market the following year the outbreak of war—in August, 1914—ended any danger of foreign competition, and the demand for food for European armies sent the prices of food products, as well as other products, sky high. These conditions continued until 1919, when the demobilization of European armies began to bring about normal conditions and immediately a flood of foreign goods began coming to the United States which gave us an army of unemployed in 1920 and 1921 which equaled at least 5,000,000 persons. Farm products then began to drop in price more rapidly than other commodities, and in the first five months of 1921, before the adoption of the emergency farm tariff on May 27, 1921, the ratio of farm produces had slid down to a comparative index figure of 82, showing that the ratio between the prices of farm products and the prices of all commodities had changed 18 per cent. to the detriment of the farmer since 1913. Farm products began to go up in price as soon as the emergency farm tariff was passed and the last seven months of 1921 showed the comparative index figure of 85, which made the comparative index figure for the entire year 84. From that point on relative prices of farm products continued to go up under protective tariffs until they have now practically reached equality with all commodity prices, based on the 1913 relationship, the index figure being now 98 per cent. (January, 1928), or only 2 points below the 1913 figure taken as the base for comparison. The comparative index figure for agricultural prices fell to 94 in 1926 but the tendency since then has been upward and it will undoubtedly continue upward if our tariff policy remains unchanged. During the last four months of 1927 wholesale prices of farm products were higher than the wholesale prices of all commodities, based on the 1913 relationship.

Farm products, therefore, receive just as much benefit from a protective tariff as all other products, and apparently suffer more in periods of non-protection than other commodities. If, as contended by some, the farmer does not now get as much proportionately as he at one time received, the problem is in no way related to the tariff. If this condition exists, it can be due only to the fact that the wholesaler, or middleman, or transportation is getting more proportionately than formerly, and this must be remedied by some other method than changing the tariff.

The inevitable conclusion is that under protection agricultural prices go up much faster than the prices of other commodities, and, under non-protection, except in time of war, they go down much faster than all commodities. How a farmer can be anything bu a protectionist under these conditions is difficult to understand.

Having in mind the persistent efforts, especially when an election is pending, to confuse the voters and lead them to vote against their own best interests, it may help serve to clear the atmosphere on the subject to state in elementary form the reasons for and the purpose of a protective tariff.

In political parlance, a tariff is a duty on articles imported into the United States from foreign countries and a protective tariff is a duty large enough to at least equal the difference in the cost of producing the article here and abroad. A very large part of the cost of every finished article is labor. In producing a simple article made of iron or steel, by way of illustration, the portion of the cost of the article to the user which represents the actual value of the unmined metal contained in it is negligible. It requires labor to get the metal out of the ground, it takes labor to move it, and it takes labor to fashion it into its final form. All of this labor is paid for in the United States at higher rates than in foreign countries. The reason why higher wages can be paid is because when the foreign-made article reaches the customhouse the importer must pay a duty which theoretically equals the difference in cost between the foreign article and the domestic, which is very largely the difference between the wages paid in making the American article and those paid in making the foreign article. If this differential is not covered by import duties, then the domestic producer must go out of business or become bankrupt, while the wage earner in this line of business loses his job. If he be taken care of, both the producer and wage earner prosper together, and then there is what we call "good times."

The opponents of protection admit that wages are nominally higher under protection, and when overwhelmed with the facts must concede that these wages are also higher in buying power, but will still claim that the consumer suffers as a result. Only to a very limited extent is there any such class as a consumer class; for while all are consumers, nearly all are also producers of something or dependent upon someone who is a producer. The wealthy idler, who lives on the income of his money without doing any work, may get more out of his money by living abroad, as many of them do. Some of these who would like to live in the United States under the same conditions naturally oppose the protective-tariff policy, for they believe that, without protection, for a time at least, they could buy more with their income than under protection. Persons of this character whose first concern is not the welfare of the country as a whole, and who believe that they could weather the economic storm which would accompany a transition here from American standards of living to foreign standards for wage earners, might consistently urge free trade. Such an economic change, by reducing the buying power of the American public would ruin many great industries, and especially those producing what are sometimes considered luxuries, such as the radio and automobile industries, and would so reduce the volume of many others as to cause untold economic loss. Only those ready to capitalize the misfortunes of others would gain by the change.

The state of affairs in the United States under which wage earners receive higher wages, with higher buying power, than those of foreign countries has been brought about gradually and is due to the fact that scarcity of labor, coupled with the necessity for developing our great natural resources, made it possible for wage earners to sell their services at a high figure in the comparatively early days of our history. In later years the efforts of organized labor groups, which in most instances could have been successful only in protected market, have further raised living standards, thereby benefiting not only organized labor but the country as a whole.

While we have had only five years since the Civil war during which our tariff laws have been avowedly non-protective, and have had an opportunity to work without the aid of war conditions, we have had several periods during that time when depression has resulted, because duties were not sufficiently high, or because they did not cover certain articles. The tariff law now in force is an excellent one on the whole, though with changing conditions it, too, will need to be changed. Changed conditions have probably made some duties unnecessarily high. In a number of instances experience since 1922 has shown that they are not sufficiently protective. Rates in such cases should be increased, and some articles should be taken from the free list and placed in the dutiable list; but whenever and whatever revision is made it should be done by the friends of protection and with the avowed purpose of maintaining the principle of protection in proper measure.

It should be kept in mind that there can be no such thing as "free trade" as long as a considerable part of our national income must be raised by customs duties. If the opponents of protection should come into power at the election this year, they would probably have to raise just as much revenue at the customhouses as is now raised, unless they are willing to increase internal taxation. They would, however, if they should practice what they preach, probably place the duties mostly on non-competing articles, that is, articles not produced in the United States, and take them off or radically reduce them on competing articles.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Probably this business of being a ward of the federal government rather than a full-fledged municipality enjoying certain sovereign rights has advantages as well as disadvantages.

Just at present, however, Washington's more than half a million permanent residents and the army of motorized tourists flowing constantly in the streets are tasting—and cussing the practical penalties attached to being budgeted on a fiscal year basis, like any government department.

It seems almost impossible to make your way in any direction for any distance without encountering a "street closed" sign and observing ahead ripped and torn pavement as though done by some titanic shell barrage. Direct routes are always difficult to find in a city gridironed by its numbered and lettered streets but with a separate system of diagonal avenues superimposed on that rectangular grid iron.

Circles Confusing

The "circles" of Washington—they'd call 'em "circouses" in London for some reason known only to Londoners—are the hubs where the right angle streets and the diagonal avenues intersect. Any traveler of Washington experience will recall the difficulties he faced if he ever tried to pursue his way afoot on a first visit up some street spoke of one of these highway wheels to the circle-hub, around that on a long sidewalk curve with intermediate neck risks at every crossing of the other street-spokes, and so select the projection of his own, original course, from the opposite rim of the circle.

Added to this normal traffic complication, beginning July 1 when the street work and sewer budget funds for the current fiscal year became available to the District of Columbia authorities, there is now such a street upheaval as makes it look as though Washington was being rebuilt, hastily, from the ground up. Even the street car companies have caught the fever. New funds for the huge federal building program have added to that confusion in certain sections. Wherever an appalled motor tourist turns he is faced by those ominous "detour" commands.

Newer and Bigger City

Part of the trouble is due to the fact that Washington is growing up. Day by day it is taking on more and more the appearance of one of the world's great capitals. It is chiefly noticeable by the street widening campaign now several years in progress. Whole city blocks of glorious old trees, gracing the sidewalk edges before modest brick houses that sit far back off the property line behind flower and tree decked "front yards," have been sacrificed to the onward march of progress. Ten to twenty foot slashes from the wide sidewalks have been added to the vehicle roadways and mighty traffic thoroughfares resulted. The old sleepy, peaceful look and habit of this huge village among the great commercial municipalities of no greater population is passing.

But as each project of street widening is finished, an army of gardeners tramps close on the heels of the steam shovel and concrete mixer crews. New tree plantings are in almost before the wreckage of the old has been hauled away.

Sunday Morning Talk

Stand Fast

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against power, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand, in the evil day, and, having done all, to stand.

Stand, therefore, having your loins gird about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness. Eph. 6: 12-13-14.

This is what is needed more today in our country than perhaps ever before, to stand fast for the right. Steadfastness and loyalty go hand in hand. Loyalty to our country, loyalty to our God. What would it have meant if at the time of the last great war our soldiers had gone in with the enemy at a time of great peril to our own loved America? Could we have called them loyal? No. We should and could not have honored them. Now is the time when every one and especially those who have named the name of Christ to stand for the right and the country's honor. As Paul says: "Stand therefore, having our loins gird about with truth."

Is it hard to be loyal to one you love? No. No sacrifice is too great; so also for One who has given His life for us, and will stand by us and keep us to the end if we only follow Him the road at times may seem rugged and rough, but it will lead home at last.

In the warfare that is raging for the truth and the right,
When the conflict fierce is raging
With the powers of the night,
God needs people brave and true. May
He then depend on you.

From His throne the Father sees us;
and our leader true is Jesus,
And we shall not cannot fail.
Triumph crowns the brave and true,
May the Lord depend on you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pride in Tammany

Mr. Editor: Much has been written about Tammany which would put it in the same class as a society the object of which was to wreck society.

When the Northern troops were sorely pressed in the Civil war, Tammany raised and equipped a regiment which was known in song and story as the Gallant 69th.

After peace was declared and the people in the south were on the verge of starvation, this same Tammany sent a train load of provisions to appease their hunger. Oh, yes, Tammany is a society which should be stamped out; they are doing too much good in the community.

One writer, commenting on this society, says we must not shirk the issue, we must keep the 18th amendment. Prohibition should not be blamed for the acts of the bootleggers. The bootleggers are the creatures of the 18th amendment. If there was no 18th amendment there would be no bootleggers. The 18th amendment is responsible for the millions of speakeasies which are spread all over the land; the roadhouses are the creatures of the 18th amendment, where are young people get their first glimpse of the path that leads to degradation. Also the night clubs and the roadside petting parties in country lanes, where the young boy carries a bottle on his hip.

I believe we should not shirk this question. Let us know the truth. Has any of those advocates of prohibition attended a public dance, baseball game or other sports and seen boys in their teens making a nuisance of themselves because they were under the influence of the vile stuff which is sold as whiskey? On a dance floor a short time ago a young girl dropped a bottle out of her stocking. Those are sad things to speak about but they are true.

Something over eight years ago the prohibitionists went into their house all cleaned up and burnished. Then they filled it with spirits, bootleg, and the last state of prohibition was worse than the first. It is an old saying, a wise man will change his mind, but fools never.

Another writer is fearful if Governor Smith is elected the morals of this country will suffer but her fears are groundless. The morals of this country cannot fall any lower than they are at the present time. Sodom and Gomorrah were models of purity beside our land at the present time. A short time ago the officers of the law ordered young girls off the streets because they were wearing very little more than the proverbial fig leaf.

Stories That Recall Others

It Suits Him, All Right

Jimmie, age 4, picked up a piece of candy which he had dropped on the ground, and although it was soiled began to munch it.

"Don't eat that," his mother scolded, "it isn't fit for a dog."

"But, mamma," replied Jimmie, "I won't let the dog have any."

Thanks for the Sauerkraut

The neighbor had given Kenneth, only about 4 years old, a small pail of sauerkraut to take to his mother, and the boy, walking home, found that several helpings of it tasted pretty good. Mother emptied the pail, handed it back to her small son and instructed him:

"Now take the bucket home to the lady and thank her."

Kenneth took the bucket home all right, but instead of thanking her he said: "Mamma wants another bucket of sauerkraut."

Back home he trudged with more kraut. Mother couldn't figure it out, so this time she took the bucket home. Mother explained it all to her neighbor and then Kenneth had to do some explaining when mother came home.

She entered St. Bridget's Convent, Meriden, at the age of seventeen, March 17, 1879, and was professed there November 9, 1881. Her first appointment was to St. Mary's convent, Norwalk, where she remained for ten years. For the same number of years she labored in St. Bernard's, Rockville, and was then transferred to St. Mary's, New London, where for the past twenty-seven years, she edified her community and her pupils by her patient endurance of physical suffering and her unflinching devotion to the service of the poor, sick and ignorant. Sister Patricia leaves two sisters in the Sisters of Mercy order, Sister Mary Philomena of St. Francis' convent, Torrington, and Sister Mary Pauline of Mt. St. Joseph Academy, Hamilton Heights, Hartford. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at the chapel of St. Joseph's convent, Hartford; Rev. Timothy Crowley D. HASKELL GIVEN STATE'S PRISON SENTENCE IN SUPERIOR COURT

Pleading guilty to a charge of receiving the earnings of a prostitute, Edward Haskell of this city, was sentenced, in the criminal superior court in this city, Friday afternoon to serve not less than three and a half years nor more than five years in state's prison, Judge Allyn L. Brown pronounced sentence following Haskell's plea of guilty.

Haskell was recently bound over to the superior court from the local city court. His arrest followed a complaint made at police headquarters regarding the actions of his wife, Mildred Haskell. Haskell admitted knowledge of his wife's actions and admitted that she gave him money. The investigation by the local police not only resulted in Haskell's arrest but the arrest of his wife, Steve Stankiewics and John Burseby. The four were bound over to the criminal court, Haskell on the charge above mentioned, and his wife, Burseby and Stankiewics on charges of adultery.

Mrs. Haskell, and the two men entered pleas of guilty to the charges against them, in the criminal court Friday afternoon. Burseby and Stankiewics were each sentenced to three months in jail. Sentence was suspended by Judge Brown in the women's case. It is said that jealousy on the part of Haskell over one of the two men was the cause of the complaint he made to the local police.

Edward Martell, 18 year old sailor, and a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Camden, was before the court on a charge of theft of an automobile. The charge was changed to taking a machine without permission of the owner and Martell pleaded guilty to that charge. He was sent to jail for three months. The car which Martell took is owned by Nathan Peck, a New London restaurant proprietor.

The court adjourned about 3:30 o'clock until next Tuesday morning when two cases are scheduled for trial. These are the cases against Arthur S. Dart of Montville, charged with adultery and Loren Maynard of East Lyme, violation of the liquor law.

FLAG POLE DEDICATION TODAY AT FAIRGROUNDS

The members of the Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., will be guests at the flag pole dedication this (Saturday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the fairgrounds, held under the auspices of the New London County Agricultural society. Large representations from other fraternal, civic and religious organizations are expected to be present with the officials in each of the 21 towns in New London county, ex-service men and Gold Star mothers.

Previous to the opening of the programme at the fairgrounds, Tubbs' band will give a short concert at the G. A. R. headquarters and at 1:15 o'clock will escort the Grand Army men to the grounds in automobiles furnished by H. P. Beausoleil, A. C. Swan, Co., Allison E. Ladd, Mrs. Charles Burton, L. M. Crandall, Mrs. B. Bokker and William Frisbie.

On the arrival of the Grand Army men at the grounds, a band concert from 1:30 to 2 o'clock will be given by Tubos' band on a specially constructed platform in front of the grand stand. A delegation of Boy Scouts accompanied by Marines will escort the new flag which is to be raised. The invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Brief remarks will be made by Mayor James May of New London and Mayor Lee Roy Robbins of this city, followed by words of greeting by State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers of New London. The patriotic address will be by Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church.

After the community singing, led by Edward J. Connelly of this city, the assemblage will proceed in double file to the flag pole, where the Boy Scouts will march between the two rows, followed by the Marines. The flag and pole will be presented to the society by Leonard R. Main of North Stonington in behalf of his sister, mother and family, in memory of their son and brother and others who have lost their lives in service. After the presentation address by Mr. Main and the speech of acceptance by President F. S. Armstrong of the society, the dedication address will be by Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May of St. Patrick's church will give the benediction.

The rest of the afternoon will be given over to racing, both trotting and pacing, track and field events and a baseball game between the Taftville Town team and the Smoke Shop. The society has prepared for a large turnout as there is no admission charge, and the weather man has predicted favorable weather for the day.

A large golden star made of golden rod and golden glow by Geduldig's is to hang over the seats reserved for the Gold Star mothers. The platform has been decorated with evergreen trees, American flags, hydrangeas and gladioli.

MRS. AKELEY SAILS ON WAY TO BELGIUM

At the request of Prime Minister Jaspar of Belgium, Mrs. Mary L. Jobe Akeley, widow of the African explorer, Carl Akeley, sailed Friday night on the Ile de France. She will go to Brussels to collaborate with Dr. Jean M. Derscheid, zoologist of the Congo Museum of Tervueren, in the preparation of a final report of the Akeley-Derscheid mission to the Parc National Albert in the Belgian Congo.

Mr. Derscheid accompanied Akeley on his last expedition to the Belgian Congo. Akeley's main purpose was to get plants and other material for painted backgrounds for the gorilla group in the American Museum of Natural History. Much of the data collected has been in the hands of Mrs. Akeley, who assumed leadership of the expedition after her husband's death on Mount Mikeno.

Mrs. Akeley has just closed another most successful season of Camp Mystic, her camp for girls on Mystic river.

No one was hurt. The police, investigating the accident, arrested Ennis on the drunken driving charge. He will be presented in the city court this (Saturday) morning. The machine was badly damaged. The arrest was made by Officers Michael Dewire and Patrick Shahan.

ATHLETICS TIE WITH YANKEES IN PENNANT CHASE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tough on Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Almost on the eve of one of baseball's genuinely "crucial" series, the Athletes of Connie Mack caught up with the Yankees today. It's been a stern chase and a long one since that day in July when the Yanks boasted a 13 1-2 game lead over the field.

It took the ringing bats of the Washington Senators, and not the Athletics, however, to rout the Yanks in two games today and end a stampede that has been on, but with slowly diminishing force, since last April. While Philadelphia trimmed the Boston Red Sox twice, the Senators whipped the Yanks 11 to 0 and 6 to 1, and shoved Connie's crew into an absolute tie for first place. Both the Yanks and Athletics have won 87 victories against 47 defeats.

After two games tomorrow with Boston, Philadelphia moves into the Yankee stadium for the death grapple that may decide the American league pennant winner for 1928. The Yanks meet Washington again tomorrow before building their barricades for defense of home and fireside.

That defense will have to be far better than it was today if Connie Mack is to be stopped in his drive to another pennant, first for him since 1914. Listless in the face of the Senators' bitter attack, the Yankees were a sorry sight today as "Bump" Hadley, husky right hander, blanked Babe Ruth and his teammates with three hits in the first game, while big Fred Marberry, once the king of relief pitchers and the Yanks' particular nemesis, let them fashion but one run out of nine hits in the second encounter.

The faltering Yanks, as the last of their great early summer lead faded away, played in distressed and downhearted fashion. Their pitchers were just "cousins" to the Senators. Tom Zachary, an old team-mate of the boys from Washington, ran into salvos of hits in the first struggle and even Waite Hoyt, until today the league's leading hurler, could not stop the Senator rush in the second.

Tiny Miller Huggins, the mite manager, walked miles in the confines of the Yankee dugout as Hadley humiliated his sluggers. Babe Ruth got two of the Yanks' three hits and Gehrig the third, but the deadline was second base. Every one of the Washington team was hitting and hitting hard. Joe Cronin, once shortstop for Pittsburg, clouted two triples and a single in the 16-hit assault on Zachary and Rosy Ryan. Hadley cleaned the base, once with a long single.

With Cronin still on a batting spree in the second game, Marberry had little trouble swamping the lethargic Yanks. His mates played the steadiest, snappiest kind of ball and belted Waite Hoyt around mercilessly. The Yanks scored their sole run of the day on two passes and two singles in the first inning.

Athletics in Front Trench

BOSTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—The gaunt form of Cornelius McGillicuddy emerged into the promised land this evening after an exile of 14 years. The tall tactician of other days found his ancient estate still over-run by the midget Miller Huggins, but Connie was glad enough to share the premises temporarily after not having visited there at this stage of any campaign since the $100,000 infield last functioned in 1914.

The veteran Philadelphia manager was helped over the last strides of his journey by two heroic victories over the Red Sox here today by scores of 1 to 0 and 7 to 3 as the Yankees were dropping both ends of a doubleheader to Washington. If the Mackmen now tied with the Yanks, repeat their double success here tomorrow, they will invade the Rupert stadium on Sunday in first place, regardless of the outcome of tomorrow's single game between Washington and New York.

Robert Moses Grove had difficulty in bringing home the opening clash today, but he stuck to his guns and won with the one run given him. Robert Moses made it as conclusive as he could by fanning 11, permitting only four hits, and passing just one man. The Red Sox kicked up only one rucus—in the fourth, when Rothrock and Myer singled—and were then promptly put into their place on a double play by Bishop, Boley and Foxx. It was Grove's 22nd victory and his 13th straight.

The Athletics themselves caused Charlie Ruffing precious little trouble, but they did manage to defeat him with an unearned run in the sixth. Ruffing's only pass and Cochrane's single sent Bishop to third, whence he scored, with two out, when Rogell fumbled a grounder by Simmons.

The Red Sox made as if to treat George Earnshaw unkindly at the start of the second game after the Athletics had picked up three in the first on doubles by Bishop and Haas, a single by Simmons and Regan's wild throw to head Simmons at second. The Sox filled the bases with none out in their own half on passes to Rothrock, Myer and Rogell.

Connie rushed Orwoll to the rescue, and in his first championship game after a spell of first-hitting, he stopped the home boys with just one run. Bishop, Boley and Foxx again obliged with a double play.

The Athletics knocked out Danny MacFayden with a shower of two hits and two runs in the second, but the Red Sox did the same thing to Orwoll at the end of their half of the same round, which yielded two Boston markers. Eddie Rommel entered the box at the start of the third and held the Red Sox safe the rest of the way. Marty Griffin also held the A's very well in hand.

Credit for the victory went to Rommel as neither of the first two hurlers worked in the requisite four innings. The score:

FEATURE JUNIOR GAME AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

Sunday at Ashland park, Jewett City, the Taftville American Legion Jrs., winners of the Norwich Junior Twilight league, meet the H. N. S. team, which represented the American Legion post of Jewett City in the Norwich league and finished as runners up to the Taftville Legion Jrs. This team from Jewett City is the only one which defeated Taftville in the league, breaking even with them in two games. From this it can be readily seen that a fast game will be played at Jewett City. Both of these teams are really claimants to the amateur championship of eastern Connecticut (teams under 18 years of age). The probable lineups are:

Taftville: Fontaine c, Paradis p, Wilk 1b, Raymond 2b, Navick ss, Breen 3b, Sydio lf, Martin cf, Genest rf.

For Jewett City: Pizzo c, Benal p, Perry 1b, Kusek 2b, Willensky ss, Salinsky 3b, Vachon, Geska, Walkowsky and Beauleau outfield.

This is the same identical team which led the entire Norwich Junior Twilight league in hitting and are sure out to show the league winners that they are capable of winning over them. The game is to be called at 2.15.

New York Juniors Challenge

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)— Eddy's dusters, American legion boys' champions of Manhattan, with 36 games won and none lost, tonight telegraphed a challenge to Chicago to the winner of the legion "world series" between boys' teams representing posts of Oakland, Calif., and Worcester, Mass., according to Capt. George H. Maines, director of the New York city tournament.

Topping and Edwards in Finals

GREENWICH, Sept. 7—(AP)—H. J. Topping, Jr., and Duncan Edwards, Jr., will meet tomorrow in the finals of the annual junior championship of the Greenwich Country club by virtue of wins in the semi-final round today. Topping overwhelmed John Ellis 9 to 8, while Edwards had sterner competition against Daniel Topping, winning 2 and 1.

OVER 156 AMATEURS IN PRACTICE AT BRAE BURN

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 7—(AP)—The landscape at Brae Burn today was thick with practicing aspirants for the national amateur golf title which Bobby Jones will defend here next week.

Most of the 156 entries went around the course but there were few notables, including most of the British Walker cup team, who have not yet put in an appearance. The only Britisher on the course during the day was Major Charles C. Hezlet. He said the rest of his countrymen would get in some time tonight.

Though most of the challengers have been unwilling to discuss their practice scores, generally because they have not been registering figures they were proud of, Bobby Jones and George Von Elm, considered his strongest rival, went around together this afternoon and were frank when they returned. Bobby had a 74, two over par, and Von Elm got a 75.

Many others had good rounds, including Major Hezlet who made a 76. Jesse Guilford was in good form, and Freddie Wright was pleased by his performance.

Many of the new arrivals joined the almost general chorus that the home hole called for too long a tee shot.

Most of the entries believe that a pair of 78's would be good enough to get them safely in with the 32 qualifiers but there were many who, after re-reading the entry list, predicted that a 36-hole total of 150 would not be any too safe a margin to insure the owner a place in the third day's play.

Manager Troland says that the only thing that will save the New London boys from a trimming this afternoon will be rain. There is certainly plenty of pride in the system of Troland and he has instilled some of it into his proteges, which added to the vim and pep that they already have are bound to be unbeatable in this afternoon's encounter if the A's manager can be believed.

The Standard Oil outfit are one of the few teams that have taken Taftville into camp and Troland and his club are going out today with more fight in their hearts than they ever had to wipe out that defeat.

The Oil boys are equally determined to continue to pile up their wins and are giving their star moundsman, Chappell, the chance to again stand Taftville on their heads. In the last meeting Chappell had the A's doing just as he saw fit which is no mean honor in itself. He let Taftville down with three hits.

Right now the Socony is leading the Twilight league in New London and is trying hard to show the local followers that they have a team that can beat Taftville. It is certainly a good even match and the fans should be in for a very good game, between two teams that are and have been going strong all season. The game will start at three fifteen.

CARDS BUNCH HITS TO BEAT OUT PIRATES

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7—(AP)—Again outhit, the St. Louis Cardinals bunched their efforts for a 6 to 3 victory here today, winning the second game of the series from the Pittsburgh Pirates. As in yesterday's battle, the Pirates held the edge in pounding out safeties by a 7 to 6 margin.

It was fitting that Chick Hafey lend his efforts to cutting away the two-run lead of the opposition with his 24th homer of the season with no one on base after pounding out his 23rd four-base hit yesterday. But the task of putting the Cards in the lead was left to Ernie Orsatti, who doubled in the seventh, scoring Haines and Douthit.

Earl Adams of the Pirates muffed his first try in 236 chances in the eighth to allow the Cards their sixth run after Bottomley had scored the fifth on Maranville's sacrifice. Brickell's homer with no one on in the ninth failed to molest the Cardinal lead.

CUBS ROUT REDS IN ONE-SIDED GAME

CHICAGO, Sept. 7—(AP)—The Cubs pounded Lucas and Luque for 19 hits and routed the Reds 11 to 1 in the opening game of their series today. Root pitched perfect ball for the Cubs and was never in any trouble allowing only four hits. The Reds got their lone run in the 5th on a single, a walk and an infield out.

FAST ACTION IN DUWELL CLUB AMATEUR BOXING BOUTS LAST NIGHT

Eleven hard fought battles featured the amateur boxing show at the Duwell field last night. The feature bout, or the one that pleased the fans the most—showed Phil Gengerella, our old friend "Young Phillips" the Westerly stout boy, winning a hair line decision over Ben Herr a new comer, in four hectic rounds. Two real unadulterated knockouts, both by local boys over their men of the highly-touted Worcester stable showed that the Norwich lads are about as good as they come. Johnny Kop in his comeback stunt, finished Leo Ledoux, a classy performer in the second, and Benny Dempsey put a stop to Joe Preston's onslaught with a terrific left in the first.

Unfortunately the bouts were marred by a couple of bad decisions which did not set so well with the fans. Chas. Beauvenant (Young Chappi) of Westerly won by the proverbial mile over Mike Troy of Worcester, but the decision went the other way. Young Wekely of Jewett City lost what looked like a win to Tony Rita of Westerly in another.

Phil Plante, Norwich, 117 pounds with a heart full of kindness for Joe Bishop of Danielson, 118 pounds, dropped the decision to the latter in the opener. Phil seemed to be unable to do any infighting, his best work being at long range.

Ernest Gauvin of Taftville won on a foul over Young Tauff of the Duwell A. A. The outcome of the bout had it finished, is problematical, but Gauvin had a tough opponent, one who has fought here before and has yet to lose a fight. Tauff had Gauvin on his hands and knees in the first and landed a blow before he could withhold it. It was a sad ending to what might have been a good go. Both boys weighed 122.

Tall rangy Lionel Paradis, he of the knowledge of boxing and a good defense, threw too many lefts into little Frankie Brown of Westerly. The latter kept trying hard but was at sea with Paradis' left in his face about all the time. The latter showed plenty of gameness and did well to stick the three rounds. He weighed 115 to Paradis 118.

A Gift to Rita

Larry Wakely turned in what looked like a win over Tony Rita but the judges gave the bout to Rita. Here was a bout between a fighter and a boxer. Wakely kept his left in Rita's face throughout and set him back on his heels on innumerable occasions. Rita is a strong boy and continued to flay away at Wakely and was dangerous all the way through, and had the latter somewhat tired at the bell, but in the opinion of the majority of the fans it was not enough to overcome Wakely's big lead. The Jewett City boy weighed 123 and the Westerly entree 122.

Frankie Adams, a big favorite hereabouts, lost to left handed Tony Callaro, a member of the Worcester contingent. Frankie certain picks some tough opponents. This Worcester boy had a hard swinging left to the body that Adams just couldn't seem to get away from. Both lads mixed it all the way through while in the furious infighting Tony seemed to have a slight edge. They stood toe to toe and slugged away at each other. The bout had the fans on their feet and cheering lustily. This bout, too, was hard fought with Callaro weighing in at 132 and Frankie two pounds more.

Kop Kayoes Ledoux

The sixth bout gave the customers the first K. O. and showed Johnny Kop the local boy, fighting one of the best battles of his career and turning the trick on tough Leo Ledoux of Worcester. Kop certainly never looked better, and in stacking up against such a good man as Ledoux who came down with a wonderful reputation, showed that he is still mighty popular with the crowd, and they are pulling for him on his comeback trail. Both lads threw plenty of punches in the first but Kop's were the harder and he staggered Leo and had him tired in the first. Mixing his punches and keeping on top of his man Johnny dropped Ledoux twice in the second. The latter although gamely trying to come up for the count was in oblivion at teh, after going down for the third time. Kop weighed 132 and Ledoux 130.

Al Brouillard 139, of Danielson went up against another tough boy from Worcester in Wilfred Savageau. The latter boy boasts of a K. O. victory over Al Koziol. Although Brouillard put up a game battle Savageau was too experienced and won easily. He weighed 140, one pound more than Brouillard.

Judges Go Wrong Again

Mike Troy of Worcester somehow or other was awarded the decision over Chas. Beauvenent of Westerly. Beauvenent took the lead from the start and had the fight apparently won hands down. Troy fought hard but he too was surprised to learn that he had won. It was a tough loss for Chappe. They weighed 138.

Phil Gengerella the Westerly caveman won his solid gold watch for winning over Ben Herr of Danielson, but it took him four rounds to do it and he knew he had been in a fight and no doubt ten watches wouldn't have appeased him for the wallops he took from the novice Herr. Fighting his first fight in the ring Herr a beautifully built lad showed up very well and will certainly prove popular with the gang if he continues to improve. His lack of ring knowledge lost him the hair line decision last night. Gengerella had to fight all the way and was at his best to win. Danielson weighed 154 and Westerly 157.

Dempski Flattens Preston

Benny Dempski made short work of Joe Preston another Worcester entry but took a few hard rights to the jaw before he drove Preston to the ropes, and with a shower of rights and lefts brought Preston down in the first round. Preston is certainly no set-up and Benny deserves lots of credit for his win. They were light heavyweights.

Ferra Wins Again

The last bout was a return go between Patsy Ferra and Chick Marra and it went to prove without a doubt that Ferra is Marra's nemesis. In their last encounter, Ferra dropped "Chick" for the ten count and had him in a bad way from the first round. Marra put up a better battle tonight, but just could not stand up under the heavy artillery of Patsy. He used his left to good advantage and drove in some hard rights to the body, but Patsy only shook them off and kept piling in. In the third round Ferra got in close and with both arms swinging to Marra's mid-section wore him down and dropped him. The towel came sailing into the ring, which gave Ferra another K. O. and the winner's purse. Patsy weighed 149 and Chick 146.

Frankie Busch did the refereeing, Jack Carney tolled off the minutes and Mike Kelly and Hip Callahen did the judging. Bill Pedace announced in his usual glib manner.

PHILLIES SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7—(AP)—The Phillies divided a double header with the Boston Braves today, winning the first game 4 to 0, but losing the nightcap 4 to 3 in eleven innings.

Milligan, pitching for the Phillies, didn't allow a hit until two were down in the seventh inning of the second game. With two out and Boston one run ahead in the ninth, Cy Williams hit the ball over the fence for a home run.

Benge pitched splendidly in the opening game after filling the bases and no one out in the first inning. Score:

YANKEES BUY THOMAS FROM OKLAHOMA CITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—The Yankees today announced the purchase from Oklahoma City of the Western league of Fay Thomas, a former bright pitching prospect of the Giants.

Judge Landis ruled favorably to Oklahoma City, made ineligible for a year, and ordered him to repay the Giants the money they had advanced him for signing as a free agent in a California college.

The New London team will lineup with L. Frazier cf, Brewer 2b, O'Connell 1b, Smith ss, A. Frazier 3b, Stanton c, Shea rf, F. Fogicher lf, Dayton or Arden p.

NOANK

OWNER MAY INSURE HIS TRAINED PET HEN

Nothing has been heard from Raymond Rathbun's trained hen Dolly since the day the hen would not get out of the auto and he had to take Mrs. Hen for a ride. Many of the residents of the village thought that owner Rathbun had sold the trained hen. But Thursday morning around 8 o'clock the champion coffee drinker of the village, Rathbun, was having his coffee and toast before going to work when a knock came on the door and he was wondering who it was so early in the morning. There was Dolly and she walked right into the house and jumped on the chair and wanted her breakfast. Pouring out some coffee, her owner gave it to her, drinking it like a man would and eating some toast. After a good breakfast she got down from the chair and made a bow, meaning Thank you, went to the door and knocked to get out and going away as happy as a lady with a new wrist watch. Owner Rathbun is some proud of the only trained hen in the village that can do tricks. He is thinking of taking out an insurance policy on Dolly in case anything should happen to her.

Around 2:30 o'clock in the morning the cat got to crying and the good man had to get out of a warm bed to put the cat out and was some mad. At the waiting room, a large crowd of young fellows gave him a real cheer. The Sardine band Leader Mike Passi and 15 strong played several selections including "See It's Good to Have Our Pal Back Home Again!" Eddie was asked to tell about his trip to Massachusetts. He said that the people are leaving the island every day; trunks are piled as high as a 3-story building and 14,000 people are going home. On coming over he ran across Ben Long, an old time sword fisherman, who has had the best season in his fishing days, got 420 swordfish down east and cleared $3,000.

At the meeting of the fire company held in its rooms on Cedar street on Thursday evening, Acting Foreman A. Banks was in the chair. As the evening was wet and cool about 20 members gathered. The roll was called by Secretary Jack Ellis. The different committees made their reports and all were O. K'd. How are we going to raise money to put away in the tin box? was the question. A new heater is needed badly as the old one has seen its best days. The men don't want to play pinochle matches with overcoats on. H. Park gave a short talk on the siren fund; also spoke about new hose, telling how the village is laid out and that a siren can be heard in Mystic. The drive has been going on for several months. Chief Park said he must have help if the new siren is put over big. The hose is good but only 700 feet to fall back on, at least 700 feet of new hose should be on hand in case of a big fire. The chief's talk lasted for 25 minutes and was given loud applause. After the meeting Assistant Steward Dexton Holliday gave the hungry firemen a New England supper with pineapple pie and coffee. Dancing followed while a 3-piece orchestra from West View stepped on the jazz.

STOCK EXCHANGE SCENE OF ONE OF WILDEST "BULL" MARKETS IN HISTORY

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today was the scene of one of the wildest "bull" markets in history.

The "bull" movement gathered such terrific momentum from the unexpectedly small increase of $54,000,000 in brokers' loans that prices were whirled upward $2 to nearly $20 a share before the usual week-end profit taking checked the advance, and put down some of the early gains. Fifty issues crashed through to new high records, including such popular shares as Carvsler, U. S. Steel common, Sears Roebuck and Tidewater Assoc Oil.

The average of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, was lifted more than 4 1-4 points to a new high record for all time. Total sales of 4,782,000 shares have been exceeded only twice before, and both times in the "bull" market of last spring.

So great was the avalanche of buying orders that poured onto the floor, from time to time, word was flashed that active stocks were selling on the floor several points away from the prices being printed on the tape. For instance, when Montgomery Ward was setting a record high price at $242 a share on the floor, the stock quotation on the tape was still being printed at $229. U. S. Steel common sold above $158 a share on the floor when the price was being printed a point or more lower on the tape.

Streets, hallways and building elevators in the financial district were crowded with messenger boys and broker houses runners trying to make stock deliveries within the stipulated time. Many houses pressed additional clerks into service and arrangements were made to carry on the all-night office work which was a feature of last spring's market.

The return of the stock market to newspaper front pages throughout the country resulted in drawing crowds to the stock exchange visitors gallery and elevators and halls there were crowded, even though comparatively few persons were admitted.

Sales of blocks ranging from 5,000 to 20,000 shares were recorded at frequent intervals on the belated ticker tape. Despite apparent stringency of money, which held steady at 7 1-2 per cent, as banks called upwards of $20,000,000 in loans, pools seemed able to arrange for funds to finance such purchases running into millions of dollars.

The optimism of the stock market spread to the curb market, although not to such an extent, but the bond market paid little heed. Trading there was about as dull as at any time during the past few months.

Montgomery Ward was the feature of the day in the roaring stock market, soaring nearly $20 per share to $242 and then slumping to around $236, as compared with the year's low price of $117. Sears Roebuck emulated its example, climbing to a new record high price of $157 before it yielded to $134.

United States Steel common, Tidewater Associated Oil, American Safety Razor, Brunswick Balke Collender, Electric Auto-Lite, International Nickel, Purity Baking, Timken Roller Bearing, Comemrcial Investment Trust, Fox Film "A" and Gold Dust were among the issues to establish new high prices for the year or longer.

Rails took little part in the day's advance.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—The bond market plodded along its own quiet path today, paying little heed to the boisterous stock market. Traders apparently gave closed attention to the calling of upwards of upwards of $20,000,000 in loans by banks, firmer tendencies in time money and the fact that the treasury has been forced to do its new financing on a 4 1-2 per cent basis.

Price movements were narrow and irregular. Rails, firm for days, were soft. Some convertibles gained in sympathy with the stocks, but the industrial group, outside utilities, was dull.

Announcement of the treasury offering of 4 1-2 per cent certificates in exchange for third liberties seemed to unsettle U. S. government obligations. Bankers expressed the opinion today that probably not more than $100,000,000 of the $950,000,00 third liberties outstanding would be exchanged, since they are widely scattered in the hands of small holders, and they looked for heavy buying of the new certificates. They believed this should please the treasury since 2 per cent book credit will be available.

Anaconda Copper 6s and Andes Copper 7s, Armour & Co. 5 1-2s, International Match 5s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s and Penn Dixie Cement 6s were among the new industrial issues to seek higher levels. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s were lifted more than 3 points to a new high at 147 1-2 on heavy buying, and a few other utilities made smaller gains.

Central Pacific First 4s, New York Central 4s, St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific 6s and Atchison 4 1-2s were outstanding among rails showing gains. St. Paul 5s, particularly the issue of 1975, were under pressure and there was considerable selling of Illinois Central 4s, Grand Trunk 6s, Erie 5s, Katy First 4s and Rock Island 4 1-2s.

The foreign list was irregular.

Public offering is expected next week of two large public utilities issues, one $20,000,000 North American Edison 5 1-2 per cent debentures and the other $15,000,000 Georgia Power company first and refunding 5s.

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Thump on the Roof

Where'er you go throughout the land
Are enemies on every hand.
—Old Mother West Wind.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and Mrs. Whitefoot were so delighted with their new home in Farmer Brown's sugar-house over in the Green Forest that they had ceased to worry. They had almost forgotten Yowler the Bobcat and his family. Yes, sir, they had almost forgotten him. For two or three days they hardly poked their noses outside that sugar-house. It was wonderful to live without fear.

"Did you hear that?" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot

It was wonderful not to be watching out for Hooty the Owl at night and Yowler the Bobcat and Old Man Coyote and Reddy Fox. And, of course, while that sugar-house wouldn't have seemed very big to you or me, to such little people as Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot it was a very big place.

One night, when the moonbeams came peeping in through the little windows of the sugar-house, Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot sat debating whether they would go outside. You see they were getting a little tired of staying inside. They wanted a change. Most people want a change now and then. In fact, most people need a change now and then.

"I guess," said Whitefoot, "the only one we shall have to look out for will be Hooty the Owl. You never can tell when that fellow may come snooping around. My, what a relief it is not to have to worry about Yowler the Bobcat!"

"It wouldn't be so bad," said Mrs. Whitefoot, "if he didn't have those kittens. It was bad enough when there was just Yowler and Mrs. Yowler, but growing children take a lot of food. Now that Yowler and Mrs. Yowler have to hunt for those babies until the latter are big enough to hunt for themselves it is going to be very dangerous for all the smaller people of the Green Forest. I hope when they grow up those kittens will go off on the Big Mountain. We don't have to worry about Yowler while we are here, but I won't be real easy in my mind for a minute when we are outside."

"Huh!" exclaimed Whitefoot. "Those Bobcats won't come around here. I'm not afraid of them over here."

"I am," declared little Mrs. Whitefoot emphatically. "They roam over a lot of the Green Forest and now they must have to go farther than ever. You are making a mistake, Whitefoot, if you think that just because they can't find us where we used to be that they will give up looking for us."

"Just the same, I don't believe they'll come over here," Whitefoot insisted. "Come on, let's go outside for a little while anyway."

Hardly were the words out of Whitefoot's mouth when there was a soft thud on the roof of the sugar-house and two little hearts almost stopped beating.

"What was that?" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot shook his head. "I don't know," he whispered back. "Listen!"

On the roof over their heads he could hear soft footsteps. They knew that they were the footsteps of someone big. None of the little folk of the Green Forest could make footsteps like those. There was a rattling of the old stovepipe which served as a chimney for the sugar-house. "Did you hear that?" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot nodded. "Of course I heard it," he whispered back. "How could I help but hear it. My dear, I believe you are right. I believe it is Yowler or Mrs. Yowler."

Mrs. Whitefoot didn't wait to reply. She started for the firebox of the evaporator and Whitefoot was right at her heels. Into it they ran and straight into their little nest in the far corner. And there they curled up close together and listened and listened for further sounds.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Showing today for the last time is The First Night, and Gateway to the Moon. Tomorrow for just the one day, will be shown Night Life, with Alice Day, Johnny Harron and an all star cast.

A graphic story of the days before, during and after the great war in the city of Vienna. It is not stretching criticism too far to state that this is one of the best entertainments shown here for some time. It is just the sort of a picture that holds an interested audience from its very start to the graphic finish.

Also showing Silk Legs with Madge Bellamy in the leading character role. Madge Bellamy, the beautiful little star who is featured in "Silk Legs," a Fox Films production, gives a clever delineation of the spirited hosiery drummer. The part gives her another opportunity to show that she is one of the most beautiful and talented masters of comedy and drama on the screen. With Miss Bellamy in the cast are James Hall and Joseph Cawthorn. Arthur Rosson directed.

The above two photoplays will only be shown Sunday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

"Hangman's House," John Ford's new Fox films production, based on Donn Byrnes great novel of Irish life, will open a three days' run at the Breed theatre Sunday with Victor McLanglen, June Collyer, Larry Kent, Earle Foxe and Hobart Bosworth in prominent roles.

"Hangman's House," according to studio executives and preview critics, is one of the finest things Ford has done for the silversheet. It is typically Irish, with fast horses and beautiful women, and it is said the action outrivals even the dramatic intensity of this director's earlier efforts, including "The Iron Horse" and "3 Bad Men."

Byrne, in writing "Hangman's House," went on record with the statement that he wanted it to reflect the true spirit of Erin. Ford, after spending many weeks in Ireland, came back to Hollywood reeking with folk-lore and eager to transmit his feelings into celluloid.

June Collyer, playing her fourth consecutive lead for Fox and her second outstanding role for Ford, is credited with some of the finest shading of Irish character ever brought to the screen.

McLanglen, a past master of human interest, is cast as Citizen Hogan, a towering figure bent on revenge. This is his third victure for Ford and it is said to be his best.

The production has a notable cast of players supporting McLanglen, including, Larry Kent and Earle Foxe.

An entertainment of outstanding merit is promised local audiences with the showing of "Hangman's House."

Palace Theatre.

"Ramona," Dolores Del Rio's first has been booked into the Palace theatre for showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Director Edwin Carewe, who pre-United Artists starring production, sents the picture in association with Inspiration Pictures, Inc., feels that no finer vehicle could have been chosen for Miss Del Rio's debut than Helen Hunt Jackson's immortal American love classic. As the half-breed girl, the sensation of "What Price Glory" and "Resurrection" is said to have the finest opportunity her cyclonic career has yet given her.

In the supporting cast of featured players are found such artists as Warner Baxter, Roland Drew, Vera Lewis and Michael Visaroff. The first, because of characterizations in "Aloma of the South Seas" and "The Great Gatsby," needs no introduction. Drew is a young protege of Carewe. "Ramona" gives him his first real part. Miss Lewie carved herself a neat little niche of fame in "Resurrection." Carewe's picturination of the Tolstoy novel, in which Miss Del Rio appeared as the heroine. As for Visaroff, he is a continental actor who will soon be heard from on this side.

For those few who are not familiar with "Ramona"—it is now in its 92nd edition—it should be noted that "Ramona" is a tale of love in nineteenth century California. It iz a story of white men's greed. It is the romance of a halfbreed girl and her Indian lover. In bringing the Jackson novel to the screen, Carewe has done something decidedly worth while. The second feature, "Tillie's Punctured Romance," is a re-issue of 1914 in which Charles Chaplin and Marie Dressler were featured. It has been re-written and made into one of the most laughable comedies produced this year. It features Wm. C. Fields, the star of Running Wild, Two Flaming Youths, the Potters and many other successes too numerous to mention. Chester Conklin requires no introduction to the movie fans, his name is sufficient. Miss Louise Fazenda also has the reputation of being one of the leading comedians on the screen today. This trio have combined in producing what is termend in film circles a riot of laughs.

Broadway Theatre.

Once a crook—always a crook. At least that is the judgment of law and society according to Willard Mack's great melodrama of the underworld —"Kick In" which is to be presented by the Garrick Players at the Broadway theatre next Monday and Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sept. 10, 11 and 12. The advance demand for tickets have been so great that the management has added another evening for one extra performance so that all patrons may be conveniently accommodated.

The theme affords four acts of the most gripping drama, relieved by splendid, spontaneous comedy, that has been shown so far at the Broadway.

John Barrymore and Jane Grey were in the original cast that played in New York and the play has become one of the classics in the particular field that it fills. The Garrick Players are sparing no pains to make the performance an unusual one and indications are that "Kick In" will mark a high water point in the local dramatic circle.

"Kick In" is an ingenious blending of laughter and tears. It has big, driving moments when it seems as if your heart would stand still. Then with a lightning-like flash it swings to the sort of comedy that will double you up in your seat.

The reputation of this great Broadway success having reached town there has been a big advance demand for seats—with the result that the management wisely suggests that those who desire to see this play will do well to secure their seats at once and thereby avoid disappointment. The box-office is now open for reservations.

Insect pests each year reduce the agricultural output of the United States $2,000,000,000, and plant diseases caused by fungi and bacteria are only slightly less destructive.

SOME ARE KNOWN BY THEIR WORDS, OTHERS BY THEIR DEEDS.

VEGETABLES IN THE EVERY DAY WAY

Dear Sisters: After all is said and done, most of our vegetable cookery must be of ordinary vegetables, cooked in the simplest manner. When we wish to give a vegetable combination the place of honor as the main dish of a meal, we elaborate, add other congenial ingredients, and do not begrudge the extra minutes in preparation. But in planning for three meals a day seven days a week, we usually cook our potatoes, peas, and beans with few if any frills. Perfect methods should therefore be acquired as far as possible that our results may be as perfect too.

Potatoes first of all. What a difference between the mealy, delectable snowball cooked exactly right, and the soggy, dark lumps so often served. And even more difference in wrongly and rightly baked potatoes. Yet one result is as easy to produce as the other. When boiling potatoes they should be scraped if new and pared very thin if old. Remove every eye and let soak a while. Then place in a wire potato basket, if you have one, cook in rapidly boiling water and cook until tender, adding salt during the last five minutes. When done, lift out the basket, pour off the water, return the potatoes to the kettle, toss a minute or two at an open window, and serve at once. Lay a hot folded towel over them and set the kettle on the back of the stove if the potatoes are not to be served immediately. New potatoes are best of all to my mind, baked. But as most people will discard the most delectable portion, the crisp skin and what adheres to it, this is the most wasteful method of serving.

Mashed potatoes should first be dried into a deep, hot pan, seasoning and butter added. Vary the result by different seasonings, minced parsley and chives, paprika and a bit of cayenne or grated cheese and enough hot milk to moisten well. Taste to see if they are seasoned right and fluffy, and do not smooth over. Set in the oven and serve hot.

I learned only comparatively recently of a wrinkle in making superfine creamed potato. Cube mealy cold potatoes (boiled). Before adding the cream sauce, stir the cubes about until coated in melted butter, as much melted butter as your conscious will allow.

As for peas, my method is to wash the pods before shelling, then boil the pods first say about 5 minutes then use that to cook the peas in, in just boiling water enough to cover and not more than 20 minutes to half an hour (no more) salting the peas just before taking up. Washing the pods before shelling you do not have to wash the peas. Let the water boil away before taking up the peas, and do not drain them unless they are to be used for a garnish.

String beans should be put into rapidly boiling water to which each a teaspoon of salt and sugar and a pinch of soda have been added. Leave the cover off, and your beans will be an attractive bright green color. Great many serve people with string beans before they are cooked tender enough.

Unless the beans are very small two hours are none too much.

They should "melt in your mouth" when served. If you desire a change o' flavor, pour off the water half an hour before serving time and add two finely cut up tomatoes and a finely minced onion. Cover closely and complete the cooking of the beans.

The beans cook much quicker in this way and present the appearances of tiny young beans. The long string beans are very tasty cut into long thin diamond-shape and cooked very rapidly. Season with salt and a bit of sugar, a dash of nutmeg and a good piece of butter.

Corn is another most delicious vegetable often spoiled in cooking. A young housekeeper once asked me if I could tell her why her corn was neither tender nor sweet. When I learned that her cook boiled it an hour in a big kettle of water I was able to enlighten her. Eight minutes are enough or that is the length of time I recommend for cooking corn. Pack the corn in a kettle rather closely and use as little rapidly boiling water as possible. The "milk" in the kennels should be thickened to remove the raw taste, but longer cooking hardens and toughens them. The kernels should slip from the husk when just properly cooked.

ETHELYN

MY LABOR DAY.

Mr. Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I wonder of you enjoyed Labor day as much as I did? Perhaps the rain spoiled some of your plans and the day seemed to you "dark and dreary." I like a stormy day once in a while. It gives one a chance to do things that ought to be done but never are so long as the weather permits us to do other things.

For a wonder hubby and I were at the farm all by our lonesomes. Sunday was a day to make one glad. Our Cape Cod windmill pointed S. E., indicating rain when it stopped at sundown. A few stars were out when we went to bed and later the moon shone fitfully. Then towards morning there came a light tap-tap-tapping of rain on the roof over our heads.

I wonder if any of you know the joy of sleeping directly under a roof with no circumspect lath and plastered walls to deaden the sounds from the outer world. At the farm we chose to sleep "under the shingles." It brings us closer to nature and is like camping out without its inconveniences. One misses many things when enclosed in the cocoon of a plastered bedroom. Huge elms bend over us and the soft rustle of their leaves is like a gentle lullaby. Birds sleeping in the branches sometimes half awake to croon a few notes. Sometimes a tiny twig falls and goes rattling down the roof with a noise out of all proportion to its size. One summer a woodpecker took it upon himself to act as our alarm clock. The only trouble was that he set himself too early, for at daybreak he always hammered a rat-a-tat on the shingles just over our heads.

At the first patter of rain on Labor day morning I opened my eyes on a velvety darkness. "It's always darkest just before dawn." I murmured and turned over for another nap. Then the patter suddenly became a downpour. For a few minutes I could hear only the sound of rushing water and its splash, splash as it dropped from the eaves into the water barrel at the corner of the house. It had a soothing sound and soon I slept.

At seven o'clock I looked out on a water-soaked world, puddles in the garden and everywhere a gray blur of rain. Half dressed, I stood by the window delighting in the greenness and the cleanness of the grass and leaves. Suddenly, not far from the row of currant bushes something moved. It was a woodchuck feeding. He was having such a good time feasting on the sweet clover that it seemed a pity to interfere; but one who has a garden must have the hardened heart of a Pharaoh when it comes to woodchucks and so I called my husband, who was still drowsing, to wake up and get the gun. The rain made so much noise that Mr. Chuck did not hear us raise the window above the screen. Bang, the roar from the shotgun almost deafened me. The chuck never knew what hit him. Later hubby buried him under a peach tree and we shall hope for a bumper crop from that tree next year for chucks make good fertilizer.

Breakfast over and still raining. The man of the house wanted to find a special planting chart. I suggested that he look for it in the desk. With a little diplomacy on my part I might get the desk cleaned. I needed it badly. I supplied a dust cloth, placed a chair conveniently near, and advised him to first remove everything, wipe off the desk and dust things as he looked them over. Hubby went to work without in the least realizing that he was helping me clean house.

Tucked away in pigeon-holes were bills and memorandums of by-gone days. "Look at this bill," he said, holding up a scrap of paper about six inches long and one inch wide (Paper was a luxury in those old days.) In 1847 grandfather worked for one of his neighbors for the sufficient sum of thirty-seven cents a day, and here's a receipted bill of seventy-five cents for a doctor's visit. It used to spoil a half a day to drive out here and back from town. Now the trip by auto and back takes less than an hour and the doctor gets from five to seven dollars for a visit in the country. When the desk was nearly cleaned hubby found the thing he was looking for.

Meanwhile it rained spasmodically. Every time it let up and I attempted to go into the garden for vegetables for dinner the heavens again opened and I had to grab a squash or cucumber and run for the house. Once, to my great joy I found a ripe melon, the first of the season; and once hubby, who had on rubber boots, ventured out to the sweet apple tree to get the last August Sweeting that still clung to the branch and flushed a flock of quail. They flew noisily over the wall into the meadow beyond.

Dinner time, and the fresh vegetables and fruit tasted good. All the morning I had quoted the old saying, "Rain before seven, stop before eleven," but the day proved an exception to the rule. As it was still raining after dinner we decided to clean the woodshed. All the afternoon we worked. It was a real Labor day for us. We replied the wood and made a special place behind the door for all the garden tools and a kind of ladder so we could climb upstairs and change our clothes without going through the living room when company came unexpectedly.

Later in the afternoon there was a rift in the clouds. The rain stopped and the sun shone out. Wreaths of fog lay on the hillsides, creeping up until they seemed to melt into the trees themselves. The wet foliage glistened in the sun like silver. A flock of robins came to feed on the lawn. I counted 15 of them all hunting for their suppers. A flock of goldfinches settled on the cosmos looking for its ripened seeds which they love. They were for the most part males, as evidenced by their yellow bodies and black wings.

After supper, when "the rim of twilight" hedged us round, we sat down in our easiest chairs, remembering that "the soul that lives must have hours of silence and repose." Our day had not been one of "placid, and playful puttering." We had earned our rest. As we sat before the open door in the gathering dusk a cricket chirped cheerfully. Cheep-cheep-cheep, and the katydids began their never ending dispute as to whether she did or didn't. Presently the night was filled with the music of various insects. One especially ambitious one started a z-z-z-z-z- at twilight and kept it up without a second's break until we went to bed.

We sat without a light until we became "drowsier than a locust's song at summer noon," then "with flickering candle which beckoned to the shadows" we climbed the narrow stairs and "so to bed."

As usual, when I write a Social Corner letter I resemble Tennyson's brook: "For men may come, and men may go, but I go on forever."

With best wishes to all.

THE FRIENDLY VOICE.

NAOMI'S FINE TRIP

Dear Corner Sisters: I have read with interest, of the trips that many of the sisters have taken, so though some one might be interested in mine.

Hubby and I left Norwich on Saturday morning and joined daughter and husband in Hartford. Springfield was our first stop where we ran into the hardest shower I ever witnessed. We put all our windows up so as not to be drenched and just waited until it was over. When we reached Greenfield, we had another shower that came in torrents and we did the same—waited in the car until the sun was shining, then proceded on our way. From there we started the drive over the Mohawk trail. It is a beautiful drive and I know all who have been over it must have appreciated the beauty of its scenery all along.

In some parts the road was under construction making the traveling rather difficult.

As we were at a height of 2,200 feet and the road bed was wet, it seemed as though it might have been an easy matter to have slipped off.

We spent that night at North Adams at the end of the trail. The next morning we left for Bennington, Vt., then to the beautiful city of Manchester, on to Rutland and Brandon, where we saw the large marble quarries. That night we spent in Burlington, on Lake Champlain. This lake is 11½ miles long and from 1 to 13 miles wide. It lies between the lofty Green mountains, on the east, and the cloud-capped Adirondacks, on the west. We stood on the dock and watched the steamers come in and go out, also the ferry boats. Some carried 50 automobiles and others carried 50. At a short distance there are groves of tall trees extending to the shore so one can enjoy the shade on a hot day as well as the beach. We took the island route through the like over South Hero, then the island of North Hero. At some points the water seemed almost to meet with only a drive between. This was a distance of about 30 miles up to Alburgh, where we crossed on a ferry boat to Rouses Point, N. Y., and from there over the border line to Canada. Just before crossing the line every one is stopped at the Canadian custom house, where they must report concerning their car, baggage, etc. Then we went directly to Montreal, crossing the St. Lawrence over the Victoria bridge, which is 1 7-8 miles long, and was named in honor of Queen Victoria.

We visited the stock yards there and saw many cattle, pigs, sheep and calves where they are brought to be slaughtered by the hundreds. There was a car of horses that had just come in and they were to be shipped the next morning. Also a car of sheep and one of pigs came in while we were there. I enjoyed it all but was glad to get back to the good old U. S. A.

On our return trip we came back to Rouses Point, then followed the lake down on the New York side, through the Adirondacks, which towered above and around us in all their grandeur. Our first stop was at Plattsburg where we visited the barracks maintained by the federal government as a training post for the United States army. Then we drove to Ausable chasm, one of the natural wonders of the world in the heart of the Adirondacks. Thousands of dollars have been expended here in the construction of steel railways, bridges and rest houses so that visitors may experience the thrill of a trip through the chasm as well as a boat ride through the rapids.

Nearly 100,000 tourists visit here every year.

That night we spent in Warrensburg, N. Y., driving to Lake George the next morning, where we spent the day. We had planned to sail around the lake but when we reached the boat it began to rain so we did not go. This is a beautiful charming resort. The surface of the lake is dotted with over 300 islands.

From here we drove to Glens Falls and Saratoga Springs where the famous sulphur springs are located, also magnificent hotels.

Stopped at Schuylerville for the night. We had breakfast the next morning in Cambridge, Mass., then came down through Hoosick Falls, Pittsfield, Westfield, over Jacob's Ladder, through Suffield, Hartford and to Norwich, after a delightful trip.

"THE LAKE OF THE DISMAL SWAMP."

Dear Social Corner Folks: Replying to one of Kingston Brown's requests, I am sending "The Lake of the Dismal Swamp," by Thomas Moore, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1779 and died in 1852. He was a brilliant lyric poet and song writer and in the latter part of life wrote many prose works. When a very young man he visited America and this poem was one of the results of that visit.

The following note is given with the poem: "They tell of a young man, who lost his mind upon the death of a girl he loved, and who, suddenly disappeared from his friends, was never afterward heard of. As he had frequently said in his ravings, that the girl was not dead, but gone to the Dismal Swamp, it is supposed he had wandered into that dreary wilderness, and had died of hunger, or been lost in some of its dreadful morasses."

The great dismal swamp is mostly in the northeastern part of North Carolina, but extends into Virginia. It is 30 miles long and about ten miles wide. Lake Drummond is in the center and is about 20 miles in circuit.

THE RICH AND THE POOR

Dear Editor and Friends: Sunday was an ideal day and on a delightful drive we called on Comfort and had a pleasant hour and later visited Kochia and his mother. It was a day long to be remembered.

A Reader has certainly given us some questions. It is my belief that rich relatives do not want the poor ones to recognize them for fear they might want a little help. We poor ones cannot dress as stylish as the rich. Although we poor ones dress plain and simple the rich ones don't go that because they don't wear enough clothes so we can say they are nicely dressed.

It is all right to tell friends of your rich relatives but they do us no good. They ride and we walk. Yet there are some kind hearted rich people, yet the poor feel out of place if they mingle with them. It is because some of the rich feel so far above the poor that the latter have such a feeling against them. A well to do cousin of mine always said one was as good as the other, the only difference being the money.

Kochia: Got home safely. Found Augusta all right.

Peggy Alden: Glad you are home. Hope you are much improved.

L. T. H. and Skipper: Hope you have enjoyed this fine summer.

Kentucky Wonder: Hope you have a fine birthday.

WINTER BOUQUETS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank those who so kindly answered my request about telling the truth.

I am enclosing a recipe a friend gave me for cucumber relish and guarantee it worth trying as it has been well tested.

I wonder if all the sisters know that if we pick goldenrod and do not put it in water it will make a nice winter bouquet, and also that small flowers and berries make a pretty bouquet and will keep as long as wanted if dipped quickly in melted paraffin. It can be done with several flowers and shrub berries as I tried it last year.

Cucumber Relish: 1 qt. of green cucumbers sliced (crossway), 1 red left on, 1 small onion, 1 sweet pepper sliced 1 level tablespoon salt. Let stand three hours then drain. While draining, heat 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 1 teaspoon dry or mustard seed, 20 whole cloves, when hot add cucumber mixture and let come to boiling point and can. Have liquid enough to cover while bringing to boiling point. This makes about 1 pint jar.

INVITED TO LAVENDER'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Dear Editor, and Social Corner Sisters, and all Members of the Willimantic Campground, including the Editor and his Wife: Would like to have all join with me in celebrating my mother's birthday, Sept. 12th. Lavender's 80th birthday, in a basket lunch. Hot coffee will be served and we can meet, rain or shine, as a building on the grounds has been engaged for that purpose. Follow the yellow bow and you cannot make a mistake. Come one, come all, and enjoy the day. We hope the weather man will favor us with good weather. Don't forget to bring your dishes and something good to eat. With best wishes for all, and hoping to see a good many Wednesday, Sept. 12th, at the Willimantic Campgrounds.

COOKING EGGS

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and Readers: Did you ever think that while there are "cooked" eggs and there are boiled eggs, the former are tender and the latter are tough. Be a master to your art and cook eggs in the perfect way.

Eggs are albuminous and boiling temperature renders albumin tough, leathery and difficult to digestion. Therefore, in the cookery of eggs in water whether in the shell or out, I find a lower range of temperature from 180 F. to 190 F. is by far the surest and safest. In preparing soft, medium or hard-boiled eggs have water and plenty of it. Allow one pint of water to one or two eggs, an additional cup of water to each additional egg. Place the right amount of water in saucepan and bring it to a boiling point. Then simultaneously turn off the heat and lower the eggs into the water. A spoon may be used to lower the egg if only one, but if more than one is used place them in a skimmer and lower at one time, then cover the saucepan and allow the eggs to stand six minutes for a soft cooked egg, eight minutes for a medium cooked egg and 45 to 60 minutes for a hard boiled egg.

There are those who prefer the double boiler method of cooking eggs in the shell and I find it is usually very satisfactory. Place boiling water in the bottom and top of a double boiler. Place the double boiler over sufficient heat to keep the water in the bottom of the boiler constantly boiling. Then place the eggs in the top of the boiler, put on cover and let them cook as above. Before attempting to shell hard cooked eggs it is advisable to run cold water over them as this makes them easier to handle and easier to shell.

When poaching eggs one should keep in mind a delicate tender and jelly-like result with the yolk lightly veiled by a white film. Muffin rings or egg poachers are particularly satisfactory for poaching as they insure a neat edge on the egg, which eliminates the necessity of trimming and avoids waste. Egg poachers may be purchased in sets. I like a frying pan particularly well for holding water as it is broad and shallow. If muffin rings are used it is best to brush the bottom of the frying pan over with fat, but this is not necessary if egg poachers are used. Fill the frying pan two-thirds full of water, or sufficient to cover the tops of eggs. Add salt, allowing one-half teaspoon to each pint of water. Bring the water to the boiling point and place it in the muffin rings or the egg poachers carefully greased. Break the eggs one by one in a saucer and when ready to slip them into the rings, lower the heat sufficiently to keep the water in the frying pan merely simmering. Slip the eggs gently into the rings, then turn off the heat entirely, allowing the eggs to cook slowly. The pan may be covered or not. When using an egg poacher it is not possible to cover the frying pan due to the handle on the poacher. So in this case it is best to spread some of the water carefully over the tops of the eggs with a teaspoon to produce a white film over the egg yolks. I always use the muffin rings as I can cover the frying pan, and the enclosed steam forms a white film over the yolks of the eggs without the aid of the "spooning" process. When the white film has formed over the yolk and the white is firm, lift the eggs out carefully and slip on to hot buttered toast. I lip the skimmer carefully under the egg and the ring, lift from the water, allow all water to drain off, place on the toast and remove the ring. Bread cut into rounds before toasting adds much to the attractiveness of poached eggs.

THE SACRED LILY

Editor of Social Corner: Some time ago someone asked about the lily seed. Seeing but one answer and being a flower lover, I am sending in some more information about it. I am not a member of the Corner as I am a good deal of a shut-in, but this may prove interesting to some.

An interesting legend is told of the sacred lily of Indo China, a lily very little known in this country. Many centuries ago the people of India and China worshipped the white ox. When it came along the road the populace flung themselves on their faces before it and worshipped it as their God. Designing persons stole the ox and placed it on board a ship and carried it out on a lake. A severe storm wrecked the ship and the ox was lost. The natives grieved several years, but found in this lake a beautiful lily the seed of which is shaped like the head and horns of the lost sacred ox. Then they worshipped the lily, believing the ox had returned to them in the form of a lily. This lily, trapa bicornis, blooms six weeks after it is planted and stays in bloom 11 months. At the Chicago world's fair, it took the prize for being the longest blooming flower in the world. It is said that after being in the water a few days, a very lovely odor comes from the sprouting seed which is a delicate perfume of oriental fragrance.

ANN TENNA'S BIRTHDAY

Dear Editor and Social Friends: Somehow I hate to get my Saturday's Bulletin without a letter of mine in it, and as I have nothing else to do will tell you all about my recent birthday. Well, I had six for company—several callers—lots of greeting cards, a lovely bouquet from the Mashmoquet house, another came to me (just before my natal day) from Seattle, Wash., and one from a friendly neighbor. Then I had a very generous check, also a lovely writing portfolio.

My grandson from Willimantic came and trimmed the two large maples in front of the house, a very pleasing piece of work to me. Now I can see the sky by looking over the bushes which the town lets grow.

A Reader: Your question is altogether too much for my brain to dicker with. It's the disposition which makes the man, I think.

Kingston Brown: Sorry I haven't the words of the song, I'll Remember You, Love, in My Prayers. I have heard it sung many times.

THOSE BORN SEPT. 8.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Here is a horoscope for Saturday, September 8:

Today is your birthday.

Your friends find you a very comfortable, reliable person, they enjoy your quiet humor, and are benefitted by your optimistic views.

One thing in your favor, you are bound to take this world as you find it, and are contented with it as it is.

Your religion is expressed by the mode you show towards the less fortunate.

You make and "keep in repair" a great many friends.

You have definite social characteristics and are good at dealing with all those you come in contact with.

HOROSCOPE.

USING UP SOAP SCRAPS.

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and Brothers: It has been a long time since I wrote to the Corner. Seeing the paper two weeks ago made me think I was a slacker and wasn't doing my share to keep the Corner page up.

I had a lovely time at Aunty No. 1's picnic. I know that she and Ready were pretty tired when night came. It was the first outdoor picnic I ever attended. I hope to attend some more in the future. I want to go to the Buckingham the 11th if nothing prevents.

Has any of the sisters tried putting the small pieces of soap onto the new cakes by putting them in hot water and onto the new cakes. It uses the small pieces of soap up.

U. C. E.: How are you after your ride? Many thanks for the bag. The contents were real good. I have planted the slips and hope they will live.

Bumble Bee: Stopped at your house the other night but nobody was home except the boys. Will see you later.

My sympathy goes out to those in sorrow and trust the sick ones are on the gain. Best wishes for the Corner.

LIFE'S DISAPPOINTMENTS.

Dear Editor and Members: September again is with us, and as Labod day proved to be such a disappointment to so many who looked forward for a perfect wind up of their vacation season. It seemed rather trying for those who were some distance from their own cities and towns.

In this day and age, we must train ourselves to bear whatever comes to us for the Good Book says The Lord doeth all things well. Life is a battle in which only the strong can win. Thousands fail in life because they are not willing to accept disappointments. No matter how great your mental abilities are if you do not have the staying power you will not achieve the utmost of your possibilities, and then you must accept some disappointments. They come to all of us more or less in life.

A few Sundays ago I had the wonderful pleasure of meeting Cretia of Willimantic, through the kindness of her son, who nobly drove her down and made me a pleasant call. As it happened I had company from the Rose of New England. Also it happened Cretia knew these people some years back and during their stay many pleasant memories were recalled. And I'll wager Cretia's trip and call proved no disappointment for her.

Sunday again, and who whirled up from East Killingly and sounded her horn, but Nonesopretty, telling me she had been to Jewett City and had a wonderful visit with Comfort.

A Reader: Last week you extended a question for me to answer. If you look your question over, it will call for five separate answers which I think are rather too delicate and too personal to be published.

Not so many moons ago Macfadden wrote an article upon A Remedy for a Hopeless Love.

Joan: Sorry to learn you are not in usual health. Perhaps this explains why your letters have been missing from the Corner. KOCHIA.

SOUVENIRS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is a pleasure to read all your letters.

Jennie: I did enjoy the description of yours and Theoda's trip to Cape Cod. I used to live in Franklin, Mass., and I could just see the nice houses you passed in that part of the country.

What a happy picnic we had with Aunty No. 1. It was wonderful. She selected a pleasant day right out of showers and fog the day before and the day after. Lucky Aunty No. 1. I hope you and Ready are rested by this time. May we all meet again soon.

This summer I have received souvenir cards from a friend who is touring Europe. The card from Dublin, Ireland is beautifully finished. Believe I would like to see Ireland. Others are from Germany and Switzerland which are also beautiful. She wrote they had little time to eat or sleep.

In looking over souvenirs recently I found a copy of the Connecticut Courant dated Monday, Oct. 29, 1764, printed by Thomas Green at the Heart and Crown, near the North meeting Houfe, Hartford, as a weekly. It was considered another great step in progress to have a weekly paper. The editor said: "The benefit of a weekly paper must in particular have its advantages as it is a Channell which conveys the History of the present Times to every Part of the World." People now would hardly be satisfied with a weekly when they can have both a morning and evening paper and in New York they send out many extra editions of the paper during the day. The art of printing is one of the greatest for human happiness.

Last Sunday afternoon I was most agreeably surprised by sister Nema coming to visit me. We attended our C. E. meeting and heard David Griggs speak on his trip to Europe this summer which was very interesting. He saw women shopping with their money strung on a wire around their wrist. Best wishes to all.

GREETINGS FROM E. L. M.

Dear Social Corner Members: What a nice day for Club No. 5's meeting! Not so hot as the day we were at Aunty No. 1's, but we ought not to have complained if she, Ready and the other helpers could stand it. Olga gave such a good report there is nothing more to say. I was glad she mentioned the boy who carried the water. My! wasn't it good and cold. I sure got my share—seven cops!

Aunty No. 1: Tell Uncle I have some delicious plum preserve. We ate the peaches fresh.

Well, Aita, did you get "Ink" safe to Vermont? I thought of you starting out Saturday morning. What lovely days Saturday and Sunday were, and then Monday so unpleasant. I always feel so sorry for those who have the day, and then have it rain.

When I went into town Saturday so many cars with all kinds of luggage were going each way I wondered how it would seem to be able to get away, as we have not been away from home on a Labor day for 15 years, or on a Fourth of July in 14.

Rose Lee: Was hoping to see you at the picnic.

Interested Reader: I have often thought of the trip you took the 26th.

Q. D.: Why don't you tell of your trip and let us get some enjoyment out of it too?

I have read with interest of the trip of a lady from Jewett City who went to Yellowstone park. I wonder what make of car was used? It must be lovely, but I would never have the nerve, no matter how good a driver I had.

Effie M.: Thought of you and company over the week end. Suppose you are at the beach now. Do you like it?

Narragansett: So sorry I did not get your name in my book.

Y. Y.: Could you eat some fruit salad (frozen)?

As in previous years, Club No. 5 will have no meeting in September, but will meet again in October.

THE RETURN FROM PROVINCETOWN

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: If I will not exhaust the subject, I should like to add another brief chapter about Cape Cod. Those of you who have read Joseph Lincoln's books are well aware of the supply which furnishes material for his stories. In my last letter I finished my account of that beautiful sunset and twilight hour which we so much enjoyed at Provincetown and reluctantly we descended from that elevation on which stands the 350 foot high Pilgrim Memorial and next went to the restaurant (just in time before it was closed), to get lunch, and soon after that went to our room and retired for the night. Theoda and I agreed this was the closing of a perfect day. The next morning we were up bright and early and after having breakfast we walked out on to the pier for a farewell glance over the great Atlantic. Our train left at 8.10 a. m. for our return trip to Boston of 120 miles. We would like to have stayed a week, so many interesting and different things to see. The great sand dunes along the shore and countless hollyhocks in the dooryards of the ancient and (limited) modern homes. As our train moved rapidly away and again we were in the sparsely settled country we saw large spaces of the salt marshes. Here and there the typical Cape Cod houses, shingled on all sides and showing no foundation on which they stand. After passing over the canal at Buzzards Bay we were leaving the Cape scenes and entering larger towns, Wareham, Middleboro, Braintree, Bridgewater, and city of Brockton, the latter famous for its shoe factories.

We arrived in Boston at 12.20, our journey completed in 4h. 10m. After having dinner we took in a sightseeing bus trip around the Hub City, at least a small portion of it. We visited Paul Revere's old home, which is now surrounded by many youthful descendants of Italy. We stood by the side of the famous Bunker Hill monument and later looked upon Charlestown navy yards, where "Old Ironsides" is being rebuilt. On returning from our bus trip we had a short time to go into three of the largest department stores and take a few glances around at their stock. When 6 o'clock was due we were on the train again for the last lap of our homeward journey, and before the twilight hour the sun had disappeared beyond the hills of Connecticut. Theoda bid me goodbye at her destination and I proceeded on alone for over an hour, when I, too had reached home safely. I would thank all sisters who enjoy my account of Cape Cod and can only add that to see these places means much more, and suggest that on your next vacation trip, select Cape Cod.

FINE DAY AT AUNTY No. 1's.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: The idle pen of several months is again in use as it writes a few lines about the annual picnic of the Social Corner held at the home of Aunty No. 1, Norwich Town, Aug. 29th.

As we left the comfortable seats of the bus, the flag of our Union and Social Corner color greeted us with a friendly wave, while we were meandering along the sunny cross road to the ideal picnic lawn. Many people had arrived before us which included representatives of all clubs. Hearing the cheery chatter mingled with mellow laughter we too soon joined the merry throng. And as the social wave moved forward about 200 people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and carried out a very successful picnic program. As dinner was announced, it was preceded by a praise service with Dr. Lamb as song leader. A delicious and appetizing dinner was then served by the waitresses and indoor helpers. Though the heat was 98 degrees in the shade, the pleasures of the day made the heat bearable.

Amid the joyous scene, a thought strayed to a nearby home where sickness lingers and the sympathy of all who knew her goes out in the same accord of the loved sister in her affliction. A pretty baby seven weeks old attracted much attention.

But the banner Social Corner day was fast passing and those who came from many miles were leaving for home. Bidding our host and hostess a good night and hoping for many more returns of the anniversary day picnics, we reached home at the close of an enjoyable day.

GREETINGS FROM VOTAMI.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think it is time some of the Club 4 sisters woke up, including myself.

Peter Prose: You see I'm living anyway.

Ophelia Pulse: How's your heart, still beating? I've changed my mind about the hammock I prefer the davenport.

What has become of Kochia? I know he is living because L. C. has been down there. Maybe he is taking a vacation.

Nanna: I make fudge quite often. Ahem! Uh huh, ahem. My eyes aren't quite so sore.

Gingham Girl: Haven't heard from you in ages.

Kaziah Doolittle: Yeast cakes are delicious.

Peggy Alder: Come on, write us a letter.

Pippin: Saw Mr. and grandson down to S. K. but didn't see you.

Cinzi: I'll get Nelly Grey started some afternoon.

Here are some of the recipes I like and perhaps you will like them.

Biscuit Pie Crust: 3 cups flour, 1 cup shortening, 2 teapsoons baking powder, salt, milk enough to moist. Can only use filling that is cooked, and bake when hot.

Cream Pie or Pudding: Mix together 1-3 cup flour with 2-4 cup sugar and a pinch of salt. Add 1 pint of scalded milk and 3 tablespoons butter. Cook five minutes, add the beaten yolks of two eggs. Cook a few minutes add 1 teaspoon extract then set aside to cool.

Good luck to all. VOTAMI (Club 4)

SOME POINTS ABOUT PLANTS.

Dear Editor and Members of the Social Corner: It is some time since I have written although I have read all of the letters and enjoyed them very much. I wish to thank the Social Corner Member who sent me the floral calendar the first of the year. I was much pleased with it.

I also wish to thank those who sent me cards on my birthday, Aug. 21. I think there are several sisters that have the same birthdate but do not know who they are.

Theoda: My "treasures" that I brought home with me from Coventry the day of the picnic are looking fine as are all my plants.

Jennie: I thank you for the card you sent me when you were on your trip to Plymouth. I hope to see you and Olive at the grange next Friday night, Sept. 10.

Olive: Did you go to Maine on your vacation as you talked of doing?

Anna Z: Where are you?

The summer has gone very fast and fall is here. I enjoyed a visit with my sister at the shore and also with my mother in the country. The weather was fine only for two thunder showers. I wish you could have been with me and seen the beautiful gladiolus in my mother's garden. She has a large collection and some of the loveliest ones I have seen. Her dahlias were looking good but not many blooms. They were higher than my head and the foliage was a fine dark green. I wonder if it was because we have had so much rain the reason why there were so few flowers on them. They may do better later.

I think I will tell the sisters about my tuberous begonias. I sent for a packet of double tuberous begonias. In July I planted a few by "grandmother's method." (I don't think my grandmother ever tried it, or my mother either.) First I found a brick, and soaked it over night in a pail of water. Next morning I covered with good soil about an inch thick, placed it in a bread tin and put in about an inch of water. Then sprinkled a pinch of begonia seed on top of the dirt and set it in a sunny window. In 12 days I saw little green specks and with the aid of a reading glass discovered there were several tiny plants coming up. It was about this time I went on my vacation and left orders not to let the water dry out of that pan. When I returned they had two leaves and I transplanted them with a needle to a pot of prepared soil where they are growing nicely. Some have three and some four leaves. I have tried to count them but can't tell just how many there are, somewhere between 50 and 60 plants. Don't know how many I will be able to raise as sometimes they damp off. I hope to raise 50.

I wonder how many of the sisters soak their new flower pots before putting plants into them. If you do not they will absorb much of the water that should go to your plant.

I have raised nearly all kinds of house plants from seed and usually have good luck. I have some umbrella plants that I am raising from seed now.

I would like to ask if some of the members could tell me how to make my rubber plant branch out. It is about two feet high. The leaves are a foot long near the bottom. I saw a plant last week that was nearly three feet tall, had half a dozen leaves and not a branch. I did not like the looks of it and want mine to grow differently. I usually train my plants the shape I want them by pinching out the top, etc., but don't know whether to do that with the rubber plant or not.

How many sisters visited Elisabeth park during the rose season? There are many beautiful flowers in bloom at the present time. It would pay any one that loves flowers to ride through the park. I go every there quite often and always see something new.

I hope I may see some of you at the Connecticut Horticultural society show to be held in Hartford Sept. 13-14 at Foot Guard hall.

Aunty No. 1—I was so glad you had a nice day for your picnic and hope there was a large attendance. I thought of you many times and would have liked to have gone but had company so could not leave.

With best wishes to all I will ring off.

MAVIS.

GREETINGS FROM FLEURDELIS.

Kind Editor and Social Corner Members: How I did enjoy reading the Corner page Saturday with so many nice letters. They are so homey it makes one wish to meet the writers and have a good old fashioned chat on days gone by, full of good deeds, kind words and cheer to all.

Just I: Sorry you have been ill. Hope you are much better now. I see L. T. H. is still guessing on you. I won't tell.

Kitty Lou: Your letters are all so very interesting and nice. Have tried quite a few of your recipes. They are fine. Should like to meet you and have a little chat.

Aunty No. 1: I think you had a nice family of brothers and sisters at your picnic. What a happy crowd, and all the nice eats. I would like to have been with you but sickness prevented me. A very dear friend was ill so I stayed with her a couple of days. She is well now.

Crimson Rambler: How are the rugs? You are a wonder at rug making, by your Corner letters. Do you live in Norwich or New London?

Nonesopretty: Glad to read your nice Corner letter and glad you attended the Social Corner picnic.

Aries: Sorry to read of your accident. It must be very painful. You sure are game to write such nice letters with all the pain you must suffer. Saw in the Corner page where you and Adam both went to a picnic. I hope to meet you some day for your nice Corner letters interest me very much and make me want to personally know you and hear about old times.

Forget-Me-Not and Windham Blue Bell: Were you at Aunty No. 1's picnic? My friend though you were, but was not sure, as you know it is guess who is who, and then be mistaken in the guess. Ha, ha. Am I right?

Lilac Lady: I enjoy your letters very much. Hope to see you some time.

Jim: Is it not about time you wrote about your fat pigs and pumpkin pies? Looking over some old Corner pages the other day I found your letters. They sounded pretty good. Write some more recipes so I can try them. We all like new dishes and there are some nice ones in the Corner page all right.

Violet: How are you and family? Was glad to read your Corner letter; next best to seeing you. I hear you have a fine picture of you and the new son. Am coming to see you some day if I can get N. G. A. started with me as pilot. Suppose boys are in school again. Saw you and the boys in the city one day. Oh, boy, wasn't it raining! You had two boys with you at Shannon corner and crossed the street toward 5 and 10 cent store. Am I right? Was told it was you. I was in auto with some friends. Rained too hard to stop and introduce myself. Best wishes to all sick and shutins.

OPTIMIST'S QUICK GRAHAM BREAD.

Dear Social Corner: I am sorry I haven't written for so long. However, better late than never. It should be better never late. The words of the song Kingstown Brown asks for can be found in Hilliard's fifth school reader, The Lake of the Dismal Swamp is the title. It is explained why the words were written at the beginning of the piece.

Naomi speaks of a poem, I Remember. I have a book of Hood's poems which contains this poem.

I liked Aries' limericks. I have my serious side of life, but I believe in the old adage, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

I have lived neighbor to Red Cedar this summer but I don't know "who is who."

I will send my recipe for

Quick Graham Bread: Mix together 2 cups graham flour, 1 cup wheat flour, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 heaping teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon lard, a little salt, 2 cups sweet milk.

OPTIMIST.

ENDORSES LINES ABOUT KITTY LOU.

Dear Social Corner: I want to thank Aunt Susie for the lines in the Social Corner in regard to our most worthy Kitty Lou. Not only in the Social Corner, but to the four corners of the city, her cheer is sent out in abundance and I think it nice to let one know it is appreciated.

Have been away three months among the beautiful New Hampshire hills. The scenery this year has been at its best on account of the many rains. With all good wishes,

SOLDIERS OF TODAY.

Dear Social Corner: In reply to A Reader, would state that I am only acquainted with one of the species, therefore it would be extremely unhealthy for me to voice my frank opinion.

C. E. Shaw: Why not give a description of the last battle of the Miantonomas, where only one man escaped? My apologies to C. E., but I really could not help it, it was too funny.

I only wish every member could—probably they do—appreciate the Social Corner as I do.

Every Saturday I visit the post office and receive the mail and Bulletin, and return to Cosy Cottage to spend a pleasant hour with my friends of the Social Corner and feel as though

TWO NORWICH JUDGES DEFAMED AT NEW LONDON BY NORWICH WOMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 7—Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Thomas Lyden are charged by Rear Admiral Brumby of the United States navy with mistreating two sailors. A written complaint was received this morning by the local police department and a hearing will be conducted tomorrow morning.

The sailors are Joseph Katilus and Simms B. Harvey, who claim that the trouble started when they were accused by Patrolman Lyden of throwing cartridges on the hotdog stand of Jack Whiteside at Ocean Beach, and after they were arrested Patrolman Iverson disciplined Katilus. Both of the sailors deny responsibility of throwing the cartridges. The two men were arrested and taken to the police station. When tried the next morning, Katilus pleaded guilty and when asked if he had anything to say for himself he remained silent.

The complaint from Admiral Brumby was received by City Manager Holt and stated that the treatment accorded the sailors was not only an injustice to them but also an insult to the United States navy. Mr. Holt immediately turned the matter over to Capt. of Police Charles A. Pinney, who started an investigation.

PILOT KENNEDY'S LICENSE IS SUSPENDED FOR TEN DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 7—As a result of the hearing of Pilot John E. Kennedy, the first of the week over a charge of carelessness in operating the steamship Concord on the night of July 15, when the vessel collided with a U. S. coast guard destroyer, federal steamboat inspectors order a suspension of his license for ten days. Kennedy received notification of his suspension this afternoon in New York.

ADMIRAL BRUMBY ALLEGES SAILORS MISTREATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 7—Attacking Superior Court Judge Allyn L. Brown and City Court Judge Arthur F. Libby, both of Norwich, in a circular letter that she distributed in New London today, in which she accused the two jurists of being crooked, Mrs. Mariatiresa Molinara, 129 Thames street, Norwich, was arrested on a charge of criminal libel. In default of bail of $5,000 she is being held a prisoner at police headquarters. She will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. Mrs. Molinara's husband is also sought on the same charge, but he has been successful in keeping his whereabouts unknown to the police, although he has communicated with police headquarters by telephone, making inquiries regarding his wife. He promised that he would call at police headquarters and discuss the charge against his wife, but he failed to do so, evidently realizing that he also would be arrested and compelled to stand trial for the same charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Molinara came to New London during the forenoon and had a large number of circulars, with the following wording: "Appeal to the Public. I wish to bring before the general public that in the courts of New London county, state of Connecticut, there is no justice, but only robbery. Judge Allyn L. Brown with the assistance of Judge Arthur F. Libby subtract on me first mortgage papers of $3,800 and the lawyers named below promised me to recapture the same mortgage documents, got money from me, but at the end they had to do what the two judges named above ordered them. The list of names follows: Charles L. Stewart, Norwich; Virtune P. A. Quinn, Norwich; Josiah Greenstein, Norwich; Max Boyer, New London; Arthur T. Keefe, New London; John Palmieri, New York; Anthony Branda, New York, and Pasquale Vlone, Bridgeport. I suffered immensely, they put me in jail together with my husband for the purpose of frightening us, and now they are working to take away from me the last property I own at 129 Thames street, Norwich, Conn. As matters stand, I do not know what to do, so I am sending this appeal to you glorious people of the United States in the hope that somebody will come to help me and clear out all these crooked deals. The law did not exist for me. I was robbed by the same men who had to enforce my rights. In the hope somebody will come out and help me I am now a woman deprived of everything.

"Respectfully,
"Mariatiresa Molinara."

Desk Sergt. William Babcock was at the corner of State and Bank streets about 12:30 o'clock when he was attracted to Mrs. Molinara, who was distributing the circulars among pedestrians. About the same time, Patrolman George Bruhns reported to the sergeant that the woman had given him one of the circulars. The two officers started to locate Mrs. Molinara and going through State street, the officers found Mrs. Molinara near Huntington street, when she was taken into custody. When she was searched the woman had a quantity of the circulars and these were seized as evidence. Molinara, who also had been distributing the circulars, could not be found, he evidently remaining in hiding. Attorney Keefe of this city, one of the lawyers mentioned by Mrs. Molinara as participating in the alleged extortion, immediately upon obtaining knowledge of the acts of Mrs. Molinara, went to Norwich and conferred with Judge Brown on the matter.

Molinara and his wife were implicated in an arson case some time ago and it is the result of their court prosecution that prompted the husband and his wife to circulate the literature they did today. It also developed that Mrs. Molinara had caused a quantity of the circulars to be forwarded to New York for distribution.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Thomas Devlin, 83 Washington street. Devlin, who is a member of the navy, was recently convicted in the police court of driving while under the influence of liquor, being arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy, who was compelled to chase Devlin several blocks on Bank street before overtaking the driver. Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to operate to Harold Smith, 24 Pleasant street.

MRS. SPEIRS APPEALS FOR CITIZENS' VOTES

In an appeal for nomination to the city council, Mrs. Emily C. Speirs declares:

I have no axes to grind politically or otherwise. I believe the women are entitled to have a voice in the council on matters pertaining to the welfare of the city.

If I am elected, I shall resign from the city planning board.

I consider it proper to give expression on matters relative to the welfare of the city. My object is to try and conduct the city affairs conducive to the best interest of the city in a manner to promote its welfare and give my support to procuring new industries and retaining present industries.

Owing to the depressing industrial conditions existing in the city, I would suggest the city curtail any unnecessary improvements to meet the situation.

Equalization in taxation. The city by means of efficient economic and close supervision of expenditures, can be run without the necessity of extra tax levies.

I believe in a restricted municipal auto camp; an attempt to secure property in Winthrop's cove and developing the park or playground area. An entrance should be made to Bates Woods, if nothing more.

I shall always bend my efforts toward those policies which are for the best interest of New London.

It is estimated that from 10 to 100 meteorites flash into our atmosphere from space each day.

MONTVILLE MURDERER COMMITTED TO INSANE HOSPITAL FOR LIFE

Stanley Lesniak, 29, of Montville, was committed, Friday in the criminal superior court, to the Middletown state hospital for the insane, for life. Lesniak was before the court charged with the murder of Gus Lebati, of Montville, last May. Tuesday afternoon a grand jury returned a true bill indicting him on a charge of first degree murder.

In court Friday the jury in the case returned a verdict of not guilty of the murder, on grounds of insanity. On recommendation of State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, Judge Brown ordered Lesniak committed to the insane hospital for life. He was immediately taken to the state hospital at Middletown by deputy sheriffs, the trip being made by automobile.

The trial was a short one, lasting only two hours and the jury had the case under consideration for only 20 minutes. The state called four witnesses and the defense three expert witnesses on mental diseases. Public Defender Charles L. Stewart defended Lesniak's interests. There were two exhibits in the case, the shattered butt of the shot gun used by Lesniak in killing Lebati and a signed confession made by Lesniak.

Jennie Lebati, Montville, sister of the murdered man, was the first witness called to the stand by State's Attorney Brown. She told of trouble between her brother and Lesniak over a fence which separates their farm from Lesniak's farm. Witness told of finding her brother, badly beaten, by the side of the road and of his being taken to a New London hospital, where he died. That was on May 19th last.

The superintendent of the town farm at Montville, Milton Bogue, told of being called to take Lebati to the hospital.

State Police Officer George Webber of the Groton state police barracks, testified to investigating the murder. He made the investigation with Sergt. Henry Albright of the Groton barracks. The state police also told of obtaining the confession from Lesniak. The confession which was obtained at the Groton barracks, follows:

In the year 1923, while I was making a visit to my home in Montville, I had occasion to find a number of cows on our property, and upon making inquiries, I found that they belonged to Gus Lebati, who owns the farm adjoining our farm.

I spoke to Mr. Lebati about his cows being on our property, and told him to keep his cows off our property, but the only thing he would do was to squawk and holler like a guinea hen, and I could not understand what he was talking about.

A short while after this I again met Mr. Lebati, and him and I again had some words.

I did not have anything to say to Mr. Lebati again up until about 2 months ago, and I again called Mr. Lebati's attention to the fact that his cows were again coming on our property and he and I again had a wordy argument, and he told me to mind my own business.

Since that argument I have had occasion to see Mr. Lebati on a number of occasions, and each time he had looked at me with a sneery look, and this made me mad.

And finally I thought that a ——— like that should not live and I decided to kill him.

So at about noon today I took my 30 gauge single barrel shotgun from my bedroom, and took two 20 gauge shells, and started out to the pasture where Mr. Lebati had his cows, this is about one-half mile from my house. Upon entering the pasture of Mr. Lebati, I walked up to a calf in the pasture, and shot it in the head, then I went home, and stayed there about five minutes, then I want again, and got five or six more shells, then I went back to the pasture again and shot another calf and two of Mr. Lebati's oxen, and while I was doing this I thought, that should Mr. Lebati show up at this time, I would knock him off, meaning that I would kill him.

Then I went home and said to myself, "He's next," meaning Mr. Lebati, I will get him as he is getting back from work, as I knew that he would come up the road past my house to go to his home.

So, at about 5:15, I took two more shot shells and my single barrel gun and started down the road for a distance of about one-half mile from the house, and when I arrived at a point in the road where I thought that I could get a good shot at Mr. Lebati from behind a stonewall, but I thought that if I done this I would not see if anyone else was in the truck with him, and I did not want to shoot anyone else.

I then found a place where I knew Mr Lebati would have to drive his truck very slowly, so I hid behind the rock alongside of the road, and waited for Mr. Lebati to come along. I waited about one-half hour it seems, and then I could hear a car coming up the road, I got up from behind the rock and looked down the road to make sure it was Mr. Lebati and I saw it was him. I waited until he got within about 50 feet of where I was hiding then I got up and walked out into the road, and as the truck and Mr. Lebati was passing me, I put the muzzle of the gun into the open door of the cab of the truck and in the direction of Mr. Lebati's head and pulled the trigger of the gun. He, Mr. Lebati, threw up his hands and started to holler, and grew pale. The truck stopped and Mr Lebati got out of the truck and I saw he was bleeding from the mouth, and as I had a single barrel gun, I did not take time to refill it with another shell, so I hit Mr. Lebati over the head with the butt of the gun and when I hit him with the butt, it broke off from the barrel. Then I hit him with the barrel of the gun, then he, Mr. Lebati, fell down, and while he was on the ground I hit him twice more on the head with the barrel of the gun.

Then I started to run away and into the woods alongside of the road, and while I was in the woods I threw the barrel of the gun away and also three shot shells that I had taken with me, and which were in my pocket when I had left the pasture after I had shot a calf and the two oxen.

I went through the woods to my home, and upon entering I took a box of shells from the pantry of the house and took them out into the backyard and hid them in a stonewall. I done this for the same reason that a murderer hides the evidence, meaning that should someone make an investigation, they would not find any evidence that would show that I had shot Mr. Lebati.

I arrived at my house about 6:40 p. m., and washed up, ate my supper, and about 9:20 went to bed. About 10 minutes later I was arrested by Sergt. Albright and Officer Webber, of the state police. While I was sitting in the police car in front of my house I was questioned by the two officers and at this time I admitted that I had done the shooting of Mr. Lebati.

I was then taken to the Lawrence and Memorial hospital in New London, and to the operating room, and there I heard Mr. Lebati say to the officers "That is the man that shot me."

And while at the hospital in front of Mr. Lebati and the presence of the officers, a doctor and two nurses, I said, "That is the man I shot."

I also wish to state that while I was walking down the road to where I was going to shoot Mr. Lebati, I had my shot gun down my pants leg, that is I had taken it apart before leaving my home, and placed it in my pants leg so that no one would see it and then no one would suspect that I had done the shooting.

I have been informed that Mr. Lebati is going to die, and I wish to state at this time, that I am not sorry that I shot him.

The confession was signed by Lesniak and witnessed by Sergt. Albright, Officers Arthur Whitmarsh, Peter B. Busch and George Webber.

Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman of New London testified as to the cause of Lebati's death, due to gunshot wounds and fractures of the skull. At this point the state rested.

The defense introduced three expert witnesses. They were Dr. Whitefield Thompson, superintendent of the Hartford Retreat, an institution for the care of mental diseases; Dr. E. S. Burdsall, superintendent of the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane and Dr. Chester Waterman, assistant superintendent of the Connecticut State hospital at Middletown. All three physicians testified to examining Lesniak at the county jail in New London, August 31st, and that in their opinion Lesniak is insane.

The physicians were secured by the state's attorney to examine Lesniak and were called by the public defender as defense witnesses.

After the evidence had been laid in Judge Brown charged the jury, instructing them that they could return one of the following verdicts: Guilty of murder in the first degree; guilty of murder in the second degree; guilty of manslaughter or not guilty on grounds of insanity.

The jury comprised: Hugh Kinder, foreman, Norwich; John C. F. Vergason, Norwich R. Frank Ayer and Charles Zabriskie, Preston; Edwin M. Gray and William Fogarty, Griswold; James E. Duffy, Albert S. Peckham, Lebanon; Jabez L. Bailey, Bozrah; Lewis L. Starkweather, Franklin; G. Lester Bromley, Lisbon; Birdsey G. Palmer, Voluntown.

The lawn fete Friday afternoon and evening, on the grounds of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, under the auspices of the Young People's C. E. society, was most successful. A large banner faced the chapel lawn and the colors, red and white, representing the senior society, and blue and white banners for the junior C. E. society, formed the decorations. The electric lights were put up by Robert Stott and Herbert Larkham. George F. Hyde was chairman on publicity also conducted the Dew Drop In theatre. To the Housewives of Norwich:

Fifty years ago every home manager used to weave cloth, make soap, and bake the family bread. Nowadays you turn such tasks over to people who make a business of doing these things.

In our modern Laundry the TROY makes a business of Wash Day. We wash more clothes each month than your laundress could wash in a century of scrubbing. What's more the TROY keeps pace with progress. Each season brings new fabrics, new colors, that must be given careful, scientific study to make sure that each receives the washing process best suited to it.

To make certain we are always up-to-date the Laundry Owners National Association has a research Fellowship at the Mellon Institute, and a proving station at the American Institute of Laundering. The TROY belongs to these associations and is the Only laundry in this territory who has this service. This is where they take the theory—the guess and gamble—out of this business.

So it really isn't surprising that clothes washed at the TROY LAUNDRY in this scientific way DO last longer.

Give our service a practical trial this week. Just phone 831 and our driver will call.

85,265 FANS SAW YANKEES WIN DOUBLE-HEADER 5-0, 7-3

The Athletics Failed to Get to Yankee Pitchers—With the Bases Filled in the Eighth Inning of the Second Game Bob Meusel Smashed a Home Run Into the Left Field Seats—For the Mackmen Simmons, With One Man On, Hit For the Circuit in the Sixth Inning—The Crowd Had Razzed the Yankees in the Early Afternoon, But the Players Won Plaudits as the Games Progressed—20,000 Persons Were Waiting For the Gates to Open at 8 A. M.—It Was Necessary to Call Out 300 Police Reserves.

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Murderers are at large in the land again but nothing can be done about it. Just as Cornelius McGillicuddy's drive toward the end of the rainbow was beginning to take definite direction, the unfeeling Yankees brutally assaulted the grand old general and slaughtered his troops.

The massacre took place at the Yankee stadium in full view of 85,265 horrified spectators, of whom 81,622 paid to enter the premises of Jacob Ruppert. This multitude, which had been over-running the lower Bronx since the break of day, was the greatest thong that ever witnessed a baseball game, world series or otherwise, and Edward Grant Barrow, astute guardian of Yankee finances, would have smacked his lips with the same satisfaction even if the champs of the world had not won, 5 to 0 and 7 to 3.

The chief casualties of the long afternoon were the ancient John Pincus Quinn, beaten into an unrecognizable hulk in the opening battle, and Edwin America Rommel, who as the shadows enveloped players and spectators late in the second engagement, ventured once too often to the rescue of a comrade. The vaunted but lately missing hitting strength of the Yankees was turned loose with full force in the very face of Mr. Rommel in the eighth when Bob Meusel smashed a home run into the left field seats with the bases filled.

Meusel's blow brought baseball's greatest crowd back to the side of the champions. The few thousand straw hats which had not already been pitched upon the field sailed from the stands, and tens of thousands of newspapers were torn into small bits and sent showering through the dusk.

Peculiar in their whims, these New York baseball crowds. Starting in by greeting the crestfallen Yanks with a raucous raspberry chorus, the record gathering was won back, bit by bit, to its home team until the high pitch of baseball cheering was reached with Meusel's home run smash.

The Yankees began winning back the favor of the 85,000 by their desperate rally to tie the score with two out in the seventh after Rube Walberg had pitched almost perfect baseball for six full innings. Combs' triple in the first and Koenig's roller to Bishop sent the champions away to a fighting start of one run, which held good until Al Simmons followed Cochrane's sixth-inning single with a home run into Babe Ruth's own bleachers.

After the Mackmen bunched a pass and a hit with a Yankee error in the seventh to score one more run and drive Freddy Heimach to cover, the dean of all the managers seemed headed toward an even break on the day. Walberg had pitched perfect ball excepting only Combs' triple in the first and a harmless base on balls to the same player in the sixth.

The former Giant rookie further had two Yankees out with two on base before the real disaster fell in the seventh. Benny Paschal, pinch batsman for Dugan, poked a single to right, scoring Ruth, and Walberg promptly went up into thin smoke. He passed two more pinch batsmen, Gazella and Collins, to force home the tieing run before Professor Mack called Rommel to halt the march.

Rommel did this with neatness and dispatch, but wilted in the eighth. Koenig singled, Gehrig doubled and Ruth drew an intentional pass to fill the bases and set the stage for Bob Meusel's act.

George William Pipgras, taunted as a "seven-inning" pitcher of late, so beat back the Athletic attack that he faced only one real crisis in the opening game, for all that the ancient Mr Quinn outpitched him by a shade until the Yankees broke through for a cluster of three runs in the sixth.

Pipgras gave the Macks nine hits, but they were scattered through eight different innings. Bishop's single was bunched in the eighth with Pipgras's only two passes, but the Minnesota youth fanned Jimmy Foxx to escape from the hole. The Yankee sweep merchant fooled the Mackmen time and again with a curve—which he is not supposed to possess.

The Yankees went through five anxious innings with the crowd tense and inclined to cheer for the Athletics, before they found the range of

Approximately forty newspaper correspondents will be on the train, three compartment cars having been arranged for them. MISS TRUMBULL AND COOLIDGE HAVE THEIR UNDERSTANDING

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Home from a motor tour of Europe, Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Connecticut governor, told reporters today that reports of her engagement to John Coolidge were "premature," but that "we have our own understanding."

At first Miss Trumbull declined to make any positive statement regarding the president's son. In the course of an interview she said it would be "thrilling" to be married in the white house, but she thought "there wasn't much chance of that."

And just as she left the liner Lapland, Commander Harvey master of the vessel, asked her when the wedding was to be.

"Not before Christmas," Miss Trumbull answered.

John Coolidge did not meet her at the pier as she landed with her cousin Esther Trumbull, three other girls and a chaperone who had accompanied her on a tour of France, Switzerland, Italy, England and Scotland.

Miss Trumbull's mother and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trumbull, her uncle and aunt, were at the pier. The mother and daughter left soon after the ship docked for their home at Plainville, Conn.

MAN KILLED WHILE WALKING RAILROAD TRACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 9—Within one hundred feet of the Mechanicsville bridge, where Albert Annesty and Harry Pickford lost their lives last Sunday morning, another tragedy was brought about when Leander Deotte was struck by the Boston-Hartford express and instantly killed at 1:23 o'clock this afternoon.

Deotte, it is alleged, was walking the track and as the express train rounded the curve the engineer sighted the man, but too late. The engine struck Deotte, threw him on the pilot and cast his body high into the air, landing on the side of the track. The train stopped within a few feet and the train crew rushed back to aid the injured man. They searched about the tracks for a few minutes before they found the body hanging on the edge of the embankment. Deotte's head was severed from his body and every bone had been broken from the impact, railroad officials at Putnam said this afternoon.

Dr. Robert C. Paine medical examiner for the town of Thompson, was summoned to the scene. After making a thorough survey of conditions at the time he gave permission for removal of the body, which was taken in charge by a Putnam undertaker.

Deotte was a former resident of West Thompson and was well known in Putnam and Mechanicsville. He had no home at the time he met his fate, but had been roaming about the country from one city to another. He was walking in the roadbed of the railroad when struck by the train. Members of the train crew said that train warning signals of their approach were sounded several hundred yards east before they rounded the curve when Deotte was tramping.

He was 53 years of age. He had two brothers, Lewis and Mose, living in West Thompson, and another brother residing in Putnam, Henry Deotte, who lives at 28 Church street.

The railroad is free of all blame since the victim had no privilege to use the railroad as a walking path. Evidence was displayed that the engine crew attempted to prevent the casualty, because of the short distance at which the train was brought to a complete stop. An investigation of the accident was made by officers of the railroad and officers of the Danielson state police barracks.

TRUSTIES KILLED WHILE AIDING PRISON WATCHMAN

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 9—(AP)—Two trusties at the Norfolk county jail here were shot to death today when they went to the aid of a night watchman who had surprised a prisoner in an attempt to escape.

The watchman and the two trusties were fighting Stephen Hoppe, notorious jail breaker, when a prison guard fired three shots, killing one almost instantly and mortally wounding the other.

Shortly after 6 o'clock this morning Thomas J. Brennan, the night watchman, coming down a corridor, saw Hoppe leave his cell carrying an iron bar and a revolver.

Brennan attempted to stop him and called for help. Herbert Ring, of Quincy, and William J. Glennon of Plainville, trusties, responded.

The four men were struggling in the hallway when Walter Ridley, a prison guard, came upon them.

He fired three shots from his revolver and Hoppe fired from his. Ring and Glennon, the trusties, fell to the floor. Ring was dead. Brennan, the watchman, was nearly unconscious from the blows from Hoppe's iron bar.

Hoppe gave himself up and was immediately put into solitary confinement.

Glennon was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital where he died soon after with a bullet wound in his head.

Hoppe, who is awaiting trial for the murder of a policeman in Quincy last year, made an attempt to break jail several weeks ago.

A search of Hoppe's cell today revealed a small saw with which he cut his way out.

Hoppe escaped twice from the Vermont state prison at Windsor, Vt., and once from the state prison at Thomaston, Me. He was brought here from Windsor only recently.

Decent Campaigning Advocated By Work

Denounces Scurrilous Attacks That Have Been Made on Presidential Candidates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Chairman Work of the republican national committee in a statement tonight declared that no personal attacks against Governor Smith, the democratic presidential candidate, have been made "either with the sanction or authority or knowledge" of the committee.

The national committee head said that he wished to denounce the "disgusting types of periodical articles and anonymous publications directed against the two presidential candidates." Some of them are "so scurrilous," he added, that he did not wish to show them as an exhibit and "they must disguest any decent American."

"Once and for all," Dr. Work declared, "I denounce all such activities as vicious and beyond the pale of decent campaigning. In saying this I am merely reiterating the policy which I announced at the outset of the campaign."

Chairman Work in his statement charged that the personal attacks had been made against Herbert Hoover, the republican standard bearer, through "letters sent by presumably responsible persons in the opposition under seal of confidence but intended to start a whispering campaign." Some of these, he added, have been broadcast in certain sections of the country "under the protection and privilege of the congressional frank."

"These periodical articles and anonymous materials about the republican false."

DOGMA AS PREACHED BY SIR OLIVER LODGE

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 9—(AP)—The existence of God and of a future life was preached today by Sir Oliver Lodge to members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. With his own beard a snowy white and the majority of his distinguished congregation scarcely less venerable in appearance, Sir Oliver in the humility of his belief, declared that all mankind are yet children in a nursery.

Pounding his fist on the huge golden and black book lying on the rostrum, he declared that "science, with all its great work, has not eliminated the accumulated witness of the ages."

Even space, according to Sir Oliver is "full of the animation of life and matter." He then turned his thought to that subject to which he has devoted his later years and which has, in strong belief, consoled him for the tragic death of his son.

"Real existence is a much wider thing than terrestrial existence," he said. "We are mistaken in believing that life can subsist for material bodies. It can exist, perhaps better with immaterial things. Our senses tell us only about matter and that is why matter only has loomed so large in our minds. Life can exist in the inter-spaces as well as on the planets.

"There are many persons who formerly lived on this planet and who still hover close to us. They retain many of the attributes that they once had here. The dead are not dead, but alive. They have bodies but not of matter; what I may call spiritual bodies. They are clothed, but not with material clothing."

Graham stepped from behind a tree in front of the Baker home today just as Mrs. Graham, in company with Mr and Mrs. Baker, left the house. He fired five shots into his wife and walked away.

Baker, who attempted to pursue Graham, was intercepted by Mrs. Baker. Graham then went to visit friends in this city and remarked: "Well, I have just killed Jessie." His friends did not believe he was in earnest, however, and made no effort to detain him.

The Charlestown police said that Graham admitted having ben a patient in an insane hospital.

FOUR MEN INJURED IN RIOT OF MINERS IN PITTSBURGH

Police Answered Riot Call to Quell Fight Between Factions of the United Mine Workers—Meeting Was Called For the Purpose of Ousting the "Reactionary Machine" of President John L. Lewis and Creating a New Union—22 Arrests Were Made and the Men Held on Charges of Rioting.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—(AP)—Responding to a riot call after a clash between contending factions of the United Mine Workers in which four men were injured, one perhaps fatally, police today disbanded the scheduled meeting of the "National Miners' convention arrangements committee," called for the avowed purpose of ousting the "reactionary machine" of President John L. Lewis and creating a new union.

Twenty-two men, said to represent both sides, were arrested and held on charges of rioting. They will be arraigned tomorrow. Among them was Anthony Minerich, one of the leaders of the arrangements committee, and Freeman Thompson of Springfield, Ill., a former official of the United Mine Workers of America.

Conflicting statements as to which group precipitated the melee were made by Philip Murray, international miners' vice president, and John Watt, chairman of the arrangements committee.

Watt charged an "army" of "paid pickets" was employed by Lewis "to attack us in order to try and prevent us from organizing a real union." He said Lewis "had wrecked his union and "this is the dying kick of the Lewis administration in the United Mine Workers of America."

Watt, once an official of the Illinois Miners union, claimed the "paid pickets" hurled rocks and tin cans at the entrance to Labor Lyceum, where the disturbance occurred, and attacked his followers as they were about to assemble.

Murray said he was informed 268 local unions affiliated with District Number 5, U. M. W. A. elected 106 delegates to attend and demand a hearing at the convention "to impress upon the communists the grave injury they were attempting to do the trade union movement of America, particularly the United Mine Workers of America."

Delegates representing the U. M. W. A., were furnished with a picket badge, Murray said, adding "each U. M. W. A. delegate who attended was instructed by his local union to not only defend the policy of the U. M. W. A., but also to peaceably picket the strike-breaking activities of this communist group between sessions of the convention."

Murray blamed the opposing element for the fracas, saying their number included former coal and iron policemen employed by non-union coal companies in western Pennsylvania. Murray declared his adherents were assaulted with clubs, bricks, bottles and other missiles. "The attack of this communist group upon the U. M. W. A. delegates precipitated a clash between contending factions representing the U. M. W. A.," Murray said.

Still unconscious from blows rained on his head in the fight, Anthony Calamori of Charlerol, Pa., hovered between life and death in a hospital. An X-ray will be made tomorrow to determine whether he received a fractured skull. Others injured included Frank Sepich, Neffs, O., and George Yeager, Detroit, Mich.

Officials of the arrangements committee announced they would carry out their plans to hold the convention probably beginning tomorrow and lasting eight days.

SERIES OF POLITICAL DEBATES TO BE BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Col. John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern division of the Republican Speakers' bureau, announced today that the republican national committee has accepted an invitation to participate in a series of debates with representatives of the democratic party, to be broadcast over station WJZ.

The debates will be held each Friday evening, he said, the first to be given next Friday at 7:30 p. m., on the subject, "Resolved: That the policy of the republican administration toward governmental expenditures has been economical and sound." Republican speakers in support of the affirmative side will be announced later, Colonel Tilson said.

The colonel announced his willingness to debate all of the principal issues of the campaign. Among those which he said had been discussed with a representative of the Democratic Speakers' bureau were the tariff, prosperity, agriculture, labor and unemployment, immigration, education, foreign policy and control of water power.

Among those from whom Colonel Tilson said the republican speakers probably will be drawn were William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture; Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury; Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas and publicity director of the republican national committee; United States Senator Walter Edge of New Jersey, James J. Davis, secretary of labor; Colonel Tilson, Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, United States Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, Representative Franklin W. Fort of New Jersey, and George Wickersham of New York, former United States attorney-general.

THIEVES COMPELLED TO ORDER THEIR OWN ARREST

MANCHESTER, Conn., Sept. 9—(AP)—Two youths, who would turn robbers so that they might ride to their homes in Rhode Island in comfort, were compelled by the threat of a gun to order their own arrest after being caught breaking and entering a gasoline station by the proprietor early today.

Aspirations of riding a train, after having walked and borrowed rides on trucks from New York, rose to a pitch with the cash register staring them in the face but the next minute their hopes dwindled to nothing when confronted by a rifle poked through the front door glass.

Without a possible get-away, they stood their ground and obeyed subsequent orders one of which was to phone the Manchester police to send a detail and ask to be arrested. The distance of two miles was soon covered by two officers who on the way picked up a suspicious character who turned out to be the "lookout," but fled from the imminent danger of arrest.

The three arrested are Mitchel Meiff, 17, Cranston; Howard Oakley, 18, Providence, and Danny Lagreinetti, 19. They told a story of having left Providence last week for New York and after spending all their money began to borrow rides home. They got as far as Hartford early today and were walking into Manchester when they saw the gasoline station, apparently unprotected.

PROSECUTION HAS "BLUE BOOK OF BOOTLEGGERY"

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9— (AP) — The "Blue Book of Bootleggery," containing the names, addresses and telephone numbers of every prominent member of the Philadelphia rum ring, their wives, sweethearts, lawyers and alleged friends in the police department is in the hands of District Attorney John Monaghan, the prosecutor announced tonight.

Mr. Monaghan made the announcement after he had gone over a mass of evidence with Patrick J. McKewen, chief of county detectives, preparatory to the resumption tomorrow of the grand jury investigation of gangsters and their rackets.

The prosecutor said he had found in the little memorandum book a "frank connection between the underworld and police circles."

MORE THAN 25,000 PERSONS IN EUCHARISTIC PROCESSION

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Sept. 9—(AP)—Unparalleled scenes, clothed in the brilliant pomp and pageantry of the Catholic ritual, brought the Eucharistic congress to a close here today. Cardinal Bonaventura Cerretti, papal delegate, as the last act of the spiritual drama which has engrossed the city for a week, gave his blessing to the vast concourse of persons who knelt in front of St. Mary's Cathedral.

The cardinal and his suite boarded the papal barge, a stately white vessel representing Christ's floating tabernacle and bearing the hierarchy and the blessed sacrament, for a six mile procession by water to Sydney. The barge, flying the papal flag, moved slowly along the harbor through an avenue lined by richly decorated craft on which knelt thousands in reverent silence as an elaborate ritual was enacted before the floating altar.

Arriving at the city, Cardinal Cerretti carried the blessed sacrament ashore within a stone's throw of the spot where more than 130 years ago the British flag was unfuried to proclaim the political birth of Australia.

During the procession through the city to the cathedral, the massive canopy above the sacred host was borne by Australian soldiers, each of whom had won the Victoria Cross in the World war, and was flanked by papal knights wearing their glittering orders. The cardinal himself held the chalice containing the sacrament. The smoke of incense curled into the air as white robed girls strewed flowers in the path.

There were more than 25,000 persons in the procession, including brilliantly robed dignitaries, torch bearers and more than 1,000 Children of Mary in blue cloaks and white veils.

During the harbor procession Cardinal Cerretti delivered a benediction on the oceans of the world while five airplanes in the form of a cross flew high overhead. At the cathedral it was estimated that 100,000 persons had gathered for the celebration of the sacrament and the benediction of the cardinal.

PARTY CAUCUSES SLATED FOR WILLIMANTIC TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—A contest for the republican nomination for first selectman of the town of Windham loomed today as the hour approached for the caucuses of both parties which will be held Monday night at the town building. Ernest F. Cheshire, present incumbent is out for re-nomination and James M. Smith appears in the role of contender. Both men have held the office for several years during previous terms. While there has not been any particular booming of a democratic candidate for this office it is understood that Jeremiah Healy of South Windham, now minority member of the board of selectman, is the choice of that party for first selectman. C. Arthur Keeney is now second selectman, representing the republican party.

The democratic caucus will be called to order in the town hall at 8 o'clock by Valentine L. Murphy, town committee chairman and the republican caucus will be convened at 8:15 o'clock in the superior court chambers by Mayor Charles A. Gates. Upon adjournment of the two caucuses the September meeting of the common council will be held. The elections, which are the first biennial in the town, owing to a change effected last year in the town election sequence, fall on Monday, October 1. The terms of office last year were for one year and this year will be for two years in order to conform with the revised phraseology. The principal changes will be in the terms of the board of registrars, board of relief and town school committee, which have heretofore been for three years. For the boards of relief and assessors one member was chosen each year and three members were chosen annually for the school board. The school has been made up of nine members up to last year. New boards will be chosen this year and on the school committee five members conclude their terms and five will be elected October 1. Both parties nominate three of which five are elected. Committeemen's terms who expire are; C. C. Case, H. C. Lathrop, Dr. W. P. S. Keating, Stanley J. Sumner and Charles H. Backus. The board was republican by a large majority last year. There was also republican control in the board of assessors which comprised Chauncey E. Macfarlane, George E. Gifford and Frank G. Smith and in the board of relief, comprising, Lewye G. Gerry, F. Louis Hall and John H. Wilcox. Fenton, democratic, who is again a candidate for town clerk and treasurer, a position he has held for the past 19 years, with the indorsement of both parties at nearly every election. The position of town tax collector is said to be sought by a number although the seekers are not expected to carry the fight with any amount of force at the caucuses. Lester H. Blish, republican incumbent of the office, is out again for the position and it is expected that his nomination by the republican caucus will be without dissention. John M. Brownell, city auditor, and Conrad E. Dubeau are prominently mentioned for the tax collectorship in democratic circles.

OVER 150 PRESENT AT CO. L GET-TOGETHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—About 150 doughboys of ten years ago advanced on Holbrook's Grove off West Main street today for an offensive against barrels of clam-chowder later followed by a full course chicken dinner and pleasantly interrupted with sports and entertainment. The occasion was a reunion of the members of the old Company L, one of the units of the First Connecticut Infantry, C. N. G., that existed previous to the World war and was merged with the Second Connecticut regiment into the 192nd Regiment, Twenty-Sixth Devision during the great conflict. The old Company L boys from Meriden and from several other cities came in numbers to the field. Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the reunion which was declared a real success. Brief talks, serving to stimulate interest here in the American Legion and other organizations affiliated with the service in war and in peace, were given. Several of the remarks were reminiscent of "ten-years ago today" when the infantrymen were banded but under greatly different circumstances. The reunion committee was composed of Thomas A. Shea, Captain James B. Fullerton, Charles A. Reynolds, Joseph J. Grimes, Patrick Haggerty, Elliott R. Mosher, Ezeb Lapan, Fred R. Duprey, Euclide Pimpare, Adolph DeMontigney and Victor Brunelle.

St. Joseph's Parochial school will open for the fall term Monday upon supervision of the city street department, entailing the drainage of an underground ditch beneath the school and in the yard of the adjoining Nurses' home property. This ditch was discovered some weeks ago by workmen seeking the cause of repelling odors in the vicinity of the Holland Manufacturing company east mill on Valley street and St. Mary's church property. Sewage matter had been collecting in the subterranean brook for the past 20 years. The ditch was found to be constructed with stone and was about two feet square, and its original use was apparently to convey discharged dyeing water from the Holland company dye house to the storm sewer at the corner of Jackson and Valley streets. The investigation however disclosed that a sewer line, which ran from the mills and was believed to be connected with the main sewer, merely terminated in the ditch. This fault has been corrected and the trouble was believed ended when sewage began to seep through the walls of St. Joseph's school. Several holes were dug in the school yard and several feet underground the ditch was located. It was found to be clogged with sewage matter. Workmen have been flushing the ditch for the past week to combat this unsanitary and odorous condition.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR PACHAUG GRANGE FAIR

Pachaug Grange fair this year is to have a number of unusual sports. It has been a matter of much curiosity as to the secret activity of a number of married women. They seem to be developing a certain muscular ability, for some reason. Every once in a while they may be seen in a secluded back yard or pasture, wildly swinging their arms, and then some kind of a weapon goes bing against a perfectly innocent tree. That is sometimes it does, and then again it does not. And an astonished cow gets hit, although entirely out of the range of the mark at which the missile was aimed. Anyway, it is no secret that a dozen rolling pins have been donated to the Fair association, and a number of married women are preparing to exercise their skill on a perfectly nice plump man, who is willing to risk his life for a good cause.

The committees for the fair are superintendent of grounds, Harry L. Hull; assistant superintendent, W. C. Tanner; supt. of exhibition buildings, F. L. Kanahan, C. F. Morgan, Mrs. F. C. Whiting, Mrs. W. B. Montgomery and Susie L. Morgan. Cattle, horses and sheep, Supt. Willis Morgan, assistant, C. T. Armstrong; judge, I. O. Burdick; poultry and pigeons, pets, etc., supt., C. F. LEGION MEMBERS HEAR OF A BATTLE IN THE AIR

At the meeting of Richard Morgan post No. 55, American Legion, held Friday evening in the back room of the waiting room, Commander E. Franche was in the chair. The colors were carried in by Sergt-at-Arms Franklin Rathbun. The piano was played by James Campbell. W. Lamphere the commander is making arrangements for a Legionnaire outing at Lantern Hill some Saturday this month, but the matter was tabled until a later date. Treasurer Arthur Berry read his report showing that there is still some money in the tin box. Plans were made for the big fair at Willow Point to be held to secure a building fund. The Legionnaires have no building in which to hold meetings and they would like a place by themselves where dancing can be held.

The next district meeting will be held in Mystic when nine posts and the auxiliary will attend and State Commander Earl Richards will be with the Legion. Fourteen Legionnaires were present. One new member was admitted. After the meeting Ex-army Cook W. Lamphere put on the table hamburg sandwiches and cocoanut cake for the lunch. Clifford Dolson told a war story about when he was with the Jersey City artillery on a battle field of France, seeing a airplane fight in the air. A German plane came down from the clouds and the American plane was below. The man at the wheel did not see the plane. Doing the nose dive and looping the loop were not in it with that battle in the air, each trying to out-guess the other fellow. For 40 minutes they fought, but the American plane won, sending down the black cross plane, all in flames. His talk was interesting and when he had finished he was given a loud cheer. A one-act play was put on, "Scene at the Railroad Station at Hickville." Ticket Agent Dunn was Arthur Berry City Chap Fred Mull was E. Franche; the village belle Miss Irene MacCarthy was Miss Marion McDonald. Her lover, Mike Barr, was Wilfred Lamphere. Irene and Mike had a quarrel over the city chap Mull. The crowd gathered to see the fun and the railroad cop, Till Green (James Campbell) arrested Mike Barr for having the train five minutes late going out of the station after the leap year fight with his girl. The act made a big hit as the curtain was dropped by L. Austin.

Mrs. A. Smith has returned from a short visit in New York.

Miss Mary Murphy, after spending the summer at Groton Long Point has returned to her home in Holyoke, Mass.

HOW A BIG SEA TURTLE SPOILED A SWIMMING RACE

Five Boy Scouts of Troop No. 19 working all summer at different jobs and saving their money have planned for two weeks' camping on an island. Leaving in the power boat Flat Iron from the town dock with Capt. Walter Buddington at the wheel they made Mystic Island, putting up tents and cutting the grass and setting up a cooking tent with Eugene Butson as cook. The rules are put on a bulletin board each morning and Capt. Daniel Roberston is in charge of the gang. A round clam race had several contestants. The winner received a $2.50 gold piece, given by a local merchant. After the scouts had been in the water for two hours the race was stopped. Each counted his clams and it was found that Gordon Clark led with 200; George Patterson came next with 190. A 100-yard swimming match between Roberston and Butson for the championship of the camp was put on. Judge Clifford Phelps saw that the swimmers got a good start as the pistol was fired by Starter Frank Eldredge. The members of the camp were cheering for the best man to win. At 25 feet from the finish line Butson waved his hand that he could not go on, being hurt. Out in a row boat went Life Saver Patterson, to see what was the matter. Butson said "I was bit on the big toe by a sea turtle!" and he showed his toe covered with blood. He was taken to shore and it was found to have a deep cut. He was given first aid by Radio Buddington until it was dressed by a doctor. Butson was mad to lose the race on account of a turtle as he was leading at the time. RAILROAD'S WATER TANK BURST AT YANTIC

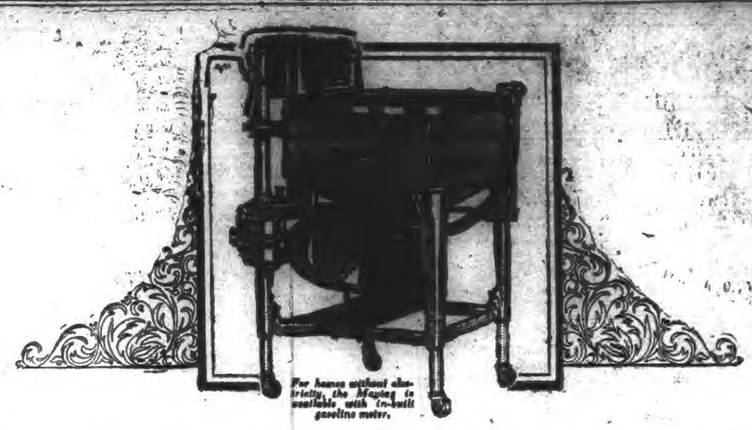
Shortly after noon Saturday a 60,000 gallon water tank at Yantic, owned by the Central Vermont railroad, burst causing a small flood in the immediate vicinity. There was no one near the tank when it gave way. Nearby property was more or less flooded by the water.

Railroad officials investigated and learned that the hoops had evidently rusted and broken. A new tank has been ordered and will soon be erected. The tank is about 35 feet in height, including a 20 foot base. Water for the tank is pumped from the Yantic river.

The tank has been used to supply water for locomotives. The locomotives are now obtaining water from a tank at South Windham. The new tank will cost about $2,500.



For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with 4-cycle gasoline motor.

ONE year ago, I announced the New Maytag as our latest and greatest achievement. Noteworthy refinements and striking improvements, including a new method of soap and water removal, were incorporated in the new washer. It set standards of convenience and washing efficiency that had never been known before.

During the year that has passed, hundreds of thousands of NEW Maytags have been introduced into as many homes, and each time subject to the famous Maytag trial basis: "If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it." Rigorous, exacting washday tests assailed the New Maytag, and it has emerged victorious to a degree exceeding my highest expectations.

A year ago, the New Maytag enjoyed a prestige inherited from Maytags of the past. Today the New Maytag enjoys a prestige in its own right, won by demonstrated performance. It has advanced still farther in its world leadership.

Nurse Fry says

"All Mothers Should Be Told About Sykes Comfort Powder"

Independence, Mo.—"I wish I could tell mothers all over the world about Sykes Comfort Powder. I could write all day of the wonderful results I have had in using it on children. I have proved over and over again it is the only powder that will heal and prevent chafing, scalding, rashes, skin irritations and soreness, and the little baby whose picture I am sending you has always been entirely free from such troubles by its use." — Laura M. Fry, Independence, Mo.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. Mothers and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

DANIELSON

WOODWARD MAY BE NAMED PUBLIC SAFETY MARSHAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 9—It was forecast today that Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department will be appointed marshal of public safety by the warden and court of burgesses. Creation of this office follows the approval of the special borough meeting that considered the draft of the new by-laws in the town hall Saturday evening. The meeting brought out a very good attendance.

Warden Harry E. Back called the meeting to order and then, that he might take the floor, to explain the proposed by-laws as prepared by a special committee appointed at the annual borough meeting last spring, the meeting approved the draft without dissent, and they now await only the formality of their being officially authorized in force by the warden and court of burgesses.

Borough Clerk Frank T. Preston was secretary of the meeting.

The by-laws provide that the marshal of public safety shall receive compensation at the rate of $20 weekly. The office will combine the duties of borough health officer and fire marshall. The incumbent will be required to make regular inspection of the interior and exterior of properties with a view to correcting fire hazards and any menace to the public health.

There is the possibility that the result of the inspections as to fire hazards, and the subsequent abatements of them that will be required, may be a factor in reducing the fire insurance rates in the business section. At least that will be one of the objects striven for, and it is hoped that the effort will be successful.

"ICE BOX" BANDITS CALM ON EVE OF THEIR TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 9—The transfer of Roland Lalone and Albert Raymond, alleged "ice-box" bandits from the county jail at Brooklyn to Willimantic Tuesday, to stand trial for the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks will be made with the utmost precaution by deputies and other officers acting under the direction of Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic.

It was not revealed today whether the prisoners will be taken back and forth between Willimantic and Brooklyn every day of the trial, which may last as long as three weeks. However, it is known, that consideration was given some time ago to holding the prisoners in the police station at Willimantic, under heavy guard, during the course of the trial, an arrangement that would do away with about 30 miles of travel with them daily under heavy guard. It is regarded that some announcement relative to this phase of a most interesting trial will be made Monday or Tuesday.

It was said today that the prisoners, on the eve of an event that might have a fatal ending for them, remain complacent.

A death Saturday in the Jane Brown hospital at Providence was that of Mrs. Lucy Randall Burchard, 39, following a surgical operation preceded by a long period of illness. The body was removed to the home in North Sterling in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Mrs. Burchard, the wife of William W. Burchard, was a native of the town of Foster and was born August 13, 1889. She was a daughter of Edward and Lucy A. Brown Randall, and had lived all of her life in Foster and at North Sterling. Mrs. Burchard is survived by her husband, three sons, Byron, Walter and William, and by her mother.

Saturday morning from the home in Plainfield the funeral of David Hebert, one of the business men of that community was held, with services at St. John's church at 8 o'clock. The officers of the solemn high mass of requiem were Rev. John H. Landry, the pastor, Rev. Ludovic Parzdis of Oka and Rev. Harry Chagnon of All Hallows parish at Moosup. There was a large congregation in attendance at the service. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery at Jewett City. The bearers were Joseph Columbre, Frederick Cardinal, Joseph Laramie, Frank Guertin and John Livesy. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Crowding toward the center of the highway was believed today to have been the cause of a collision near the trolley station at Elmville about 11 o'clock last night between two automobiles, one of them driven by Meddie Jolicoeur of Putnam, the other by Richard Twohie of Norwich. Both machines were considerably damaged in the accident, but no serious injury was reported to the occupants of the machines. A state office took the information pertaining to the accident but no arrests were made.

Chester Pietras of the Horse Hill district of the town appeared in the town court Saturday to answer to charges that he had operated a motorcycle without having it registered and that he was operating without a license to drive. He was fined $1.00 on each count by Judge W. Fenner Wood-

PUTNAM

NO CONTESTS EXPECTED AT REPUBLICAN CAUCUS TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 9—The expected fireworks at the republican town caucus to be held this Monday evening at the municipal building, are reported this afternoon to have petered out, because of the inability of the opponents of Selectman William P. Warren to secure a candidate to oppose him for the nomination, during part of last week several candidate prospects had been approached but each denied accepting the offer of the nomination. Thursday it was announced that Dr. H. W. Thompson of Woodstock avenue had consented to become a candidate but he was in harmony with other men and openly denied that he would take any part in town politics this year.

On Saturday Alderman Eugene Migneault was approached and belief was expressed that he would become an opponent of Selectman Warren's, yet he also denied that he was a candidate and until late this afternoon information of any later prospects was unavailable.

Unless a candidate is obtained on Monday the field will remain clear for the present selectman who will run unopposed.

The rumor that Mrs. Edgar M. Warner, for several years chairman of the town school committee, would not again be a candidate for re-election sent many candidates into the field endeavoring to place themselves on the late for election to the office. Late this afternoon it was learned that Mrs. William Saretski of Grand View, and J. Dyer Potter, treasurer of the Cargill Trust company, have been selected as candidates for the nominations to the school board. In an interview this afternoon with Mrs. Saretski, she confirmed the rumor and announced herself as candidate. She stated that she felt a woman with children in school and also one that is a former teacher in the schools of the city should be qualified for a place on the board. Mrs. Saretski said, if nominated and elected, she would devote her interests to the board in behalf of the younger children registered in school. She was enrolled in the city's student body three small children. She is a graduate of the Willimantic normal school, and has taught school in Putnam. Mr. Potter like Mrs. Saretski is also well qualified for a berth on the board. He is a former member of the Brooklyn town school committee and has an excellent record as an official there. Both will be placed in nomination at the caucus tomorrow evening, to fill the vacancies caused by the death of Attorney Charles L. Torrey and the declination of Mrs. Warner to be a candidate.

The success of the Saretski-Potter ticket was somewhat darkened this afternoon when Mrs. Minnie (Gannon) Macdonald announced that she would be a candidate for a position on the town school board and would oppose the other prospective nominees. In an interview this afternoon Mrs. Macdonald stated that she had been urged by her numerous friends to place herself on a lone ticket for the nomination. She is a native of Putnam, having been educated in the public and high schools of the city. She is a graduate of Bayath university in Springfield and was for ten years a member of the faculty of Putnam high school, serving as head of the commercial department. While in that capacity Mrs. Macdonald established a record that is yet to be equaled. Upon her marriage to Attorney A. Macdonald, Jr., of Putnam, she resigned as a member of the high school faculty, but has held her interest in the education of the American youth. She continued on the educational system of the city, as a substitute and was head of the commercial department of the Putnam night school last year. In political circles this afternoon it was forecast that Mrs. Macdonald's chances for the nomination were equal to those of the other two candidates. There will be no opposition encountered by candidates for other elective town offices, the slate being the same as last year.

Rev. Ernest Boileau, newly appointed curate at St. Mary's church at Putnam officiated at his first mass in the Putnam parish this morning, and his duties as successor to Father Routhier, transferred to Bridgeport where he will be pastor of St. Antnony's parish, will now follow. Father Boileau was highly received by his Putnam parishioners as the 10.30 o'clock mass, at which he was celebrant was largely attended.

Like Father Boileau Father Routhier in Bridgeport said his first mass in that parish today and it is doubtless to say that Father Routhier's new parishioners will be well satisfied with the choice the bishop made, when he appointed the former Putnam curate to take charge of the parish affairs at St. Anthony's church.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 9—"The thrill that comes once in a lifetime" was experienced by a host of local diamond fans and players as well, when they were afforded the chance to shake the hand of the greatest known manager of a baseball team that is now striving to hold the top berth in the American league, Cornelius McGillicuddy more commonly known as "Connie Mack" Saturday evening, while the Philadelphia Athletics were en route to New York from Boston, their special coach, attached to the New York express was delayed at Putnam a few minutes while the train crews were making necessary repairs on one of the coaches. Michael Hanrahan, a former Putnam high school diamond ace, succeeded in his attempt to have Mr. McGillicuddy to come to the station platform. Several Putnam baseball fans grouned around the famous manager Mack discussed the games to be played Sunday afternoon in New York with the world champion Yankees, and informed his Putnam admirers that his team would fight for victory in both games. The first game of the season will be played on Saturday, September 29, when the local boys will contest their strength against Windham high school at Putnam.

An act of vandalism was committed Friday at Putnam high school, when one of the students, with the aid of a small bar of steel inscribed the name of one of the candidates for president of the nation, across the body of the new car of Principal E. A Pontiac coach operated by William Rail of Jewett City crashed into a tree on Brandy Hill in West Thompson Friday evening resulting in the car being seriously damaged. The driver and two young women and another male friend all escaped without any serious injury. An investigation of the accident was made by officers of the Danielson state police barracks.

Two Fords crashed on Main street this morning, a verbal conflict ensued among the owners and a large gathering of Sunday morning worshippers watched the results. The cars were owned by Adelard Jacques and Herman Auger of Putnam. It is alleged that both were attempting to turn about in the street and did not have enough room to complete the turn and the collision resulted. As the event happened directly in front of the Second Congregational church a number of worshippers gathered in the street to watch the outcome. Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police arrived soon after the collision and dispersed the onlookers and ordered the owners to cease firing. The order was obeyed and the volume of words flowing between Jacques and Auger, that had been in full operation for a period of five minutes came to a close and the wreckage was cleared away.

HENRY MILLER GIVEN A CHANCE TO BEAT IT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 9—A special session of Third district court was held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by Judge Oliver H. Williams when, on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Henry Miller, alias William Johnson, alias "Bama," colored, was charged with the theft of copper lining bearing of a freight car and some tie-in copper wire, the propert yof the New Haven railroad. Miller, who claimed a residence in Mississippi and to have traveled with Ringling Bros and Robbins circus, was taken into custody by New Haven railroad police officers, Brown and Peabody, who came to Westerly from New London to investigate the theft of various kinds of railroad material and merchandise in shipment, which had disappeared from about the Westerly station. The accused pleaded not guilty to taking the railroad material, which he said was given him by young boys; he had broken it with a sledge hammer in an endeavor to dispose of it, but unsuccessfully, to Westerly junk dealers. Defendant claims that his only previous arrest had been for intoxication in New London. His case was continued, with the understanding that he leave this section of the country.

Making a special visit to Westerly in the boy's behalf was Dr. Hartwell of Massachusetts Psychopathic hospital, Boston. Let 'er Come!

Storms mean nothing to your house when it has been storm-proofed by the generation-old partners . . . a skilled painter and pure lead paint.

"STRANGE—the feeling of safety that paint gives you about your house," said an owner recently. "After my painter finished his job, I felt like saying to the weather, 'You can't harm this house!'"

Every property-owner can enjoy that same feeling of security by employing a skilled painter and pure lead paint. No new partnership—this, but one that has existed for generations. It is carried on today by master painters who use Dutch Boy white-lead—the basis of pure lead paint . . . tough, durable, weather-proof.

Low in cost, too

Pure lead paint is not high in price. It costs no more per gallon than any paint worthy of the name. And in final cost, it is exceedingly economical because of its great durability.

To get a superior gloss paint for the exterior of your house the skilled painter mixes Dutch Boy white-lead and linseed oil. For a flat paint on interior walls and ceilings and woodwork, he mixes Dutch Boy white-lead and Dutch Boy flatting oil. Both can be tinted to the exact colors you desire.

Dutch Boy white-lead, in either heavy paste or soft paste form, is sold by leading paint dealers.

A house-owner's booklet

Write to our nearest office for the free booklet, "The House We Live In." It contains valuable painting data . . . tells how to select colors for exteriors and interiors.

This trademark, a guarantee of high quality, is on all Dutch Boy products—white-lead, red-lead, linseed oil, flatting oil, solder and babbit metal. It is the trademark of National Lead Company which manufactures lead products for the many uses for which lead is especially fitted in art, industry and daily life.

WHITE-LEAD in NEW FORM

Dutch Boy soft paste white-lead, a new product, thins to brushing consistency at the rate of a gallon of paint a minute. It is wonderfully easy to use. Painters and other paint buyers: See your dealer about this remarkable product.

MAINE BALLOTS TODAY

It is an old claim that as Maine goes so goes the nation, politically and yet under average conditions Maine is a good barometer.

The voters of Maine go to the polls today for their state election, and it is this early election in that state which causes so much attention to be given to it. It is so much better than a straw vote that there is no comparison.

Maine is a republican state and there is no question but what Maine will remain prominently in that column both in today's election and the national election next November, but the aim today will be to see how big a majority can be piled up for the republican candidates. It is a state where a strenuous campaign has been waged by both sides. The republicans are bent upon getting out a big vote and therefore piling up a big majority, while the democrats are determined to see how good a showing they can make and keep down the republican majority. That is about all they can expect.

During the campaign it has been made evident that there are many of the democratic voters and some of them have been decidedly prominent in the party, who are not only going to vote the republican ticket but who have been putting forth valiant efforts in its behalf. That there will be some to partly offset their defection is to be expected but Maine is on its toes and today's election results are going to be watched throughout the country.

Although the outcome is regarded as a foregone conclusion both parties have had their eyes upon the majority and each is going to derive satisfaction out of it, the republicans if it reaches or passes the 50,000 mark and the democrats if it is kept to 35,000 or so, the figure of four years ago.

Maine this year should elect not only a republican United States senator and state ticket but send to Washington four members of the house of representatives. The certainty of this by big majorities is generally conceded, the hardest fight being, possibly, in the second district where a young lawyer has made an unusually hard campaign for the seat of a congressman seeking his seventh term.

UNCLAIMED BANK DEPOSITS

Savings banks, as a rule, ask that deposit books be written up at least once every five years. This is for the purpose of keeping in touch with the depositor and preventing the account from becoming dormant.

It doesn't always succeed as is witnessed every year by the advertised list of accounts which have not been increased or decreased in 20 years. Some of these run to sizeable amounts although the longer they are allowed to remain unclaimed the more difficult it becomes to establish ownership, especially if the person to whom the book was originally issued has passed away.

This situation is called to mind by the efforts which have been made by a Baltimore bank to locate the owner of an account which was opened more than 20 years ago. Since this book was issued the owner has not been back to the bank. The original deposit has not been increased by further deposits but because of the interest that has been accumulated it now amounts to more than $5,000.

Even in these days of big money, the sum of $5,000 is not to be sneezed at. It could be used in many ways by many people. No doubt the owner could find some way to employ it but despite the persistent efforts it has made it has not been able to locate the woman depositor. It is not known whether she is dead or alive. It is not known whether she has any descendants. It is a case where the amount would be a sufficient reason for a person to be interested in establishing a claim for the money. No one knows just what has happened and yet it occurs in too many instances that it is impossible to locate the owners of bankbooks and securities.

The reason for such cases lies in sickness, death or carelessness, and without doubt the failure to put bankbooks, securities and other valuables in safe places where they cannot be destroyed, stolen or forgotten is the chief trouble. Fortunately there are not many instances where the unclaimed deposits total such a large sum as that at Baltimore but large or small, fewer accounts of that kind should exist.

"ONLY TENTATIVE"

Apparently the remonstrance that has been made in England against the secret treaty between Great Britain and France has had its effect. There is no question but what it has disturbed some of the leaders. The demand for more publicity concerning it has been strong and persistent. The more the effort to ignore it, the greater the cry for disclosure. Nothing of late has caused so much feeling and thrown so much distrust upon the government.

Indications that the remonstrants are getting some attention is evidenced by the reports that the pact is to be scrapped, even though an official denial has been issued that the accord is to be abandoned. A new admission comes from government circles, however, when it is declared that the pact is only tentative and that because it may not meet with the approval of some of the other nations some other form of understanding between the British and French may be necessary.

Reference is made in London to the fact that there is a hostile American sentiment to the pact. This may develop after the terms of the treaty are put forth for study but up to the present the greatest uncertainty appears to prevail among the British themselves. They see themselves in for something about which they are able to learn little or nothing. They give recognition to the fact, from such statements as have been made about the pact, that it will not be surprising if it doesn't create opposition in this country and they do not believe it a wise thing to do.

Thus while denials are made concerning the reports that the treaty is to be abandoned, emphasis is being placed upon the claim that the pact is only tentative and may have to be given up because of the attitude of other than the countries directly interested. All of this can easily be preparation for the actual abandonment which has been reported, and denied but which may be the ultimate outcome through the combination of home and foreign criticism. At any rate, the feeling in regard to secret treaties is being interestingly presented.

FOOLING THE FARMERS?

Perhaps it doesn't make any difference to Candidate Smith and the chairman he has chosen to run his campaign as to whether they agree on the former's attitude concerning the equalization fee, but until they clear up the opposite statements which they make concerning that point it isn't going to be very helpful to the farmers who are particularly interested.

Some weeks ago Chairman Raskob declared he could find nothing uneconomic about the equalization fee. Almost directly thereafter Mr. Smith was reported as declaring his opposition to such a fee. No correction was made of such a report. He even explained his attitude toward the equalization fee principle by reading an editorial from the New York World which he declared expressed his views and that says, "the plan for applying this principle contained in the McNary-Haugen bill is not acceptable" and that "he has no plan of his own for carrying out that principle."

That would indicate an expression by the candidate which would stand until he changed his mind. Yet when Chairman Raskob was asked by some of the farmers on his trip into the middle west concerning the Smith attitude toward agriculture he told those tillers of the soil what they interpreted to mean that he had not rejected the equalization fee.

That looked so much like telling the voters of the farm region one thing and the voters of the east another that the candidate was asked to explain, but his only answer was to refer them to his acceptance speech which does not endorse the equalization fee.

As the result of such a difference in claims between a candidate and the chairman of his campaign there's mighty small chance for the farmers wedded to the equalization fee to get any consolation.

CANADA AND ITS IMMIGRANTS

Attention is bound to be attracted by the statements that the unemployed who have been brought from England into Canada to work on the farms or in the harvest fields are expressing dissatisfaction with their pay and their treatment.

These claims about unjust treatment will have to undergo an investigation and judgment be passed in accord with the facts.

It is to be expected that the big majority of those people, mill employes or miners at home, faced decidedly different conditions in Canada than they did in England. They faced unemployment at home for an indefinite period but they faced a job in Canada for perhaps as indefinite a period, but between unemployment and work they made a decision to try out the latter. Such work as they found was bound to be different. Methods of doing it are different than followed at home. They are different in many instances than in this country, but there is need for determining whether it was this difficulty in applying themselves to new surroundings, or actual mistreatment as the reports would lead one to infer. It will have to be found out whether it was the temperament and actions of the immigrants or the demands of the new employers that were at fault. Possibly there was a little of both, all of which could be eliminated with the right kind of efforts.

The investigations which have been started make it evident that Canada understands that it cannot hope to attract more settlers if the wrong idea is carried to those it would like to interest. When the real facts have been established and all exaggerations removed there will be a better understanding of the situation and a better knowledge of how to handle such situations in the future.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is too early to start using the fuel which has been stored up for next winter.

Hay fever sufferers are looking forward to the frosts, but not so the politicians.

The man on the corner says: Make the most of the last week of the straw hat season.

Is your favorite ball team holding the position you expected it to at this season of the year?

In calling for the closing up of Philadelphia Mayor Mackey didn't solicit the aid of General Smedley D. Butler.

Those who delight in wearing a straw hat have only a few days left before the season is officially closed.

Eleven deaths on Connecticut highways in three days is too much. At that rate there would be 1329 fatalities on the state's roads in a year.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Never handle an electric fan when the current is on.

Write your name and address inside new gloves and rubbers.

Remove stains on white silk by soaking in gasoline and then rubbing with lump magnesia.

Diluted hydrochloric acid or vinegar will remove stains from marble. Rinse with cold water.

If a child puts a bean up his nose a little pepper placed on his upper lip will cause him to sneeze it out.

When ink is spilled on a linen table cloth plunge the spot in boiling milk at once and the stain will disappear.

Undressed kid may be thoroughly cleaned by rubbing lightly with sandpaper.

A hot water bottle may be used for an icepack, if the ice is chopped very fine.

Rubbing with a crust of bread moistened in vinegar will remove fruit stains from the hands.

Unbleached muslin dyes beautifully and is a good material for drapes and bed set for the colonial bedroom.

Place a salt shaker filled with polish powder on the kitchen shelf and it will be easy to keep the silver bright.

Your soap bills will be less if you dissolve all left-over pieces in a little hot water, converting them into a jelly.

Rich desserts are easiest to freeze in molds.

Use cornflakes as you would oat meal for cookies.

In making apple pies add a few raisins and see how the flavor is improved.

If, when baking juicy pies, the juice boils out into the oven, sprinkle salt over the spilled juice, and it will not burn or cause a disagreeable odor in the house.

Do not use powder to clean rough or chased brass. Wash the article in soap and water, dry and then rub over the surface with a freshly cut lemon. Rinse, and rub dry with chamois.

Save your celery leaves, dry them in a paper bag and mix with an equal quantity of salt. This is an excellent flavoring for soups and stews, and economical.

COLD PLATE GOOD IN WARM EATHER

Cold plates make excellent luncheon or dinner main courses on warm days. Something hot to drink makes the meal more acceptable to some persons. If you like, you can introduce the cold plate with a cup or plate of clear soup.

The cold plate might contain a deviled egg, sliced tomatoes on lettuce with mayonnaise, a mound of coleslaw and some potato salad. Or a mould of jellied vegetable salad on lettuce with mayonnaise, a pile of sliced cucumbers and tomatoes, and a slice of cold meat, with some potato chips. Or jellied canned salmon, sliced cucumbers, potato salad and pickled beets. Or a mold of rice mixed with chopped onion, red pepper and green pepper, watercress, sardines and a mixed vegetable salad.

SHELVING DE LUXE

Some women use them upon the shelves of cupboards and closets, others upon pantry shelves, but whatever the use, they are most charming these edged of glazed chintz, with the scallops outlined with two rows of blue linen, fagotted together.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

To remove fruit stains from the hands rub them with salt moistened with vinegar.

Cantaloupes or melons of any kind are the best possible foods to counteract an acid condition. One of their big advantages is that they are so delicious in flavor and so easy to eat that they can be very readily included in large amounts in the diet.

A few freckles on your hands and neck over the summer months would not detract any from your appearance. For the larger freckles try baking soda dampened so you can make it adhere to the skin for a half hour or more and rub a piece of cut cucumber over the rest of the places that need bleaching.

In the warm weather it is well to very carefully consider your diet and not to over-draw your health at the Bank of Good Health. Indiscretions in eating such as eating too much chilled food, over-exercising, over-eating or excesses of any kind reduce the balance rapidly and sooner or later lead to serious trouble. It is important, of course, to be careful of your health habits at all times of the year, but the hot weather puts an added strain on many people which makes it necessary for them to be even more cautious.

A CURE FOR FOOT WEARINESS

Walking becomes a pleasure rather than merely a means of getting somewhere, provided, of course, that our feet are kept in perfect condition. The first essential in the proper care of the feet is rigid cleanliness. Perspiration and dust cause offensive odors and often result in skin abrasions and blisters as well.

A cool or tepid foot bath after a long walk will make you feel fresh enough to want to start all over again. It will allay any sensation of burning and will stimulate and harden the skin.

Scrub the feet briskly with a stiff nail brush, using plenty of soap to efface all traces of dirt. This treatment will remove any dead cuticle and will cleanse the pores thoroughly. It will help keep the feet in a vigorous, healthy condition. After rinsing the feet in clear cold water, dry thoroughly. Dust the entire surface with talcum or foot powder, sifting a greater amount in between the toes.

SHOWER SUGGESTIONS

Perhaps you've wondered whether there was some new way to present a modern kitchen shower for the smart bride-to-be. A clever new idea utilizes a vegetable binet for the utensils, and dolls made of knives forks and spoons dressed up ornament the shelves.

MAYONNAISE

Variations of mayonnaise make salads seem new. One of the simplest is by the addition to tomato catsup or chili sauce and a little lemon juice to plain mayonnaise. This "Russian dressing" gives an attractive red color to plain lettuce or any crisp salad. "Thousands Island dressing" is a mayonnaise to which small pieces of highly flavored materials such as hard-cooked eggs, pickle, olives, celery, green peppers, pimientos, capers, and onions, have been added. For fruit salad the mayonnaise may be mixed with whipped cream and a little extra sugar and salt.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Small pouch bags to carry with one's winter clothes are new and chic, if they are covered with printed velvet.

English-red is the latest summer shade. It makes colorful slippers for soft lace dresses, accessories for sports and prints for afternoon.

Most original are new evening frocks of brilliant red lace. Some are trimmed with a few rhinestones, others are quite simple in line and cut.

A navy blue moire frock has a split cape back and three rear skirt pleats, illustrative of the new back fullness inspired by styles of the seventies.

A night gown that is sure to be becoming to the very slender woman has a chemisette effect and turn-back collar of string color lace. The gown is sleeveless.

A delightful new pajama suit is made of rose colored glove silk, with triangular appliques of velvet of the same shade. This coat is of the same transparent velvet, untrimmed.

The printed coat over plain material in the frocks is one of Paris' interpretations of the mode. Black shadowed chrysanthemums on white background makes the coat of one white frock.

The smartest and most practical tennis frocks of the season are made of colored pique, and of course are sleeveless. A most attractive one seen recently was developed in flesh color.

No young lady of seven or so would feet that life is quite complete unless she has one of the new smocked frocks. The simplicity of these frocks makes them equally at home at school, in dark colors, or at parties in pastel tones.

A very chic and new combination consists of a black satin frock, which has a wide pleated frill of deep beige chiffon that encircles the neck and then ends in a deep surplice line at the belt. The cuffs are of the chiffon also.

ORGANDY FROCKS

A shop that makes a specialty of beautiful cotton materials is showing attractive models made of flowing organdy. The waists are round-necked and sleeveless and bound with color, while the full skirts are finished at the belt with a wide sash.

PRINTED VELVET.

Some of the most delightful frocks for fall wear are made of brown velvet printed with a small circular motif in cream color. One model has a pleated skirt and a touch of string color lace at the wrists. It is a most becoming model to the average figure.

GREEN AND SILVER.

A delightful lounging robe consists of green satin pajamas and waistcoat, over which is worn a coat of green chiffon trimmed with large ovals of silver lace from which the chiffon is cut away. Another robe of the same type is in pink and silver.

SILVER PORRINGER.

Happy is the child whose evening meal is served in a silver porringer with small trees and "quack quacks" etched in color upon the surface. There are also a silver plate and cup of the same design.

INDIVIDUAL POWDER PUFFS.

A gay paper box of back, with a floral motif, is filled with small balls of cotton, all tied up daintily in a wide violet gauze ribbon ending in a huge bow.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

When stitching with silk fit a small piece of felt on the spindle under the spool, to keep the silk from unwinding too rapidly, tightening or breaking.

In making a cushion, a thick sheet of wadding tacked over it before the outside cover is put on will improve its appearance.

A huge bag made of dark raffia, with a gay border, worked in many colors, is just the thing to hold one's tapestry or knitting, or in fact any and all kinds of needlework.

The sewing machine should be cleaned thoroughly for sewing. Soak bearings in kerosene, wipe carefully, replace and oil the machine perfectly. Let stand a day, then wipe off and stitch out the oil.

LEFT-OVER YARNS VARIOUSLY USED

Wherever there is knitting going on there are bound to be left-over bits of yarn. Often you can get quite a collection of these left-over bits of yarn merely for the asking.

The old-fashioned way to dispose of these bits of yarn was to make them into crazy-quilt afghans. Usually these afghans were crocheted into squares, each one using three or four different colors.

Now left-over yarns may be found very useful in making woolen embroidery for frocks, which is still in favor among designers. Woolen flowers are not difficult to make, and are always attractive.

Often little bits of yarn may be made use of in making scarfs for scarfs are very much in demand and they show a variety of colors. Children delight in skating scarfs or mufflers, made of a medley of different colored yarns.

One woman who had a good supply of gay yarns on hand made them into dolls' sweaters which she presented to the doll table at a charity bazaar, and there they were sold to good advantage without difficulty.

Women who learned to make soldiers' socks during the war have often turned their knowledge to account in knitting winter socks for their children. These usually have cuffs at the top that turn down just beneath the knee, and often in plain socks these cuffs are decorated with stripes of some bright colored yarn.

USE ONLY GOOD BUTTER

A good many persons who used butter substitutes for the table during the enforced economy of the war have now gone back to butter, but still use substitutes in cake making. This is a good idea. It is actually easier to make cakes with some of the substitutes, and it is quite beyond the powers of most tongues to detect the difference between butter cakes and cakes made with butter substitutes.

At any rate, what housewives used to call "cooking butter" is something of the past, and this is fortunate, because an inferior grade of butter is not to be compared with a good grade of substitute.

SMOOTH BEDSPREADS.

To keep bedspreads from wrinkling during the night, beginning at the top of the spread, fold it first in halves to the middle of the bed, then fold in quarters over the foot of the bed.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

In Germany, the number of ballots cast by women was 1,310,011, against 1,171,127 cast by the men.

Senorita Zoila Sota, recently appointed a judge at Matanzas, Cuba, is the first of her sex in that country to hold a national office.

Mrs. J. Livingstone Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, has returned from a trip abroad, where she toured 9,000 miles by airplane. She is past 67 years of age.

Mrs. James W. Heustis of Hollywood, Cal., has been elected national president of the American Pen Women.

RECIPES

Asparagus-Spaghetti: Cook one and one-half cups of spaghetti thoroughly in salted boiling water after breaking in small pieces, then drain. Cook two cups of asparagus for 10 minutes in boiling water after breaking into one-inch pieces. Prepare a sauce of two tablespoons of flour, two tablespoons of butter, one cup of rich milk or cream and one cup of asparagus water, then add half a teaspoon of salt and three or four drops of tobasco sauce. Grease a casserole and put in a layer of the cooked spaghetti and then one of asparagus. Cover with the cream sauce and continue until all the ingredients are used. Cover the top with half a cupful of finely buttered bread crumbs. Bake in an oven until the crumbs are golden brown.

Clam Chowder: Remove one quart of shucked clams from the liquor and strain the liquor through cheese-cloth or a very fine wire strainer to remove any small pieces of shell. Crisp two slices of bacon, cut in small pieces, or an equal quantity of salt pork, then remove it from the fat. If salt pork is used, cut it into dice before frying. Cook one medium-sized onion, cut in small pieces, in the meat fat until yellow, then add two tablespoons of flour, and two small diced potatoes. Pour most of the clam liquor into the pan slowly and cook until thickened. Cook the clams below the boiling point in the remainder of the liquor for two or three minutes, then place the clams through the fine knife of the meat grinder, taking care to catch the juice which is pressed from them while grinding. Add one pint of milk to the thickened clam juice, half a teaspoon of salt, the bacon or salt pork, the ground clams and the remainder of the juice, and a few drops of tabasco. Bring to the boiling point. Sprinkle finely chopped parsley over the top and serve over crackers.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—The "Little Old Red School House" of the song has nothing on Washington when it comes to flying the Stars and Stripes.

Aside from its glorious trees, crisscrossing the city with green in summer as seen from any high place like the Washington monument tourist observation tower, the most notable prospect of the capital is the wealth of streaming bunting waving above the government buildings. The flag is in sight wherever you look between sunrise and sunset. Every government owned or occupied structure, however big or small, from the massive bulk of the capitol itself, standing in aloof majesty on its gardened hill, to the least of the rented buildings where a corps of government clerks toil has at least one showing and the big departments two or more. Rain or shine, they are always there—except once in a very long while.

What! No Flags!

One of the exceptions came just recently. It involved the huge state, war, navy building, as it is still known, although inhabited nowadays only by the state and war departments, and the navy having moved out to a "semi-permanent" factory-like structure on the Mall in crowded war days. It's a mighty building, standing four-square in sunken gardens and of the same architecture on each of its four street facings. It flies four flags, one in the center of each front, fluttering above the peaked jumble of the roof. This day it flew none.

Sharp eyes in the taller business structures, away across Lafayette square in the business heart of the city, are accustomed to those fluttering flags. They give quick notice to the world of mourning when they drop to half-staff at the death or some important figure in public life. And Captain Sherboy Hopkins, who knows his Washington from years of contacts as legal adviser to scores of Latin-American governments, near governments and just plain ordinary revolutionists, was quick to notice that the emblems of freedom were missing.

"What's the matter up there?" he demanded over the telephone. "There's not a flag flying on the building. Is everybody dead?"

The answer was simple. The flag poles were being painted, that was all; but it only happens once in half a decade or so and a lot more folks than the captain were worried and inquired.

Time Ball Still Drops.

One of the poles, on the east front facing the White house, still carries the time ball, dropped at noon on electric contact from the Naval observatory, America's only official correct time factory. Time was when the streets from which the ball was visible became congested with folks, watch in hand, just before noon daily, all waiting to check up on and correct the pocket time-pieces. But that day is long past with electric clocks banging out observatory time everywhere and the radio distributing this essential government product free, tick by tick, every day and night. Nobody watches the time ball any more, although it drops every day.

Coming back to the flags, there are just two of Washington official color showings that have special significance. Those are the flags above the White house itself and on the house and senate chambers. The White house flies the national colors only when the president is in residence. It is missing all summer when he's away vacationing. The senate and house flags fly only when the two bodies are in session. At other times only the flags in the center of the east and west fronts, under shadow of the dome, are displayed.

"Talks On Electric Service"

New Residential Lighting Rates

Your Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners are glad to announce to the residential users of electricity served from the Department distribution system a new schedule for this class of service.

Rate Form

This Form of Rate has been in use for the past six years by many of the utility companies in Connecticut and elsewhere. It was adopted by this Commission after a very careful study by competent rate engineers employed to investigate service conditions, and it is our belief that this new rate will not only effect a reduction in the cost of electric service to a large majority of the consumers in Norwich, but will permit additional use of service for better lighting, for the many home labor-saving devices, for electric refrigeration and cooking at a much lower cost than at present.

Combination Rate

The new rate is a combination of 3 cent energy rate with an initial charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours or less. The low energy rate will make it possible to use electricity much more liberally in the home at a very much lower additional cost than is possible under the old rate form. The initial charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours provides for that part of the cost of service involved in the department's investment in power plant, distribution lines and other facilities which are installed and kept in operation to supply electric service twenty-four hours a day, at the touch of a switch. Since these costs are fixed in amount and do not vary with the amount of electric energy taken through the meter, the initial charge is based upon the number of rooms in each customer's house or apartment. It has been found from years of experience that the size of the house bears a distinct relation to the amount of equipment that the Department must install and keep in readiness to serve each home, and it has proved to be the best of several plans that have been tried throughout the country.

RATE "A" GENERAL SERVICE

Available to all customers served over retail distribution lines, for lighting, heating, cooking, refrigeration and general purposes.

RATE

3 cents per kilowatt hour with a charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours used each month according to the following table:

RESIDENCE LIGHTING SERVICE

For each additional room ..... .10

ELECTRIC RANGE SERVICE

No increase in the charge for the first five kilowatt-hours will be made for range capacity up to six kilovolt-amperes. Above six kilovolt-amperes, the charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours will be increased by $1.00 per kilovolt-ampere, unless the range can be operated through a current limit switch, in which case, the charge for additional capacity may be waived.

POWER SERVICE (Residential)

Refrigerators and Small Household Motors.

The charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours will be increased 50c for the first ½ kilovolt-ampere or fraction thereof; $1.00 for the first ½ kilovolt-ampere; $1.50 for the first ¾ kilovolt-ampere; and $2.00 for the first 1 kilovolt-ampere of motor capacity connected, plus $1.00 for each additional kilovolt-ampere. The kilovolt-amperes shall be determined by the name plate readings of the motors or by indicating instruments. Washing machines, vacuum cleaners and small hand used motor driven appliances are excluded under this classification.

WATER HEATER SERVICE

A credit of 1c per kilowatt-hour shall be allowed on all energy used for water heating purposes, provided same is served thru a double throw switch or current limiting device. This credit shall be determined by a sub meter on the water heating circuit.

DETERMINATION OF ACTIVE ROOMS

LARGE BARN ON THE OLD McCLIMON FARM BURNED; CATTLE WERE SAVED

A large barn with contents and a silo on the old McClimon farm located about two miles from the city limits on the Preston City road were completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin Sunday evening. In the barn were 90 tons of hay, about a ton of grain, milking machines, a brand-new manure spreader and other farming implements The property is owned by Gustave Sonnenburg, who purchased it about a year ago from the McClimon estate. The loss is said to be about $10,000, with very little insurance on the buildings. The barn was electrically lighted.

The house, which is situated on the other side of the highway, was saved by a bucket brigade of men who had been attracted to the scene. Two large elm trees situated in front of the house and the energetic efforts of the erst-while firemen were the two main reasons for the saving of the house. The brigade, in the face of numerous sparks, wetted down the roof and sides of the house and sparks falling on the building were immediately extinguished by means of wet bags. A bull and a cow, which had been left in the barn after the other animals were turned out to pasture, were gotten out safely and were found wandering in the road.

The barn, a two-story frame affair, had not been visited by any member of the family since 6:30 o'clock, when it was closed for the evening after the cows had been milked and turned out to pasture. There were 28 head of cattle in the barn at milking time. One hundred and sixty quarts of milk was left in the building and was destroyed. The fire was discovered about 9:30 by Mr. Sonnenburg's daughter, Herta, who was sitting in the parlor at the time. A call was immediately sent into the Greeneville fire station, which in turn notified the central fire station and Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich fire department. None of the city apparatus responded as Chief Stanton said: "There was no water and it would be the height of folly to send any apparatus."

The barn was soon a roaring furnace, the flames licking their way to all parts of it with great rapidity. The blaze illuminated the sky for miles and in a short time the highway was cluttered with machines on the way to the farm. On both sides of the highway for several miles south of the burning building machines were parked, every available parking space being taken. The reflection in the sky could be plainly seen for over two hours after the fire was discovered and during that time the house was always in danger.

SUSPECT BOYS SMOKING SET PAROCHIAL SCHOOL AFIRE

Prompt discovery and quick action on the part of the Norwich fire department prevented what might have been a disastrous fire at St. Patrick's parochial school about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. As it was, the damage was serious enough to cause the announcement to be made at the last mass that the school would not be reopened until Wednesday morning.

At 10.05 o'clock a telephone call was received at central fire headquarters to the effect that there was a fire in the school building. Squad A, Engine No. 1 and Engine No. 3 were despatched to the scene and six gallons of chemical were used on the blaze.

The fire was in a room on the second floor of the school and was confined to a desk and a school chart. The firemen carried the blazing chart and desk outside the school building. Just how the fire started is not known, but it is though to have been caused by two or three boys who were seen entering the building shortly before the blaze was discovered. It is surmised that the boys were smoking in the room and that a carelessly thrown cigarette or match started the fire.

The chart was destroyed with the exception of the frame which was badly charred. The desk was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived and was also badly damaged. The room in which the fire occurred is not used as a class room but the children, who carry lunches have been in the habit of eating their lunches there. There was no fire in the furnace and there is no electric wiring that might have caused a short circuit. The frame of a blackboard was somewhat charred and the room was filled with dense smoke. Outside of the burned chart and desk the damage was slight.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE WARNS AGAINST SOLICITORS

That Connecticut is being deluged by an army of solicitors for various philanthropic and commercial schemes is evidenced by the larger number of reports coming to the attention of the Connecticut state chamber and by the action of the Connecticut state chamber in editing a bulletin daily keeping the secretaries of various chambers posted. Every sort of a schemes from soliciting advs for bulletins and magazines to securing subscriptions to magazines and subscriptions to funds designed to be for disabled war vets, erans, peddlers of lighting fixtures and lamps, selling tickets over the telephone for the benefit of a local charity, soliciting funds for textile strikers in Massachusetts a solicitor who is dealing particularly with doctors in soliciting accounts for collection and a multitude of others.

The police in most every city are cooperating with the chambers of commerce to rid the state of these fake solicitors and peddlers.

Local merchants are pretty well posted on the fact that no subscription should be made unless the solicitor has had the approval of the chamber of commerce solicitations committee. Of course, there are several local organizations which solicit funds each year that have the blanket approval of the solicitations committee, such as the Y. M. C. A., Salvation army, Red Cross, etc. In addition, however, one approval card was given out this year and that went to the W. W. Backus hospital for their campaign for funds for the X-ray department.

The chamber office has on file "Applications for Certificates to Solicit for Philanthropic Purposes" issued by the state of Connecticut for use by deserving organizations wishing a permit. The law of the state, section 6443 says:

"No person shall solicit money, services, subscriptions or any valuable thing for any alleged religious, charitable or philanthropic cause, from other than a member of the organization for whose benefit such person is soliciting or within the county in which such person or organization is located unless such cause shall have been approved by the secretary of the state board of charities. Upon application of any person in behalf of such cause, the secretary shall determine whether such cause is a religious one or is a bona fide object of charity or philanthropy and conforms to reasonable standards of efficiency and integrity, and if he so finds, shall approve the same and issue to the authority in charge a certificate to that effect. Such certificate may be revoked at any time. Any person violating any provision of this act shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both."

If every citizen of Norwich when approached for funds for any one of these subjects would refer the solicitor to the chamber of commerce, they will be dealt with politely and effectively.

NOW EQUIPPED FOR TYPHUS FEVER TEST

The bureau of laboratories is now equipped to make the Weil-Felix agglutination test for typhus fever on samples of blood from patients with an obscure fever, says the monthly health bulletin, issued by the state department of health. This procedure suggested itself as a case or two of this disease has occurred in the state in the recent past. Physicians desiring this test should so indicate very plainly on the information blank accompanying the specimen.

Where tests for typhus fever, undulant fever or tularemia may be desired it is desirable to have more blood than is ordinarily received in the mailing container supplied for the Widal test. In such instances it is urged that physicians use the outfit distributed for collecting blood for Wassermann test. If the Wassermann test is not desired, the information blank should be discarded and the particulars of the case furnished on a prescription blank or a memorandum sheet. This is desirable to prevent the specimen being handled in the usual routine way.

MOTORCYLE RIDER HAS INJURIES TO LEG

While operating his motorcycle Sunday afternoon on North Main street near Bogue's garage, Lawrence Amidon of Willington sustained cuts and bruises to his leg when the machine upset. Mr. Amidon reported that a drunken man staggered into the street in front of him and that in trying to avoid the man, the machine turned over.

Dr. W. T. Driscoll took Mr. Amidon to the Backus hospital after administering first aid and the Willington man left for home during the afternoon.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George O. Hathaway of 26 Ward street observed their 25th wedding aniversary Sunday, celebrating the occasion in a quiet way and receiving gifts and good wishes from relatives and a number of friends who remembered the day.

BUSH HURLS CUBS TO SHUT OUT WIN OVER REDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP)—Guy Bush hurled a two hit game as the Cubs swept the three games series with Cincinnati, 2 to 0, before an overflow crowd of 42,000 spectators today.

A single by Allen with one out in the second and another by Kelly with two gone in the fourth represented the full extent of the Reds' attack. Bush, who is usually wild, only allowed two walks and not a Red saw third base.

Kiki Cuyler, whose double won yesterday's 14-inning game, starred with his bat again today. He singled and drove English home with the first Cub run in the third inning and opened the sixth with a double that lacked a foot of clearing the left field bleachers. Stephenson's single sent him home. Kolp pitched good ball for the Reds, allowing only seven hits, but was relieved by Donohue for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning.

WHITE SOX SWEEP SERIES WITH INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9—(AP)—Chicago swept the three game series with the Cleveland Indians today when Pinch Hitter Metzler hit a home run with a mate on base in the eighth inning and the Sox followed up with eight more scores in the ninth, winning 10 to 1.

The victory put Chicago in the .500 class for the first time under Coach Lena Blackburne and gave Lyon his thirteenth victory in 26 games. Hudlin worked well for seven innings behind a one-run lead. Metzler's homer ruined him and Harder and Bayne were thenceforth ineffective.

PEBBLE IN INFIELD CAUSES DEFEAT OF GIANTS

BROOKLYN, Sept. 9—(AP)—A pebble in the Brooklyn infield caused the downfall of Larry Benton and the Giants today and gave the Robins a 3 to 2 decision in the third and deciding game of the series.

The break of the game came in the ninth when Babe Herman walked to start the Brooklyn rally. Bissonette was purposely passed after Bressler's sacrifice. Flowers hit a hard grounder straight at Lindstrom but the ball took a bad hop and caromed off Lindstrom's shoulder into left field for a hit as Herman tore around from second with the winning run.

Dazzy Vance, who struck out 10, allowed no earned runs. The Giants scores came with two out in the sixth on Ott's single, an error by Flowers on Lindstrom's grounder and Bill Terry's double. The score was tied in the eighth when Harvey Hendrick, batting for Deberry hit over the right field wall for a home run with Bancroft on base.

BROWNS RALLY IN NINTH TO BEAT TIGERS

DETROIT, Sept. 9—(AP)—Scoring four runs in the ninth inning, the St. Louis Browns defeated the Tigers 8 to 6 here today in the last game of the season between the two teams.

Wallie Schang, veteran Brown catcher, was hurt in sliding into the plate in the ninth and had to be carried from the field. It was said afterward that Schang had suffered a sprained ankle and that x-rays would be taken to determine whether any bones had been broken.

The Tigers used three pitchers in an effort to avert defeat, rushing Owen Carroll, star of their staff, into the box in the ninth but even Carroll could not stop the Browns and the defeat is officially charged to him.

J. B. MARTIN WINS HARD HITTING GAME FROM GIANTS

In a close game featured by hard hitting the J. B. Martin team nosed out the Elm City Giants, 8 to 7, in the ninth inning Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin diamond. Simmons, the huge first sacker for the Giants, was the hitting star of the game with two doubles and a home run and it was his heavy clouting that accounted for a large part of the visitors runs. Lefty Dugas with three hit in five time at the plate led the Velvetmen's attack. Lloyd Jarvis starred with a home run. The score:

CATOR SETS NEW MARK FOR THE BROAD JUMP

PARIS, Sept. 9—(AP)—Silvio Cator, of Haiti, runner-up at Amsterdam in the Olympic broad jump, broke the world's record for that event in an international meet today when he leaped 7.35 meters or 26 feet, 27 1-2 inches.

Cator's sensational jump breaks by nearly eight inches the record set up by Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech, in winning the Olympic championship. Hamm leaped 25 feet, 4 3-4 inches on that occasion.

CARDS SLIP BACK WHEN THEY LOSE TO PIRATES

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals slipped back into a 2 1-2 game lead in the National league when the Pittsburgh Pirates took a fervid game, 8 to 7 here today. The series closed even with two games apiece.

The Cardinals were leading the Pirates 7 to 3 in the seventh with "Old Pete" Alexander on the mound. Disaster came in the eighth when the score was even, Pittsburgh marching four men across the home sack.

Reinhart went in for Alexander and in only a fraction of an inning had the blame for the winning run fastened on him. Johnson relieved him and prevented any more scoring.

PRO-AMATEUR TOURNEY HERE NEXT SUNDAY

A pro-amateur tournament is to be held at the Norwich Golf club next Sunday when the various pros and the No. 1 amateurs of the state will compete in a one-day affair. These tournaments have been held at the different clubs in the state during the season and have created considerable interest throughout the state.

McKAY WINS WEEK-END TOURNEY AT GOLF CLUB

Edward G. McKay won the week-end tournament at the Norwich Golf club with a net score of 68. Eddie shot a neat 78 and his handicap of ten gave him first honors. Three tied for second low net, E. S. Bean 91-18—73, John Dick 9-18—73 and Jock Hunter 96-22—73.

URBAN SHOCKER DIES AT DENVER

DENVER, Col., Sept. 9—(AP)—Urban Shocker, veteran former American league pitcher, died today at a hospital from pneumonia and heart disease following an illness of several weeks.

Shocker, who came to Denver following his release as a free agent by the New York Yankees, pitched one game, August 6, in a Denver semi-professional tournament, contracted pneumonia shortly afterward.

He was removed to St. Luke's hospital on August 13. His condition varied from time to time, but last Friday physicians believed he was on the road to recovery. He suffered a relapse late yesterday and died at 7:10 o'clock this morning.

Shocker, for years the ace of the St. Louis American league club staff, and later one of stars of Miller Huggins mound corps, was expected to be a standout attraction in the Denver tournament, but he was beaten by a Cheyenne, Wyo., entry in his first start being knocked out of the box.

Physicians said he was in a weakened condition when he came here. When pneumonia developed it was too late to remove him from the high altitude and he was rushed from his hotel to the hospital.

SHOCKER ONE OF GAME'S BEST PITCHING STARS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 9—(AP)—Urban Shocker's seven years with the Browns commencing in 1917, brought him recognition as one of the great hurlers of all time. His record was 127 victories and 79 defeats.

His best year was 1921 when he won 27 games and lost only 12 but it was in 1922 when he was the Browns greatest asset, winning 24 and losing 17. The club finishing half a game behind the Yanks for the pennant. He allowed only 2.97 earned runs per nine inning contest that year.

He was traded to the Yankees after the 1924 season for Joe Bush, Milton Gaston and Joe Giard.

During his big league career, Shocker was never below the .500 mark and only one was he even.

During his big league career, Shocker was never below the .500 mark and only once was he even.

He is survived by his widow and an 18 year old son.

NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY GETS AWAY TODAY

BOSTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Fourteen withdrawals with only late comers to help offset them, reduced the field for the national amateur golf championship to 144 as most of the entrants, saving their strength for the big test, put in a light day of preparation for the battle of Brae Burn. The zero hour for this field, which numbers 16 less than the starting array last year, is 9 a. m. tomorrow when the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying test will be started.

Conspicuous among the players withdrawn are Keefe Carter, of Oklahoma City, former western amateur champion, and Dexter Cummings, Chicago star who twice won the intercollegiate championship while at Yale. William Reekie, of Upper Montclair, N. J., former metropolitan titleholder and J. Wood Platt, Philadelphia district star, also notified the United State Golf association they would not start.

The added starters are Charles E. Foley, Salt Lake City contender, who is bracketed with Eddie Driggs of New York for the qualifying rounds; and Frank D. Ross, of Hartford, Conn., who is paired with Howard Walton, of Chicago.

Most of the stars evidently figure they will have enough work when the actual championship struggle with the Brae Burn bunkers, hills and woods starts tomorrow for they spent the sabbath either resting or in light work outs. Among this number was the champion and tournament favorite, Bobby Jones, who confined himself to a light drill with the irons.

Whether or not he got these "few kinds" out of his golfing system, Jones will start play tomorrow in his customary role of top heavy favorite. Endurance as well as accuracy are needed for this Brae Burn test and Jones has both. But so has Ove Elm, the only man to stop Jones in this tourney in the last four years a trick he turned at Baltusrol in 1926. Von Elm has been shooting phenomenal golf. One of the few to go the full round today, he carded a 75, three over par, but his play looked more impressive than his score.

Jones has one of the finest fields of recent years to contend with, for in addition to homebred threats of Von Elm, Jess Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Watts Gunn, Frank Dolph, George Voight, Harrison Johnston and others, Bobby faces international rivalry from the British contingent, led by Phil Perkins, the British champion and a Canadian group led by the Dominion titleholder, Ross Somerville.

FRENCH PLAYERS FAVORITES TO WIN NATIONAL SINGLES

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—It will be the field against the French with the national singles tennis championship under way at Forest Hills tomorrow afternoon.

French domination of the courts has become so complete in recent years that no critic is hardy enough to predict anything but the tri-color's third successive victory at Forest Hills.

The French threat is lessened in some respects by the absence of Rene Lacoste, champion in 1926 and 1927 but Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra are entered again. In the field of 64, drawn from England, Australia, Cuba, Japan and Mexico, France and the United States, Cochet stands head and shoulders above his rivals, with Borotra as close as any.

Against this pair, the United States can offer George Lott and John Hennessey but past experience would tend to prove that neither is yet in the class with either of the Frenchmen.

The schedule of the most important matches of the opening day's play follows:

1 P. M.—Frank Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., vs. Richard N. Williams, New York.

2 P. M.—Hennessey vs. Dr. George King, New York.

3 P. M.—Lott vs. Pierre Landry, France.

4 P. M.—Manuel Alonso, Philadelphia, vs. Borotra.

5 P. M.—Cochet vs. Thomas Wilber.

NORWICH SWAMPS PUTNAM IN GOLF TEAM MATCH

The Norwich golfers took over the Putnam golf team Saturday afternoon by the overwhelming score of 42 to 14 at the Norwich course. The Putnam aggregation numbered so many that several of the Norwich players were forced to play more than one man. Fred Oat who played three men was high point scorer for the Norwich team taking eight points from his opponents. Earl Mathewson, the efficient manager of the Norwich team was second high scorer with seven points taken from his three opponents.

In the pro match between Massie B. Miller of Norwich and Ty Andrews of Putnam, Miller shot a 70, two under par, to take three points for the local club. Ray Greene of the Putnam club had low gross for the amateurs getting a card of 82. The scores:

SOCONY TURNS BACK TAFTVILLE CLUB, 4 TO 1

The fast Socony team, playing gilt edge ball, took Taftville into camp to the tune of 4 to 1 Saturday afternoon at Taftville.

Taftville's heavy hitters were unable to get their artillery working and although they managed to drive out nine bingles off Taylor, the latter kept the hits well scattered. The team behind Taylor took advantage of every break of the game and the A's just couldn't place their drives to a safe section.

Taftville threatened to eke out at least a run in the fourth when Dugas hit and Eccleston walked. With the two on and none out it got rather exciting. Bob Christy hit to third forcing Dugas. Taylor knuckled down and fanned the next two men.

Again in the ninth Christy and Lamory hit and it was up to Joubert to drive them in. But he failed, and the Dabrowski brothers, the next two batters flied out to end the game.

Taftville couldn't get the hits when they needed them, which is the answer to their loss. Lefty Dugas pitched well fanning twelve Socconites

STEADY IMPROVEMENT NOTED LAST WEEK IN MANY LINES OF INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Business came through the first week of September in a manner thoroughly in keeping with the promises held out by the steady improvement during the summer. Trade responded satisfactorily to the impetus of the change of seasons that comes with Labor day, and expansion was apparent in many lines of industry. The generally encouraging developments were in sharp contrast to the slackening of activity at this time last year.

The steel industry continued to make increasingly favorable reports. The demand at Pittsburgh held at the high point of the year and operations remained at 85 per cent. of capacity. Steel ingot production for August broke all records for that month, with a total of 4,178,481 gross tons, while pig iron production was more than six per cent. higher than for August, 1927. Hardening tendencies were still apparent in steel prices, but the real test of prices is not expected until the last quarter.

The automobile industry reached a new production record for all time with 486,000 units in August, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce reports. That the activity is being carried over into September is indicated by the fact that employment figures at the chief center, Detroit, broke all records again last week. The shoe industry likewise remained one of the leaders in high rate of activity.

Cotton goods and furniture manufacturing lines still lagged. Despite the fact that New Bedford cotton mills have been tied up for twenty weeks with a strike, fabric prices have been practically unaffected, and further curtailment is still noted. Buyers however, were still more active, but the tendency has been to restrict commitments until the extent of the damage to the cotton crop from rains and weevil is definitely known.

Car loadings for the last week of August were somewhat disappointing, revealing a large decrease from the like week a year ago and bringing the total for the month one per cent. below August, 1927. The chief declines during the month were in coal, livestock and forest products, while there was a large gain in miscellaneous freight and a moderate increase in grain. Grain shipments have not come up to expectations as farmers are inclined to hold their crops in the hope of better prices.

The chief development in the crop situation was good progress in the bumper corn crop which is now nearer maturity than it was last year at this time, which considerably lessens the frost hazard, rains have done some damage to cotton in the southeast. Wheat threshings in the northwest are reported better than a year ago and the Canadian crop its three fourths harvested.

In retail trade the opening of the schools and colder weather has helped fall lines of clothing and shoes. Merchants are without left-over stocks and are generally cheerful regarding fall prospects.

Failures showed a marked decline from the previous week, and a substantial falling off from the corresponding week of last year, which was an encouraging development after the large increase in insolvencies during August. Bank clearings showed a large increase, both over last week and the like week of 1927, attributable in part to the month end and holiday requirements, and the heavy trading on the New York stock exchange.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9—Robert Prentis, 62, of Chincoteague, Va., until recently employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company, was arrested this afternon for his own safety and is locked up at police headquarters. Prentis had been drinking bay rum, diluted with water. He went to the union station and mingled with passengers, declaring that he intended to commit suicide, stating that he would procure a gun and blow his head off. One of the passengers informed Harold Swanson, special agent in the employ of the New Haven railroad of Prentis' declaration. The officer promptly arrested Prentis for it was believed that as long as the latter entertained the idea of bringing about his self-destruction he might carry out his threat if allowed his freedom.

CRIMINAL LIBEL CHARGED— MRS. MOLINARA IS HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9—Mrs. Martatirsa Molinara, 35, of 129 Thames street, Norwich, who was arrested here Friday, was in the police court Saturday charged with criminal libel, in having, with her husband, circulated literature tending to accuse Superior Court Judge Allyn L. Brown, Norwich and Judge Arthur P. Libby, city court judge, Norwich, also several New London and Norwich attorneys of dishonesty. Probable cause was found and the woman was held for trial at the next term of the superior court but it is possible that she will be rearrested on a bench warrant and presented before the present term of the superior court, which will reconvene in Norwich next Tuesday. Judge Brown is sitting on the bench at this court term. Mrs. Molinara's husband has not been arrested for he has remained in hiding since the arrest of his wife. Mrs. Molinara was unable to furnish a surety on her bond of $5,000 and was committed to jail to await trial.

The investigation by City Manager William A. Holt of charges brought against Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Thomas Lyden, charged with unfair and unjust treatment towards two sailors, Joseph Katilus and Simme M. Harvey, sailors attached to the submarine S-6, by Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, commandant of the U. S. control force, was started Saturday. The city manager had several witnesses relate their version of what occured at Ocean beach on the night of Aug. 17, last, when the officers arrested the sailors. Those who appeared at the office of the city manager in the municipal building were Officers Iverson and Lyden, who were represented by counsel in Benjamin Sherb; Jack Whiteside, proprietor of a hot dog stand; George Jones, a civilian and Frank Hoagland, trolley car motorman, and witnesses of a part of the trouble that brought about the arrest. Officers Iverson and Lyden related their stories in which they told of Katilus placing the cartridges on the griddle and Iverson to having received a complaint from Whiteside. When Katilus and Harvey were arrested and taken to the "round house," Katilus attempted to escape and was struck two or three blows by Iverson, on the jaw with the fist. In the police court. Katilus pleaded guilty and before a fine of $10 was imposed the sailor was given an opportunity to make a statement, but he declined to do so. The officer declared that the sailors received no worse treatment than they deserved. Whiteside, Jones and Hoagland declared that the officers weren ot harsh in their treatment of the sailors and that they did what they were supposed to do under the circumstances. City Manager Holt did not render a decision, but probably will some time early next week.

His term expired today and just as he was being liberated he was arrested by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh on the non-support charge.

Had it not been for the prompt action of Miss Mary Sabourne, teacher in the kindergarten division of Quaker Hill school, more than a dozen children must have been injured Friday noon. Hearing a creaking noise Miss Sabourne happened to look upward and noticed that the ceiling was beginning to give way. She immediately had the children march out a scant five minutes before the ceiling fell with a crash. Just before it happened the teacher returned to the room with two pupils and as the ceiling fell they escaped injury owing to the fact that the heavy plaster over her desk remained intact. For some time there had been cracks in the ceiling but little was thought of them. Activities in the room, which has been more or less of a community hall, apparently had weakened the plaster. Pending repairs, a vacation was declared for the kindergarten class.

FLOYD DEPLORES SCRAMBLE FOR JUDGE CALKINS' PLACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9—A peculiar twist was given the local situation in the office of probate judge, Saturday, when Attorney J. James Floyd stated that he would retire from the race should Judge Arthur B. Calkins reconsider his decision to not be a candidate for the office. Mr. Floyd stated that his decision was prompted by the thought that should Calkins decide to retract his decision it would be in the interest of public harmony for him to step aside. He further stated that he thought it most unfortunate that so many members of the local bar had scrambled for the office since Judge Calkins made his announcement several days ago. However, in case Judge Calkins is still of the mind to retire, Attorney Floyd states that he will permit his name to remain before the public for election or rejection.

Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Donovan and Mrs. Hannah Donovan both of this city, also survive.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, a teacher in the local schools, gave an interesting talk before the adult members of the Italian Ladies' Aid society, Friday evening, at the meeting of the organization in the Harris building. The subject was the advantages offered in the evening classes of the city and a large number of those present stated that they were going to join them. At the meeting it was voted to accept the invitation of the committee in charge of the Columbus statute to join in the parade being planned for October 12. After the business meeting there was a social hour with refreshments.

The first fall meeting of Fidelity chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held Friday night in Brainard temple, was attended by more than 60 members. The business meeting was chiefly taken up with discussion of a trip to Wallingford September 22. Friday next Mrs. George R. Morris of Ocean avenue will entertain members of the lodge.

CITY ELECTION TODAY— ONE WOMAN RUNNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9—The annual municipal election will be held tomorrow for the choice of members of the city council, members of the board of school visitors and selectmen. There are so many candidates in the field that a second election will be held a fortnight hence, for the requisite vote to elect is not likely to be secured tomorrow. Three members of the council will be in the running and the candidate who receives the highest vote will be the presiding officer of the council, or the "mayor" under the new method of choosing a mayor. There is one woman candidate for membership in the council, Mrs. Emily Speirs, who is now a member of the planning board. She has made a canvass of the city and has been aggressive in her effort to secure election. The matter of the collection of taxes is a vital issue, for there is considerable feeling as to the means employed by the collector, H. N. Alexander, of jailing one delinquent and proposing to sell the property of others, in order to collect the taxes due. The whole election machinery of the city will be in use and there will be autos enough in service to convey the entire population of the city to the polls. It is understood that a prominent real estate owner is seeking to secure the election of four particular candidates, representing that greater economy and efficiency should be inaugurated in the management of the city's business. The method of tax collection now resorted to is opposed by this element. A heavy vote is expected and the women are looked for to go to the polls with a determination to defeat one or more candidates.

Albert Thomas Fellows, of Rockwell, N. Y., got into a barrel of trouble this afternoon when he attempted to speed through this city in a reckless manner. He was arrested and released only after a bond of $25 had been furnished. He will explain in court tomorrow morning.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

The much heralded "Ramona," from Helen Hunt Jackson's novel of the same name, has at last arrived in our midst.

Last night at the Palace theatre it was the writer's privilege to witness this film story which brings Dolores Del Rio, that beautiful Mexican star of stars, to use in what may be classified as her greatest screen triumph. "Ramona" was written by Helen Hunt Jackson with a purpose. She did not know at the time of writing the story, that it would go down in history as one of the great American classics.

And Edwin Carewe, the director of "Ramona," has given the story to the screen in such a manner as might be well termed "screen-classic." This producer has abided by the story—so vital a matter in a case of this sort. It was Carewe, too, who directed "Resurrection."

"Ramona," is a tale of early California,—the days of the Mission Indians—their trials and their tribulations. And "Ramona" came into being during that period. The story is filled with love interest. Mrs. Jackson, while probably not fully realizing it at the time, drew one of the most beautiful love stories in American literature when she penned this tale of the half-Indian maiden who is in love with two men, one of them the Indian, "Alessandro," played on the screen by Warren Baxter; the other, "Felipe," the Spanish Don, Roland Drew.

Others in the case were equally good in their characterization and included besides Baxter and Drew—Vera Lewis, Michael Visaroff, Carlos Amor, John T. Prince and Mathilde Comont.

Breed Theatre

Magnificent settings, excellent direction, fine photography and splendid acting contribute to make "Hangman's House," Fox Films production directed by John Ford, which opened a three day's run at the Breed Theatre yesterday, one of the most intensely interesting photoplays screened here in the past twelve months.

Based on Donn Byrne's best-seller, "Hangman's House" is typically Irish and, in common with virtually all pictures directed by John Ford, is packed with human interest and bristles with action.

Briefly, the story is that of an adamant old Irish chief justice, who, as "Jimmy the Hangman," insists that his one daughter shall wed a man she dislikes rather than the man of her choice, in the person of Larry Kent, who is cast as Dermott McDermott.

When her father dies, shortly after a midnight ceremony in the chapel of "Hangman's House," June Collyer, as Connaught O'Brien, suffers untold agony as the unwilling bride of John Darcy, as depicted by Earle Foxe. Darcy, who is concealing a checkered career, is trailed to Ireland by Citizen Hogan, played by Victor McLaglen. Connaught wonders why Darcy fears the mysterious Hogan but is kept in doubt until the day of the annual steeplechase in which Connaught has entered her favorite horse, The Bard of Armagh. Darcy, betting against The Bard, is infuriated when Dermott rides The Bard to victory. Darcy shoots The Bard and is exposed by Hogan as the man who has wronged Hogan's sister in Paris. Gripping sequences pile up in preparation for a smashing climax. This is the most satisfactory picture shown here in some time.

Broadway Theatre

Every week the Garrick players, under the capable management of Bob Stevens and George Dunigan, bring to Norwich the best in comedy and drama right from Broadway.

The Garrick players have proven so popular with local playgoers that the management of the Broadway theatre has added another evening to the two days that they have been playing so that the immense crowds that have attended may be more conveniently accommodated. The popular priced matinee will still be held on Tuesday.

This week Willard Mack's sensational underworld melodrama of New York's gangland, Kick In will be presented in real Broadway style. Mr. Mylott, Bob Stevens, Irving Morrow, Miss Briant, a new member of the company, Mr. Ferguson and Miss Young will share the honors. Kick In is the first real dramatic effort of the company and will be a real treat for attending patrons. It is there with the punch and is full of thrills, laughs and heart interest. A better melodrama has never been written. Willard Mack has never written a bad play—Kick In is his best.

Yowler is Disappointed

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Disappointments come to all;
Rich and poor and great and small.
—Old Mother Nature.

Yowler the Bobcat wasn't finding it easy these days to get enough to eat. That is to say, he had to hunt twice as hard as ever he had hunted before. You see, there was Mrs. Yowler also hunting, not only for herself but for two growing kittens, and two growing kittens require a lot of food. So Yowler was hunting over a far wider range than he had ever been in the habit of hunting over. It seemed to him sometimes as if all the Wood Mice had left the Green Forest. It seemed to him as if all the Grouse had moved off somewhere.

"There are mice inside there," said he to himself

And so in his wanderings he came ever to Farmer Brown's little sugar-house among the sugar maples. He had been there before, but not often. For a long time he lay hidden in the Black Shadows watching that sugar-house. He is always suspicious of anything with which man has to do. He is distrustful of everything pertaining to man. He knew that Mice are not this way. He knew that Mice often live very close to man and that they are often to be found around the buildings of man. He knew, too, that Trader the Wood Rat liked just such a place.

"My, my, but I would like to catch Trader!" thought Yowler, as he stared at that little sugar-house. "I wonder if he is living there. I don't believe there will be any danger in just smelling around there a little."

So Yowler very cautiously approached the little sugar-house. You may be sure that he was making the best use of his eyes, his ears and his nose. Every few steps he would stop to look and listen and smell. But there was no sign of man around that little sugar-house. He walked in a circle all around it at a safe distance. Then gradually he drew nearer and nearer. Pretty soon he picked up a scent which made his eyes gleam. It was the scent of Mouse. He had come across the place where Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot had been.

"Ah!" exclaimed Yowler under his breath, "I thought as much. There are Mice around here. I only hope they are outside and not inside that little house."

Yowler has a good nose, a most excellent nose. The Mouse smell was very faint, but he could follow it. And so at last he came to the little hole through which Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot had passed in and out of the sugar-house. Yowler smelled long and carefully.

"There are Mice inside there," said he to himself. "Yes, sir, there are Mice in there, or I haven't a bobbed tail. Perhaps they'll come out."

So Yowler crouched close to the ground within easy jumping distance of that little hole. He crouched just as Black Pussy crouches beside a mouse hole. And there he kept perfectly still for the longest time. Yowler has patience—a great deal of patience. He needed it now. But even patience will not hold out indefinitely. Though Yowler did not know it, of course, he gave up at just the wrong time. Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were just preparing to come out. Had he waited five minutes longer, he would have caught them. But he didn't wait. He jumped up on the roof to see if there might not be a way of getting into that sugar-house. That was when he made a mistake, for Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot heard him.

He prowled about all over that roof. Nowhere was there an opening that he could get in. He jumped to the ground and went all around the sugar-house again. There were little cracks through which he could get the tantalizing scent of Mice, but there was no way of getting in there. Finally, in his disappointment, he screeched as only a Bobcat can screech. Then he bounded away to hunt elsewhere. Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot huddled together in their nest in the firebox of the evaporator in the little sugar-house, heard that screech and it seemed to them as if their hearts stopped beating and would never beat again.

FIVE ARE HURT WHEN TROLLEY STRUCK TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—Three adults were hurt and two young boys were seriously injured when a motor truck in which they were riding was struck by the Norwich-Willimantic trolley, leaving here at 7 o'clock tonight, opposite the home of John Ponzo, North Franklin, near Williams crossing. The truck, operated by Nicholas Fativene of Peck Hollow road, Franklin, was being driven up the driveway to the main road and the Ponzo home, on the east side of Williams crossing, according to Fativene, and was partly across the track when the trolley hove into view. The trolley struck the truck on the right rear wheel and spun it around. The injuries were caused by broken glass from the cab and the occupants being thrown about. The injured were brought to St. Joseph's hospital, where they were attended by Dr. Charles A. Jenkins. The injured: Nicholas Fativene, fracture of the right forearm and abrasions on the right leg; Mrs. Jennie Fativene, wife of the driver, fracture of the left collarbone; Mrs. Camilla Ventrudo, also of North Franklin, injury to the left eye, abrasions on the face and lacerations of the right knee; Dominick Fativene, lacerations of the right shoulder, fracture of the right collarbone, strain and bruises on the left ankle and possible internal injuries; Michael Fativene, lacerations on the forehead and fractured skull. Dr. Jenkins ordered the two boys and Mrs. Fativene to be detained at the hospital over night, the other two being released.

FLAG RAISED AT NORWICH FAIR GROUNDS WITH PATRIOTIC FERVOR

Under clear skies and bright sunshine and amidst great patriotic enthusiasm by over 4,000 citizens from New London county and vicinity Old Glory rose majestically to the top of the 80 foot flagpole at the New London county fairgrounds Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. As the flag streamed out gloriously into the breeze it was greeted with a great shout of applause by the multitude who gathered to pay it homage and to witness the impressive and inspiring ceremonies.

The entire programme was carried out with dignity and precision and was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by both the honored visitor and guests and by all who attended the dedication. As early as 1 o'clock the spacious fairgrounds were lined with many solid rows of automobiles which brought visitors from every part of the New London county and surrounding towns. Both the large and small grand stands were filled to capacity and before the ceremonies began the grounds adjoining the grandstands were filled with people seeking a place of vantage to hear the notable speakers who were to address the gathering. One section of the grandstand, in front of the speakers' platform especially erected for the occasion, was reserved for the gold-star mothers and was identified by a large gold star made of golden rod and golden glow. The speaker's platform was appropriately decorated and the background was a large American flag flanked by evergreens, hydrangeas and gladioli. About 2 o'clock the Grand Army veterans arrived at the grounds in automobiles and also the notable guests and a delegation of sailors from New London submarine base in command of Lieutenant J. E. Wolowsky. A troop of Norwich Boy Scouts in charge of Scout Executive Frederick J. Bielefield also arrived and immediately took charge of the 40 foot flag to be dedicated.

The ceremonies began at 2.15 with a parade which formed at the fairgrounds gate and proceeded to the speakers' platform. It was led by Swahn's military band followed by the sailors with 36 Boy Scouts spread out in two lines bearing the flag. The speakers and guests together with the G. A. R. men, formed in twos and followed the flag. As the marchers reached the grandstand the sailors formed in two lines and while standing at attention the Boy Scouts marched through with the flag to a place reserved for them in front of the speakers' stand and the speakers, guests and G. A. R. men were escorted to their seats on the platform.

Before opening the dedication exercises, Louis M. Crandall, secretary of the New London County Agricultural society, made the announcement that a letter had been received from Governor Trumbull expressing regrets at his inability to attend the dedication as he was on vacation in Maine and could not possibly attend. Mr. Crandall also announced that owing to the postponement of the dedication on Labor day, Senator Hiram Bingham who was to make an address and Rev. J. Pomeyn Danforth, who was to officiate as master of ceremonies, could not possibly change their date owing to important previous engagements Mr Crandall announced that Edwin Hill of Norwich Y. M. C. A. would act as master of ceremonies. Mr Hill began the exercises by welcoming the citizens and thanking them for the splendid turnout and the patriotic enthusiasm manifested by all present. Rev Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of Greeneville Congregational church, gave the invocation which the great audience received in reverent silence. The greetings from the city of Norwich were given by His Honor Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, in a short but most eloquent and fitting address, which was received with enthusiastic applause.

In his address Mayor Robbins stressed the gratitude which we owe to the brave souls who made possible our enjoyment of the great blessings of the greatest country on the face of the earth—the United States of America—and the reverence we owe to the flag about to be dedicated. Following Mayor Robbins Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church delivered a very eloquent address portraying the glories of Americanism, what it stands for and what is symbolized by the noble flag which is being dedicated. Rev. Father Reilly's address made a profound impression and was received with great applause. He spoke as follows:

To have a part on such an occasion as we have here today is an inspiring thing to every one of us. To be the choice for speaking on such an occasion is not only inspiring but it fills you with foreboding; the responsibility of it all brings on timidity for the responsibility of giving proper expression to the significance of this occasion is a grave and great one. A difficulty always presents itself when treating for lofty things, for however well one may have his subject in hand and become its master however thorough may have been his study and his meditation on it and though one has exhausted every source of information and had recourse to every thing that was ever said of it, there remains a feeling of failure, the consciousness of having left the thing inadequately treated and this so true of lofty things in general is doubly true when we approach that subject so grand, so glorious, so holy so sacred, so sublime which it is our privilege to speak upon today. There is some consolation in the fact that this subject never could be treated as it should be treated, for man in simple language has neither wit nor words nor worth, action or utterance or power of speech to handle it in the proper way and say all that could be said. And I, on my part, am a little loath to speak of it today for it is a thing that speaks for itself in language not easy for human hearts in terms of eloquence and truth far more convincing than human lips. That subject is the American flag.

Our countrys flag is eloquent of many things, but to the nations of this world but to the hearts of this world and especially to the suffering hearts the flag of America has ever held out the prospect of liberty and freedom. It is true that liberty abounds in America; it is the good seed, it is as fruitful a plant as ever broke through the spring soil, in short, the very atmosphere you breathe seems laden with the spirit of liberty. Yet in this freedom loving country of ours there are those who do not know what liberty is. They bask in the sun of liberty, they relax in libertys shadow but they are ignorant as to what it means; conquerors, they are led captive, they grovel in slavery worse than that of the negro of old, more degrading than that of the galley slave of the Roman fleet, for the noblest faculty that they have is chained, they are slaves to bigotry and intolerance and as our senator from Missouri put it, "Intolerance sir, is the child of ignorance." It would be well if every now and then the liberty bell would be rung again and the truths contained in the Declaration of Independence be dinned in the ears of those who are ever so prone to forget them. We can easily see why the Declaration of Independence seemed so new and even radical to the world of the time for the world had grown aristocratic and made up of classes. But how those very ones in our own times who claim to be lovers of America and the document which underlies its foundation, who date their Americanism back to 1776 itself, can be so unmindful of that very document and all it promised and held out—this is not easily understood. These are the self-styled real Americans, the ones in whose veins flows a blood of matchless blue. And yet if any stock can be taken of what our war correspondents, biographers and historians have written of the battlers that this same Declaration gave rise to, we find that the fields of battle whether of Lexington or Gettysburg or Flanders were drenched by a blood of a very crimson hue. You hear not much these days about Americanism and patriotism. Of nothing else is ignorance more widespread. Some people think that Americanism is confined to a certain few; some people think that Americanism is teaching foreigners how to read and write English; some people think that Americanism is the passing of an immigration law. But all this is not Americanism, not one of these or all of them put together; Americanism is more than that—Americanism is something spiritual, something supernatural—it's only one degree removed from the love of God—it's love for America and willingness to sacrifice oneself for it. It's no wish-washy sentimentalism, no frantic waving of a flag—it's a real conviction guided by intelligence and based upon appreciation.

This ceremony here today should stimulate our Americanism. In the honor that we pay the flag, America and American ideals are honored too. It is a good, a holy thing because it stimulates our love. If Americanism is love of America and our flag is the symbol of it then all of us here today must have at this same Americanism increase and every one of us here today should make an act of love in public or in private to the Stars and Stripes, the Banner of our Land. One of the most touching things in English literature, I think, is in the tragedy 'Play of Julius Caesar.' The wife of Brutus had been complaining of neglect. Brutus had been interested in the things of state and had not given her the attention she desired. She found fault with him and accused him of lack of faith. Brutus loved his wife but had sacrificed her really in the interest of his country. When accused thus by Portia, Brutus said, 'Portia, thou are more dear to me than are the ruddy drops that purple this sad heart.' That was love and this is the love our hearts should have for America and America's flag. The American heart should be so attuned that each of us at any moment of our lives can turn to where the 'Stars and Stripes' flicats in the breeze and with the words of Brutus tell it how we love it. "My flag, thou art more dear to me than are the ruddy drops that purple this sad heart."

Flag Raising Ceremonies

At the conclusion of the address the entire gathering, led by the band, marched to the flag pole to witness the flag raising ceremonies. Norwich Boy Scouts escorted by the sailors bore the flag to the flag pole and on reaching the ground handed the flag to the care of the sailors who formed two lines and stood at attention waiting for the flag to be given in their care.

Leonard R. Maine, of North Stonington, in behalf of his sister, mother and family, then presented the flag and pole to the New London County Agricultural society. He said that this flag and pole, a memorial to a son and brother, is also dedicated to all those who lost their lives in the service. The gift was accepted by President F. S. Armstrong, of the society, who in a brief address, said in part:

President Armstrong Accepts.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Maine, Mrs. Emma A. Main and Mrs. Evelyn Maine Grey: We, the people and citizens of New London county, and members of the New London County Agricultural Society, as sons and daughters, and descendants of those pioneer people who came to these shores from all the old nations of the world and set up a new nation on this continent, and dedicated it to the proposition that all men are created equal and founded it upon the principles of Christian liberty, extend to you our heartfelt thanks and deepest and fullest appreciation for this gift of a beautiful flag and flag pole, as a memorial which we gratefully accept in the name and memory of your dear son and brother and others who, so nobly and patriotically gave their lives in the great World war. That these same principles of Christian liberty which your forefathers and ours so strenuously helped to established, might be carried to all the nations of the world, I believe that the recent signing of the peace treaty by so many nations with our secretary of state, Mr. Kellogg, to abolish war, is a direct result of these great sacrifices.

May these generous and patriotic gifts be an incentive to all the people of New London county to do all in their power, not only to advance the interests, and promote the general welfare of all the civic and patriotic endeavors of this county, but also to maintain and perpetuate this grand old institution, the New London County Agricultural Society.

The dedication speech was then given by Congressman Richard P. Freeman, of New London, who spoke of the flag now dedicated, not only as a memory to those who died but an inspiration to those now living. He said in part:

Congressman Freeman.

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, and friends of the New London County Agricultural Society:

We are gathered here today to dedicate this splendid standard and its beauty banner to the memory of those—dear to us—who, responding to the last great call ten or eleven years ago, somehow, somewhere, passed beyond our reach. We know that they bade farewell to home and loved ones who needed their work and support, we know they turned their back on business interests that scarce would warrant neglect, and sailed for "over there" to "carry on," comforted and strengthened only by their knowledge that their country called and duty led. That we dwell in peace today, serene under bright skies, enjoying to the full the soft warmth of a perfect September day, is due to the fact that Floyd Leslie Main—and many others like him — proved the stuff they were made of, in that terrible conflict, the World war. In dedicating this gift to their memory, we are conscious of some measure of satisfaction. For through it, we all acknowledge openly, so that he who runs may read, our sense of utmost indebtedness to them, our deep appreciation of their courage and bravery, and our sympathy and sorrow for the complete, the supreme sacrifice they were called upon to make. Because of their deeds, far distant Chateau Thierry, Belleau Woods, and Argonne Forest, are to us now, and forever will be, hallowed ground. Here, in the short years of youth, they were learning how to live and serve; over there, in a shorter time still, they proved they knew well how to serve and die. Swiftly there.

"Life beckoned them on,
Into the glory of the setting sun."

To cherish their memory, we feel we have chosen a fitting memorial, one typifying their life and deeds to all who shall walk these grounds in the years to come. This flagpole, in order to fulfill its true function, is rooted deep in the earth; the stronger its grasp there, the higher it may tower into the heavens to float its starry banner. Even so must the hearts of our children be filled with a great, understanding love of America, must be filled with an appreciation of the real meaning of Democracy, and of liberty under law, and lastly, with a realization of America's sincere desire for Peace and true Friendship, with all the world; then afterwards, as men and women, they will be equipped to march in the vanguard of a better civilization, and a far happier world, standard bearers as worthy of the Stars and Stripes as those others who preceded them. Let us believe that this memorial will ever be as a lamp to our feet and a light to the path that leads us onward and upward to make America the noblest nation in the world. This flagpole has been erected to inspire in the hearts of all a spirit of patriotism and love of country, to impress upon the minds of all a sense of duty and of obligation let me quote these lines:

"Grave deep their memory on your hearts,
Keep ye their country free.
Live for the flag for which they died
This is their legacy."

Congressman Freeman here paid a tribute to the eloquence of Rev. John J. Reilly by saying that the citizens of New London county should follow his noble words so eloquently spoken and the lessons conveyed by his patriotic address. Congressman Freeman was heartly applauded at the conclusion of his inspiring dedication.

The raising the beautiful flag followed with Edward T. Connolly leading the audience in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner while two sailors raised the flag on the flagpole, the rest of the sailors and the Boy Scouts saluting the flag. As the flag reached the top of the pole and floated out majestically in the air, it was greeted with tremendous applause. The dedication exercises closed with Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May giving the benediction.

Congressman Freeman, after the dedication ceremonies were over, said that it was one of the most inspiring and glorious patriotic dedication that he had witnessed in the many years of his public service. He also expressed admiration at the splendid manner in which the Norwich Boy Scouts conducted themselves during the entire ceremonies of the dedication.

The arrangements committee was as follows: Pres. F. S. Armstrong, Congressman Richard P. Freeman, Dr. Ier J. Manwaring, Leonard R. Main, Hon. Nelson J. Ayling, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, Edwin A. Tracy, C. J. Ducy, Otto Ernst, L. M. Crandall, A. H. Beebe, Allison B. Ladd, Frank Smith, J. Sullivan, W. H. Nelson, F. Wyant, W. J. Fitzgerald, Max Hanover.

The committee is greatly indebted to all civic and patriotic organizations and to all individuals who helped to make the dedication such a grand success. It is also grateful to the Norwich merchants and to citizens who displayed the American flag in their stores and homes.

GENEROUS ST. PATRICK'S LADY WILLS $10,000 TO SEMINARY

St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, where young men of the diocese are educated and trained for the priesthood, stands next to St. Francis' hospital on Collins street. As both hospital and seminary are expanding and require more space, the bishop of the diocese of Hartford, Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, D. D., has planned the erection of a new $2,000,000 seminary in Bloomfield, in suburban Hartford. A comparatively small diocese in area this state has over 500,000 Catholics and there is always an urgent demand for more churches and more priests, consequently there must be additional theological students in constant training.

St. Thomas' is not a major seminary—that is, it is merely preparatory, the bishop frequently choosing from among its students certain ecclesiastics who manifest especial gifts, to be sent abroad, or to Canadian seminaries, that they may attain particular knowledge to better fit them for their work as physicians of souls.

Incidentally, they acquire a knowledge of different languages, useful in their parish ministrations, hearing confessions, etc.

Toward the erection of the new seminary the people of the diocese are making vigorous efforts and the contribution from St. Patrick's Norwich, will be received Sunday, the 16th. That there is practical interest in the work was shown Sunday, when it was announced at the four masses that one generous woman in the congregation has left in her will the sum of $10,000 toward the new seminary.

Other announcements from the pulpit Sunday included the reminder that the two weeks' mission to be given by priests of the Passionist Order will open Sunday, Sept. 29, to continue till Sunday, Oct. 14.

The Rosary society has requested a memorial mass this (Monday) morning for Annie M. Corcoran. Relatives request a month's mind mass Tuesday for Mrs. Antonia Santos.

Classes in catechism, Bible study and church history were resumed in the chapel Sunday, following the children's special mass at 9 o'clock. This church school is for children from the second to the eighth grade inclusive, unless they are pupils of the parish school where they get this instruction daily.

The senior choir is to resume rehearsals this week in preparation for the resumption of high mass, after the summer schedule of low masses. Some members of the junior choir sang the hymns at 9 o'clock Sunday. Organist Henry J. LaFontaine accompanying them. It was the 15th Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle read in all the masses being Galatians 5:25, 26; 6:1-10. The gospel was Luke 7:11-16, the narration of the restoration to life of the only son of the widow of Naim.

Following the return of many families from vacations at the chore the congregations were very large. At the 9 o'clock mass, Rev. John J. Reilly was required to assist Rev. Myles P. Galvin in administering communio, because of the great number of confessions held the previous afternoon and evening. At all the masses the congregations were asked to pray for the success of the coming mission—a special revival time, when many of the careless, indifferent and erring are expected to return to the practice of their religion.

EARLY RETURNS INDICATE REP. AVALANCHE IN MAINE

Returns From 464 Precincts Give Gardiner, Republican, For Governor, 96,521 Votes to 37,818 For Moran, Democrat —For Senator, Hale, Republican, is Leading His Opponent 94,508 to 36,251—The Total Vote Was Smaller Than That Cast For Governor in 1924.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—The election of William T. Gardiner, republican, as governor and of the entire republican ticket for congress and U. S. senator by substantial majorities appeared assured on returns from more than two thirds of the state's 633 precincts in today's state election. Predictions of an unusually heavy vote made during the campaign were not borne out, as in all the larger places heard from up to 1 a. m. including several of the cities, the total vote was smaller than that cast for governor in 1524, the last presidential election year.

Returns from 464 precincts gave:
For governor: Gardiner (R) 96,521.
Moran (D) 37,818.
For senator: Hale (R) 94,508.
Holmes (D) 36,251.

Four years ago the total vote for governor was 253,907. Brewster, republican, defeated Pattangall, democrat, by a margin of 36,65½.

Among the larger cities as compared with the 1924 vote for governor the total today fell of by 1,742 votes in Bangor, 734 in Augusta and 1033 in Biddeford. In the first eight cities to report their results the falling off was heavier in the democratic vote than in the republican, and in four of these cities the republican vote was larger than that of four years ago.

SENATOR HALE CLAIMS A "REMARKABLE VICTORY"

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—United States Senator Frederick Hale, republican, tonight claimed "a remarkable victory" for the republican party in today's state election in which he was a candidate for reelection.

He issued the following statement:

"The republicans of Maine won a remarkable victory in the election today, a victory that will have, I believe, a far reaching effect in the presidential election in November. The people of Maine have shown in no uncertain way their confidence in our governor-elect, Mr. Gardiner, and our candidate for president, Herbert Hoover. I am naturally very much pleased by my own vote and am very grateful to the people of my state for their loyal support."

UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS OF AMERICA IN SESSION

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Thomas McMahon, of Providence, R. I., general president of the United Textile Workers of America, called upon the delegates at their annual convention today to fight for a revision in the present tariff rates.

"It is regrettable that we cannot say a word of defense of the present tariff provision," said Mr. McMahon, "of politicians that the present high tariff is a guarantee of a continuation to workers in the textile mills of present high wages. Are untrue and without foundation.

"As a matter of fact, in some instances, such as in the cases of the cotton, worsted and silk workers, their wages are less now than they were before the World war. The consuming public is being exploited by claims of the benefits of the present day tariff."

"Japan, with its low standard of living and cheap labor," he asserted, "should not be in the same class with the fairly paid textile trades of England."

McMahon outlined the subjects to be taken up by the convention which opened today and will continue until Friday. He advocated an eight-hour shift day in the industry, abolition of child labor, better legislation in general for workers, blocking "promiscuous use" of injunctions in labor disputes and rearrangement of the multiple system under which employers install machinery increase the amount of work done by one person.

"This system is all right in certain respects," he said, "but the additional profits accruing to the employer should not go wholly to him but should be distributed among the employes."

McMahon expressed the hope that the various textile unions would be amalgamated into one international organization in the near future.

GIRL FOUND DEAD IN AN AUTO TRUCK IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I. Sept. 10—(AP)—State and city officials today began an investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Margaret J. McCallum, 21 year old Somerville girl, whose body was found in the cab of an automobile truck in this city at 4 o'clock this morning. An autopsy performed this afternoon by Medical Examiner Clifford H. Griffin disclosed that the girl was not a victim of an assault but probably met her death "through injuries caused in an automobile accident."

Dr. Griffin declared that he would refer the matter to the attorney general and request a coroner's inquest. Police are holding Louis F. Silva, 27 of Cambridge, driver of the truck, who was arrested a short time after a patrolman had discovered the body. Silva had been eating at a restaurant at the time and when questioned on his return declared the girl was his wife. Informed that the woman was dead, he denied that she was his wife and said that she was an acquaintance of only a few weeks. The entire right side of the girl's body was bruised and her right arm was fractured. In addition she suffered abdominal injuries, the latter the direct cause of death the examining physician stated.

WILLIMANTIC DOES AWAY WITH PARKING REGULATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 10—One of the most drastic movements ever attempted in the way of parking regulations in the history of the city went through by resolution at the September meeting of the common council held tonight. The nature of this drastic change which was sponsored by Alderman W. E. Jackson was to repeal in one sweep every and all regulations and ordinances affecting parking in the city with the exception of the fire district on Bank St., the one-way parking on Union St., and the ordinance against parking within 10 feet of a hydrant. Other than these exceptions and the state law providing that traffic signals be obeyed, Willimantic drivers will be treated to a free-for-all fight for parking privileges. It is understood that the purpose of the general sweep of the existing ordinances is to induce the public to insist that parking regulations made in the future be strictly enforced. It was explained that general laxity on the part of some business men and the public in obeying the regulations brought about the test movement.

The resignation of Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley, presented owing to ill health, was accepted with regret.

John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, told 20 democratic candidates for congress from Pennsylvania who called on him that there is a growing conviction throughout the country that Smith will win.

MRS. M. G. MACDONALD WINS NOMINATION TO SCHOOL BOARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 10—The republican town caucus held here tonight was one of the most spirited seen in many years. It is believed that the large turnout of voters was due largely through the forecast of a contest for berths on the town school committee. The meeting was called to order by chairman of the republican town committee, A. MacDonald, Jr., Judge M. H. Geissler was elected moderator and Whitman Danielson, clerk. Nominated by acclamation were U. D. Beausoliel, assessor; board of relief, Frank H. Smith; selectmen, Clarence E. Pierce, William P. Warren; agent of town deposit fund, Henry N. Benoit; auditor, Lucius P. Merrian; collector of taxes, Irving H. Miron; constable, Peter A. Gardner, August Martin, Origene Touchette, Herman Carver, Ernest L. Chandler, registrar of voters, Herman G. Carver; library directors, George L. Padgett, Louis Bettey; town school board, J. Dyer Potter, Mrs. Minnie Gannon MacDonald. Over 400 were in attendance at the meeting. On the first ballot J. Dyer Potter and Minnie Gannon MacDonald were nominated for office, Potter receiving a majority of 168 votes. On the second ballot Mrs. MacDonald was renominated to run against Mrs. William Saretski, Mrs. Mac Donald being nominated with 186 votes. When Mrs. Mac Donald was first nominated, J. Scott Duffy, a strong supporter of Mrs. Saretsky, contested her right to run since she had been serving as a substitute teacher in the schools of Putnam. Mrs. MacDonald addressed the caucus and in her behalf informed the voters that she was not an active member of any faculty and substituted only when a vacancy occurred since she was the only qualified teacher available. She stated she was a graduate of the schools of Putnam and of one of the most reknown women universities of the country, Bay Path university in Springfield. An uproar of cheers was received from the voters and the outcome of the ballot found her name far ahead of her opponent.

COOLIDGES PREPARING TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 10—(AP)—Rain, which fell continuously the first two weeks of President Coolidge's vacation in northern Wisconsin, soaked the forest around Cedar Island lodge today as he prepared to leave for Washington.

Mayors of Duluth and Superior called the attention of the residents of their respective cities to the fact that the president would make a short talk in the late afternoon at the Superior high school, where his executive offices have been maintained. The talk was in the nature of a farewell and an appreciation for the entertainment he has received at the head of the lakes.

Two thousand persons were waiting on the front lawn of the Superior high school when the president and Mrs. Coolidge arrived by automobile from Cedar Island lodge, where they have been the last three months. Factory, engine and steamboat whistles were blowing as the chief executive entered the city for the last time, and they resumed their blasts as he left the building, which has served as the executive offices this summer, for his train.

CAPITAL VISITORS BRING BABIES, DRESS BETTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Out-of-town visitors to Washington have been increasing in number for many summers, but this year the veteran guides have found fresh cause for speculation.

Many of them, whole families and groups of friends, come in automobiles and one veteran at the white house has observed that they seem to be better dressed than their predecessors of former years. In this situation he sees a marked increase in patriotism and prosperity throughout the country.

"I haven't seen so many babies in all my life as I have this summer," he says. "It's a good thing for them, though, to see the white house while young. The ladies, now, seem to enjoy looking at themselves in the long mirrors."

At the capitol, the older guides are amazed by the visitors' indifference to things political in a presidential campaign year, and by the general lack of information shown by the average tourist concerning governmental affairs. His interest, if any, the guides declare, appears to be confined to matters relating to the president, and many still ask, when they go to the capitol, where the chief executive sleeps.

John Coolidge To Start Work Today

Hours 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. in General Railroad Office in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 10—(AP)—John Coolidge, son of President Calvin Coolidge, having decided that his life's career shall be in the field of transportation and in that particular branch sometimes symbolized by "the iron horse," will start his labors tomorrow as a clerk in the office of J. A. Droege, general manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad here.

The young clerk will be in the operating department of the New Haven system and the office in which he will be the junior clerk is one of many in the general office building of the company which houses practically every departmental head and his immediate staff. The structure itself is familiarly known as "the Yellow Building" because of the color of brick used in its construction. It is close by the New Haven railroad station.

Young Coolidge will be one of many clerks whose duties are diversified and all of whom are under a chief clerk. The office of the general manager is in a sense the heart of the operating system and the staff of Mr. Droege is brought into intimate touch with every part of the system through knowledge of train movements. Mr. Droege, himself, has been an operating officer of the system many years and he followed C. L. Bardo as general manager when the latter resigned. As a division superintendent Mr. Droege came into personal touch with the employes in the operating department and his staff have had the opportunity of becoming intimately acquainted with train operations, and through contests with the mechanical side of railroading.

The announcement of the assignment of John Coolidge to a clerkship came from the executive offices without definition as to exact duties he will take up. These will be set out by the chief clerk in Mr. Droege's office.

Coolidge will probably live in New Haven as work at the start will require his reporting at 8 a. m., and he probably will not leave the office until 5 p. m., these being the customary office hours of scores of clerks in the many offices, except Saturday, which is a short day.

This city is in convenient motoring distance from Plainville, home of Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor Trumbull, to whom John Coolidge has been paying attentions. It is not however, so handy a place to reach from this city by railroad for anyone who is limited in time, as Plainville is off the main line, and few trains stop there.

Young Coolidge motored here in Governor Trumbull's car from Plainville with a chauffeur and his secret service guard. He stopped at the Yale Graduates' club, where he will reside while working in this city, and had dinner with William L. Barnett, assistant general counsel for the New Haven road, and Probate Judge John L. Gilson. Later in the afternoon he went to the offices where he will work and looked over the building.

NO SIGN OF POISON IN BODY OF LOWENSTEIN

PARIS, Sept. 10—(AP)—Rumors that poison had contributed to the death of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian capitalist who fell from his private plane on July 4 while crossing the English channel, were definitely set at rest today by the report of Doctors Paul and Kohn-Abrest. Their examination of the vital organs disclosed no sign of poison.

They found that the financier had lesions of the heart and kidney which would have made him subject to fits of giddiness amounting possibly to loss of consciousness. They found abrasions on the body such as might result from a fall from a great height.

The physicians held that death by accidental fall remains the most plausible theory with the only question left open being whether Lowenstein would have been able to open the cabin door of the plane while in flight.

BRIAND DEFENDS FRANCO-BRITISH NAVAL ACCORD

GENEVA, Sept. 10—(AP)—Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, tonight followed up his virile speech to the assembly of the league of nations in defense of the Franco-British naval accord with a statement that it would be made completely public through the league committee on disarmament.

The speech of M. Briand, in which he took a slap at Russia and reproved some statements made in behalf of Germany, was only one of the events which made the day outstanding in the assembly. Spain, Venezuela and Persia, were elected to three-year terms on the council, Spain winning semi-permanency by receiving the "privilege of re-eligibility." National ist China, refused this distinction, was among the several countries disappointed by the choice of these three.

JUMPED FROM STEAMER AT DOCK IN MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 10—(AP)—In an attempt to commit suicide tonight, a man who gave his name to police only as Sullivan, fought off two attempted by rescuers to save him after he jumped from a river steamer just as it docked here. When he ignored a life preserver thrown to him several men put out in a tug but he refused to leave the water.

A policeman and a civilian then went out in a boat and dragged him into it in an exhausted condition. He was arrested charged with breach of the peace. The steamer was on its way from Hartford to New York.

HELD UNTIL AUTOPSY PERFORMED ON WIFE

STAMFORD, Sept. 10—(AP)—Police are holding Frank Pimioli store owner until an autopsy is completed tomorrow on his wife, Sylvia, found dead in a cot in the rear of their store today. The husband told police his wife collapsed while leaving a telephone booth in the store and that he called the hospital to send an ambulance.

An examination showed no external evidence of violence but Medical Examiner Crane said the man had beaten his wife on several occasions and that he called Coroner Phelan who decided an autopsy should be held.

Radio Wave Lengths To Be Reallocated

Nearly Every One of the 629 Stations Will Be Changed Nov. 11.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—The federal radio commission today completed the task which has occupied most of its time for a year—reallocation of the nation's radio facilities—a plan which in the judgment of the commission and its engineers will place reception on a higher plane than it ever before has enjoyed.

The wave length of nearly every one of the 629 stations in the country will be changed Nov. 11 when the reallocation order takes effect. Existing licenses not otherwise ordered terminated or consolidated were extended for 42 days from Oct. 1 to Nov. 11, and the commission expressed its intention to renew most of the licenses for 90 days thereafter.

Simultaneously the commission ordered a reduction in chain broadcasting. Each of the 40 stations with power of 5,000 watts or more, which will be on cleared channels, were notified that they could broadcast identical programs for but one hour daily from 7 p. m. to midnight, unless the transmitters were separated by a distance in excess of 300 miles, were operated on the same frequency, or received special permission as in cases of extraordinary events.

Anticipating dissatisfaction from certain broadcasters whose assignments will be changed, the commission announced it would afford hearings to those who believe they can justify a better assignment on the ground of public interest, convenience or necessity.

The 40 stations, eight in each zone, which will be allowed exclusive channels in the ether, form the backbone of the reallocation plan. Through numerous consolidations and some eliminations the total number of stations is 103 less than the 732 in operation when the commission began its work, and the commission's engineers believe that this also will afford better reception for those mainly dependent on community stations.

In the new plans, some small stations located in opposite parts of the country, will have the same wave lengths and broadcast either simultaneously or on time-sharing bases. The commission is optimistic that a great amount of the present heterodyning and interference will be obviated by this time-sharing.

The stations on the 40 large assignments in the first zone, with their power and wave lengths include:

WEAF—Bellmore, N. Y.; 50,000 watts, 660 kilocycles.

WOR—Newark, N. J., 5,000 and 710.

WJZ—New York, N. Y., 30,000 and 760.

WABC-WBOQ—New York, N. Y., 5,000 and 860.

WBZ—East Springfield, Mass., 15,000 and 990.

WTIC—Hartford, Conn., 5,000 and 1,060.

WPG—Atlantic City, N. J., and

WLWL—New York, 5,000 and 1,100.

WHAM—Rochester, N. Y., 5,000 and 1,150.

The power in watts and the wave length in kilocycles of Connecticut stations as determined by the new allocation plan follows: (When sharing time, stations have same power and wave unless otherwise stated).

WICC—Easton, 500 and 1,430 shares time with WORL, Tilton, New Hampshire.

WTIC—Hartford, 5,000 and 1,060 shares with WBAL, Glen Morris, Md.

WBRC—New Haven, 500 and 1,330 shares with WCAC, New Haven.

MINERS FORBIDDEN TO MEET IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10—(AP)—The persistent attempt of a group of insurgent miners to hold a national convention for the primary object of forming a new union received another setback today when deputy sheriffs broke up the assemblage in suburban East Pittsburgh after Pittsburgh police decreed they could not meet in the city.

On the heels of a hearing in police court for the 110 men arrested yesterday in consequence of three disturbances among delegates to the convention and those representing the United Mine Workers of America, members of the faction seeking to unseat President John L. Lewis were whisked in machines to East Pittsburgh.

The news of the secret meeting leaked out and deputy sheriffs swooped down upon a hall and requested leaders to disband the meeting.

A few moments later, Pat Toohey, editor of the "Coal Digger" and secretary of the "National Miners" convention arrangements committee and John J. Watt, chairman of the organization, ordered the delegates to leave the hall. The meeting ended in an orderly manner.

FAVORABLE REPORT BY THE U. S. STEEL CORP.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corp., as announced today was greater at the end of August than for that date in any of the past three years, exceeding August of the record year, 1926, by nearly 82,000, and surpassing August of last year by 428,000 tons.

The unfilled bookings totalled 3,624,043 tons, an increase of 53,116 tons over July, which was construed in financial circles as distinctly favorable as buyers did not change their policy of hand-to-mouth buying during the month. The total is within about 13,000 of June, which showed a substantial increase after several months of declines.

Ingot production in August was at the exceptionally high summer rate of 78 per cent of capacity, compared to 75 per cent in July, and 77 1-2 per cent in June.

TO RECEIVE $500 REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF WATKINS

Hickey joined this afternoon, voted to pay a reward of $500 to John B. Taylor, of 324 East Washington street, Sandusky, Ohio, it being asserted that Mr. Taylor actually secured information as to the exact whereabouts of Roger W. Watkins, fugitive broker, on July 31 and imparted the information to Constable E. H. Hotchkiss and Detective Hickey, which resulted in the arrest of Watkins in Lorraine, Ohio.

EARL ROWLAND WINS THE CROSS-COUNTRY AIR DERBY

Rowland Arrived at Municipal Field, Los Angeles, at 2.35 P. M. Yesterday—He Will Receive $5,000 For Winning the Class A Race—Robert Drake, Second, Arrived Before the Dust Raised by Rowland's Plane Had Settled.

MINES FIELD, Los Angeles, Sept. 10—(AP)—Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kas., in a Cessna monoplane, crossed the finish line today, unofficial winner in the Class A transcontinental Derby staged in connection with the 1928 national air races.

Robert Dake of Pittsburgh was second. He crossed the finish line in his American Moth plane before the dust raised by Rowland's plane had settled.

Tex Rankin of Portland, Ore., in a Waco biplane, was third, while W. H. Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., piloting a special racing plane, was fourth.

On the face of unofficial figures compiled at Yuma, Ariz., the last control stop, Dake was leading his nearest competitor for second place by an hour and seven minutes and was believed to have a sufficient margin to place officially second.

Rowland touched ground at 2:35 p. m., unofficial time. A total of $10,000 in prizes besides several trophies will be distributed the winners, as follows:

SECRETARY KELLOGG RETURNS WITH TREATY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Bringing with him the treaty for the renunciation of war, signed by fifteen powers in Paris August 27, Secretary Kellogg returned to Washington today to find that 33 additional nations had officially associated themselves with the movement to promote world peace.

Simultaneously with Mr. Kellogg's arrival came word from Paris that Soviet Russia, invited by France to adhere to the pact, had delivered its official document of adherence to the French ambassador in Moscow last Thursday and that it would be transmitted to Washington for deposit.

Anxious to get back to work after his absence of a little more than three weeks, Mr. Kellogg, apparently benefited physically by his trip, hastened direct to the state department from the train and plunged into business awaiting his attention. The voyages across the Atlantic and back and his visit to Paris and to Ireland proved something of a much needed vacation for Mr. Kellogg as he had had no leave from duty during the summer and at times has been the only cabinet member in Washington.

Mr. Kellogg expressed himself as being very much gratified at the rapidity with which the nations invited to adhere to the treaty have been indicating their intention to do so.

SEVERAL DEATHS IN PRISON BREAK AT BATON ROUGE, LA.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10—(AP)—Led by two desperate men, a group of prisoners attempting to shoot their way out of the state prison camp late last night left a record of dead, dying and wounded, but only two were still at large tonight.

In a short but bloody battle two men were known to have been killed, four others were reported by prison authorities to be dead and a score wounded.

Starting in the prison yard, the gun fight spread outside the gates and into the middle of the Mississippi river where the convicts and guards in separate boats fought it out until the four remaining convicts surrendered.

Two slipped away when the shooting started and two posses led by bloodhounds searching along the river for them tonight. Prison officials said the plot was originated by Cleveland Oten, until his incarceration five years ago a New Orleans contractor. He took into the plot Stephen J. Beck, sentenced for bank robbery, and Jim Heard, serving a ten year sentence for store robbery.

They planned to make the break spread among the prisoners and some dozen insisted on joining.

REPAIR OF HUMAN BODIES COSTS ABOVE $1,000,000,000 A YEAR

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Sept. 10—(AP)—The annual repair bill of human bodies was estimated at more than a billion dollars by Dr. Charles W. Herty, of New York in a report today to the division of medicinal chemistry of the American Chemistry society, now in convention at the New Ocean house.

To this figure, Dr. Herty added the loss of wages estimated at least two million dollars and about six billion dollars as representing the financial value of lives lost through premature death from preventable diseases.

Dr. Herty's report was on the proposed establishment by congress of a national institute of health, a project which he declared to be practically assured. Chemists from this country and Europe assembled today for the scientific sessions of the society which begin tomorrow. An attendance of about 2,000 was on hand.

GOV. SMITH REPLIES TO ATTACK OF OGDEN L. MILLS

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10—(AP)—An old political foe—Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury, who two years ago tried to wrest the governorship from him—drew the fire today of Governor Smith in response to a renewed attack on his management of New York state fiscal affairs.

The democratic presidential nominee, in a statement dictated to a stenographer in the presence of more than a dozen newspaper reporters, declared that Mills was "again engaged in his pet pastime of misstating and misrepresenting the fiscal affairs of his own state of New York."

As he rapidly phrased his counter attack the governor had before him a newspaper clipping of an address in Utica Saturday in which the treasury official contended that under Smith's administration the revenues of the state had increased and that there has been neither tax reduction nor a decrease of the state debt.

"From July 1, 1927 to July 1, 1928, the state debt was reduced by $3,742,000," Governor Smith countered. "On July 1, 1928, the total indebtedness of the state was $359,817,000 and to meet the indebtedness the state had in its sinking fund on July 1, 1928—$100,120,027.92.

"He misstates the situation when he says there has been no tax reduction. The taxes on real estate were reduced year after year, giving relief to the small home owner and the farmer. The actual reduction is from $32,467,458 in 1923 to $14,439,167 in 1928, a saving to the taxpayers of more than $18,000,000 as between those two years.

"Not only did we give tax reduction to the small home owner and the farmer but we gave a 25 per cent reduction in income taxes to all the taxpayers in that class during the years 1924, 1925, and 1926, and in the same period by moving up the brackets we relieved 200,000 people of the burden of paying any income tax.

"Mr. Mills further says that an increase in the public debt has been authorized. Authorized by whom? By the people of the state of New York and cannot be incurred without an act of the legislature, since authorization by the people all bonds issued have been issued pursuant to legislative enactment by a senate and assembly in full control of the members of Mr. Mills' own political party."

FAVORABLE REPORTS GIVEN NOMINEE HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Herbert Hoover gave his attention to an analysis of the political conditions in three widely segrated states today before turning to the task of completing his Newark speech.

Visitors at the headquarters of the republican presidential candidate brought him reports on conditions existing in Montana, Massachusetts and Wisconsin. While these were tinged with optimism, there will be no let up in the drives that are being made in the effort to win them in November.

Wisconsin, where factional insurgency has thrown the state into a class with those which both parties are claiming, drew his attention first. Irvine L. Lenroot, a former senator from that state, called upon the nominee to tell him that the selection of Walter Koehler as gubernatorial candidate by the republicans would insure a republican victory there in November.

The serious fight ahead in Massachusetts was recognized in a statement by Louis K. Liggett, republican national committeeman for that state, who, with Francis Prescott, republican state chairman from Massachusetts, and John Richardson, of Boston, chairman of the independent Hoover-Curtis committee, conferred with Hoover during the morning.

"Massachusetts will be republican if we can get out the republican vote," Liggett said, adding that organization work had not progressed far because of the state primaries to be held next week.

"ICE BOX BANDITS" GO ON TRIAL FOR MURDER TODAY AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 10—Roland Lalone, 21, and Albert Raymond, 20, alleged "ice-box bandits" of Worcester, Mass., will go on trial in defense of their lives on a charge of the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson in Pomfret, in the Windham county superior court convening in this city at 10 o'clock (D. S. T.), Tuesday morning. Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover will be on the bench and the trial will be by jury. It is expected that at least two days will be consumed in selecting a jury of 12 from the 100 talesmen, who were summoned about ten days ago for the case.

There are predictions that the trial proper will run over a period of nearly three weeks, inasmuch as between 60 and 70 witnesses are to take the stand, many of these being residents of Worcester and vicinity who are expected to attempt to establish alibis as to the whereabouts of the youths on the night of April 6, last. On that night the two young men who were believed to be the "ice-box bandits," who had been operating in Springfield, Mass., robbed a filling station and eluded Motorcycle Officer Raymond Gallagher of the Springfield police department after a chase. A Willys-Knight sedan bearing the Massachusetts registration number 401,976, given by the Springfield police as the number of the bandit car, is believed to be the machine that stopped at a filling station in this city for a supply of gasoline and then drove on in the general direction of Putnam. The machine evaded the local police and continued on toward Pomfret. Meanwhile word had been received at the Danielson state police barracks and Officer Nelson, driving a motorcycle, stationed himself at Green's corner in Pomfret.

This was at 7:15 o'clock in the evening. As the car shot through Pomfret the officer gave chase on his motorcycle, when pistols held by occupants of the machine barked out. One shot entered the right side between the fifth and sixth ribs and went through the body and another shot struck between the eighth and ninth ribs. Witnesses claimed that six shots were fired. Game to the last, the young officer avoided being ditched by the roadside and drove into the yard of the Briggs place, where he collapsed. The suspected car was later found abandoned in Dudley, Mass., and identified as one stolen from Francis J. Higgins of 27 West street, Worcester, Mass.

Lalone and Raymond were arrested a few days later and subsequently taken to Springfield where they were held on various charges. The Connecticut authorities produced grounds for their extradition to this state to stand trial for murder and papers were signed by Governor Fuller of Massachusetts on May 18. Since that time the young men have been incarcerated at the county jail in Brooklyn. They were indicted on a first-degree murder charge by a Windham county jury convened in this city, and in June were put to plea before Judge E. C. Dickenson of the superior court. They pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by jury.

The winner of the event was Esther Morrison, former national junior champion and present holder of the senior New England championship. Saturday night, like Abou Ben Adhem, Mr. Gray awoke from a deep dream of peace. There came from outside the noise of tramping, then a distinct munching sound, with now and then a smack of satisfaction. Mr Gray went to the window and threw up the sash to see what was the matter. A large animal could be dimly made out, helping himself to corn, pole beans and cabbage in a manner heartrending to the owner. Mr. Gray raised an alarm without delay, calling out his three sons. Brooms, pitchforks and a half dozen brick bats, delivered carefully at close range, proved effective argument in routing a wandering horse, which has done considerable damage to local gardens of late.

NOANK

LOCAL BALL TEAM ATTENDS THE BIG DOUBLE-HEADER

Lefty Bob Grove of the Philadelphia team is a great friend of Coach Billie Crane, of the Dance Hall Nine. A telegram came from Lefty Grove in Boston telling Coach Crane to bring his Dance Hall Nine team to New York Sunday to be the guests of the Athletics and see all the players. Coach Crane was with the star pitcher in Baltimore. He put off the game in the village for the week end and the Dance Hall party of eleven players left the fishing village Saturday evening and took the New London boat for New York, bound for the big games of the season in the big city. After having lunch at the Commodore hotel where the team put up, they were off to the stadium to see the man with the express ball, Grove. Soon they were shaking hands with all the Philadelphia players and Ty Cobb gave them a laugh. Then taking a line of seats reserved for them they were ready for the first game. It was late in getting started and Jack Quinn had them on the go for a few innings. Then the Yankees got on their batting suits and won the first game 5 to 0. The dance steppers were cheering for Connie Mack's men to win. After having hot dogs and soda water the second battle was on. For the first seven innings it looked like a victory for Philadelphia with a lead of 3 to 1. What a noise when Simmons hit a home run with a man on base! Several of the fellows of the dance hall team had to come home without their straw hats, the crowd breaking them. The cheering could be heard for several blocks. Cheer Leader A. Crowell in front said "Give them the heavy oil!" but the Yankees took the second game. It was the Noank jazz dancers' first league games to watch, taking them all night. Flash McDonald wanted to know where did the umpire get all the baseballs from; does a freight car back into the grounds and unload them? Coach Billie Crane got a new ball from Haas, Philadelphia center fielder, who wrote his name on it and it will be put in the rooms of the Corn Cob club on exhibition for a few days. Leaving the Grand Central station for the fishing village, the party got home at 2 o'clock in the morning. Everybody had a real time but were disappointed at not seeing the Mack men crew win.

R. Johnstone has returned to New York after spending the summer in the village.

Robert Hall of New York spent the week end with Noank friends.

Miss Helen Rodd of Waverly, Mass., is visiting her cousin, Sidney Buteon.

Evelyn Swan of Boston visited in the village with friends over Sunday.

GROCERIES FOR DINNER WENT A GOOD MANY MILES

Mrs. Fred Larkin who lives a mile from the village and has a small chicken farm, sent her son Bert down to the village after a loaf of bread and a bag of potatoes for dinner, last Wednesday morning. She did not hear from him for several days. Sunday morning his mother had the Boy Scout troop hunting the nearby woods, thinking that he got lost or had met with an accident. Bert told his story later. He got down to the village and bought the bread and potatoes and put them in the back of the car. Then he ran across an old friend from New Jersey who was looking the town over, Billie Duerr, whom he had known for several years. They got talking about the old days back in New Jersey and Bert said "Jump in! We will go for a ride." They finally landed in Canada, then went to New York state and Philadelphia. "Gee!" he said, "I got some groceries for dinner and forgot to leave them! We saw some fine sights, stopping in a town in Vermont where two mails a day come in. We came across an old farm house that was taking in tourists for the night, got a room and it did seem good to hit the hay after being behind a wheel for so many hours. Getting up early the next morning we had breakfast—read buckwheat cakes, with Vermont syrup, eggs on toast and tea. An old lady of 94 was waiting on us and said 'Be sure and have enough! It is a long while before the sun goes down for your supper!' One never would think that the lady was that old. She sewed without glasses, gets the axe and cuts wod and has learned how to do the Charleston. It was a real breakfast with the Vermont people. We travelled 2,500 miles and had no tire trouble; and mother, the potatoes and bread were with us! I still have them for dinner, if it is not too late!"

Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Tobin of Westerly called on Mr. and Mrs. George Cutler Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Welles and family have returned to Jamesport, L. I., after spending the summer in the village.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

You asked my advice regarding the WIRING and EQUIPPING of your home and I would suggest that you get in touch with THE ACME ELECTRIC COMPANY at 23 Church street, if you would like good service. This shop is managed by Elmer M. Young and has been established over twenty years, earning a reputation for dependability and work well done.

Mr. Young has a complete line of appliances, including Flats, Curling and Waffle Irons, Toasters, Heaters, Percolators, Lamps, etc. In his display room he has a very fine assortment of the very newest styles in electrical fixtures.

Jack is very interested in his radio department. He sells the Fada and Mohawk makes and is always glad to give demonstrations. The term payment is always allowed at the ACME ELECTRIC SHOP and of course is an agreeable feature. Old radios are considered in trade also. The Fada "10" is certainly a wonderful radio. This machine sells at $110 and uses the revolutionary indirect heater type of A. C. tubes, which makes them last three times as long as ordinary tubes, minimizing line hum and insuring steady volume regardless of current fluctuations. Tone Quality, Selectivity, Distance Range and Reliability are all special features of this machine. It comes in a splendid metal cabinet and stand and Mr. Young has them to match whatever kind of furniture you are using. He also sells the Cunningham tubes and carries a large assortment at all times.

Trusting that this information will completely solve your electrical problems, I remain

YOURS, JANE.

THE BEAUTY OF THE NEW COATS WILL SURPRISE YOU

The cloths are unusual and the furs are better than ever.
There will be no better time this year to select a new coat than now, while the assortment is complete.
One reason is because the coats were made during recent months when there was a plenty of time for care in workmanship; the coats which will be made later will be hurried through the process, with the usual result of haste.
The furs on the coats are better than on those which will be used later because there is a limited supply of the better grades.
At this time it will be possible to accept orders for "special measure" coats; later there will be difficulty in obtaining the better cloths.
It will be profitable for you to see the coats as early as possible, when we have plenty of time to show them all to you.
If you should select one, we will lay it aside until you are ready for it; come in and take a good look at them.
The prices are $25.00 and better.

NEGLECTED CEMETERIES

Now that more people are traveling about the country by motor and getting into all the small towns as well as the cities, the opportunity is being afforded to note the condition of the numerous country cemeteries.

This state of negligence is not a new situation. It has prevailed for a long time, being worse in some sections than in others. But as time goes on there are fewer persons left to show an interest in many of these burying places, especially when they are cemeteries in which only a few families are buried.

Lieutenant Colonel W. C. Metcalf, cemetery supervisor of the Rhode Island board of soldiers relief, has been looking up graves of revolutionary soldiers in that state and in locating three he found them almost totally obscured and expressed the belief that through the historical pride of those living in the vicinity of the cemeteries and the cooperation of his organizations a much needed improvement of the cemeteries could be effected.

It is unfortunate that such neglect exists. Connecticut has adopted a law which makes it possible for those with an interest in small cemeteries to provide for their care through placing funds with designated officials. This permits those who live at a distance to have their wishes complied with and should prevent cemetery lots from getting into that condition which resembles a brush lot or a bramble patch.

The Rhode Island official is particularly interested in the graves of early heroes. That is as it should be, but while there is reason for that action there is also just as good reason for showing an interest in the general upkeep of each and every cemetery. It is unfortunate that neglect has got the upper hand. Could the present disgraceful situation, in many instances, have been anticipated by those who years ago established and maintained such cemeteries provision would probably have been made for some degree of care. The number interested is now growing less each year and the situation calls not only for putting them into decent shape but keeping them that way.

REFUSING TO COOPERATE

There are not many states but what have found it necessary to adopt special legislation dealing with headlights on automobiles. This is because of so many accidents and because of a recognized need of doing something to increase the safety on the highways at night.

Under the do-as-you-please plan of maintaining automobile lights there are those who have insisted in driving with nothing but parking lights. Those who have maintained such glaring headlights that drivers going in the opposite direction have been blinded those who have neglected their tail lights, those who have driven with one light and those whose headlights have been so dim that it was difficult to distinguish them at any distance. Because there has been such a general inclination to do just as one pleased regardless of personal safety or the rights of others regulations have had to be adopted.

For a great many such regulations involved no new obligations. They were already complying with the safety requirements of the law. But the adoption of regulations sets a standard to which all should be anxious to conform. If such were the case there would be little work on the part of those who are required to enforce the law. The fact is, of course, that there are always those who seem to take delight in doing just the opposite of what is required and by their conduct actually demanding enforcement. They persist in driving without lights, with poor lights or glaring lights, with lights focussed into the air instead of toward the ground.

It is unfortunate when laws governing such conditions are established without being given the proper support for their enforcement. Self enforcement doesn't make much headway, and yet when it is realized that dangerous conditions demand corrective restrictions it is a deplorable fact that so many insist upon taking chances in refusing compliance just because funds haven't been provided to place an officer on every corner as a monitor. It is this very attitude which makes necessary the ever increasing list of laws and regulations.

SPEEDY AIR SERVICE

In recognition of the advantages to a community from air transportation Philadelphia long since established an airport. Within the past few months it has gotten complaints over the unsatisfactory condition in which it is kept, and the latest notification is to the effect that if the municipal landing field isn't improved the air mail service will be cut off.

It cannot fail to be appreciated that if a landing field is worth having it is worth maintaining. If it is going to gain for the city the advantages which are sought it must be kept in a condition that will not endanger the lives of the aviators or the destruction of the planes. Evidently Philadelphia has been slow in responding to the previous warning, for although it has appropriated the funds it has failed to get the work done.

If the air mail service was worth getting in the first place it must be recognized as being much more valuable today with more business promised through the reduction in rates. It would be most unfortunate for a city of the size of Philadelphia to be shorn of such a service.

Perhaps this situation can be quite as well appreciated by the cities which as yet are without direct air mail service. It will, in the ordinary course of events, be a considerable time before all cities, large and small are able to get mail deliveries through the air, but when it is seen that those with landing fields are in so much closer touch with the outside world it cannot fail to emphasize the need of retaining fields that are already established. On the other hand cities which are without airports are not unmindful of the desirability of providing improved facilities in transportation by encouraging landing fields. Most every city today can get the benefit of air mail by having mail matter transported overland to certain points. The service would be rendered much quicker if landing fields made possible the carrying of this mail all the way by air. For the same reason that Philadelphia cannot afford to lose its air mail service other cities are justified in clamoring for it.

GETTING OUT THE VOTE

The appeal which has been made by Congressman John Q. Tilson of this state, director of the eastern division of the republican speakers' bureau, to non partisan organizations to make a concerted effort to induce citizens to register so that no voter may fail to cast his ballot in November must be regarded as well directed.

It is an appeal which is being and should be made directly to the individuals for the number who disregard their franchise or neglect their duty on election day is surprisingly large. When it is realized that millions fail to register in states where such procedure is necessary and that only about 50 per cent. of the people entitled to vote actually go to the polls even on a presidential election, it can be realized that there is plenty of opportunity for doing some real work in the direction the congressman urges.

In connection with such efforts, there is also the same good reason for the work that is being done in urging all who are eligible to become voters. This is an important step which too many have neglected. If they came to a realization of it themselves all the better, but if they need encouragement to provide themselves with the right to vote there is no better time than a presidential campaign to see that it is given.

All those who can be should be made voters and all voters should be sufficiently impressed with the value of their franchise to use it whenever possible. Perhaps greater efforts are being made this year than before in these directions by both political parties but it will have to be admitted that it is a sound and sensible effort even though it ought not to be necessary to devote so much work in arousing citizens to their patriotic and intelligent duty on election day.

THE HUGHES SELECTION

As a successor to John Bassett Moore on the bench of the world court of international justice no better selection could have been made had it been left to this country than the choice of Charles Evans Hughes. He typifies the high calibre of a man and jurist that is needed for such a place and it is most gratifying to note that this is the sentiment of so many other nations, for it was the vote of other nations that filled the vacancy.

The selection is an excellent one not only because of the recognized ability of the former secretary of state and former member of the United States supreme court, but because of the manner in which he has always stood for the judicial settlement of international disputes.

It cannot help being felt that the international court has been strengthened by the selection of Mr. Hughes. He has made a telling impression in every instance where he has had to deal with international problems. It cannot be forgotten what an influence he was at the time of the Washington conference which resulted in the naval agreement and again when he addressed the nations of this hemisphere at the recent Pan-American conference at Havana. That he has won the admiration and confidence of the large and small nations of the world is reflected in the practically unanimous vote in his behalf, though there was nothing that required the choice of an American. Whether his election will serve to create any greater interest in the court from the United States is a question. Certainly it will not be the means of decreasing it.

MR. QUEERIE SPEAKS A PIECE

"Miss Remwood!" called Mr. Queerie, "I wish yo'd look up these statistics. I want them to brighten up my talk to the Coterie club."

"But, Mr. Queerie," ventured Miss Remwood, after a glance at the memorandum, "do you think the men will care how many quills were imported in 1927?"

"Maybe not," answered Mr. Queerie, "but they'd think I was the dickens of a business man if I didn't feed 'em figures."

"And if," said Miss Remwood, with another glance at the memo, "you trace the use of quill pens from medieval times——"

"Have to give 'em something solid," interrupted Mr. Queerie. "As business men, they expect that. So type the memo and fill in the correct figures. Old Grabbit of Chain Gift Shoppes will be there, and I don't want to trip up."

"Chain Gift Shoppes," murmurred Miss Remwood with a strange light in her eyes, "5,000 stores!"

"I'll be next," thought Mr. Queerie, pulling out the folded memo Miss Remwood had slipped into his hand as he left the office. A glance and he stiffened in his chair. Not a figure on the paper! Not a word about quills in the dark ages! He was sunk. Well, he'd have to say something. His drowning mind grasped at the typewritten straws and presently he found himself on his feet.

"Quill pens (Mr. Queerie heard himself saying) are not what they used to be, but I won't blame either the war or the movies. (A rustle of surprise.) Instead of clerks engrossing with quills we have stenographers engrossed in what he said she said. Yet the quill pen is winning a new place in the American home. You've noticed the large green or red feather protruding from a porcelain doodad on your wife's desk?" ("You bet!" "Sure thing!")

"To be sure you have; you couldn't miss it. Well, as Solomon might have said, there are two things a woman never knows, yea, three on which her mind is a blank—the right time, the day of the month, and where she left her fountain pen." ("Ha ha!" "Hot stuff!") "That, gentlemen, is where the red or green quill comes in—it's harder to lose than a Christmas tree." ("Attaboy!" "Bigger and better quills!")

"And since speaking of quills doesn't remind me of a story about Pat and Mike, I will now imitate the goose which gives us our quills, and let some other bird do the talking." (Cheers, laughter, and cries of "What's the matter with Queerie!")

"It's a razz," thought the dazed speechmaker, though a large alligator-faced man slapped him on the shoulder with, "Queerie, I'm Grabbit. Never heard an argument better put. Chain Gift Shoppes will run a 'Queerie Quill' week, with your own slogan across every window— 'You can't lose a Queerie Quill!' We'll take ten thousand gross to begin with."

Miss Remwood started as Mr. Queerie entered the office.

"H-how did your speech go?" she asked.

"We got Chain Gift Shoppes," answered Mr. Queerie.

"Isn't that just wonderful! Then they liked your speech?"

"I'm afraid they razzed it," answered Mr. Queerie, with some acerbity, picking up the jingling telephone, "Mr. Queerie speaking."

"This is the editorial director of Hustle—the Business Man's Klaxon. I heard about your hit at the Coterie club. Hustle wants to sign you up for a weekly article."

"There my—the speech went over?" asked Mr. Queerie.

"A knockout!" said the editorial director. "It was different. It stopped when it stopped. What about the weekly article?"

"E—ah—" said Mr. Queerie, "you'll have to—er—see Miss Remwood about that."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Plea For Prohibition

Dear Editor: Do we need to study or experiment on the question of prohibition any more than to study on the most evil thing in the world? Please let me cite one instance, only one out of thousands of just the same:

"Prisoner of the bar, have you anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon you?" A solemn hush fell over the crowded courtroom, everyone waited in almost breathless silence for the answer. The judge waited in dignified silence. Not a sound was heard, and the situation became oppressive, when the prisoner was seen to move his head was raised, his hand was clenched and the blood rushed into his pale careworn face.

He arose to his feet, and in a firm distinct voice said:

"I have your honor. You have asked me a question, and now I ask, as the last favor on earth, that you will not interrupt my answer.

"I stand here before this bar, convicted of the wilful murder of my wife, truthful witnesses have testified to the fact that I was a loafer, a drunkard and a wretch. That I had returned from one of these debauches and fired the shot that killed my wife, I had sworn to love and cherish and protect. While I have no rememberance of committing the fearful deed I have no right to complain or to condemn the verdict.

"But may it please the court, I wish to show that I am not alone responsible for the murder of my wife."

This statement created a great sensation with both judge and jurors. The prisoner paused a few seconds then continued:

"I repeat your honor, that I am not the only one guilty of my wife's murder. The judge on this bench, the jury in the box, the lawyers within this bar and many of the witnesses, are also guilty before God, and will have to stand with me before His judgment throne where we shall be righteously judged. If it had not been for the saloons in my town I never would have been a drunkard; my wife would not have been murdered; I would not have been here now, to be hurled into eternity.

"Had it not been for these human traps I would have been a sober industrious man, a tender father and loving husband. My home is destroyed, my wife murdered, my little children, God bless them—cast out on the world, while I am to be hanged by the strong arm of the state.

"God knows I tried to reform, but as long as the open saloon was in my pathway, my will power was no match against the fearful, consuming, agonizing appetite for liquor. For one year our town was without a saloon. For one year I was a sober man. For one year my wife and children were happy, and our little home was a paradise. I was one of those who signed remonstrances against reopening the saloon of our town. One half of this jury, the prosecuting attorney on this case, and the judge who sits on this bench, all voted for the saloons. By their votes and influence the saloons were reopened, and they have made me what I am."

The impassioned words of the prisoner fell like coals of fire on the hearts of those present, and many of the spectators and some of the lawyers were moved to tears, the judge made a motion as if to stop further speech, when the speaker said:

"No! No! Your honor, do not close my lips. I am nearly through. I began my downward career at a saloon bar legalized and protected by the voters of this town. After the saloon you allowed has made me a drunkard and murderer, I am taken before another bar the bar of justice and now the law power will conduct me to the place of execution, and hasten my soul into eternity. I shall appear before another bar—the judgment bar of God—and there you, who have legalized the traffic, will have to appear with me. Think you that the Great Judge will hold me—the poor, weak, helpless victim of your traffic—alone responsible for the murder of my wife? Nay, I, in my drunken, frenzied irresponsible condition have murdered one, but you have deliberately voted for the saloon, which have murdered thousands.

"You that vote for saloons, are guilty for the murder before God and man for the murder of my wife. Your honor, I am now done. I am now ready to receive my sentence and be led forth to the place of execution. You will close by asking God to have mercy on my soul. I will close by solemnly asking God to open your blind eyes, to your own individual responsibility, so that you will cease to give support to this dreadful traffic."

FOR PROHIBITION.

New Electric Rates

Mr. Editor: The writer would like to obtain space in your paper for the consideration of the new gas and electrim department rates, being of interest to all users.

Last year this department was reported operating satisfactorily with a profit. Also, a few months ago a part of this profit was returned to customers in the form of a discount from one month's bill. But the new rates will now yield an increase of revenue, in other words, the customers are given something, only to have it taken from them again!

Another feature is that they are difficult to understand by the average person, who knows little or nothing of volts, amperes, watts, or the power of kilo. Again, if a person has several rooms in a home, the cost of electricity is apparently based, not upon actual consumption, but upon the number of rooms, even if those rooms are but rarely used, not to mention the fact that hallways, pantries, sinkrooms and bathrooms, used on the average much more often than spare rooms, are not charged for.

Also, if one has an electric refrigerator, there is now a tax of one dollar a month on that, plus the amount of electricity it uses. In other words, one pays $12 a year to the city just to own such a refrigerator, even if it isn't used the whole year round.

When a city levies a tax for operations, such a tax is brought before a city meeting, for the people to vote upon, but here we have one of the city departments going right ahead, charging whatever they figure they want in the face of big profits the previous year. In such a department as electrical service to the city, it is hardly fair that such large profits should be accumulated at all. The taxpayer pays to operate that department in part and if there are no profits made in other departments, why should there be such in this? Reduced profits will mean reduced rates on electricity. If there is need of more money in the department, it is the opinion of the writer that some reasons should be given to the people for whom this department works, and if necessary, the demand for economy should be very strongly announced.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—The only American diplomat who practices the diplomatic business of peace-making in working hours and puts in his leave preparing for war has just doffed his Sam Browne belt and khaki to resume his silk tile and spats.

He is Noble Brandon Judah, colonel of field artillery and commanding the 332nd gun regiment. Organized Reserves, between times; at other times ambassador plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to the Republic of Cuba.

Judah put in a full hitch of summer training with the mobilizable elements of his regiment in Wisconsin.

The government's war arm authorities are very proud of the fact that they have a real, live ambassador to order around at times. They made considerable of it in war department announcements. It's good preparedness propaganda. It is particularly good in Judah's case because of a brilliant Illinois national guard field gun battery war record.

He entered the big show with an assigned to the Rainbow division, won a majority in his regiment, and became assistant chief of staff of the division under Colonel, now Major General Douglas MacArthur. Judah did so well as assistant chief of staff that he went up another step to the rank of lieutenant colonel and became assistant chief of staff of the first army corps. He's now a full colonel of artillery in the Officers Reserve corps. And if industry and application count for anything he's ant to be a brigadier general right soon.

Too Much Popularity.

Another diplomat who has attracted attention is Roy T. Davis, minister to Costa Rica. He was so popular at his post that when a Honduran newspaper published an attack on him some months ago, charging that he was virtually an agent of a fruit company in his efforts at mediation of the Honduran-Guatemalan boundary dispute, the government of Costa Rica sent official communication to Honduras denouncing the charge as slanderous. It gave Davis such a glowing tribute as to shatter all precedent. There probably is no similar case on record where one government has felt impelled to make a strongly worded communication to a second government upholding the integrity and ability of the diplomatic representative of a third government.

It was quite embarrassing to Davis, pleased as he must have been to get this striking disclosure of his standing with the government to which he was accredited. Nor was that all, for the people of the Costa Rican capital took up the outcry against the Honduran newspaper attack. They started a movement to declare a national holiday in his honor and to make him the recipient of impressive evidences of popular favor. The government of Costa Rica lent its hearty support to the project.

Official Relief.

Davis was in some difficulty over the matter which conceivably could involve new obstacles to the job he had in hand, straightening out the Honduran-Guatemalan boundary dispute that goes back to Spanish colonial days and on which another deadlock had been reached. A fortuitous order from Washington called him home to advise with the secretary of state on that subject. He avoided the difficulty without giving anyone cause for offense. He has been in Washington ever since, and that accounts for the recent correspondence between Washington, Honduras and Gautemala proposing arbitration before the Central American Tribunal.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Sugar-House Has Another Visitor.

Troubles hard to meet today
Will tomorrow pass away.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whitefoot and little Mrs. Whitefoot didn't leave the old sugar-house for two or three days after the visit of Yowler the Bobcat. They didn't put so much as a whisker outside. Every time they were tempted to go out they thought of the terrible screech Yowler had given when he voiced his disappointment at being unable to get into the sugar-house. And when they thought of that screech they shivered. Yes, they did, they shivered.

But the troubles of little wood and meadow folk are soon forgotten. It is a good thing that it is so. It would be a good thing if we humans could forget our troubles as quickly and as easily as do the little people in feathers and fur. During the daytime Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were not inclined to go out much, but when the Black Shadows began to creep through the Green Forest the temptation to go outside was almost too much to be resisted. You see, that is Wood Mouse playtime.

"I don't believe Yowler will come back again," said Whitefoot. "He knows now that he can't get at us, so I don't believe he will waste his time."

"Perhaps not," said Mrs. Whitefoot, "but Yowler is a wise old cat. He knows that we are not going to stay inside here always. He'll give us time to forget about him and then he will come snooping around again. We'll have to watch out when we go outside, just as we always have watched out wherever we have been. I can think of lots of things I would rather do than furnish Yowler the Bobcat a bite for dinner."

"Sno can I," said Whitefoot. "So can I, and not think very hard either. Hello, what's that noise?"

Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot crowded close together and stared down in a corner of the little sugar-house where the woodpile used to be and where there was still a little wood. They had heard a noise down there.

"There's some one there!" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot. "You-you-you don't suppose Yowler, or one of his family has dug his way in underneath!"

Whitefoot shook his head most decidedly. "No," said he in a whisper, "I don't suppose anything of the kind."

"But there certainly is some one down there," whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

She was right. Just then a stick of wood was pushed aside and a sharp face peered out. Whitefoot gave a little sigh of thankfulness. "It's our big cousin, Trader the Wood Rat," he whispered.

Mrs. Whitefoot had never met Trader, so she was a little bashful. She hung back. But Whitefoot was not afraid. He hopped down from where they were sitting.

"Good evening, Cousin Trader," said he.

Trader the Wood Rat, for that is what it really was, looked at Whitefoot in some surprise. "What are you doing over here, Cousin Whitefoot?" he inquired mildly.

"I might ask the same thing of you," retorted Whitefoot. "If you really want to know," he added, "Mrs. Whitefoot and I are living here now."

"Oh, that's it!" exclaimed Trader, coming wholly into view now. "Well, there are times when it is a very good place to live. I used to live here once. In fact, I'm thinking a little bit about moving back here now."

Whitefoot looked at Mrs. Whitefoot and she at him and there was doubt in both little faces.

"Oh!" said Whitefoot, and then said nothing more, for, for the life of him, he could think of nothing more to say.

Helen was visiting her grandmother, and in the house were two aunts and three cousins who were also on a vacation trip. One morning, Helen, who was almost three, heard one of her aunts say, "I cannot understand why my toothbrush is wet for I have not used it as yet this morning. Mine was wet the other morning, too."

"Mine was wet the other day before I had used it," remarked a cousin.

"Oh, does each one have a tooth brush? I have just been using any of them," confessed the child.

WEDDINGS

Rutherford-Bullard

A delightful home wedding took place at Temple Spring Farm, Montville, Saturday afternoon at 4.30 when Miss Doris E. Bullard became the bride of James Rutherford of Norwich.

Joseph Rutherford, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Marion Allard, cousin of the bride acted as bridesmaid.

As the pianist, Miss Faith Allen played "O Promise Me," the best man and groom entered the parlors.

The music changed to Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus and two tiny nieces of the bride, dressed alike in white net over peach satin, strewed flowers in the path of the bridal party and were followed by the bridesmaid, dressed in peach colored crepe, bearing an arm bouquet of gladioli and asters.

The bride was beautiful in white satin crepe and lace with veil of silk net with lace border and lace coronet, trimmed with lilies of the valley and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts of the Greeneville Congregational church performed the ceremony, using the double ring service.

The rooms were attractively decorated with palms and cut flowers.

A delicious lunch was served on the lawn the sisters and cousins of the bride waiting upon the party.

About twenty relatives and friends were present from Norwich, Waterford, Montville, Franklin and Charlestown, N. H. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts of silver, glass, pyrex, linen, clock and other things.

Early in the evening the newly married couple left for a trip through the White mountains and New England states.

The bride is a graduate of the Chapman Technical school also of Backus hospital, Norwich and is a registered nurse. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bullard of Temple Spring Farm.

The groom is a popular employe of the Connecticut Trolley company.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford have a host of friends who wish them all happiness in their married life.

Farrell presided at the organ and at the offertory Wiegand's Ave Marie was sung by Mrs. Harold F. Desmond. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Joseph H. Buteau. She wore a period gown of white satin, with tiny satin petals picoted in silver threads. Around her head was a narrow satin ribbon band caught at either side with orange blossoms. Her veil of silk tulle was attached to the band. She carried Easter lilies and she wore a pearl necklace and brooch, a family heirloom worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings.

The bridesmaid was Miss Doris Buteau, her sister, who wore a sleeveless gown, with bodice fashioned of fuschia transparent velvet, the skirt being composed of hand-fringed taffeta ruffles. Her bouquet was of yellow gladioli tied with fuschia tulle.

Lawrence J. Stanley, brother of the groom, was the best man and the ushers were Thomas J. Driscoll and Harold F. Desmond.

STONINGTON REPUBLICANS TAKE VOTE BY CHECK LIST

Over 1,000 republicans assembled at Stonington hall Monday evening for the republican town caucus. Dr. James H. Weeks, presiding as chairman, stated that the indication showed that a 1,000 plurality would be rolled up for the local republican ticket. Jerome S. Anderson, Jr., was elected clerk. The nominees were as follows;

Assessor; Raoul M. Delagrange named by Lorenzo D. Fairbrother, to succeed Charles O. Ryan declined.

Board of relief; James Cooper of Mystic named by C. C. Potter.

First selectman, John Fribance of Mystic.

The contest came when nomination for a second selectman was called for. Arthur F. Babcock of Pawcatuck, present incumbent, was placed in nomination by Charles J. Norris, followed by cheers and applause.

Frank L. Furness was nominated by Karl G. Stillman, who said that he had been criticized as a member of the school committee in taking sides, but insisted that he had a right to express his opinion under the constitution. He said Mr. Furness was loyal and was well known in the townstate and New England. When reference was made that liquor was sold in the town of Stonington and Mr. Furness would clean it up, the remaining remarks were lost in laughter. Alexander Marr seconded the nomination. The check list was called for and voting started; tellers, George E. Leonard and Alexander Marr. The registrars of voters checked the list and voting continued from 8:18 to 10:03, with the count resulting as follows: Babcock 554, Furness 96, Platt 3.

While the tellers were counting the ballots for second selectman, the following business proceeded: Agent of town deposit fund, John Fribance; auditor, Louis E. Hammond; tax collector, D. Everett Hoxie (with applause); constables, First district, William Ostman; Second, C. Wilson Brown; Fourth, William H. Noyes; Fifth, Urban C. Whitford. Registrars of voters, First district, Dr. James H. Weeks. A contest occurred in the Second district on registrars when John S. Chappell of Pawcatuck was elected by acclamation over Louis E. Burdick. Third district, Seth N. Williams; Fourth, Fred Moll; Fifth, Albert A. Haley.

When nominations were called for school committee a repetition of the procedure in the vote of selectmen was enacted. Carl G. Stillman, present incumbent, named by James Cooper, was opposed by Thomas R. Platt named by Albert A. Haley. The vote by check list gave Platt the nomination by 225 votes over 199 for Stillman.

Lorenzo B. Fairbrother was nominated without opposition as the second member of the school committee.

During the caucus the vote in the Maine election was announced by the chairman, through the courtesy of The Norwich Bulletin, which furnished the figures.

FENTON NOT ENDORSED BY WILLIMANTIC REPUBLICANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 10—One of the largest attendance in years at a republican caucus crowded the superior court rooms tonight to nominate candidates for the biennial town election on Oct. 1. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Charles A. Gates. The large attendance was brought out by anticipated contests in at least two of the offices and these developed true to form. The first contest was for first selectman, former selectman, James M. Smith, contesting against the present incumbent Ernest P. Chesbro. A ballot was taken and of 309 votes cast Chesbro had 236 and Smith 71. The second contest was for registrar of voters between A. L. Weatherhead, incumbent and Alderman Wm. E. Webber. A total of 334 votes was cast and Weatherhead secured 235 and Webber 99. Other than a slight mixup in nominating for the school committee which resulted in the withdrawal of H. Clinton Lathrop from the nomination for first member in favor of C. C. Case and Mr. Lathrop's subsequent nomination for third member by Mr. Case, the remaining candidates received an unanimous ballot. The ticket nominated was: First selectman, Ernest P. Chesbro; second selectman, C. Arthur Keeney; town clerk and treasurer, L. G. Gerry; tax collector, Lester H. Blish; constables, Wilbur G. Stevens, North Windham, Alfred P. GARRICK PLAYERS IN DRAMA AT BROADWAY

The Garrick players, who have been winning a warm place in the regard of Norwich audiences in their appearances at the Broadway theatre, essayed a different type of play Monday night when they presented Willard Mack's four-act drama "Kick In" and their work was generously applauded by the well filled and well satisfied house. The play portrays the lights and shades of the criminal world, with matching of wits against the forces of the law, and a happy conclusion when the man who has done his "stretch" gets credit for "going straight" thereafter. Bob Stevens does good work as the hard-boiled police commissioner, Charles Mylott does a clever bit as a detective and Peter Ferguson is well cast as the dope addict. Irving Morrow and Pearl Young made their work outstanding, while Sally Wall and Helene Wesley were commendable members of the cast who made the presentation a notable success.

VOIGHT AND JOHNSTON LEAD IN QUALIFYING ROUND OF AMATEURS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

BRAE BURN, COUNTRY CLUB, Newton, Mass., Sept. 10—(AP)—Old man par, figured to outpoint the boys without much trouble in the battle of Brae Burn, took two solid wallops on the chin and the long count before the opening day's skirmish was finished.

They were administered by George Voight, of New York, who was not good enough to qualify in last year's tournament, and Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, the Minneapolis veteran, who specializes in quick getaways. Each emerged from the woods and yawning hazards of this rugged course with scores of 71, one under par, and thereby set the pace for the rest of the field of some 140 contenders for the national amateur golf championship at the close of the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying test. Another 18 hole round will be played tomorrow to determine the 32 survivors for the match play starting on Wednesday.

In more or less solitary glory, while the galleries flocked uphill and down after the game's more conspicuous figures, Johnston and Voight turned in two of the best performances this ancient course has ever witnessed. Their marks stand as a record for the new championship course, lengthened to a distance of 6,643 yards and correspondingly toughened. They are only two strokes short of the all time record for Brae Burn, a 69 turned in by Bob Gorton, of the home club, who needed 76 to cover the revamped lay-out today.

While Bobby Jones, the defending champion, among a lot of others, was having his troubles and forced to rally to do as well as 77, six strokes back of the pace setters, par was subjected to a lot more punishment than the experts had anticipated. The old man was held to a draw by C. Ross Somerville, sharp shooting Canadian champion, whose fine 72 gave him third place, a stroke in front of George Von Elm, the Detroit star who is regarded as an outstanding title threat. Von Elm, who missed a six footer on the home green for a perfect round, shared the fourth position with a dark horse from the Chicago district, D. J. Armstrong, of Aurora, Ills., each with 73. Behind them came Don Moe, of Portland, (Oregon) and Fred Wright, of Boston, each with 74.

Forty-four players scored under 80 but only seven got under 75.

The leaders:

George Voight, New York, 35-36—71.

Harrison R. Johnston, Minneapolis, 34-37—71.

C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., 37-35—72.

PHILLIES SPLIT EVEN IN DOUBLEHEADER WITH ROBINS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10—(AP)—The lowly Phillies and the not-much-higher Brooklyn Robins divided a double header here today, the home team taking the first game 11 to 6 and the Robins winning the second, 7 to 2.

The tail enders slammed three Brooklyn hurlers for a total of 13 hits in the opener while Sweetland and McGraw kept the Robins' 12 scattered enough to give them only six runs. Charley Klein, Philly center fielder, got a home run and three singles in four times at bat in the first game. His homer came in the third inning with two on base. The Phillies scored four runs in the seventh and three in the eighth to break a four to four tie.

In the second game, Watson Clark held the Phils in check in all but two innings. They scored one run in the second and another in the ninth, getting eight hits. Jimmy Ring started for Philadelphia but lasted only seven innings. The Robins got all of their runs and 13 of their 13 hits off him. Miller pitched the last two frames.

GIANTS SCORE DOUBLE VICTORY OVER BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—The Giants staged an auspicious opening of their series of four double headers with the Braves by taking both of today's games, 4 to 1 and 11 to 6. The two victories gave them partial revenge for the three straight victories the Bostonians registered last month at the Polo grounds.

An even better omen for the New Yorkers was that they used only one pitcher in each game. Fred Fitzsimmons went the route in the opener while Joe Genewich shut out the Bostonians with three hits in the second encounter. The ease with which the Giants' pitchers lasted promises well for the rest of the series in which the pitching staff will be tried to the utmost.

The Giants bunched their hits off Bob Smith in the first game to get their winning runs. Two hits in the second inning and two more in the third netted them a run each time while a cluster of three in the eighth gave them another pair of tallies. The Braves also got seven hits but no more than one in any inning except the ninth when three hits gave them their only run.

In the second the Giants took to the offerings of Delaney, Edwards, Clarkson and Bogg, amassing a total of 16 hits for 22 bases. Andy Reese hit a home run off Edwards in the sixth with a man on base, accounting for two of the four runs he batted in. O'Doul, Lindstrom and Terry led in the batting in the second game, getting three hits each.

SENATORS CLOSE HOME SEASON WITH DEFEAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—The 1928 home season of the Washington Senators ended today with a 5 to 2 defeat by the Boston Red Sox and gave the Boston club a count of 13 victories for the 22 games between the teams.

A three run rally in the ninth inning gave the Red Sox their win. Morris, who had relieved Ruffing in the pitchers' box, hit a triple scoring two of his teammates and later crossed the plate when Rothrock banged out a single.

Washington was held by the two Boston hurlers to five hits, Goslin being only able to connect for a single out of four batting attempts. The score:

WHITE SOX POUND GIBSON FOR VICTORY

DETROIT, Sept. 10—(AP)—Pounding Sam Gibson out of the box in the sixth inning when they scored five runs, the Chicago White Sox took the first contest of a two-game series from the Tigers today 6 to 4. The veteran Urban Faber worked for the Sox and pitched a better game than the count indicates, only one earned run being made off him. The earned tally was accomplished by Harry Heilmann who drove a homer over the left field wall in the eighth for the Tigers last run. Four errors were big factors in Detroit's other three scores.

TAFTVILLE TO PLAY HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM SATURDAY

Manager Jim Troland of the Taftville A. A. has scheduled one of the most novel of the baseball attractions touring the country today for Saturday in the House of David team. The House of David team, which is famed from coast to coast as a ball club, are no friends of the proprietors of torrorial establishments as the majority of the players have never had a haircut or shave. It is their weird appearance that makes them outstanding figures in any game and the crowds flock to see them. But under the bewhiskered countenances of these players are some mighty fine baseball heads. They play a snappy game and several, if it were not for religious restrictions, would be in organized baseball.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 10—(AP)—Frank E. Putnam, 76 year old golfer entered the hallowed circle usually reserved for younger golfers when he shot a hole in one from the 14th tee of the Vesper Country club, on Tyng's Island today. Number 14 is a short water hole.

PETE LUCY WILL MEET DEVLIN IN FEATURE BOUT AT NEW LONDON

Ernest Fakourey, matchmaker at the Hamilton street arena in New London and who has given tight fans in the eastern part of the state the best kind of boxing, has another snappy card booked for Thursday evening. The card leans heavily toward the light boys so that some fast boxing can be expected. For the feature attraction Fakourey is bringing back Pete Lucy of Bridgeport, to box against Hughie Devlin, New Bedford, Mass. Lucy impressed the fans with his cleverness in his bout with Al Beauregard two weeks ago and the customers have been clamoring for his return to New London. Devlin is a fast boy who holds a decision over Lucy won last spring in a bout at New Bedford.

Joey Duggan, popular little Irish fighter, returns to the ring against Al Gillette of New Bedford in the semi-final bout. This is a return match between the two youngsters as Gillette won a T. K. O. over Duggan a year ago.

Norwich is represented on the card by Tommy McCarthy, local featherweight, who stacks up against Rene Lubear of New Haven over the six-round route.

Spike Moreno of New Haven will clash with Johnny Bedell of New Bedford for eight rounds at 118 pounds.

The only heavy bout on the card is the opener between Sailor Ostis, U. S. C. G. and Jim Brown of New Haven. This bout is at 155 pounds.

HENNESSEY IS ELIMINATED IN NATIONAL TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10—(AP)—Upsets took a heavy toll as the forty-seventh national men's tennis championship opened here today. The United States forces suffered the heaviest blow in the sensational elimination of John Hennessey, first seeded American player.

"Smiling John," veteran of Davis cup play, was beaten by Dr. George King of New York in straight sets by scores of 7-5, 6-4, 6-4. His sudden rout dumbfounded a gallery of 3,000 persons who had considered Hennessey and George Lott the two players perhaps capable of stopping the French led by Henri Cochet.

Lott and Cochet advanced without difficulty, the young Chicago Davis cup player defeating Pierre Landry, a French newcomer, 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. While Cochet won under wraps from Tommy Wilber of Bridgeport, Conn., 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

France suffered but two casualties Landry, who lost to Lott and Paul De Ricou, French junior champion, who was beaten by Wilmer Allison, former intercollegiate champion, 6-3, 8-6, 10-8.

The five French players who came through successfully were Cochet, Jean Borotra, who drew a default in his scheduled match with Manuel Alonso, Jacques Brugnon, who defeated Dr. Carl Fischer of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, Christian Boussus, 20 year old south paw who was victorious over Edgar F. Moon, of Australia, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, and Rene De Buzelet, 21, who scored over Charles S. Garland of New York, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

All told there were three breaks in the seeded lists of eight picked foreigners and eight Americans. Hennessey was the only one of the home contingent to go out as the first round play cut the field of 64 in half, but there were two in foreign ranks, Gregory of England and Moon, Australia, who was baten by Boussus.

CUBS USE FIVE HURLERS BUT FAIL TO STOP PIRATES

CHICAGO, Sept. 10—(AP)—Five cubs pitchers matched their cunning against three selected by Manager Bush of the Pirates today, and the Pirates won a free-hitting game 7 to 5. Burleigh Grimes was the man who dampened the pennant aspirations of the Cubs. He was in the game four and a third innings, the longest any of the eight used lasted and allowed only two hits.

Charlie Root who worked three innings held the Pirates to three hits, but was relieved in the ninth by Jones.

Pittsburgh bunched its scoring in two innings, the wild fourth when five runs scored, and again in the fifth when two runs, enough to win, were counted.

REDS HIT HARD TO SWAMP CARDS 7 TO 2

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10—(AP)—Eleven hits, five for extra bases, were transformed into sufficient runs to give the Cincinnati Reds a 7 to 2 victory in the opening game of the series with the St. Louis Cardinals here today. It took Harold Haid to stem the tide after Rhem had issued ten of the hits in six and a fraction innings and Johnson had allowed the other in one-third of an inning.

Three double plays bringing the Reds' total to 174 for the season, cut off every Cardinal rally. These double killings enabled the Reds to tie the senior loop record held by the Chicago Cubs, and put them within sight of the major league record held by the Washington Senators.

The defeat failed to disturb the 2 1-2 game lead of the Cardinals in the National league pennant scramble.

BERNAL HAS SHADE O N TAFTVILLE IN JR. GAME

Sunday at Ashland park, Jewett City the H. N. S. defeated the Taftville Legion Jrs. by a 1-0 score in a game replete with thrills and spectacular baseball The H. N. S. played gilt edge baseball behind superb pitching by Bernal. These two teams are surely wonderful amateur clubs as they demonstrated by being the outstanding teams in the Norwich Jr. Twilight league.

Throughout eight innings the crowd cheered as time and again both pitchers turned back the opposition without scoring. Raymond, who started for Taftville was relieved in the third by Paradis, the ace of the legions, although the H. N. S. had not scored on Raymond, though they threatened to break through several times. This game no doubt was as good a Junior pitcher's battle as has ever been witnessed in Eastern Connecticut. Wilimsky, at short for Jewett City featured by accepting twelve chances with but two errors. Novick the Taftville short-stop also fielded brilliantly.

From the time Paradis took the mound for Taftville, until the eighth inning, he baffled the H. N. S. with his curves and change of pace, although he pulled through many tight pinches without allowing any runs. However, in the eighth the Jewett City boys broke through a stubborn defense and good pitching by scoring the only run of the game. Kusek led off with a single and A. Vachon duplicated his hit, placing men on first and second.

Then the stage was set for Bernal to come through with a hit as a fitting climax to his own well pitched game. He singled scoring Kusek with the winning run of the game as Paradis tightened up and retired the side without further scoring.

However Taftville made a desperate bid for the game in the ninth, the trying run being nipped at home plate by Vachon after Martin had singled into left with Paradis on first. Paradis making a last-minute attempt to score on the hit. The game was featured by several double plays and both teams were on their toes at all times. Bernal allowed 6 hits and fanned 6 while Paradis and Raymond allowed 10 scattered hits and fanned 4.

This game no doubt establishes the H N. S. as the amateur champions of eastern Connecticut. The score:

DANIELSON

HISTORY OF BROOKLYN BAPTIST CHURCH REVIEWED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 10—One hundred years of history was reviewed yesterday at a service held in the Baptist church at Brooklyn, and having to do with the establishment and development of the Baptist denomination in that historic town. The service was marked with deep spirituality, finely rendered musical selections, address by Wallace Pond of Providence, formerly of Brooklyn, and the presentation of a history of the church by Miss Abbie Witter.

It was on March 31, 1828, that the Baptist Church of Christ of Brooklyn was founded at the home of David C. Bolles, whose descendants were worshippers in it through its long history. Baptists living in and near Brooklyn at that time felt their remoteness from a church of their denomination and decided that it would be well to found one. About 20 attended the first meeting.

On April 23, 1828, the old records of the society relate, at the Meeting House of the First Ecclesiastical society, kindly loaned for the occasion, an assemblage was held for the purpose of giving fellowship to the church, 36 being in attendance, and thus the church became recognized. Denison Cady was set apart as deacon, with prayer and the laying on of hands, and soon after the church licensed David C. Bolles to preach the gospel.

Nov. 28, 1832, the First Baptist society in Brooklyn was organized and managed and directed many of the business affairs of the church until April 21, 1894, when the society assigned, transferred and conveyed to the First Baptist church of Brooklyn all the real and personal property of the society and the trust funds at that time held by the society.

Rev. William Bentley is the first mentioned minister of the church and appears from the old records of its activities to have done a great deal for it during the period when there was no settled pastor.

Successors to the Rev. Mr. Bentley were Rev. Levi Kneeland, Rev. Mr. Birdsall, Rev. Mr. Gro (or Grow), Rev. Mr. Child and Rev. M. Philleo. On September 1, 1830, Rev. Mr. Bolles was ordained at a "large and attentative auditory." On September 3, 1834, Rev. Thomas Huntington was ordained to be pastor of the church in the Meeting House of the First Trinitarian society. Next, his pastorate dating from May 4, 1838, came Rev. Benjamin N. Harris. Following his ministration the society was without a pastor and no meetings were held for two or three years. In 1846 there was a revival of activities, with Brother Burgess preaching. During the summer of 1847 Augustus Bolles preached at services at the church. From April 1, 1851, for nearly a year a Brother Palmer preached at the services. It is related that the church passed through trying times in the period from about 1845 to 1850, and, in reviewing its history Miss Witter mentioned that she had been told that at one time it had but one member—a man—who would go to the church on Sundays and sit there alone in silent worship.

On May 23, 1852, Rev. Sylvester Barron became pastor. He was succeeded on May 2, 1869, by Rev. Thomas Perry. The pastorate of Rev. Mr. Perry was so successful that the spring of 1871, found the society about to build a new church to replace the chapel in which service had been held for so many years.

The new church was constructed on grounds where the chapel had stood for so long at a cost of $11,000, and it is an interesting detail of the church records that contributions toward the cost came not only from members of the church but also from Congregationalists resident in and near Brooklyn, and that members of this denomination also gave of their time and labor to help their brothers realize their ambition to have a new church home.

Rev. Mr. Perry closed his pastorate February 26, 1882, and was succeeded by Rev. O. P. Bessty, he remaining until November 9, 1884. On February 3, 1885, Rev. William Gussman became pastor and he served until the latter part of 1886. One of the most successful pastorates in the history of the church was that of Rev. Edwin Bennett, beginning in 1887. He was ordained to serve the church which proved to be his only pastorate and which continued until 1889, when he died.

Subsequent pastorates were those of Rev. S. P. Braman, of about a year and a half; Rev. A. C. McConnell, about one year; Rev. George F. Genung, D. D., came as pastor following Rev. Mr. McConnell and remained until early in 1919. In October of that year the church was closed and remained so until Rev. J. W. Houck, pastor of the Danielson Baptist church, and during the time he served the church three members were added. During a part of 1922 Rev. A. A. Gates served the church as opportunity offered. More recently—for the past three summers—Rev. Chester J Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church has conducted services at the church, and his ministration is greatly appreciated.

LITTLE CHANCE OF TOWN DEBT BEING REDUCED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 10—There is no prospect, it was said today, of the forthcoming annual town reports listing a reduction in the general indebtedness of the town of Killingly during the fiscal year that closed July 31. There is the possibility that some of the figures giving a line on the final balances may be ready the coming week end. Several things have operated during the business year closing with the end of July to defeat the ambitions of the selectmen to bring about a reduction of the general debt. There has been a rebate on assessment to one of the town's manufacturing concerns, which had appealed to the superior court for relief from the valuation fixed upon its properties. The amount involved was considerable. In special town meetings the voters have made appropriations for improvements not provided for in the budget fixed to cover prospective expenses, so, first and last, the year slipped away and with it the best intentions of following the town's traditional policy of a bit of debt reduction each twelve months.

The troubles of C. A. Haggerty, contractor whose organization has been engaged since soon after the first of the year in rebuilding the state highway between Danielson and Brooklyn, took on new angles today when attachments were placed on some of the road building equipment as a step in the process of collecting claims against him for labor and materials. What the effect of these attachments might be in further delaying the work was not definitely indicated this afternoon. Earlier in the season other attachments were placed on the machinery, but these were released after payment of claims.

As September wears on the contract is far from finished. On the flats west of Church street, a long stretch of the road is torn up, though traffic is crawling over the rough going. Again, in the village of Brooklyn, where blasting is underway, one-way traffic is in force over another stretch of tough going. Even at the best, snow is likely to be flying before this contract is completed.

Rush work was underway at the Orpheum theater today in putting on the finishing touches and to make the house ready for reopening Thursday of this week after having been closed since the early days of July. Only those who have been privileged to witness the transformation that has been wrought in this home of entertainment can appreciate how complete the change that has taken place in a period of a little more than two months. The expenditures to give Danielson a modernly appointed theater have been on a lavish scale, but in line with what the lessees believe is necessary to achieve the success hoped for in this community.

Officials having to do with the preparations for the trial of the so-called "ice-box" bandits were busy this afternoon with the last details preceding the opening of the trial in Willimantic Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Things were moving along quietly and methodically, and there was no suggestion of even the slightest hitch in the proceedings. Albert Raymond and Roland Malone, the accused meanwhile remained quietly in their cells at Brooklyn, apparently little concerned with what officials were doing in another part of the building in arrangements that mean so much to the prisoners.

At a meeting scheduled for this week Rose of Lima council, K. of C., will elect officers for another year.

Tourists farthest from home while in Danielson today likely were persons in a car bearing an Arizona registration.

Additional laborers to work on the construction of the Danielson-Providence highway cut-off arrived here today, the force now being the largest at any time since Contractor Eugene Gobeille disappeared and quit the job.

At Brooklyn this week final preparations for the annual exhibition of the Windham County Agricultural society are underway.

Richard D. Banigan, Broad street, was the winner of the governor's cup on the links of the Putnam Country club, defeating Ray Greene.

D. E. Jette and Mrs. Georgette Jette, who spent several weeks at Saranac lake, have returned to their home on Broad street.

For investment, Mrs. Inez Curtis of School street has purchased from the Misses Tracy of Franklin street a residence on Reynolds street between Main and Broad streets.

Tuesday evening of this week the warden and court of burgesses are to hold a regular meeting, and business of importance is to come up for consideration.

Representative Arthur W. Williams, member of the legislature from Danielson the last session, is to be a candidate for re-election on the republican ticket, from the First district of Killingly.

Misses Blanche Gautier and Gertrude Stone have been visitors in Boston recently.

Miss Madelyn Cronin left today to spend a week in New York with a classmate before resuming her studies for her senior year at Mt. St. Vincent college on the Hudson.

A tinge that seems unusually early this year, foliage is taking on the tints of autumn in Danielson and the territory nearby.

The first of the borough taxes being collected this year were received today by collector Sidney H. Perry.

Going to Willimantic with a hope of attending the murder trial that starts Tuesday of this week will avail the average person little or nothing. Admission to the court room for persons not officially connected with the proceedings will be by ticket, and those tickets are mighty few and scarce.

A big motor coach engaged in the Hoover-Curtis publicity campaign was included in the endless string of motor traffic that rolled through Danielson today.

Next Sunday members of the Danielson fire department are to have an outing and clambake at the Old Furnace, and it is anticipated that the attendance will be from 75 to 85.

End Indigestion Instantly

Most indigestion is caused by "too much acid" in the stomach. Food sours, gas forms and causes pain and bloating. The stomach needs an alkaline to neutralize this acid, sweeten the stomach and permit normal painless digestion. Bisurated Magnesia—tablets or powder—is the ideal alkalin etreatment for acid dyspepsia or indigestion, because it does these things safely, speedily and surely. Thousands daily take a little after every meal, and no longer have a sign of stomach trouble. It will do the same for you or money back. Druggists everywhere sell Bisurated Magnesia with this guarantee.

PUTNAM

INJURED WHEN CAR TURNS OVER AT CEMETERY CURVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 10—Joseph Boisvert of Winooski, Vermont, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, suffering from body injuries as the result of an automobile accident Sunday afternoon encountered on cemetery curve on the south end of Grove street. Boisvert was coming into Putnam when another car attempted to round the curve and to avoid a collision the Vermont driver swung his car out of the highway then crashing the fence and capsizing, remaining on its top. Boisvert with his wife and a six months old infant were injured, the latter two not serious although the party was rushed to the hospital for treatment.

The wreckage drew a considerable crowd to the scene and temporarily blocked the passing of traffic on the highway, until State Trooper Elton Nolan of Danielson barracks arrived for an investigation of the accident. No arrests were made.

The disaster of the Boisvert car on Grove street cemetery curve is the first encountered at this dangerous point in several months, although many have sustained serious injuries as the result of being in automobile collisions at this point. Mr. Boisvert was reported by the hospital officials this afternoon as improved.

SEN. BINGHAM TO ADDRESS GRANGERS AT THOMPSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 10—The members of the Quinebaug Pomona grange and member granges in this section of the state will be afforded the opportunity of hearing an address by Senator Hiram Bingham, when the Pomona grange meets on Saturday, September 22, at the Randolph H. Chandler estate in Thompson. The announcement of Senator Bingham's intended appearance in Thompson was made this afternoon by Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the republican state central committee and lecturer of the Quinebaug Pomona grange.

Also included on the programme of events is a basket lunch, routine business and a number of musical selections to be played by local artists.

The programme of arrangements for the state and county wide meeting of the Windham county Hoover and Curtis Republican club is nearly completed and the last remaining details of the county's largest political gathering will be finished during this week. The meeting to be held on Saturday afternoon at Woodstock common, in Woodstock hill, at which such noted speakers and personalities as Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut are to attend is to attract attention from the republican ranks of Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. The list of speakers as announced by Clarence Bowen, secretary of the club includes: Governor Trumbull, Senator Moses, Frank H. Foss, member of congress from Connecticut and United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut and J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee of Connecticut.

Those who will occupy seats on the large platform, erected on the common, where once President U. S. Grant addressed a similar gathering, will be noted relatives and republican leaders, friends of the two republican standard bearers.

The Governor's Foot Guard band and other noted bands have been engaged by the committee to render music.

Putnam is to be well represented in the Hoover-Curtis club meeting, since a delegation of over 100 automobiles will depart for Woodstock on Saturday afternoon, headed by Marshal William Pechie and his aides.

Since Putnam is so deeply entrenched in the republican column, the party leaders have asked that every member of the party with an automobile be in the line on Saturday to make the trip to Woodstock common.

The large meeting of Saturday in Woodstock refreshes in the memory of hundreds of political meetings of the last century, when such speakers as President Grant, Chauncey M. Depew and President William McKinley, came to Woodstock to speak. These great men of the nation were brought to Woodstock by Henry C. Bowen and his son, Clarence W. Bowen, in staging such a gathering on Saturday feels that he is reviving the spirit of the days now long passed.

The rising sun this morning beheld the business section of the town smiling with its freshly made traffic lines that had been made the night before by the members of the police department. Throughout the city where excessive parking and dangerous intersections exist, the sites have been marked off by the white lines, in paths for pedestrians and warnings for motorists of the approaching danger.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Martha M. Dunleavey

Funeral services were held this afternoon at St. Phillip's church for Mrs Martha Mitchell Dunleavy. The services were in charge of the Rev. E. B Wright, rector of St. Phillip's and were largely attended by numerous friends and relatives of Mrs. Dunleavy. A host of floral tributes, in evidence from the numerous acquaintances made by Mrs. Dunleavy during the number of years she resided in Putnam. Burial was in Grove street cemetery. Mrs. Dnleavy is survived by one son, Henry Dunleavy of School street, Putnam, a former instructor in agriculture at Tourtellotte high school in North Grosvenordale.

In the city court this morning before Judge M. H. Geissler Ernest E. LeBeau of Church street was committed to the care of the probation officer. LeBeau was arrested Sunday evening by Officer Dinsdale of the Putnam police, and was charged with assault on his wife.

The annual election of officers of the Cargill council, K. of C., was held in the K. of C. rooms on Union street Sunday afternoon and the following officers were elected: Grand knight, Henry N. Benoit; deputy grand knight, Thomas J. Igo; chancellor, Joseph Love; recording secretary, Gordon Caffery; treasurer, James J. Charron; advocate, John H. McCarney; inside guard, Camille Brodeur; outside guards, Timothy J. Hannifan and Michael D. Hannifan.

Following the election of officers, reports of the various committees and officers for the year were held in addition to the regular council routine business.

From the Day Kimball hospital today came a report of the conditions of accident victims, Maxwell Burry and Albert E. D. Sparks are making a swift recovery. Both were seriously injured in Mechanicsville last Sunday morning when their car fell over the railroad embankment.

Marjorie Lozeau of Central Falls and Alfred Letoil of Manville, R. I., were reported today as improved. Letoil, the operator of the car was discharged from the hospital this morning when no serious injury was discovered. Lozeau is suffering from internal injuries to the back and is at the hospital. Both were injured when their car ran over a highway embankment near Grosvenordale Sunday evening.

Poor radio reception Sunday afternoon brought much disgust to baseball fans who were intent on receiving the details of the twin bill of the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees for top place in the league. However several radio fans heard the telegraphic reports of the outcome of the game Sunday evening. The five minute stop over of Connie Mack and the members of the Athletics baseball club, in Putnam Saturday evening put the Putnam fans in the column of the Pennsylvanians.

Gerald Duffy, son of Mr and Mrs. John Duffy of Vandenoort St., entered St Charles college in Woonsocket today.

Miss Irene Bernier, head of the commercial department of Putnam high school was in Providence Monday attending funeral services of a relative. Her vacancy was filled by Mrs. Minnie Flannon Macdonald, former head of the department.

Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police and Guy Zito of Mechanic street are to leave Putnam on Tuesday for Montreal, Canada, where they will attend the trial of a Montreal attorney, charged with forgery and embezzlement of checks rightly owned by Mr. Zito. The arrest of the Putnam taxi driver's attorney was brought about when he received funds from the government officials who confiscated Mr Zito's car and used the money for himself.

Mr Zito will testify that he never received any of the money due him from the Canadian lawyer Mr Zito's car was stolen in Putnam in 1923, and was abandoned in Canada and was taken into custody of two Canadian government officials, who informed the Putnam police captain and the owner that it had never been found. Their theft was exposed and they were forced to compensate Mr. Zito, through the lawyer, who forced the checks and will be brought to trial this week. His arrest was brought about by private detectives.

Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police department was in Norwich today, at a hearing of the state vs. Francis Lachance of Putnam who has applied for the reissuing of an operator's license. Officer Page arrested LaChance several months ago and the arrest resulted in his license being suspended for an indefinite period.

(Body Odor)

LANE'S big chance—the job he had worked for and hoped to get—had gone to a subordinate.

"It's no use," he complained to the boss's assistant. "You've got to have pull around here."

"You're wrong, Lane," was the angry reply. "I happen to know that you would have had that promotion—if it weren't for 'B. O.'"

"B. O."—body odor! A harsh remark—but it proved a real kindness. Lane took the hint. Let him tell you how he overcame his handicap and later won his big promotion.

Body odor easily ended

"I made my big mistake in thinking I was safe from body odor. I wasn't. We're perspiring all the time. But we get so used to the odor that we ourselves don't notice it. Others do.

"Now I know that the best way to make sure we don't offend is to deodorize the pores with a purifying toilet soap like Lifebuoy. After a Lifebuoy bath I feel full of pep, refreshed. And no 'B. O.' now to interfere with my progress. Today I hold one of the best paid jobs in the office.

So good for complexions!

"And I've found Lifebuoy so thoroughly satisfying that it's now the only toilet soap I ever use. It gives such wonderful lather, is so cleansing and keeps the skin so nice and smooth.

"My whole family feels safer using a toilet soap that gets rid of germs. We all like its pleasant and clean scent that vanishes right after rinsing."

SPIRITED RALLY IN STOCK MARKET WAS CHECKED BY HIGH MONEY RATES

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—High money rates checked a spirited rally in today's stock market. Extreme gains of 2 to nearly 17 points in the speculative leaders were substantially cut down while U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Radio and some of the other recent favorites closed at substantial declines. Trading was on a large scale but failed to maintain the terrific pace set last week, the day's sales aggregating 3,282,500 shares.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 1-2 per cent, but advanced to 8 after banks called $18,000,000 in loans, and a scarcity of funds was reported in the time money market. Time money was quoted at 7 per cent for the short maturities, the highest price in seven years, with the longer dates ruling between 6 1-2 and 6 3-4. Commercial paper rates were unchanged. Sterling exchange hovered around the generally accepted "gold import point," but no shipments of the precious metal were reported from Europe.

Reactionary price tendencies also predominated in the commodity markets. Cotton broke about $6 a bale on selling inspired by the publication of the government crop report on Saturday, although the government estimate was in line with conservative trade forecasts. Wheat dropped a fraction of a cent a bushel on expectations of a bearish Canadian crop survey. Coffee prices rallied slightly, but raw sugar futures were easier.

Stocks sponsored by powerful pools continued to attract major speculative attention in the stock market. Montgomery-Ward was the individual feature, soaring nearly 17 points to a new high record at 257 and then easing to 254. Brooklyn Edison jumped 11 points on one sale. Purity Baking preferred advanced 10 points to a new high and Cost 2, and the common closed 6 points higher at 120 1-2 after having touched 121 7-8. Commercial Solvents lost more than half of its early gain of 3 1-2 points, while Commercial Investment Trust advanced 8 1-2 points to 113 1-4 and closed at the top.

The August tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation showed a gain of 53,000 tons in unfilled orders as against a shrinkage of 66,000 the month before. Although Steel common was heavily bought in the early trading, the stock closed 1 5-8 points lower at 154 1-4. Republic Steel ran up to a new high at 76 1-4 and then fell back to 74 1-2. Bethlehem retained only a small fraction of its 2 point gain.

Violent fluctuations again took place in the amusement shares. Warner Bros. common and "A" stocks attained new peak prices at 136 3-4 and 132 1-4, respectively, and then sold down to 131 and 127 1-2 for net gains of about 2 points each. Fox Film ran up 6 points to 119 5-8 and backed up to 115. Shubert Theatres ran up 6 points and fell back 3 1-2. Stanley Co. of America and the Keith Albee issues lost ground.

Among the many issues to reach new high ground during the day were International Nickel, Motor Products, Atlantic Refining, May Department Stores, Childs Co., Grand Union common and preferred, Consolidated Film preferred, Lambert, Eaton Axle, Kelsey Wheel, General American Tank, California Packing, Fleischmann and Missouri Pacific common.

Radio broke 9 1-2 points to 206 and rallied to 207 1-2, and net declines of 2 points or more were recorded by Allied Chemical, American Linseed, Burroughs Adding Machine, A. M. Byers, General Motors, Gold Dust, International Combustion, Kroger Stores, National Biscuit, Timkin Roller Bearing and Woolworth. Curtiss Aeroplane also turned heavy despite the announcement of a new stock offering at par with valuable "rights" to shareholders.

A 15-point drop in Japanese yen to 45.58 cents was the only change of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling Cables were quoted a shade lower at $4.85 3-32.

in good demand, while Copper Range touched a new top at 22 1-2 in a like gain. Others were generally heavy.

In the oils, Gulf and Humble made good gains only to lose them, Gulf suffering a net loss of more than a point. Standard of Indiana was in supply.

Utilities turned reactionary, Electric Bond & Share cancelling an early gain and falling more than a point, and United Gas Improvement closing fractionally lower after selling up 3 points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Price trends on the bond market turned upward at the opening of today's session and weathered the increase in the call loan rate to 8 per cent. At midday, together with firming time money rates, with only scattering declines at the close.

Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s were a feature, jumping more than 5 points in heavy buying to a new high at 154 1-2 and closing with a net gain of nearly 3 points. Other utilities were irregular, although New York Edison 6 1-2s improved fractionally.

Coppers were generally strong on favorable trade developments, Andes 7s advancing 2 1-4 points, while Anaconda 7s sold at one time nearly 2 points higher and closed with a fractional gain. Anaconda 6s, however, eased.

A number of oils gained in response to recent activity of oil stocks and rumored plans of world conservation. California Petroleum 5s and 5 1-2s made fractional gains and Humble 5s improved slightly in fair demand. Sinclair 7s made a gain of 1 1-2 points, only to lose most of it. Barnsdall 6s eased after making a small gain.

The industrials were generally firmer. U. S. Rubber 5s made a gain of about a point, while Inland Steel 4 1-2s "A" crossed their previous high. American Telephone & Telegraph Collective 5s also went into new high ground in a small gain.

A number of rails made good gains, including Central of Georgia 5s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, St. Paul 5s, Northern Pacific 4 1-2s and Seaboard Airline 5s, the last two advancing one and nearly 2 points in fair demand. New Haven 4s, however, fell 1 1-2 points, while Missouri Pacific 5s, Big Four 4 1-2s, and Wabash 4 1-2s were in supply. New York Tractions improved fractionally.

The foreign list was irregular. Republic of Finland 6 1-2s jumping nearly a point in active trading. U. S. government obligations were also irregular, fourth liberties dropping to a new low at 100.29.

Offering was made today of $4,000,000 Fox New England Theatres, Inc., 6 1-2 per cent convertible sinking fund debentures, at 100 and interest, maturing Aug. 1, 1948. The proceeds of the issue have been used to finance in part the purchase of the Foli chain of theatres in New England by the Fox interests.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 10—(AP)—Record-breaking low prices for the present season resulted in the wheat market today from enlarging receipts northwest and from predictions of bearish official reports. The United States government crop report, which came after trading had ended for the day, was construed as bearish relative to wheat but furnished a surprise as being decidedly bullish regarding corn.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-8c to 3-4c net lower. Corn finished unchanged to 1-2c off, with oats at 1-4c decline to 3-8c advance, and provisions varying from 12c setback to an equal gain.

Throughout the day, wheat values reflected knowledge that the movement of spring wheat to market is becoming of greater volume north as well as south of the Canadian boundary. Winnipeg alone received 1472 cars of wheat, and meanwhile export demand for wheat from North America today was of unimpressive volume. Furthermore, with a majority of traders here correctly looking for a Washington official forecast that the 1928 domestic spring wheat yield would be considerably above the figures of a month ago and with the Canadian government crop report tomorrow expected likewise to indicate heavy yields, the buying side of the market was devoid of encouragement. Under such circumstances, September, December and March deliveries dropped to the lowest level yet this season, but closed at moderate rallies.

Contrary to expectation, the government crop report on corn pointed to a falling-off of about 100,000,000 bu in the 1928 probable yield of corn as compared with a month ago. The official forecast is thus 741,000,000 bu under the average of recent private estimates. Unaware of this showing, most corn traders favored the bear side of the market on account of favorable weather and because of wheat weakness. Oats displayed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, being influenced by reports that new oats were not being marketed as fast as had generally been looked for.

Scattered selling kept the provision market easy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern expects the road to earn around $6 a share on the common this year. August earnings would show a gain of $200,000 in both gross and net over a year ago. General business conditions in the roads territory were good, virtually all kinds of traffic moving in volume above last year, excepting grain. He said he judged about 50 per cent of the grain crop was being held on farms, or in country elevators in the road's territory, much more than a year ago.

Business conditions in South American countries are good and constantly improving, Samuel M. Vauclain, president of Baldwin Locomotive said on his return from a southern trip. "Opportunities in Latin America for business are encouraging and I am optimistic over future possibilities there," he said.

Studebaker corporation has completed a twelve month period in which each month has shown an increase in sales over the same month of the previous year.

Wire Wheel corporation of America has completed installation of additional and improved machinery at its Buffalo plant. Several departments are running two shifts. The company has renewed its contract with Stutz for another year.

Production of standard cotton cloths in August is put at 302,470,000 yards by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Sales were 340,-310,000 yards. Stocks on hand August 31 were 441,667,000 yards and unfilled orders 288,964,000 yards, an increase of 6.1 per cent over August 1.

International Paper Co. reports that mulch paper, the product it recently had developed, has greatly increased the yield of varied farm products, in some cases as high as 500 per cent. More than 2,500 orders for mulch paper have been received in response to an advertising campaign in farm periodicals.

The Union Pacific should have about the same gross business as last year, perhaps a little better, crop conditions being generally as good as last year, said Carl Gray, president of the system. Notwithstanding material wage increases and some rate reductions, he thought the road would hold its own during the last half of the year.

Contracts awarded for new building and engineering work in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains for the week ended Sept. 7, are calculated at $93,-179,000 by F. W. Dodge corporation, more than $12,000,000 under the week before, but the daily average this year of $22,087,900 continues to keep ahead of the daily average of $20,945,300 for the first nine months of 1927. The week's largest project was a $2,100,000 dam in Little River, Mass.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES.

Traps.

O little children of the wood,
Of hill and field and stream,
Your Bigger Brothers in the land
And Sisters have their dream.

A dream as yet, it surely grows
Into a vision clear,
Of that glad day when you may walk
Your paths without dread fear—

Dread fear of agonizing pain,
That you so often see,
Of eyes that plead for kindly death
To set the wounded free.

O little children of the wood,
Our prayers with yours ascend,
God speed the day of coming good,
With every man your friend.

—W. J. HOLLIDAY.

A plea for Homeless Dogs in the Pound.

I'm only a little brown-eyed dog, of doubtful pedigree,
But I'm full of love for human race and as true as a dog can be.
I haven't a home (I don't know why), but my friends are all around,
There's many a pat and bone for me, and the world isn't bad I've found.

But I'm sad today, and lonely, too, as I've never been before;
For I'm locked secure in a dreary place behind a great big door.
If some jolly boy or a big kind man, just knew what a joy I could be,
He'd claim me now and save my life and be a friend to me.

—NELL V. MELLICHAMP.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES.

If a person were to ask you, Where should we go if we fell off the earth?, it is probable that you would be unable to answer him correctly. One writer has explained that the best way to imagine how we could fall off the earth would be to suppose that somehow or other the earth's power of attraction stopped altogether. If that happened, and you jumped indoors, your head would hit the ceiling. If out of doors you would go straight up into the sky for a long way, but the resistance of the air would make you move slower and slower until at last you came to a stop. There you would stay and very cold you would find it. But supposed that not only the earth stopped pulling, but also that the air stopped resisting you. Then, if you jumped—the least little jump you would do—you would sail away off into space.

That is the only way in which you could "fall off the earth." If you jumped at the right moment then you might travel toward the moon until you came near enough to feel the pull of the moon, on which you would fall. You would certainly fall so hard that that would be an end of you, especially as the moon has no air to break your fall.

But if this did not happen you would be pulled into the sun. If the earth stopped moving round the sun at this moment, it would fall into the sun. Other things might happen to you, too. If the earth's attraction still remained, you might move round and round it and become a sort of second moon. The moon, we know, really fell off the earth to begin with.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDEAWAKES

Elasticity.

Dear Uncle Jed: This time my story deals with science. I am taking for my topic, Elasticity.

Our science instructor had just said: "A birch tree is a good example of elasticity. That is if you climb one and bend it way down, it does not snap but goes back to its original position when you get off."

I resolved to try this for myself for I doubted his words. That night after school I climbed a tall birch tree and tried to bend it and swing. To my surprise I heard a loud crack and then I felt myself being slowly lowered to the ground. As it was a tall tree and as I had been at its top, it seemed hours before I landed. To make matters worse, I landed in a bed of briars. Now I do not let my doubts lead me out to find proofs. I shall always abide by this proverb: "Believe what is said not what should be said.'

Spends Week at Moosup

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wideawakes. I was sitting on the porch one bright Wednesday afternoon, reading a book, when, looking up I saw a big car approaching the house. It was my uncle. He told me he had come to take me to Moosup for a week. I was overjoyed at the prospect and in half an hour I was ready to go.

Immediately upon our arrival my uncle took my cousin and I to Providence to see the Vitaphone photoplays. I had never heard them before and therefore found them very interesting. After the show we spent a few hours shopping. We came home late in the evening. The next day we went to Rocky Point and any one who has ever been there knows of the numerous entertainments there. We went to see the tropical exhibitions which consists of real orange, pineapple and palm trees such as grow in the southern regions. Every night that I was there we went to the show and during the day we would go to Moosup pond with my cousin's many friends. I hope that all the Wideawakes have had an enjoyable vacation and are now prepared for another year of school work.

My Vacation.

Dear Uncle Jed: I'm home from Vermont! I wrote you of my trip to Vermont last year, too, but I had a pleasanter time this year. I went to Burlington on the train. My aunt from Colchester met me there. I picked several quarts of berries and rode horseback besides several other enjoyable sports while being there. The most fun of all was going in bathing at Mallet's bay. After spending several weeks with my aunts I went to Burlington, it being very pleasant there. We went for a ride most every evening. In the morning I was kept busy by helping about the house. Another thing I greatly enjoyed was attending the Chatauqua every day for a week. I had a very pleasant trip home with my cousins in their car, and I hope the other Wideawake members had as pleasant a time this summer.

A Good Hunter.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now going to tell you about my dog. His name is Billy. One day while spending my vacation on the farm of my aunt I happened to hear the dog bark. Without any further notice I took my flashlight and ran to the dog's aid who was battling a skunk. The first thing I think I did was to watch out that the skunk shouldn't throw his odor at me, then I lit the flashlight and shined it in the skunk's eyes which blinded him. I told Billy to sic him. Just as I ended those few words the dog pounced on the skunk's neck and killed him instantly.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I am going to tell about my vacation at Gardner lake. We rented a cottage and we had very nice weather all the time.

We all went swimming every day, even my little sister who is only one year and nine months old went out with my mother and tried to swim. I learned to swim three years ago in the lake. My two younger brothers had a fine time fishing. Elliot, age eight, the second day we were there, caught a sun fish about five inches long and he was so excited he came running up to the house with his eyes popping out of his head and the fish wriggling on the end of his line. My other brother, age six, didn't catch any. I fished several times but didn't stay long enough to catch any fish. We had several rides round the lake in a motor boat belonging to friends from New York who stay at the lake every year, and we enjoyed them very much. The last evening we were there we went for a motor sail in the moonlight with friends from Norwich Town and the lake and the moonlight was very beautiful.

My brothers and I hope we will go and stay there again next year.

Value Of An Education.

Dear Uncle Jed: Although I am only in the sixth grade, I know how good an education is and wish to tell the other children. No matter what a man's position is, he can do it better if he is well informed. Education, while it has a larger bearing than a mere preparation for one's job, it is the very start for a position. As a person working in an office you will do better work and will rise higher if you know something about history.

Forest Flowers.

(What Antonio Lotti said in an aria)
I bring them in my hands—
Forest flowers gathered for you.
Take them before the dew shall go,
The colors fade,
While yet the shade
Of forest leaves is on them;
Hepaticas, lovely as the morning's breath,
Wood-violets, with eyes that smoulder—
Sunset skies are not more golden—
And orchids, shy aristocrats
From a dim nook hard by
A fallen friendly log.
Little flowers that dwelt
Beneath the forest roof,
Little flowers that trembled
When the wind went by,
Little flowers that loved the dew
And dreamed of sunlight,
Dreamed likewise of you,
And come now in my nosegay—
Hepaticas, violets, orchids—
From their fest shade.
Take them, before the dew shall go
The colors fade.
I bring them, forest flowers,
To you.

Listens to Preacher

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a story about two boys, whose names were George and Arthur. One day as George and Arthur were returning home from school they saw a crowd gathered round a preacher whose loud voice caused many passersby to tarry and listen. Some persons stopped to listen, some to stare, some to make jokes while others passed by. One person said, "He is crazy, but perhaps he is right." George and Arthur had their own judgment about the preacher, no matter what the people said. They judge him rightly and that is benevolently.

The Wonderful Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wideawakes, and I hope you will like my story. I am going to tell you about my dog, his name is Prince.

I was spending my vacation on my aunt's farm this summer. One day my brother and I came back from blackberrying. All of a sudden I heard a bark. Our dog Prince was barking at something. My uncle, my brother and I went to see the dog. We saw how the dog was battling a woodchuck. The woodchuck was very frightened so Prince jumped at him and killed him.

My Trip to Block Island.

Dear Uncle Jed: One morning my cousin and her husband invited us to go to Block Island. So my mother and I went. It was the first time I was ever on a steamboat. When we started it was smooth, but when we got out in the waves my mother and cousin got thrown out of their chairs. I got on the floor when

CHAS. GRADY GOES TO STATE PRISON--LOOT LEFT IN A NEW LONDON ROOM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 10—Charles Grady, formerly of Groton, was sentenced to state prison from the superior court in Norwich last week when found guilty of a charge of theft. While in this city he roomed at a house on Main street, the proprietress of which this morning, while cleaning his former quarters made a surprising discovery. While dusting around an electric light fixture in the ceiling she found, cached cunningly therein, 20 rings and three watches. The state police, also the local authorities were notified and they took possession of the articles, all of which proved to be of a very cheap type. The police claim that all the rings belong to A. J. Preston, a Groton jeweler, while the watches are alleged to have been stolen from the Groton Hardware company. Both owners received the stolen wares this afternoon.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

ESCAPED HADDAM PRISONER ARRESTED NEAR WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 10—Orrin Fredetti, 18, of Pawtucket, was arrested near Westerly this afternoon by Special Agent Brown of the New Haven railroad charged with being a fugitive from justice. Fredetti was taken to the Westerly jail to await being turned over to the prison authorities at Haddam.

Fredetti and Harold Jackson, the latter colored, reside in New Rochelle, N. Y. Saturday night one of the men pried open his cell door and he is believed to have been Fredetti, who then liberated Jackson. The men crept to the attic where they crawled through a window and leaped to the ground. Fredetti, an Italian and a cripple and Jackson made their way undetected to New Haven, where they separated. This morning when Officer Brown observed Fredetti walking along the railroad tracks, he held the fellow up and inquiry resulted in it being revealed that the man was one of the escaped prisoners. Fredetti is to be tried for burglarizing a grocery store at Old Saybrook and Jackson was awaiting trial at the next term of Middlesex county superior court for the theft of an automobile. The automobile Jackson stole was owned by an attendant at the state hospital, who drove the car to New London. While it was parked on Green street, Jackson entered it and drove away. He was arrested the same night at Centerbrook by the state police of that place.

Two drunks were locked up during the day, having been arrested on North Bank street. A third man arrested is Mike Sologub, charged with breach of the peace and who will be presented in the police court tomorrow, he having furnished a surety on his bond of $50. It is understood that the officers will be exonerated.

SAILORS HAD BEEN DRINKING, DROVE INTO TEL. POLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 10—An automobile, owned by Harry Hansson, a member of the crew of U. S. S. Chewink, submarine base, and driven by Robert Rodgers, also submarine base, was wrecked this morning when the car crashed against a telephone pole, corner of Williams and Bayonet streets. Rodgers and John Hawke, another base sailor who was in the car, were painfully injured. Rodgers received lacerations and bruises, and Hawke such bad lacerations that 15 stitches were required to close them at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. At the corner of Bayonet street, where there is an electric light, Rodgers became confused and instead of continuing in the highway, the auto was guided to the side of the road where it came to a stop when it crashed against the pole, snapping the pole off close to the ground. Rodgers and Hawke were hurled against the windshield and the broken glass showered the two sailors. Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Albert Iverson, who investigated the accident, reported at police headquarters that both Rodgers and Hawke were drunk. The sailors were not arrested but after their wounds had been dressed they were taken to the sick bay at the base upon orders of their superior officer. The automobile, the front end of which was crushed, was towed to a garage.

Fred Lynch and Rudin Maleug, sail- ors, were presented on charges of breach of the peace and were fined $25 and costs. The two bluejackets went to an ice cream parlor on Broad street, where they created a disturbance, especially when after departing they returned to the store with dog collars around their necks, with leashes. The police were requested to take charge of the sailors and they were arrested by Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey.

Albert Thomas Fellows, 17 Williams street, Rockville Center, N. J., was charged with reckless driving. The case was continued to Thursday and Fellows furnished a bond of $25 for his appearance on the later date. He was arrested Sunday by Patrolman George Perkins.

There were several cases of violation of the city's traffic laws and as none of the offenders appeared in court their respective bonds of $2 were declared forfeited.

Charles McInnes, of Groton, was in the Groton town court today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. He was arrested Sunday by State Police Officer George Webber.

Elbert Reed, United States Coast Guard, was charged with driving without having registration, driving without license, using improper brakes and reckless driving. He was fined an aggregate of $15 and costs on the four charges. He algo was arrested Sunday by State Officer Webber.

A. G. Barbard, Groton, was charged with driving with insufficient brakes. The charge was nolled.

Milos D. Elinger, United States Coast Guard, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. He was arrested a week ago by Officer Faye Chapman, Groton department.

John L. Amorel, Stonington, charged with failing to grant right of way, was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested Sunday by State Officer John Smith.

Joseph M. Davidson, Ledyard, was charged with speeding and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested Aug. 30 by State Officer Peter Busch.

Gordon W. Simms, Submarine Base and William Kilpatrick were charged with reckless driving; but as the accused have resorted to civil action to settle the dispute as to who was at fault for a collision of their automobiles, a nolle was entered.

Guiseppe Maceni, charged with violation of the liquor law, obtained a continuance of his case to Monday next.

Tony Lynch was charged with violation of rules of the road. His case was continued to Tuesday next.

Push Button Radio a Reality.

It's here! The new radio achievement which has kept the radio public mystified since its premier announcement to the radio world some months tack—Zenith Automatic Tuning!

The first public demonstration of the new 1929 Zenith Automatic radio receiver was held yesterday and will continue all week in the store of O'Neil Electric Co., local authorized Zenith dealer.

Automatic Tuning, an exclusive Zenith feature which automatically swings in stations at the touch of a finger, is providing a new thrill to all who have seen it demonstrated to date. No more hunting for stations, doubtful if the one you get is the one you are seeking until you hear the station announcement. No more shifting back and forth on the dial or fumbling of control knobs for correct adjustment—Zenith Automatic Tuning has put an end to it all. Just press the button—there's your station!

The Zenith demonstration in the O'Neil Electric Co. showrooms illustrates how simple it is accomplished. You set the automatic levers yourself in a few seconds by the mere turn of a button and the trick is done! The stations of your choice await you thereafter available instantly at the touch of a finger tip. The levers may be changed at any time for future favorites. Searching for in-between stations and distance may be enjoyed to your heart's content by the old-fashioned method of hand-tuning as the dial is free at all times for hand operation even though the automatic device is set.

Zenith Automatic Tuning has become the overnight sensation of the radio world and today is the talk of the hour among radio devotees. Zenith has incorporated Automatic Tuning on many of its magnificent new 1929 models which are now on display.

O'Neil Electric Co. will continue to demonstrate this startling new radio feature until Saturday and invites all present and future radio owners to inspect it any day or evening this week.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATED LONERGAN AND MORRIS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 10—The democratic party of Connecticut in a six-hour session at the Arena Saturday named its standard bearers in the November elections and ratified unanimously a platform closely adhering to the political principles enunciated by the presidential nominee, Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

The convention, the most enthusiastic in the memory of political observers ended at 5:10 p. m. It was called to order at 10:50 a. m. after a conference of party leaders with National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy had delayed it for nearly an hour. The session was marked by two exciting contests—one for senatorial and the other for gubernatorial honors—which held the delegates intensely interested until the final name was voted upon.

The complete slate is:

Charles G. Morris, of Newton, for governor.

Frank Palmer Fenton, of Willimantic, for lieutenant governor.

George Le Witt, of New Britain, for secretary of state.

George J. Bassett, of New Haven, for treasurer.

John F. Pickett, of Middletown, for comptroller.

The vote of the delegates for United States senator was Lonergan 414; Butler, 185; O'Sullivan, 82; Phillips, 46; Morris 1.

The vote for governor stood Morris, 387; Booms, 325. A roll call of the delegates was necessary for the nomination of each of the two candidates who head the ticket. A total of 728 delegate votes were cast during the roll call for senator; 712 delegates voting in the gubernatorial roll call.

The convention named the following as presidential electors:

Joseph E. Stone, of New Britain; Rollin U. Tyler, of Haddam; Asa M. Ross, of Thompson; Robert C. Stoddard, of Milford; Alton T. Minor, of New London; Virginia Fox, of Greenwich; and William R. Palmer, of Oxford.

CREDIT POOLING PLAN ADOPTED BY MEETING OF NORWICH MERCHANTS

Adoption of a credit pooling plan was decided upon at a joint meeting held Monday morning in the chamber of commerce rooms by the executive committee of the Norwich Merchants' bureau and the Norwich Credit bureau.

The meeting appointed the following committee to arrange for the fall opening this month: J. Fred Fleming, John B. Caron, C. E. Fitch, Jacob Bloch, Harold McDonald, Walter Gilbert and C. E. Smith.

The meeting appointed A. Curland, J. Fred Fleming and Walter E. Gilbert a committee to further the credit pooling plan.

This is a new credit plan for Norwich. By this plan people who through unfortunate financial circumstances, are unable to meet payments on all their debts, enter into an agreement with their creditors to make weekly payments on the pooled debts.

This agreement is arranged through the credit bureau office. The debtor appears at the office, where information regarding his or her salary or wages and ability to pay weekly sums, is secured. Then the various debts are pooled in a gross amount and on this amount the debtor makes weekly payments. The bureau acts as a trustee of the collections. When the weekly payments reach one-tenth of the gross amount, the payments are pro-rated and paid to the creditors. This plan is followed until the total of the debts is paid up. In the meantime the debtor agrees to pay cash for purchases thereafter. A fee of 6 per cent. is charged the debtor to take care of the office expense, and the expense of collections.

The merchants bureau is to hold a meeting next Monday evening to discuss plans for the fall opening in the local stores.

At this meeting also the bureau will be called upon to take action upon the request of the New London County Agricultural society that the merchants close their stores on the afternoon of the first day of the county fair. The request was presented before the committee meeting Monday and was very freely discussed but it is expected it will be brought up for action again next Monday.

COMES FROM FRANCE TO CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

Last year a young French woman, Mlle. Marie Odette Bondeau, crossed the Atlantic with her cousin, Mlle. Marie Villeprand, that they might both serve as student assistants in French at Connecticut college at New London. She found America full of interest and loved her work and life at college. At the wish of her parents, however, she has returned to France and this year her sister, Mlle. Genevieve Blondeau, will take her place.

Both are daughters of Capt. Blondeau, a French officer who was blinded in his first engagement in the World war, was taken prisoner by the Germans and was about to be sent from the hospital at Charleroi, Belgium to a prisoners' camp in the interior of Germany. Mlle. Carole Lenie Ernst, who had been on the faculty of Connecticut college for twelve years before the beginning of the World war became a nurse in the hospital at Charleroi at the outbreak of the war and when her attention was drawn to the blinded French officer, she obtained permission to endeavor to escort him back to his home in France. This was accomplished in a roundabout tour and under great difficulties.

She returned to Belgium and remained there long enough to write the story of her adventures and to bury the manuscript in the garden, where it safely survived the war. Mlle Ernst left Belgium in December 1915, for this country, having been put in charge of a group of a hundred and twenty Belgian workmen too old to fight who were being allowed by the Germans to emigrate. At the close of the war her book was recovered and published in Brussels under the title "Silhouettes Crepusculaires". It was well received in Belgium, France and Switzerland, and attracted the favorable attention of such men as George Brandes, Romain Rolland, Jorgen Jorgensen and Cardinal Mercier. On the occasion of the visit of the queen of the Belgians to this country, Mlle. Ernst was summoned by her and decorated with the Order of Elizabeth.

In the years that have elapsed the little French girls whose father was blinded have grown up, and this is the story which explains their having been eager to come to Connecticut college.

Majestic ran a sliver under the nail of his right middle finger on June 18, 1928, while loading platforms at the respondent's plant in Greeneville. Infection set in after the sliver was removed and he was under the doctor's care about five weeks and he had the terminal end of the bone removed at the hospital. NORWICH TOWN

NEW LONDON PREACHER SUPPLIES AT M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Elmer G. Page of New London, supplied the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, who is having a vacation of two weeks. The theme of the sermon was "The Master Builder," text 1 Corinthians 3-13. Every man's work shall be made manifest, for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. In his introductory remarks, Rev. Mr. Page spoke of how much he appreciated the privilege of preaching at this church, as it was the first church in which he ever gave a message from Christ, from the pulpit.

The Methodist C. E. society will resume evening services Sunday, September 16th. The services have been discontinued through the summer.

The September meeting scheduled for Thursday of Dorcas Home Missionary society, connected with the Methodist church, has been cancelled. The meetings for fall and winter it is expected will commence during the early part of next month.

"The Cross A Reality In the Christian Life," was the theme of a most impressive sermon by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, at the Sunday morning worship at First Congregational church. The Scripture reading was from the 15th chapter of St. Marks, and the text was chosen from St. Luke 23:26. And as they led Him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus. There was an unusually large attendance at the service, during which two new members were received into the fellowship of this church, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Washington. The former on confession of faith in Christ, while Mrs. Washington (Ruth Woodmansee) was received by letter of transfer, from the United Congregational church, Norwich. At the close of the morning worship, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed, with a large number of communicants. In response to the cards sent out by the pastor, at the end of the week, there were many present, who had not been for several Sundays, due either to illness or vacations.

The Congregational Young People's service Sunday evening, was in charge of Miss Dorothea Buckley. The topic used was "How May Every One Become Truly Educated?" Proverbs 4:1-13, the Scripture reference. The recent fete on the chapel lawn under the auspices of this society netted $76.

The mid-week service of conference and prayer of the Congregational church Thursday evening, will have for its theme, The Truth in Parable—The Wheat and the Tares. Matthew 13:24-30; 36-43.

Mrs. James Ringland of Huntington avenue was the guest of her sister Mrs. William White of Leffingwell over the week end, at their brothers cottage Idle Hour, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Fitch Dolbeare, at Gardner lake.

A former Norwich Town young man, now a prominent lawyer, John Hughes, of Chicago and Washington, was a caller Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Hughes of Huntington Green.

TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF "ICE BOX BANDITS" LIKELY TODAY

Nine Jurors Were Selected Yesterday, When 67 Had Been Examined—The Attorneys Are Hopeful That the Jury Box Will Be Filled Early Today—It is Planned to Start the Case at Once—The Accused Were Not Consulted in the Rejection on Acceptance of Jurymen.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 11 — The grind of selecting a jury panel of 12 to hear the trial of Roland G. Lalone and Albert J. Raymond, alleged Bay State bandits, and charged with the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson of New Haven at Pomfret on the night of April 6, got underway in the Windham county superior court here today. Of 94 talesmen who answered roll call this morning, 67 had been examined and nine veniremen had been accepted and assigned to the jury box. Court adjourned at 5 o'clock this afternoon until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, D. S. T.

The jurymen selected to date are:

Everett Kimball, Scotland, farmer.

George N. Perry, Scotland, farmer.

Nelson A. Bennett, Sterling, retired granite contractor.

John C. Huntington, Killingly, farmer.

L. Dexter Crawford, Windham, silk thread manufacturer.

Richard Burchnall, Hampton, farmer.

Ellsworth C. Babson, Brooklyn, cotton mill foreman.

A. M. Bassett, Ashford, carpenter and builder.

Silas M. Wheelock, Putnam, woolen manufacturer.

At the close of the day the state had used 13 of the 50 challenges allowed, while the defense had exhausted 21 excuses of its 50. There are 25 challenges allowed for each defendant. The court had excused 25 including one talesman who had served on the grand jury in the case and was therefore automatically ineligible, this also being the case of four others of the six who did not answer roll call.

The attorneys expressed the hope that the remaining three jurymen will be selected by noon or early afternoon Wednesday, when it is planned to start the case at once. Although 26 of the original 100 talesmen had not been called today, it was pointed out that both sides had a number of challenges left to their credit, and Judge Edward M. Yeomans, presiding at the session, ordered Sheriff Charles A. Gates to secure a list of 25 additional talesmen from Clerk Curtis Dean, to be summoned to court for Wednesday.

The two youths who are accused of the murder were taken from the county jail at Brooklyn under heavy guard. They spent the day in the prisoners' pen in the courtroom and were apparently not consulted on the rejection or acceptance of jurymen.

Court convened at 10:30 o'clock and business started at once. The talesmen were in the courtroom and Miss Marjorie Bradford of Putnam, assistant clerk of the court, at once read the roll call.

The 94 talesmen who answered represented the 15 towns of the county. Of these not present, previous excuses had been granted to Henry C. Bacon and Arthur L. Clark, Windham; A. A. Brodeur of Putnam, Oscar F. Atwood of Brooklyn, George F. Pierce, Jr., of Sterling, and Frank Miller of Woodstock. Clinton E. Frink of Canterbury was present but was excused as he had been a member of the grand jury.

Following roll call the talesmen were escorted into the common council chamber and corridor adjoining the courtroom and the examinations started at once.

While the bulk of the witnesses had been excused for the day and the seating capacity of about 85 reserved for this purpose was practically vacant, the tiny courtroom presented a busy scene, nevertheless. As a result of an arrangement of tables and seats made by Sheriff Charles A. Gates and Messenger William V. Palmer it is expected that full accommodations will be provided for all those having to do with the trial.

As for spectators, the gallery will hold about 30, but in event that witnesses or their relatives overflow the main floor they will be given the use of the gallery and spectators will be allowed only as there is room left.

Two uniformed police officers are stationed at the bottom of the double staircase leading to the third floor, where the courtroom is located, and admission is by identification. There were no spectators allowed today and this will be the case Wednesday. In response to applications, about ten reporters representing newspapers in both Massachusetts and Connecticut and leased-wire presses were given identification cards and placed along a reserved table at numbers corresponding with those on the cards.

At the attorneys' table are seated Special State's Attorney Samuel B. Harvey of this city, appointed for the case, and State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam, who has recovered from an illness and is now assisting; and the attorneys for the defense, John M. Thayer of Worcester, representing Lalone; John J. Moynihan, John C. Mahoney and Frank B. Hall, all of Worcester, representing Raymond; and Attorney Frank H. Foss of this city, representing the defense.

The interrogation of the talesmen was by Attorney Foss for the defense and the two state attorneys, intermittently. The questioning of talesmen was monotonous and without note with the exception of two instances.

John Spalding, who has been a resident of Woodstock for 28 years, said he could not serve because he was not a voter and added that he had troubles enough without meddling with politics.

Harvey J. Grinnell of Putnam was excused when it was brought out that he had served during the World war with the murdered officer.

Both sides indicated today that their evidence is fully prepared and both seem assured of victory. The state investigation has been conducted by County Detective William E. Isaakson, Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart and Officer Nolan of the Danielson barracks and other officers. The state predicts strong evidence to show that Lalone and Raymond were in Connecticut and the vicinity of the murder on the night in question.

Officer Gallagher of the Springfield, Mass., police and Harold Lester, aged 16, employed at his father's gasoline station in this city, will be the principal identification witnesses.

On the other hand the defense with a brilliant array of legal talent and numerous witnesses express no fear of ultimately freeing the two young men now held for the murder. From every angle the indications are that the trial will run several days and possibly into three weeks.

Upon the adjournment of court this afternoon the defendants were returned to the county jail. They will be transferred back and forth for the present, although it is possible that at the height of the trial they may be lodged in the cell room of the local police station overnight under heavy guard.

AN AIR RATE FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11—(AP)—National air interest finding a focus in planes field this week gave way temporarily to a regional airplane race from San Francisco won by H. S. Myrhes, of Los Angeles, who led 17 fliers across the finish line at 1.45 p. m. The race started at Mills field, San Francisco, at 10 a. m.

While the state race was being settled three groups of transcontinental fliers were within a day's flight of the finish line.

The crash of one plane, with serious injury to a passenger and probable abandonment of the race by a leader in class B, marred the day at Yuma, Ariz., where flyers of that group and of Class C rested for the night before the final dash to Los Angeles.

The Waco biplane of Stuart F. Auer, of Milwaukee, crashed at Wellton, Ariz., 42 miles east of Yuma, after going into a tail-spin. K. E. Herron of Milwaukee, whom Auer carried as passenger, sustained a deep scalp wound and was rushed to the Cochrane sanitarium at Yuma. Though seriously hurt, physicians said Herron would recover.

Auer's plane was badly damaged and he was definitely out of the race. It was the Milwaukee flyer's second crackup since the fliers left New York. He crashed in a fog while crossing Pennsylvania last Saturday but repaired his plane in time to resume his flight Sunday. He caught the rest of the field in Texas Monday.

MAYOR TO INVESTIGATE THE PHILA. POLICE FORCE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11—(AP)—District Attorney Monaghan who is conducting the grand jury investigation of bootlegging and gangster killings, said today that a 23-year old girl had been tricked into signing papers which caused her name to appear as the "owner" of a distillery.

The young woman is Miss Anna Cooney, a stenographer in a lawyer's office. She was before the grand jury for an hour today and was also questioned in the prosecutor's office. The distillery with which her name was connected as owner, was closed some time ago by prohibition agents. She was formerly employed by the company.

The distillery in question, the prosecutor declared, had disposed of about 350,000 gallons of alcohol which found its way into bootleg channels.

Mayor Mackey announced tonight that he was going to make his own investigation of the police force, some members of which were alleged to have accepted bribes from the rum ring, and "take such action as may appear necessary."

The mayor said he had asked District Attorney Monaghan to return, at his convenience, reports regarding vice and liquor conditions in the forty-three police districts of the city which the mayor turned over to him last Friday.

AVIATORS PATCHED UP THEIR DIFFERENCES

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 11—(AP)—Roger Q. Williams and Peter Bonelli patched up their differences with Cesare Sabelli this afternoon, withdrew from the nonstop derby, in which they had agreed last night to fly Charles Levine's Columbia, and announced that they would start at once for Hartford in Sabelli's sesquiplane Roma.

From Hartford they will proceed, after a thorough engine checkover at the Pratt and Whitney factory, to Old Orchard, Me., whence they hope to take off on a transatlantic flight to Rome. It seemed probable late today that this change in plans might result in the scratching of the Columbia from the derby lists.

DELAWARE REPUBLICAN NOMINATE BUCK FOR GOV.

DOVER, Del., Sept. 11—(AP)—C. Douglas Buck, state highway engineer and son-in-law of United States Senator Coleman Dupont, organization candidate, was today nominated for governor at the Delaware republican state convention. He defeated I. D. Short, of Milford, anti-organization candidate.

FIRST HOTEL PADLOCKING CASE IN CONNECTICUT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 11—(AP)—Connecticut's first hotel padlocking case rests now in the hands of Judge Edwin C. Dickenson, of the superior court. Today the judge reserved decision in the first matter of its kind in the state of Connecticut when he took into consideration the move of State's Attorney William E. Comley to close the doors of the Lincoln hotel at 79-81 Gold street for one year.

The case was a "dry" battle with Attorney Lawrence Finklestone of this city demurring to the motion upon the claim that the move of the state's attorney was illegal inasmuch as it failed to prove that the owners of the building knew that the liquor laws were being broken on the premises.

It was later stipulated by the state and Attorney Finklestone that the owners, Samuel Silver, Louis and Charles Levine, all of this city, did not know of the conditions which led to a sensational raid on the hotel by state police on Aug. 27 and in which several arrests were made.

It was upon this demurrer entirely that the fate of the proceedings hangs and decision is expected in a few days.

RADIO PACT VIOLATES CLAYTON ANTI-TRUST LAW

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11— (AP) — The clause of the agreements entered into between the Radio Corporation of America and its licensed manufacturers of radio receiving sets, restricting the manufacturers to the use of Radio Corporation's tubes in the construction of such sets, is void and in violation of the Clayton anti-trust law, the United States circuit court of appeals decided today.

It was a two to one decision and upheld Judge Hugh M. Morris of the federal district court of Delaware who had ruled a restrictive clause to be invalid.

The complainants in the case were Arthur D. Lord, receiver of the De Forest Radio Corporation, Northern Manufacturing Co., United Radio and Electric Corporation, Televocal Corporation and Harry Chirieleis, proprietor of the Sonatron Tube Corporation, so-called independent tube manufacturers, who maintained that the Radio Corporation was building up a monopoly of the tube business by compelling manufacturers who made receiving sets under the licenses from the Radio Corporation to use only R. C. A tubes in the sets.

Former Mayor Eaton D. Sargent of Nashua appeared assured of the democratic gubernatorial nomination when he was leading his opponent, Charles W. Ward of Manchester, almost three to one. Returns from 189 wards and towns gave Sargent 3,928 to 1,644 for Brown.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR., ACCUSES GOV. SMITH

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., speaking at the New Haven County fair tonight, said that the accusation of extravagance made by Governor Smith on the republican party was double faced, and does not compare with the attack he made Saturday on Mr. Barnes, the republican candidate for attorney-general in Massachusetts.

"Mr. Barnes charged Governor Smith with knowledge of the existence of great commercialized gambling pools in the city of Albany and stated that he had taken no effective measures to suppress them.

"Mr. Barnes' statement is fact."

Fisticuffs At Texas Dem. Convention

Eyes Were Blackened and Noses [illegible] in a Free-For-All [illegible]

[illegible], Tex., Sept. 11—(AP)—Amid the wildest scenes that ever marked a democratic meeting in Texas, delegates [illegible] to endorse the presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York bolted the state democratic convention today and organized a convention of their own.

Many of the state's most prominent political leaders swung their fists in a free-for-all fight that ensued when former Governor Oscar Colquitt, avowed anti-Smithite, sprang to his feet a few minutes after the convention opened and shouted:

"Let all loyal democrats retire."

Eyes were blackened and noses bled as the insurgents, trooping from the hall amid jeers and shouts of "get out republicans," attempted to snatch standards from delegations of loyalists. Uniformed officers broke up a half dozen melees before order finally was restored and about 300 insurgents repaired to their meeting place on the front steps of the Fair Park auditorium.

The bolt was precipitated when a motion was introduced demanding that only those delegations loyal to Governor Smith be seated. The motion was an anti-climax to the action of the state executive committee yesterday, when anti-Smith delegations from five counties were notified that they would not be seate din the convention.

Meeting apart from the regular democratic group, the Hoover supporters elected former State Senator Thomas B. Love temporary chairman, named committees and listened to several addresses before adjourning their convention and entering direction of their future activities in the hands of an executive committee, headed by Alvin S. Moody of Houston.

A set of resolutions adopted characterized the nomination of Governor Smith as an "unfortunate error" and condemned the "high-handed and lawless methods of the regular convention."

The regulars adopted a resolution declaring that "97 1-2 per cent of the bolters were not delegates to the convention but citizens of Dallas and surrounding communities who came to the auditorium for the express purpose of organizing a bolt." A motion of former Governor Bailey another resolution was adopted ordering the convention purged of "Hoover democrats."

Barring a possible conflict between Governor Dan Moody and certain members of the platform committee over the inclusion of a prohibition plank in the platform, the windup of the regular convention promised to be tranquil.

Governor Moody announced he would seek to incorporate a plank endorsing the principles of prohibition, and it was known several members of the committee who believed that any indorsement of prohibition by the convention would be looked upon as a reflection upon the candidacy of Governor Smith planned to fight such a plank.

GOV. MOODY OF TEXAS COMES OT FOR SMITH

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 11—(AP)—Governor Dan Moody of Texas, who prior to the democratic national convention opposed the nomination of Alfred E. Smith, placed himself on record tonight as unequivocally in favor of the presidential candidacy of the New York governor.

C. H. MACKAY AND HIS DAUGHTER RECONCILED

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The New York Daily News in a copyrighted article tomorrow will say that Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph system, and his daughter, Mrs. Irving Berlin, have been reconciled after three years' separation following her marriage to the song writer.

The reconciliation came beside the bier of Mrs. Louise Hungerford Mackay, mother of Mr. Mackay and Mrs. Berlin's grandmother, and was a fulfilment of Mrs. Mackay's wish. The News will say it was marked by the father kissing Mrs. Berlin as she put her arms around his shoulders.

Berlin was not present at the meeting, which took place at the Mackay home at Roslyn, L. I.

RASKOB NOT DISMAYED BY THE MAINE ELECTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, said tonight that the outcome of the Maine elections had not caused him to change his prediction, made in St. Louis last month, that Gov. Alfred E. Smith would receive 309 electoral votes.

Earlier in the day the democratic chairman expressed surprise that the republicans had not won by an even larger margin than they did in Maine. He said democratic leaders "have regarded Maine as a republican state all along" and added that he did not think national issues were involved "at all in the Maine elections."

DETROIT, Sept. 11—(AP)—The semi-rigid dirigible "Puritan" owned by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, Ohio, was safely moored at the Ford airport tonight after riding out a terrific wind and rain storm that broke as the ship approached the city.

The ship, carrying a crew of two and four passengers, was tossed about by the winds for 35 minutes, completely turning over once, when the storm suddenly lifted and the Puritan was able to make its way to the airport.

NOMINEE SMITH ANXIOUS ABOUT HIS HOME STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 11—(AP)—Governor Smith indicated today that he was not worrying about political trends in states which he is convinced the democrats have little or no chance of carrying in November and he puts Maine in that class.

The only comment for publication made by the democratic presidential nominee on yesterday's election result in the Pine Tree state was this:

"I never was optimistic enough to think Maine would be anything but republican."

He made this observation to newspapermen after he had inquired, rather casually, what the Maine result had been, and had been informed that the republicans had carried the state by more than 70,000. Morning papers which were available to the governor had carried only incomplete returns.

Although he evinced little interest in the Maine voting, the democratic standard bearer showed plainly that he was concerned over the political situation in New York state, which his advisers hold he must carry to win over Herbert Hoover. He announced that before his departure for the west Sunday night on his first stumping tour he had one conference on his schedule, and that with democratic leaders in the state.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY IN MAINE WAS 84,891

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 11—(AP)—Scattered returns from small up-state communities, received late today, increased the lead of William Tudor Gardiner, republican gubernatorial candidate to 84,891 over E. C. Moran, Jr., his democratic opponent, in the Maine state election held yesterday. The majority is the largest ever given a gubernatorial candidate in this state.

Only 17 precincts out of the 633 in the state remained to be recorded. Mr. Gardiner carried every city in the state with the exception of Biddeford and Lewiston, both of which are normally democratic by wide margins.

The senatorial contest between Frederick Hale, republican, and Herbert E. Holmes, democrat, resulted in a margin of 80,004 for the republican candidate.

JOHN COOLIDGE WAS TEN MINUTES EARLY FOR WORK

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11—(AP)—John Coolidge settled down to work as an ordinary clerk for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad today and immediately began to learn the miscellaneous routine duties that are expected to carry him forward to a higher position is he continues his interest in railroading.

Arising shortly after 7 o'clock at the Yale Graduates' club, where he is living temporarily, the young son of the president walked to work and arrived ten minutes before schedule. A battery of camera men stood outside the door of the Yellow building and many people on their way to work, stopped to gaze at the youth as he entered. Dressed in a natty blue suit, blue tie and blue shirt, he was greeted by Joseph Wipper, chief clerk of the operating department under whom he will work for th present. In the room with Coolidge, will be six other men.

As he passed out of the office to join the thousands for a noon day meal, he was met by inquisitive reporters but his secret service guard said that he had no comment to make and he did not stop. He arrived back at the Graduates' club at six o'clock where he dined.

BOSTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts said in a statement tonight that he believed the republican vote in Maine "indicates the direction in which the political wind is blowing" and repeated his prophecy that "Hoover will carry Massachusetts by a quarter of a million."

The statement read: "The republican vote in Maine is very impressive and indicates the direction in which the political wind is blowing. I repeat my prophecy that Hoover will carry Massachusetts by a quarter of a million."

CONFERENCE OPENED ON RHINELAND EVACUATION

Representatives of Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and France Are in Session at Geneva—Meeting Was Planned For an Exchange of Views Preliminary to a More Formal Conference Later—Lord Cushenden of Great Britain Gave His Views on Disarmament Situation.

GENEVA, Sept. 11—(AP)—Beginning of a five power conference on evacuation of the Rhineland, a frank discussion of disarmament by Lord Cushenden of Great Britain and repercussions of yesterday's blunt speech to Germany by Foreign Minister Briand of France, occupied league circles today.

The conference on the evacuation of the Rhineland got under way this afternoon with Germany's chancellor, Herman Mueller, and Under-Secretary Von Schubert representing Germany, Lord Cushendun was sitting for Britain, Vittorio Scialoja for Italy, Paul Hymans for Belgium, and Aristide Briand for France. Mineachiro Adachi of Japan also attended as member of the conference of ambassadors which watches over the treaty of Versailles.

The meeting was planned with an eye to exchange of views preliminary to a more formal conference later.

The Franco-British naval accord came up once more in assembly meeting when Lord Cushendun, acting British foreign minister, said he regretted no more progress toward disarmament had been made.

He said he shared the German chancellor, Mueller's disappointment in this regard, but that unforeseen difficulties such as reconciliation of technical views of nations had arisen to delay progress of disarmament. He pleaded, however, for continued hope in the movement and predicted that the day would come when large armaments would be an "anachronism of shame," and that nations even entering war would incur disrepute among their neighbors.

He indicated that if the British-French naval accord did not meet with approval of other nations it might be revised to do so, and said that it had been contracted only as a basis for further disarmament.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Briand's speech of yesterday continued to monopolize conversation in German circles there was heard with renewed conviction the convention that it indicated anew that France stands for absolutely no amelioration in the present political conditions of Europe insofar as they concern Germany.

In French circles and elsewhere there was heard only praise of M. Briand's address. It was said that it had been most praiseworthy in its frank discussion of disarmament, and that the league must always be a forum of plain speech instead of polite emptiness when plain speech seemed justified.

M. Briand himself told newspapermen that he wished to show no hostility to Germany but felt keenly the necessity of answering Herr Mueller's contention that Germany had disarmed while others had not done so. He said he was convinced the majority of Germans wanted peace but there was also an element which caused him some uneasiness.

Both Foreign Minister Briand and Chancellor Mueller were smiling when they left the hotel of Lord Cushenden where the evacuation conference was held. A communique on the meeting issued tonight said "conversations have commenced on the question of evacuation of the Rhineland. There was a full exchange of views. The discussion is continuing and will be resumed on Thursday."

It is understood that the Germans adhered to their program of not presenting any denite written plan for evacuation, Chancellor Mueller, it is said, told the allies that Germany had fulfilled the Versailles obligations, especially in relation to the Dawes plan, and that maintenance of allied troops on German soil would engender animosity in the German people.

Chancellor Mueller, in a press conference tonight, answered several of the points made by M. Briand in his address yesterday to the assembly. To the charge that Germany was not disarmed by a good deal, he replied that of the 40,000 army officers at the end of the war, 36,000 had been dismissed. The development of her merchant marine, he said, was necessary to enable her to fulfill the reparations engagements and he saw no reason why it should be used as an argument against her. Another war, he contended, was impossible for financial and other reasons.

WOULD STRESS SUPERIORITY OF AMERICAN MADE GOODS

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—A campaign of education to convince the public of the superiority of American made products was urged today at the annual convention of the United Textile Workers' union.

Earl White of Reading, Pa., Edward F. Callaghan of Philadelphia, and J. P. O'Connell, of Salem, Mass. led a discussion of the competition of foreign made goods. It was urged as well that the public be informed of factories which were fair to labor even though they did not use the union label on their product.

Earlier in the day Daniel O'Brien, delegate from a New Bedford, Mass., local, reiterated opposition of the invasion by radicals and communists, praising the leadership of John Batty in the New Bedford strike and upholding his stand against radical propaganda.

The session was largely occupied with routine reports of committee chairmen and officials. James Starr, international secretary-treasurer, head of the first report, showing large sums expended in recent strikes principally in New Bedford and New Jersey. The effectiveness of the union was praised by O'Brien, who asserted that all improvements of workers' conditions in the New Bedford district were due to its efforts.

Tomorrow the convention will discuss legislation and the tariff. Two hundred delegates from ten states are attending.

HOOVER SILENT ON RESULT OF THE MAINE ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Sept 11—(AP)—Herbert Hoover today touched upon the widely varying themes of the policy of the government toward war veterans and governmental fostering of private aviation development, but remained silent on the outcome of the Maine election.

Speaking to a delegation representing war veterans organizations who called upon him at his headquarters the republican presidential candidate assured them that he desired to see a continuance of a policy which would be just to veterans.

A few moments later, at his regular conference with newspaper men, he called attention to the conclusion of the transcontinental air derby without mishap, terming the successful finish of the race an indication of the removal of aviation from the area of adventure to the field of commerce.

For the second time since his nomination, he deviated in his comment on the air race from his policy of not permitting the quotation of his observations in press conferences. He declared that the tremendous forward strides in flying have "wholly justified" the policy of the government in stimulating private development of aviation instead of granting subsidies.

COOLIDGE TO ARRIVE IN WASHINGTON TODAY

ABOARD PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SPECIAL TRAIN, GARRETT, Ind., Sept. 11—(AP)—Scheduled to arrive in Washington early tomorrow morning to resume his regular executive duties in the capitol after a long vacation in Wisconsin, President Coolidge found nationally politics impatient to reach him before then and today he received the first callers since leaving the secluded shores of the Brule river.

James W. Good, western republican campaign manager and Representative Newton of Minnesota, head of the republican campaign speakers bureau, took the opportunity of an hour's stop of the presidential special in Chicago to board the train and confer with the chief executive.

BUT EIGHT PLANES FOR TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 11—(AP)—The confusion and turmoil that has featured every long flight with which Charles A. Levine has been connected was injected into the final arrangements for the nonstop transcontinental air derby tonight when Levine's new crew withdrew to make a transatlantic flight.

Levine's transatlantic monoplane Columbia was one of the first entries in the race. Levine arranging from abroad to have the ship flown by Lieut. Jack Iseman, commandant of the Rockaway naval air station.

But when Levine arrived back in America on the Leviathan yesterday he began to rearrange his flight personnel. He announced that Iseman would be replaced as chief pilot by Roger Q. Williams who had decided not to participate in the projected flight to Rome with Cesare Sabelli. Peter Bonelli, another of Sabelli's crew also cut loose from that venture and it was intimated that he too might fly in the Columbia.

Late today, however, Williams and Bonelli suddenly announced that they had decided to go with Sabelli after all and would leave at once for Hartford. This left Levine with only Lt. Iseman and there was a general belief that the Columbia would be scratched.

If the Columbia is withdrawn, there will be only eight planes in the race instead of the 12 originally entered, of these eight four will be "in the money" which amounts to $22,250 in prizes of $12,500, $6,000, $3,000 and $1,000.

TWO MEN IN CUSTODY FOR ALBANY BASEBALL POOL

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—Announcing that two men had been taken into custody on warrants issued by the federal court in Boston and that two others were arraigned in Albany today on charges in connection with the Albany baseball pool, United States Attorney Tuttle tonight said that evidence in his possession showed operations of the pool had drawn about $5,000,000 annually from wage earners in New York, Albany and neighboring cities.

James Otto and Walter J. Kane, of Albany, were taken into custody on warrants issued by the federal court in Boston, the United States attorney said, on evidence submitted by his office tending to show they had continued their activity in connection with the pool after the court had granted them a suspension of sentence last November. He said they were held in joint bail of $25,000.

The two arraigned in Albany on indictments handed up in the federal court in New York August 31 last were John Otto Sr., who was held in $5,000 bail, and John Otto, Jr., whose bail was fixed at $10,000. Both are from Albany.

FALLING OFF IN NEW ENGLAND APPLE CROP

BOSTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—New England's apple crop shows indications of falling off this year as a result of unfavorable conditions, the New England crop reporting service announced today. Only a third of a crop of McIntosh, the most important fall variety is expected. With the exception of northern spy and Ben Davis, all other varieties promise a larger production than that of last year although all but northern spy show lower than two years ago. The prospects are best in Connecticut and New Hampshire and lightest in Maine.

The production is now forecast at 1,575,000 barrels in New England this year compared with 1,635,000 harvested last year.

DRIVE FOR NEW INDUSTRY TO LOCATE IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 12—A campaign has been launched locally that may mean the definite location here of a new industry. The goal is $12,600. The concern in question has been manufacturing a metal screen for the past five years. A new type of metal screen has been invented and a patent applied for. An agreement, drawn by a local attorney, has been signed by the inventor and a committee from the local chamber of commerce. The directors of the chamber have accepted the report of this committee, endorsed the idea and named a committee to conduct the campaign, consisting of Kenneth N. Hillhouse, chairman; Frank M. Lincoln, Albert B. Smith, Nelson A. Daniels and Dixon Van Zandt.

The drive to raise this money will be a brief one. Stock in the proposed corporation is to be offered, two shares of a seven per cent. preferred cumulative stock to be sold and with each such unit, one share of common stock, no par, will be offered as a bonus. Nearly $2,500 has already been pledged to date and it is expected that a group of about 50 men will engage in the work of selling the remainder. A report meeting is to be held Thursday night in the chamber of commerce rooms. Chairman Hillhouse has been greatly encouraged by the number of volunteer workers and the almost spontaneous responses made to date.

The model of the screen is now at the chamber of commerce office for general inspection. While the inventor is now manufacturing in a Massachusetts city, it is proposed to bring all manufacturing operations together with those of a branch plant in Vernon, to this city. The company will commence business in the S. C. S. Box company plant. At the conclusion of the campaign the necessary new machinery will be ordered for immediate delivery, and machines in use now in Massachusetts sent here. It is planned to start production within a few weeks. This concern will not start with a large number of hands but the prospects are considered bright for expansion. Applications from persons desiring sales territory have already been received.

In police court Tuesday morning the case of Ilene M. Nickerson of 163 Huntington avenue, Boston, Mass., was continued until Thursday morning by Judge Frank H. Foss upon the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. The young woman was placed under arrest Monday evening and was held for a violation of the motor vehicle law. At the time of her arrest she was driving a Chrysler runabout with a Maine registration and a Massachusetts operator's license. The prosecutor, in recommending the continuance, said that the state was not satisfied as to the proper ownership of the machine and it was on his recommendation that bonds were fixed at $100.

William Howard of Mystic was also before the court, charged with a violation of the terms of his probation. Howard promised the court that he would obtain work here, pay the fine and costs imposed on him recently when he was before the court for intoxication and obey every requirement if the probationary period if given another chance. The period of probation was continued for three months after a discussion of the case.

Miss Edna May Ganvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ganvin of this city, was united in marriage with Arthur Lewis Washburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Washburn, also of this city, by Rev. A meeting of the Willimantic Boys' band was held at St. Paul's parish house Monday evening which was largely attended. Prior to rehearsal a business session took place and the changes in the name of the band were suggested. The band was organized two years ago by the rector of St. Paul's church, Rev. Frederick C. Williams, as a community organization, and has grown steadily in numbers and in the quality of music played until it is now a well-balanced band of over twenty pieces, capable of furnishing a high-grade concert. During these two years the band has been "on its own", so to speak, under the management of Rev. Mr. Williams, without much general support and it is proposed to give it the definite backing of St. Paul's church. This matter is to be taken up at a vestry meeting to be held this evening and at the next session of the band. Twenty-five members has been set as an objective, so that only two or three more will be admitted without a special vote of the band. Work has commenced on a concert program and it is proposed to stage a public concert early next month.

Large attendances have been attracted to the four weeks' mission at St Mary's church under the direction of missionary fathers of the Order of Jesus and Mary of Quebec, Canada. This week, contrary to the original plan, is for married men. According to Rev. J. J. Papillon, pastor, there will be two more weeks for the single members of the parish, one for each sex. Rev. Father Papillon has also announced that the regular schedule of Sunday masses would be resumed on the first Sday in October, when they will be held at 7, 8, 9.15 and 10.30 a. m.

A call has been issued by Mayor Charles A. Gates, chairman of the second district republican congressional committee, for the district convention to place in nomination a candidate for congress. The convention will be held at the town hall in this city at 11.30 a. m., daylight saving time, on Saturday, September 22nd. About two hundred delegates will attend, from the sixty-four towns that comprise the district.

JEWETT CITY

NORWICH DRIVER LEARNS SOMETHING ABOUT THE LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 11—A Norwich man narrowly missed getting into limbo here Tuesday morning, only escaping what many said was his just due, by the good nature of Officer Henry Vegiard. The man deliberately parked his machine on the wrong side of the state highway on Main street. The officer called his attention to the error, and the vehicle was accordingly moved. Then, Mr. Norwich Gent gave the officer the "Pooh! Pooh!" Promptly ordered to appear in the town court Tuesday morning and tell the judge about it, he did so, and meekly told the officer that he thought he was Dan Finn. No charges were preferred, yet many fail to note the synthetic similarity, wherein one is likely to mistake Officer Vegiard for Dan Finn.

As the result of a mixup by automobile drivers in Post Office square Monday, Attorneys Thomas M. Shields of Norwich and James Smith of Moosup were at the town court Tuesday morning, representing respectively, Avilia Marion and Herman St. John, both of Jewett City. Marion was charged with failure to grant right of way, and St. John with driving a machine with defective brakes. After a settlement of damages had been agreed upon, and ten perfectly good iron men had been deposited with the court, the case was nolled by Judge John T. Barry.

DOG RAIDS FLOCK OF SHEEP AT ARBA BROWNING FARM

According to the town abstract, 40 years ago there were close to 500 sheep owned by the farmers of Griswold. Today there is barely a tenth of that number, the main reason being that the depredations of dogs have made it a losing game. Often the price paid for damage to sheep has run over $200 in a year. Arba Browning still has a fine flock of about 30, which one night last week were not driven up to the barn. Along towards morning, the family was awakened by a disturbance outside. Dr. Browning, Arba's son, suspecting trouble in the sheep flock, was at the lot as soon as possible. Here and there huddled against the wall were the scared and bleeding sheep, with plenty of evidence to tell of the worrying and biting that had taken place. The doctor didn't go unarmed. He lay low in cover of a bushy growth that skirts a boundary wall. Suddenly the dog's head appeared with lolling tongue, from behind a small rise in the pasture. Both barrels were let go in the dim light, snap-shot fashion, but what lead the dog got failed to stop him. A reception with coarser shot awaits the next visit.

MUST HAVE PROTECTION

Talk has been indulged in as to the column in which Pennsylvania will be found after all the votes are counted next November. The chairman of the democratic campaign has pretended to swallow the claim that the Keystone state might go democratic. He used such a statement in an effort to offset a claim that Texas might go republican.

Congressman Watson of Pennsylvania takes no stock in such a claim and insists that Pennsylvania will turn out the normal republican majority this year. Like others who have expressed an opinion concerning the political situation, he bases this upon the sentiment of the people concerning the tariff. That state has always been strong for such protection. It has long experienced the benefits from such legislation and it knows the handicaps that could be expected in case it was removed, or so modified that its value would be removed.

When Congressman Watson tells the people of his state that the democratic efforts in congress would be for a tariff for revenue only, a tariff that means virtually free trade, he speaks from his knowledge of the attitude of the members of the ways and means committees from democratic states. Being a member of that committee he has a first hand idea of the course they would pursue in dealing with the tariff. He knows what happened when the democrats dealt with the tariff the last time and all those who read it know that Candidate Smith strongly commended the last democratic tariff law, a law which had no opportunity to display itself because the war furnished the country with greater protection against foreign production than ever before.

But the same sentiment that exists in Pennsylvania for a protective tariff should prevail in Connecticut and in Norwich. Industries which are made possible solely because of the duty placed on similar products from other countries, where living conditions are different and labor is cheap, must continue to receive that protection. To remove it means no industries and no employment.

Industrial states are therefore going to insist upon the election of the candidates of that party which will insure a protective tariff, not the party that has persistently fought it. The republican party has long stood for protection and prosperity and its record of accomplishments thereunder is long and creditable.

SAFE DRIVING

Those who hold the wheel of an automobile know that greater responsibility rests upon their shoulders than upon those who sit beside or in back of them. They are entrusted not only with the guidance of the machine and the safety of the occupants, but they are burdened with the duty of watching the road, keeping out of the way of the other fellow, obeying regulations and avoiding accidents.

Once back of the wheel it becomes apparent to the driver that he has rules to respect and it is necessary that he should give consideration to these rather than to the attractions that appear along the roadside. If within his line of vision it is to be expected that he will see as well as drive, but when it comes to twisting around and neglecting the guidance of the car good judgment should sacrifice that for safety. In other words the driver of a car should give first consideration to his duties, regardless of the greater freedom that others may enjoy in regard to sight seeing. The careful and considerate driver doesn't need to be prompted in this matter. He is alert to his responsibilities.

Unfortunately all drivers are not that considerate. There are those who think little or nothing about sending their car all over the road while they are devoting their attention to attractions way off to one side or to those within the car. They seem to harbor the idea that the whole road is theirs, that the rights of others are simply something to talk about and that it makes little or no difference if they encroach upon, or actually occupy, that part of the highway which belongs to others.

Many of the automobile accidents, and many more of the near-accidents, are due to this failure to live up to responsibilities while driving automobiles. Many a car has been forced off the highway, into poles or tight squeezes which are entirely unnecessary, while it is this needlessness which is the cause for many of the highway accidents of the present time. The importance of driving safely, both as to others as well as self, will never get any more attention than it deserves.

IS THE GAME SLIPPING?

From time to time efforts have been made to give the impression that the interest in baseball is not what is used to be. It is possible to point out that there are no boys playing ball in the streets where they used to do so, to show that there are greater numbers displaying an interest in golf and other sports. Ball playing in the streets has disappeared to a large extent and it ought. It is not the place for youngsters under the present day conditions, but when we stop to consider the many school boy teams, the amateur leagues and the twilight leagues there seems to be little foundation for the idea that baseball is slipping.

Increased interest is being shown in golf, but it doesn't necessarily mean that those who are playing golf have given up baseball or that they have no desire to witness the national game any more.

Some idea of what the interest in baseball is was reflected on the occasion of the double header between New York and Philadelphia at New York last Sunday. It was a contest that may prove to have determined the league championship but it was perfectly evident that all those who wanted to see those games could not be accommodated. That has frequently been the case where the grounds were limited but it could not help being noted that more than 85,000 were packed into the New York grounds and then it is recorded that thousands were turned away. Just how many more would have paid admission if they had been allowed to is a question, but that attendance serves to illustrate the fact that baseball still has a strong pull on the lovers of sports.

Possibly baseball will not continue its popularity forever. Something else may crowd it to one side, but there isn't anything as yet that attracts as many people, there isn't any game which as many people have played and there isn't any outdoor contest which as many people enjoy as they do baseball. It has a fascination whether it is played by the rankest amateurs or whether it is demonstrated by the best players in the world's series.

THE VICTORY IN MAINE

If there was any uncertainty as to what Maine was going to do it no longer exists. Maine's state election has been held and the republican ticket throughout has been elected by surprisingly large majorities.

Maine's record is that of a republican state, but in this week's election there was piled up a greater majority for governor and United States senator than ever before. Every county in the state went republican and every city but two. All four of the republican congressmen were elected by large majorities.

Eyes have been centered upon the Maine election because the state campaign has been conducted on national issues. The outcome therefore has a bearing upon the coming national campaign. Efforts were devoted to getting a big majority and it was figured that a majority of 50,000 would be an excellent showing for that would indicate a strong republican sentiment and would considerably exceed the majority of 36,000 received by the republican candidate four years ago. To go so far beyond the anticipated majority shows how thoroughly interested Maine is and it furnishes the first real expression by the people upon national issues.

Maine has spoken in the most effective possible manner and it is significant that such a large majority should have been rolled up without a record breaking vote. The outcome is a real cause for elation. It shows what Maine demands in the way of congressional support for the presidential candidate which it apparently strongly favors. In so doing there is the best kind of an example set to the rest of the states. Maine speaks for itself but the voice of the Maine republicans should be echoed by republicans everywhere.

FIGHT THE RAT

"The public should be brought to realize that if the extraordinarily prolific breeding of rats was not constantly controlled by disease, natural enemies and the cannibalistic tendencies of the animal itself, the world would be overrun and man himself forced to fight a losing battle for scraps of food."

Such is a statement by the government in a bulletin concerning the rat which is estimated to populate this country to the extent of 120,000,000. This means that there are as many rats as human beings in this country.

That is something to think about, but when the report shows that the rat consumes food to the amount of $200,000,000 each year and destroys property of a much greater value it becomes evident that there is an even greater reason for eliminating than just the desire not to have them around.

If everyone should be responsible for getting rid of one rat a year that might seem to be a solution of the problem, but when we stop to realize that a pair of rats will produce from 20 to 50 of their kind each year the problem begins to grow. Evidently we do not appreciate the natural forces which are constantly reducing the rat population. On the other hand it is highly probable that we do not realize how necessary it is to use all effective suppressive measures but at the same time to do everything possible to prevent a rat from getting sustenance. Rat proof containers and rat proof buildings will not completely eliminate the rat, but they are of great aid as well as valuable protections. The rat is one of the animals of which it is impossible to say any good.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Maine having set the pace, it remains for other states to do as well or better.

Even the boys with a poor memory have no trouble learning the football signals.

Developments would seem to justify the opinion of General Smedley D. Butler that Philadelphia wants vice.

The man on the corner says: You never hear the radio announcer inquire: "Have you heard this before?"

There may be evidences of it but it is useless to expect that bootlegging exhibits will be entered at the fairs this month.

If it isn't known otherwise, the brand of the cigars that are passed around will show that election day is drawing near.

NOT A WORD TO THE WIFE

Mary Clark hurried out of the employes' entrance of the Bingham department store and joined the crowds surging toward the nearest elevated station. It was late and her house was quite a distance from the car line; mother would be worrying again.

Br-r-r, how cold the wind from the lake was tonight! It whipped through her thin coat like a knife and the icy pavement made her tired feet numb. At the corner of State and Randolph, a big limousine swooped by and spattered her with slush. Wonder how it felt to be rich and snug in spite of the weather? It was not that she minded it herself, but there was mother ill at home with that terrible cough of hers, when she ought to be in a dry, warm climate and have a chance to get well.

Slop—slop. On through the snow and slush. Some one lurched against Mary in passing, and, as she slipped and struggled to regain her balance, her eyes caught a glint of something shining in the snow. Swiftly she stopped to pick it up and then a gasp of awe and excitement escaped her. In her hands was a diamond and emerald brooch, the stones scintillating in the rays from an adjacent shop window. Mary's heart was pounding as she tucked it into her handbag. She wanted time to think and adjust her whirling thoughts.

All the way home Mary dreamed of the things that brooch could buy. It could mean the chance to take her mother to Arizona and see her grow well again; the chance to see the color come back to those hollow cheeks.

That night her mother was feverish and Mary did not mention the brooch lest it arouse hopes that could not be realized. But in the morning she consulted the "lost ads" and almost prayed that she would find nothing. But there it was: "Lost — Valuable diamond and emerald brooch. Return to Edmond Blink, 218 Highland place. Reward."

Reward? Mary knew what that meant. Return something worth several thousand and they would hand you a couple of dollars and say, "Much obliged." Meanwhile here was mother wasting away when a few hundred dollars might mean her life. For a brief moment temptation gnawed at Mary's heart, but she fought it off and that night, as soon as she finished her work at the store, she hurried with the brooch to the exclusive south side home of Edmond Blink.

Mr. Blink was a great, bulgy man, whose small, close-eyes barely creased his fat face. He received Mary in a richly furnished library and was soon joined by Mrs. Blink, an angular, sharp-voiced woman, wearing an expensive evening gown and a string of beautiful pearls.

"Good of you to have brought the little trinket," he told Mary.

"Good of her," snapped Mrs. Blink; "it was more than that, Eddie. You know," she babbled, turning to Mary "that's a wonderful pin you found. Edmond bought it for our last anniversary."

"Now, dear, if you'll just let me settle this business." Mr. Blink was obviously uncomfortable. "As to the—er—reward, how will $25 suit you, young lady?"

"Why, Ed-mond!" Mrs. Blink's voice indicated that her husband's offer was a personal affront to herself. "Edmond Blink, are you going to be that stingy?" she demanded. "Didn't you tell me that brooch was worth $10,000? Didn't you?"

"Yes, yes, of course, Amy." Mr. Blink squirmed nervously in his chair. "Shall we say $100, young lady?"

"Edmond, have you no sentiment in your soul? My anniversary gift and you offer a paltry hundred!" Mrs. Blink's voice was hard and her face grim. "Give that girl $500, Edmond Blink," she commanded.

With the check clutched happily in her hand, Mary was hurrying toward the street when Mr. Blink's voice halted her.

"Wait a minute, young lady. Mrs. Blink wants to have the chauffeur take you home in her car," and he gestured to a comfortable limousine standing at the curb. Out of the fullness of her heart Mary leaned from the luxurious automobile to offer final thanks.

"Oh, Mr. Blink, how can I ever repay you for your generosity!"

"Generosity?" The fat Mr. Blink's round face twisted into a pained smirk. "The joke's on me. I had to pay you 500 bones for a little bit of colored glass that only cost me $40 in the first place. But—for the love of Mike, young lady, not a word to the wife."—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Day Dreams

Mr. Editor: These memories from time to time are just the blissful dreams of long ago, and the motive behind them is to bring back to the ones whose hair is beginning to show the silver the happy days of long ago. How many of you, dear readers, after being away from your old home and on your return have gone browsing through some of your boyhood treasures, dig down into some old trunk in the attic and find something that brings to your memory some old schoolmate who is over on the other side? Or, perhaps, you run across a bunch of letters that was returned by one o. your school-day sweethearts after you and she had a childish quarrel. What thoughts come over you as you dream along with the music of the rain on the roof and the quietness! May I here quote that beautiful dream by Coates Kinney, where he says:

Every tinkle on the shingles
Has an echo in the heart
And a thousand dreamy fancies
Into busy being start,
And a thousand recollections
Weave their air threads into
As you listen to the patter
Of the rain upon the roof.

And so each and every one of us at some time or other dream and if these be dreams let us dream on. And thus as you sit with your thoughts of other days in this quiet old corner, you once again see your little sweetheart, who has been gone for many years. To you now she is only a dream, and you close the door softly and once again descend to your house below.

In a recent letter I spoke about the old so-called baby school and among the other teachers I recall Lucy Arnold and also Rachel Jennings. During the sternuous days of the Civil war we had two hours a day allotted to us to cut bandages and pick oakum to be used as surgical dressings for some of the poor fellows who may have been wounded, and let the reader of today understand that in those days of long ago—say some 63 years—the medical world had not advanced to the wonderful efficiency that is their portion today. We children had to do our bit. What changes have taken place in this old world since those days, for today men are ever on the alert, and their motto is onward ever moving onward and upward.

And it can be truly said:

The heights by great men were reached and kept,
Were not attained through sudden flight;
But they, while their companions
slept,
Were toiling upward in the night.

And now here in Passaic everything is hurry and bustle for the vacation is over and tomorrow school begins (Sept. 6) and I think what wouldn't I give to be a boy again and once again go to school and meet with my old pals of yesterday. But this isn't to be, so I must just indulge in dreams—day dreams.

Wheat Fields Guarded Like Gold

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PODORITA, Yugo-Slavia, Sept. 11—(AP)—When the annual wheat harvest is on in Montenegro, now a part of Yugo-Slavia, the mountain farmer sits all night long by his ripened grain, rifle across his knees and ever alert for the marauder. For Montenegro is a primitive mountain state, infested with bandits.

In exceptional cases only is a wheat field in Montenegro larger than an American building lot. The country is rocky and barren. The wheat fields are laboriously created by bringing to the higher levels fertile earth from the valley below.

These little patches are the Montenegrin's sole means of sustenance, and he guards them literally like fields of gold.

Even in the best years the wheat crop is not equal to the country's consumption. Goats, sheep, cattle, all flourish on the short grass on the mountain slopes, but wheat is one commodity that must be raised, in true biblical fashion, by the sweat of the brow. It is for this reason that beside the tiny wheatfields of this remote and medieval mountain state of Montenegro are little stone cairns to which the owners repair as soon as the grain ripens.

Unless the owner is alert, mountain brigands sweep stealthily across the countryside and cut the grain while the attendant sleeps. So through the long, weary nights of harvest-time the mountain farmer mounts guard in his stone sentry-post, remaining there until his women-folk have shocked the last sheaf and carried it on donkey-back to the fastness of the home attic.

Montenegro has never been self-supporting. It is one of the most unfertile regions in the whole of Europe. Before the war the Russian czar kept the country alive by liberal donations of grain, foodstuffs and cattle. The amalgamation of the "Black Mountain" state with the kingdom of the Serbs, Croates and Slovenes has proved the salvation of the people. For the first time in their history they know what it is to have a full breadbasket and all the material comforts of life.

The men of Montenegro are superb physical specimens. Most of them are well over six feet in height. They seem to have been born to fight. They carry whole arsenals of revolvers and daggers in their wide leather belts. Instead of going to court to settle a dispute or a personal wrong, the Montenegrin settles it on the spot with his rifle. Family feuds and vendettas never cease.

Sheep-breeding and cattle-raising are the principal industries of Montenegro. The people are a stolid, phlegmatic, melancholy race. The women do most of the work. The men spend most of their time promenading the streets in their picturesque "balloon" breeches of blue, enormous leather boots and gaudy red shirts. The women, although attractive, wear sombre standardized garments of black, which conceal the contour of their figure and the grace of their movement.

Both sexes wear "pork-pie" caps with a border of black silk and a crimson center. The black border symbolizes their brief over defeat at the famous battle of Kosovo, in which Montenegrin and Serbian independence was stamped out for five centuries, while the red center signifies the sea of blood with which the Black Mountain has been washed since then.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—While the gallopers of Uncle Sam's cavalry have had their noses put more or less out of joint by that new corps d'elite of the military world, aviation, there is one field of notable sporting and social prominence where the hoss-soldiers rule supreme. Nobody has yet invented air polo. The only contenders against the cavalrymen are the officers of gun regiments that still boast horse batteries instead of puffing, stinking tractors.

Army polopers are mighty busy around Washington just now. They are hoping for a third go at their twice defeated rivals of the British army next year. Every afternoon sees them surging about the huge green polo lot down beside the placid Potomac fighting it out in hopes of getting a crack at the Britishers, if they should challenge.

And they have solved the question of referee to their own complete satisfaction. The job has been entrusted to a general officer, Brigadier General E. E. Booth, chief of the G-4 section, General Staff. That assignment fixes it so there will be no sand-lot disputes about always doubtful polo foul calling. Who of smaller military fry would dare cuss out a general and an assistant chief of staff at that?

Even Brigadier General Frank Parker, G-3 head and also an assistant chief of staff, and who rides with the polo gallopers, accepts fouls assessed against him by Booth with the army "Yes, General" equivalent of the Navy's "Aye-aye, sir," although sometimes a bit red of face. So rank helps to make Booth an actual as well as a theoretical czar of polo fouls.

Unlucky On Wheels.

But civilians show no such respect for the general. Recently, riding from Virginia back to Washington in his own new and shiny car, he stopped at a hotdog stand for refreshments and parked well out of the road to the right. His precautions were useless. Another motorist whooped around the corner in a roundhouse curve and chewed off all the left side fenders and a wheel on the general's car. That was bad, but a week or so later when the restored and revarnished machine rolled up to the war department, Booth embarked at once for the polo battle ground. When he got there, he drove the machine well up on the grass to avoid further possible damage and went to refereeing.

It was useless. In ten minutes a loud "blam" from the region of the ill-fated Booth car announced new disaster. The general galloped over to find a strange automobile deeply imbedded in his car's rear construction and a perspiring, apologetic driver who told of a polo-excited wife nudging his elbow just at the wrong moment.

Saddle A Veteran.

The high ranking polo foul czar is quite a sight when he mounts for action. In these non-formation forays, he insists on using a much prized Saumur bridle with the embossed seal of that great French cavalry school shining like a breast plate on his horse's chest. He has used it, and the same horse, since his days as commandant at the Fort Riley cavalry schools and ribald comments by his cavalry colleague that it looks more like mooring tackle for a battleship than horse furniture move him not.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Visitor Becomes a Neighbor.

To the truth of this attend:
That neighbor's best who is your friend. —Old Mother Nature.

"Did you live here long?" inquired Whitefoot the Wood Mouse of Trader the Wood Rat, over in Farmer Brown's sugar-house.

"Yes," replied Trader, "yes, I lived here quite some time."

"What did you move for?" inquired Whitefoot.

Trader scratched his rather long nose thoughtfully. Then he asked a question. "What did you move from your last home for?"

"Do you think you'll move in right away?" inquired Whitefoot

"Because we were afraid to stay there," declared Whitefoot honestly.

"Well, that's what I moved away from here for," said Trader.

Whitefoot's eyes opened very wide. "Afraid!" he exclaimed. "Afraid! What were you afraid of? Yowler the Bobcat didn't get in here, did he?"

"Well," replied Trader, "perhaps I shouldn't say that I was exactly afraid. And it certainly wasn't Yowler the Bobcat that caused me to move. You know there are some secrets we like to keep secret. Farmer Brown's Boy discovered my nest and opened it up. After that I thought I'd better leave. So I took all my belongings and moved out."

"And did Farmer Brown's Boy bother you any more?" inquired Whitefoot.

"No," replied Trader. "No, I cannot say he did. In fact, I haven't seen him since. I don't think he's been around this place for a long, long time. That's why I'm thinking of moving back. As for Yowler the Bobcat, he can't get inside here unless some one leaves the door open and there isn't anyone to do that."

"Do you think you'll move in right away?" inquired Whitefoot.

"Yes," replied Trader, "I think I will. I never could see any use in putting things off. No, sir, I never could. I don't suppose you'll object to having a neighbor."

Whitefoot looked at Mrs. Whitefoot and both declared together, "We shall be very happy to have you for a neighbor, Cousin Trader."

Trader grinned. Then he disappeared. You see, he had a hole under the wood in that corner where the woodpile was kept in winter. When he had disappeared, Whitefoot looked at Mrs. Whitefoot just a little doubtfully. "What do you think of him, my dear?" said he. "What do you think of having him for a neighbor?"

"He's all right," declared Mrs. Whitefoot. "He'll make a fine neighbor, if his stomach isn't too big."

"What has his stomach got to do with his being a fine neighbor?" demanded Whitefoot.

"Everything in a case like this," answered Mrs. Whitefoot, "Any one with a big appetite makes it just that much harder for other folks to get a living, supposing he should find some of our stores."

Whitefoot looked thoughtful for a minute or two. Then his face brightened. "He certainly can't get in there where our neat is," said he. "If we keep all our stores in there we shall be quite safe." Whitefoot meant the firebox of the evaporator. They entered it through a very small opening—one altogether too small for Trader the Rat.

"Sh-h-h-h!" said Mrs. Whitefoot. "Here he comes back."

Sure enough there was Trader returning and he had a mouthful of material. It was evident that he was going to waste no time in building a new nest.

DAUGHTER OF MRS. G. H. CORDLE

Macon, Ga.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel much relieved and I am giving it to my daughter, too. At twelve years of age she was so pale that even her lips had no color. She couldn't hold out to do any work to amount to anything. I gave her the Vegetable Compound and now at 13 years of age she is like a different girl. We are willing for you to use these facts for a testimonial as we cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too much. We will continue to take it and tell of its wonderful value."—Mrs. G. H. Cordle, 833 Hazel Street, Macon, Georgia.

Will Answer Letters

"I am a young mother, eighteen years of age. From early girlhood I suffered terribly because of a run-down condition. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would help me, as she was worried. I did, and now I feel fine. After suffering for five years like I did and then taking nothing but the Vegetable Compound, you may be sure I am recommending it to others. I am willing for you to use anything I say as a testimonial and I will answer letters from any woman wanting to know about the medicine."—Mrs. Dewey Moore, 827 Broderick St., Columbus, Ohio.

BOND-MORTGAGE CORP. DOING SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS

The first annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Bond and Mortgage Corp. was held Tuesday afternoon, with the stockholders' meeting called to order at 2 o'clock by President Shepard B. Palmer, when there was a representation of 2,664 shares in person or by proxy.

President Palmer presented his annual report as follows:

To the stockholders of the Eastern Connecticut Bond and Mortgage Corp. This first annual report of the president is submitted in accordance with the by-laws of the corporation.

Our organization has been in existence for about seven months and is now past the experimental stage. In the formation of this corporation the organizers realized that its success depended upon the careful selection of those who were to surround and encourage the management. The list of the members of the advisory board was made up after a very careful study of men available for the position, and we take pride in publishing their names.

The management of the corporation is in the hands of a board of directors with whom you are all acquainted. The board of directors until the corporation was well under way met once a week. After that time the directors appointed an executive committee consisting of the president, treasurer and Ward Alling. At the present time the executive committee are meeting once a week and the directors once a month. The executive committee are empowered to act between meetings of the directors on small loans and unimportant details.

James L. Case, the treasurer of the corporation, is our executive officer, and is giving the affairs of the corporation his careful and personal attention. The directors feel that we are fortunate in having him responsible for the successful management of the corporation.

We have employed W. A. Musgrave Co to audit our books and we feel that you will be much interested in the showing which has been made as revealed by the report of our treasurer.

Applications for loans are exceeding our money supply, which enables us to select the best of the loans. The corporation is now well organized and started and with another six months of progress equaling the period for which this report is submitted, we feel that far larger results will be recorded.

Helpful suggestions or criticisms from any stockholder will be welcomed by the directors, as we feel that our interests in making the corporation a success are mutual.

Respectfully submitted.
SHEPARD B. PALMER,
President.

In the annual report by Treasurer Case, he stated that it is very gratifying for the officers to be able to make such a satisfactory financial statement at the close of the first six months of business up to July 31. The books and accounts have been audited by certified public accountants and have been found correct. Since the organization of the corporation in February there have been subscriptions to the capital stock in the total of $141,575, practically all of which has been paid in in full. Mortgage loans have been granted in the total of $101,900 and at the present time the corporation has more demands for loans than funds with which to meet these requests. Each loan must be appraised by two members of the executive committee of the board of directors and must never exceed 50 per cent of a full savings bank loan which is supposed to represent 50 per cent of the sale value of the property. A dividend on the preferred stock was earned and paid on Aug. 1. Up to the present time 9,350 shares of common stock and 1,810 shares of preferred stock have been subscribed for. The success of the past year is remarkable in a community of the size of Norwich and the future of the organization is exceedingly bright. It has been fully demonstrated that there is a real need in the community for such a corporation to assist worthy persons in matters of secondary financing or second mortgages on a fair basis.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling and Charles V. James served as inspectors at election of directors and the following seven who are now directors were re-elected directors: Shepard B. Palmer, James L. Case, N. Lorne Greig, William G. Park, Ward T. Alling, C. Hadlai Hull and Guthrie Shaw.

At the subsequent meeting of the directors, the officers were re-elected as follows: President, Shepard B. Palmer; vice-president, William G. Park; secretary and treasurer, James L. Case.

Mr. Case was appointed manager and the following were appointed as the executive committee: Mr. Palmer, Mr. Case and Mr. Alling.

PRESTON POET'S POEMS PRESENTED TO LIBRARIES

The six children of Herbert Richardson of Preston have compiled and printed a very neat book of poems which have been written by him from time to time, some of which have been printed in the local papers and various magazines. Copies of the book have been presented to the Otis and Peck libraries.

Herbert Richardson was born in Hardscrabble in the town of Griswold, Conn., June 12,1856, the son of William R. and Lucy A. (Dawley) Richardson. He received his education in the public schools. On May 4, 1879, he married Minnie J. Lamb of Griswold. She died in March 1885. They had three children, Herbert L., Effie M., and Minnie D. Mr. Richardson married Saddie E. Main of Ledyard, on July 1, 1891. They have had three children Fern L., Calvin M., and Hazel H.

He has always been vitally interested in church and school affairs and also in politics. At the age of sixteen he joined the Methodist church, called Quail Trap, which is located near Hardscrabble, and is now known as Bethel. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Richardson taught school twenty-two years in the towns of Griswold, North Stonington, Preston, Ledyard and Voluntown. After teaching, he took up farming in the town of North Stonington, buying the place known as the Andrew Avery farm, one of the largest farms in the town. This farm was the original Browning homestead and is now owned by Browning of the Browning and King Co., clothiers. While farming, Mr. Richardson served his town as school visitor, assessor and justice of the peace. In 1907, he was elected to the state legislature and was an active and influential member of the house. His speech in favor of the bill amending the charter of the Norwich Compressed Air Co., ranked among the effective ones of the session.

Carbon monoxide last year killed some 700 automobile drivers who allowed their motors to idle in closed garages.

CONN. HAS OVER 60 SQUARE MILES IN ITS FIFTEEN STATE FORESTS

Beginning in 1903 Connecticut purchased a 70-acre tract in the town of Portland for $105 as the initial step in the state forest program that has since been steadily expanded until today there are 15 such forests with a total area of nearly 40,000 acres, near 60 square miles, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars.

An interesting illustrated booklet entitled The State Forests of Connecticut was published on Aug. 1 by State Forester Austin F. Hawes, in which the entire development of the program is briefly and adequately outlined. The booklet will be sent to anyone interested. In a preliminary word Mr. Hawes says:

"It may be said that the underlying reason for establishing our first state forests was to furnish object lessons of good forestry practice to private owners. With this object in view, Walter Mulford, the first state forester, selected Portland because of its central location in the state and its splendid forests of growing chestnut, which was at that time the important farm timber. The work continued to be under the direction of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station through its forester, who was ex-officio state forester until 1921.

"The general assembly of 1921 reorganized the state forest administration providing for the appointment of the state forester by a state park and forest commission and the acquisition of lands by him, with the approval of the commission.

Will Yield Profit

"State forests are handled as a business enterprise. They will eventually yield a profit to the state treasury. Because of the price limitation (at first $4 an acre, then $8 and now $10) it has not been possible to buy land with much timber. The state forests are, therefore, almost lacking in mature timber, hey are in much the same condition as a manufacturing concern with insufficient capital. Dividends cannot be declared until sufficient capital has been accumulated to run the business to best advantage. In a forest most of the receipts should be reinvested in its improvement until the whole area is in a productive condition. During the last two years the average annual revenue from the state forests was $2,517. The taxes paid by the state to the towns range from nine cents to 14 cents per acre, with the exception of Barkhamsted, where they are 28 cents.

"After all of the land in a state forest has been brought into a productive condition, a forest becomes self-supporting, and as the timber begins to mature, it will yield a profit to the state. In general the present growth on the forests is between 20 to 40 years old and will therefore require from 15 to 20 years more before such forests will be profitable. European experience and studies made in southern New England and Pennsylvania, indicate that a net return of approximately $5 an acre per year may be expected from the state forests when they are restored to full productivity. The present area of approximately 37,000 acres may therefore be expected to bring into the state treasury a net annual income of over $175,000 after the forest is fully productive.

"It is not the policy of the state to engage in lumber operations and manufacturing, but rather to encourage the development of private enterprise. As timber becomes mature, it will be offered for sale upon the stump, but must be cut under directions which will safeguard the growing trees and the protection of the soil.

Numerous Picnic Spots

"Places in the forests desirable for picnics are too numerous to mention. Organizations such as the Kiwanis club and the D. A. R. have already formed the habit of holding annual picnics in the peoples' forest. The time may come when clubs of insurance companies and factory employes and other similar organizations will have their outings in these forests.

"Our state laws require a permit from a fire warden for a fire in the woods any time between March 1 and December 1. In order to relieve the public of the inconvenience in securing permits and also to insure the building of camp fires in safe places, the department has adopted the policy of building stone fireplaces near springs in the forests. Permits for fires in these fireplaces are posted nearby. Up to the present, 16 fireplaces of this kind have been provided, five on the Mohawk forest, four on the People's State on Natchaug, two on Tunxis and Meshomasix. Those on the Mohawk are especially popular, nearly all being occupied on pleasant Saturdays and Sundays during the summer.

Timber Sources

In discussing the state forests as sources of timber, Mr. Hawes says:

"The people of Connecticut consume annually something like 550 million board feet, while our forests are only producing at present about 42 million feet a year. We have in the state about 1,500,000 acres of land not used for agriculture, most of which should produce timber and wood. This is an equivalent of 1.1 acres per capita. It has been found in Europe that countries having over .8 of an acre per capita of woods can be self-supporting as to timber products if the forests are properly handled. Those with less than .8 of an acre per capita will always be obliged to import part of their lumber.

"We are now producing about one-eighth of our requirements in all classes of lumber. Of the total amount cut about 25 per cent. is soft woods and 75 per cent hard woods, whereas of the lumber used in the state, about 80 per cent. is soft wood and 20 per cent. hardwood.

Should Have Big Tracts

"Connecticut should have state forests aggregating from 200,000 to a quarter of a million acres, which should be devoted to the raising of large timber, which the private owners cannot afford to grow. It will require from 75 to 100 years to grow this class of lumber and long before it is grown the virgin supplies in the south and west will have become exhausted.

Nearly 40 000 Acres

FREE AIME LACROIX FROM CRIMINAL BLAME

Coroner Edward J. McKay has exonerated Aime "Buck" LaCroix of Baltic, from criminal liability in causing the death on August 22nd of Frederick Weidhaas, 52, late of Occum. Mr. Weidhaas, who was also known as Whitehouse, died from injuries received when he was hit by a Buick touring car operated by the LaCroix youth who is a prominent Norwich Free Academy athlete. Coroner McKay in his finding says:

In his finding, Coroner McKay says:

On the 22nd day of August, 1928, the said Frederick Weidhaas was living with his sister, Mrs. Henry Zapf, and her daughter, Anna Zapf, both of Occum, in the town of Norwich, Connecticut. They occupy a house located on the westerly side of the main highway leading from Taftville to Occum a short distance south of the Occum school. The highway which passes in front of the house is a hard surfaced tar bound macadam road and has a single track trolley line of gravel surface running immediately westerly of the hard surfaced portion of the highway.

On the said date the said Frederick Weidhaas had eaten the evening meal at his sister's home and had gone to the store of Alfred Fontaine to purchase some groceries. After making his purchases in the Fontaine store, which is located northerly of the Zapf house on the easterly side of the highway, he started to return to his home, walking south on the sidewalk on the easterly side of the highway. It was then about 7:00 p. m., (standard time) and at the time when the street lights were about to be turned on. It had been raining but had stopped at this time and visibility was poor. The said Frederick Weidhaas came to a point nearly opposite his home and started to cross the highway in a diagonal direction.

At the said time and place the said Aime LaCroix was driving a Buick touring car in a southerly direction along the said highway. The said Aime LaCroix was 18 years of age and lived with his parents at Baltic. He was a licensed motor vehicle operator in Connecticut and was the holder of a 1928 operator's license. He was driving a Buick touring car owned by his father, George LaCroix and was registered in Connecticut as No. 45-226. He had general permission to drive the said automobile and was a competent driver.

On the said date he took the said automobile at about 6:30 p. m. (S. T.) for a pleasure ride. He drove the automobile to the home of Jacob Gilot in Baltic and together they started out for Norwich, about ten miles south, to purchase a tire for Gilot's car. The said Jacob Gilot was sitting in the front seat with the said Aime LaCroix. The visibility was poor and the windshield wiper on the car was operating. At some point on the road between Baltic and Occum the lights on the LaCroix car were turned on so that they were shining when the car was going through Occum at about 7:00 p. m. (standard time)

The said LaCroix and Gilot came to the village of Occum and were riding through toward Norwich at a moderate rate of speed. When the car reached a point near the vicinity of the Zapf house in Occum, the said Aime LaCroix noticed an Essex coach, which had just come toward him from Norwich, stop on the easterly side of the highway, under a street light. He then saw the shadow of a pedestrian, whom he learned to be Frederick Weidhaas, crossing the street from the easterly side of the highway to the westerly side, going in a diagonal direction, toward the southwest. The said Aime LaCroix at this time was on the westerly side of the hard surface of the highway, well over near the car tracks. He sounded the horn and said Frederick Weidhaas slowed his pace and appeared to be coming to a stop to allow the LaCroix automobile to pass. The said LaCroix steered the automobile to the right, as he sounded the horn. When the front end of the LaCroix automobile was about opposite the said Frederick Weidhaas, with about a yard of space between them, the said Aime LaCroix, seeing the said Frederick Weidhaas walking into his path, steered his car sharply to the right, into the car tracks, and applied his brakes, thereby throwing the rear of the car to the left. The said Frederick Weidhaas continued to cross the street, apparently without seeing the car, with the result that the left rear side of the LaCroix car struck him, knocking him to the highway, and causing the injuries from which he later died. At this time there is evidence to show that the right wheels of the LaCroix car were in between the tracks and the left wheels on the hard surface.

After striking the said Frederick Weidhaas, the LaCroix automobile continued across the track to the west rail, and then turned back onto the highway, and stopped at a point about sixty feet from the point of the accident. While the said automobile was coming back to the highway, the wheels caught in the track, and caused it to swerve and skid so as to cause the occupants of the Essex Coach to fear that their automobile would be struck. There is evidence to show that the LaCroix car, when it passed the Essex Coach, was going at a fairly fast rate of speed.

The said LaCroix, after stopping his car, ran back to where the said Frederick Weidhaas was lying in the road, and found him unconscious. With the help of one of the neighbors, he picked the said Frederick Weidhaas up, and brought him into the Zapf house. A doctor was called and Mr. Weidhaas was taken to the Backus hospital, where he died shortly afterwards, without gaining consciousness. The state police at Groton were notified of the accident and were at the scene a short time thereafter, and conducted a thorough investigation.

There was no evidence submitted of the manner in which the LaCroix car was being driven immediately before the accident, or at the time of the accident, other than that of the occupants of the said automobile. While there is evidence that the said automobile was skidding from side to side, and going at a fast rate of speed, this occurred immediately after the accident and after the control of the car was impaired by being caught in the tracks. Under the circumstances of this case, there is no evidence of such gross or wilful negligence as to hold the said Aime LaCroix liable criminally under the statute.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Frederick Weidhaas was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any other person or persons.

The car was about to make a stop at the sanatorium entrance, it is understood, and the child looked as if she were going to wander onto the track, but was stopped by a colored woman who was in charge of her. However, Dr. Urquhart dashed from the house to catch the child and in doing so slipped and fell.

RUTH'S HOME RUN WINS THIRD GAME FOR YANKS OVER ATHLETICS

(By William J. Chipman, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—With 40,000 fervent fans roaring for the kill, the World Champion Yankees battered down the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3 today and just about clinched the American league title by pushing Connie Mack's struggling warriors 3 1-2 games behind them. It was the Athletics third straight defeat in this super-crucial series.

The kill was put off until the eighth inning. The Yankees tied the score with none out, and George Herman Ruth waddling to the plate, found his home run pal, Lou Gehrig, on second base. Connie Mack and Bob Grove elected to fight it out with the great Bambino rather than pass him to first base, and the battle began.

The Babe, seizing his chance, strove to cross the opposition by bunting the first one, but it was foul on the third-base line by a shade. Mr. Ruth took a called ball and then it happened.

Yes, into his own right field bleachers it rode for home run number 49, with all the earmarks of a pennant fastened upon it. More than 40,000 New York throats bellowed a paean of joy, such as seldom before has disturbed the peace of the lower Bronx, and almost as many pairs of hands reached for straw hats with which to shower a welcome upon the triumphal procession of Lou and the Babe.

Now that the Yankees have been threatened, New York seems to want them to win, as they did today by a score of five to three for the third straight time in this series. The bent form of the old, old master stood on the steps of the Athletic dug-out with a worried wrinkle upon his brow as he peered out at the bedlam and the triumph of the enemy.

The gaunt, troubled old man was visibly shaken by the blast which shattered his dreams of baseball empire. He trembled, passed hand over brow, bobbed the great lump of an Adam's apple which nestles just above the high collar he always has worn. Connie then steadied himself and deployed his troops for a final assault upon young Henry Johnson, arch-nemesis of the 1928 Mackmen.

The ninth inning saw Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Wally French stride up in turn, first line reserves of the beaten Athletics. The first two of these names, as names alone, would have been enough to frighten the average young pitcher out of the box as recently as two years ago, but not Johnson today.

The young Floridian got Ty on a hoist to Koenig, Eddie on a foul fly to the same gentleman of the defense and French on a weak pop to Meusel. The Yankees had won, and led the worried Mackmen by two and one-half games.

All that remains is that fourth game of this now not-so-crucial engagement tomorrow and the final sally through the west—fifteen games for the Yanks in the Occident and thirteen for the Macks. The trail is long to the end of the pennant rainbow and the pot of world series gold, and the minions of McGillicuddy are tired.

If they can beat Hoyt with Earnshaw tomorrow, their case will be ever so much brighter, but what seems to be the use against killers who already have taken sixteen out of twenty-one games.

Until the eighth inning kill in the September gloom this afternoon, Robert Moses Grove seemed to have a firm grip upon the Yankee jinx which now has cost him six of the seven games he has lost this season. Robert Moses was headed along the primrose path, reaching for his twenty-third victory and his fifteenth straight.

The Athletics at the outset gave him a two-run lead. Johnson hit Haas with one gone in the first, and Cochrane thundered forth the first of his three hits—a soaring triple over Bob Meusel's head. Cochrane himself scored a moment later on Simmon's sacrifice fly to Ruth.

Another Philadelphia run was added in the fourth. The bases were filled on Gazella's fumble of Foxx's grounder. Miller's infield single and a pass to Dykes. Foxx then rushed home on Boley's sacrifice fly to the Babe. That finished the A's for the afternoon, although they made a brave bid in the eighth on singles by Cochrane and Foxx.

All this while Bob Grove had the Yankees performing like trained pigs, Combs' single in the first and Koenig's infield smash in the third were all the champions had to show for hits in the first six rounds.

The seventh saw Grove get a vigorous "feel"—and the Yankees, one run. Every batter in the inning hit the ball on the nose save only Johnson, whom Miller Huggins wisely, as it proved, permitted to bat for himself with two out and a potential run waiting upon third base.

Meusel blazed a single through Boley's legs, but Mr. Bolenski next headed Lazzeri's hard smash and forced the lanky one at second. Gazella pounded a double to center, sending Lazzeri to third whence he scored as Boley fielded Paschal's hard drive and threw him out. Johnson ended it with a pop to Bishop.

The Yankee eighth was opened by a pass to Combs, always a bad sign for any pitcher. The colonel reached second on Koenig's infield single and raced on to third when Dykes followed with a wild throw past Foxx. Grove then deftly inserted a wild pitch, scoring Combs and sending Koenig to second. Gehrig followed with a single, and raced madly to second as Simmons threw to Cochrane in a vain bid to cut off the tieing run.

This set the stage for Ruth, and the game was wrecked. The victory was Young Johnson's fifth out of six against the Athletics.

NEW HAVEN CLINCHES EASTERN LEAGUE FLAG

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The New Haven Professors clinched their fourth Eastern league pennant in the 15 years' history of the organization, but their first in six seasons, by planking Providence here today by a score of 3 to 0. Pittsfield the runner-up, also won today, holding the New Haven lead at six games. With the playing of today's engagements, however, it became impossible for the Hillies to make up more than five and one-half games against the Professors.

GIANTS NOW IN SECOND PLACE BY DOUBLE VICTORY

BOSTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Giants went into second place in the National league today, displacing the Cubs by the narrow margin of two percentage points. They accomplished the feat by winning two more games from the Braves, 11 to 6 and 7 to 6, making it four in two days over Boston. Their standing now is 79 won and 56 lost for a percentage of .585, while the Cubs, who also won today have .583.

The first game of the second successive double bill was a runaway for New York. The Giants hit 17 times for a total of 25 bases off four Boston pitchers who opposed them. Their maximum slugging speed was reached in the eighth when they made six runs on eight hits. Until then Cantwell and Scott had battled on even terms but the first six hits by the Giants sent the Boston pitcher to the showers.

The second encounter was much more of a scrap although New York took the lead in the fifth on Andy Reese's homer with one on base and never was headed. When the game ended the Braves had scored three runs in the ninth and had two men on base and Larry Benton, pitching ace of the clan McGraw had been called in to save the young southpaw, Carl Hubbell. Travis Jackson provided the fielding thrill when he ended the game by a one handed stab of Bell's hard grounder and forced Sisler at second. Freddy Lindstrom had a field day at bat with three singles and a double in the opener and a homer and three singles in the second contest.

PHILLIES AND ROBINS SPLIT TWIN PROGRAM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11 —(AP)—The Phillies and Brooklyn divided their second successive double header today. The Robins captured the first game 5 to 2 but lost the second 4 to 3 when Freddy Leach, Phillies' first baseman, poled out a home run with one on in the ninth inning.

Leach's four base smash came a moment after Dazzy Vance had been rushed to the rescue of a game Brooklyn apparently had won when Del Bissonette hit his twenty-second homer of the season with a runner on the sacks in the first half of the inning, giving Brooklyn a temporary 2 to 2 lead.

CARDS DOWN REDS IN HARD HITTING CONTEST

ST. LOUIS Sept. 11—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals turned the tables on the Cincinnati Reds here today making it one game each for the series by virtue of a 6 to 3 victory. The final game of the series tomorrow will end the home National league season for the Cards.

Victory, based primarily on concentration of hitting by the Red Birds, enabled the leaders to cling to the narrow 2 1-2 game margin in the league. High contributed a homer and Bottomley and Frisch each donated triples to the cause. Critz for the Reds also connected with a four base hit.

Continuing their expert handling of the ball on infield plays, which yesterday enabled to tie the National league record, the Reds today set a new loop mark of 175 double plays for the season. Critz and Kelly participated in the double killing which exterminated the Cardinal gesture toward scoring in the fifth by cutting down High and Douthit. Score:

MALONE PITCHES CUBS TO VICTORY OVER PIRATES

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—(AP)—Pat Malone had the best of five Pittsburgh hurlers in a free hitting contest today and the Chicago Cubs defeated the Pirates 9 to 3 in the final game of the season between the two teams.

The Pirates got to Malone for eight hits but four of them were bunched in the third inning, when the former American association strike out ace faltered long enough to allow three runs to cross the plate. Thereafter, however, he set the invaders down in rapid order with the exception of the fifth and eighth, when brilliant support got him out of trouble without any runs scoring.

Carmen Hill was Manager Donie Bush's choice of his badly shattered hurling staff to start the game. The Cubs lost no time in getting to him for four runs on singles by English, Cuyler, Wilson, Grimm, a double by Stephenson and Grimm's perfect sacrifice.

Dawson replaced Hill and breezed along without much trouble for 1 2-3 innings but was taken out for a pinch hitter, Ervin Brame, who was knocked out of the box yesterday, was Bush's next choice, starting the third. He pitched to only three men, loading the bases. Tauscher was Bush's next selection to succeed Brame but he was no more of a puzzle than the three preceding hurlers. After Tauscher had forced in a run, Malone sent a double to the centerfield fence. Tauscher was taken out in the sixth for a pinch hitter being replaced by Homer Blankenship, brother of the White Sox hurler.

Malone not only held the Pirates scoreless after the disastrous third but drove in four runs with his double in the third and single down the right field foul line in the fifth. He had his speed ball working in the pinches, striking out four men and forcing the head of the Pirate batting order to pop out when hits meant runs.

VOIGHT IS MEDALIST IN NATIONAL AMATEUR QUALIFYING ROUND

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

BRAE BURN COUNTRY CLUB, Newton, Mass., Sept. 11—(AP)—George Voight today finished the job of qualifying for his first national amateur golf championship by leading the field and winning the medal that has been worn for the past two years by the king of the realm, Bobby Jones.

The slim, 31 year old former Washington public links player, now representing the New York district, finished the two 36 hole qualifying test with the remarkable score of 71-72—143, one under par for Brae Burn's rugged layout.

It was one stroke short of the tournament qualifying record but good enough for the dark-haired Voight to beat out his middle western rival, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston of Minneapolis by a stroke in a duel that these two fought out by themselves from start to finish. Johnston's figures, 71-73—144, exactly matched par.

Jones was more like himself today, pulling up from around 16th place to fifth with a 74 that gave him 151 for the two days. Voight was not considered good enough either to play on the Walker cup team or be included in the "seeded" list of ranking players, but he was good enough out in the actual battle to lead Jones by six strokes yesterday, two strokes today and establish himself as a real title threat.

Voight's performance, in beating out the sharp shooting Johnston and leading a crack international field by six strokes led many experts to pick him as the next champion, although he would have to meet Jess Sweetser in the second round, George Von Elm in the semi-finals and Bobby Jones in the finals.

But for a hooked drive from the first tee and into the woods, costing him a six on this par four hole, Voight would have broken the all-time qualifying record. As it was, after this bad start he staggered old man par with a string of five birdies. His dazzling round was climaxed by a 25 foot putt on the home green for the three he needed to finish in 72.

Johnston kept pace with Voight in this two man battle for the medal until the final hole. Voight's birdie, to Johnston's regular par four on that hole, decided the issue.

Third place in the qualifying list went to a youthful newcomer to national prominence, Don Moe of Portland, Oregon, who came through with figures of 74-75—149 to beat C. Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, by one stroke and Bobby Jones by two.

The famous Atlanta ace, however, was more like himself today. He was straight as a string most of the time, which is most essential on the narrow wooded fairways of this layout. He might have equalled par but for several bad breaks.

Bobby lost a stroke to par on each of the last two holes by safety first tactics.

Von Elm, finding plenty of trouble today on and off the greens, where he needed three putts to get down on no less than five occasions, finished with 73-78—151 and in a tie for sixth place with J. Wolcott Brown of Spring Lake, N. J., a "dark horse" contender who had 78-74—152.

ROOKIE HITS HOMER TO BEAT OUT WHITE SOX

DETROIT, Sept. 11—(AP)—A home run by John Stone, recruit outfielder, in the eighth inning with two men on gave Detroit a 7 to 6 victory over the White Sox today in the last game of the short series. The blow came when the Tigers were two runs behind. Heilmann and McManus drove out successive homers in the fifth to place Detroit within two runs of the Sox. BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The month of August as far as the number of permits issued was concerned held up to the number for the same month in 1927 but the estmiated cost of the building work to be done fell about $50,000 short of the cost for August a year ago. During the past month there were 21 building permits granted for which the estimated outlay as placed by the applicants was $26,985 as compared to 21 permits at an estimated cost of $101,506 for 1927. Included in the permits for the past month were four for new dwelling twelling houses, the remainder of the permits being for smaller buildings and alterations.

Work on the Masonic temple at the corner of Washington and Sachem streets is progressing rapidly with the front wall and granite trim reaching nearly to the roof. The other walls are at various heights. The steel structural work has been practically completed and it is expected that within the next few weeks the building will be entirely enclosed. The major and most difficult part of the work is finishing the interior.

During the first week in September seven permits were granted at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, the estimated cost of the work outlined in the applications is approximately $6,300. The permits issued are as follows:

To Contractor Geore E. Boucher to alter and add to the present frame building at 56 Boswell avenue owned by Joseph Ciriella. The lower floor will be changed so that there will be two stores, one 13x20 feet and one 15x13 feet. One room, 13x15 feet is to be added to the rear of the building. The stores will have plate glass fronts with brick underpinnings. The estimated cost is $1700.

To J. M. Pillar to erect an open front shed in the rear of his garage at 416 Asylum street. The shed will be 20x12 feet. The estimated cost is $20.

To George W. Wilson, builder, to build a frame porch on the house owned by Charles A. Chamberlain at 88 Union street. The veranda will be 5x10 feet and the estimated cost is $100.

To the Peck-McWilliams Co., contractors, to eerct an elevator shaft in the house of Oliver L. Johnson at 96 Union street. The shaft which will be on the outside of the house will have a concrete and stone foundation while the walls will be of wood. The roof to the shaft will be of copper. The entrance to the elevator is to be from the front sidewalk through the retaining wall and terrace into the side of the house. The estimated cost is approximately $2,500. Work has already started on the elevator.

To Frank Romanski to erect a frame one-car garage, 14x22 feet at his home at 27 North street. The estimated cost is $50.

To John Senetski to erect a six-room frame house at Carpenter street. The house will be 22x26 feet with concrete and stone foundation. The superstructure will be of wood and the exterior will be finished in clapboard and shingles. The interior will be in plaster and hard pine. The estimated cost is $1,500. The work will be done by the day.

To Peter Ballaro to erect a frame hensouse at 50 Spring street on land owned by W. Trachtenberg. The house will be 12x16 feet and will be constructed of used lumber which was in a henhouse at the rear of No. 40 Spring street. The estimated cost of the building is $150.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were four sales of real estate, one less sale than during the corresponding week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $21,409 and $12,132.

The number of sales of real estate in New London last week totaled 11, a decrease of three sales from the total a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $184,974 and $92,602.

New London

With the passing of the summer when building activities always sink below norr al local contractors are now looking forward to a period of increased activity and while the prospects of a busy season for the next few months are not altogether optimistic they are not discouraging.

In comparison with other cities of the state New London has maintained a comparatively even keel in the building trades this year and while the majority of other cities in the state fell off considerably in the number of permits issued during the month New London had one more permit for August this year than for last year in the same month.

In the cost of new buildings started in August New London dropped to $163,065 this year. In August as compared with $226,025 for August last year. Last year was exceptional, however, the figure for August 1926, being but $89,250.

At present there is much building going on all about the city and in general there is little unemployment in the building trades.

Work is nearing completion on the construction of a new two-tenement house being built at 51 Cutler street for Mr. and Mrs. A. Bartolucci. The new structure is 28 by 56 feet in dimension, two stories in height of hollow tile and stucco construction. Each floor contains six large rooms, sun parlor, pantry and tile bath room with shower arrangements. The interior walls are finished with plaster, the floors with oak and a steam heating system has been installed. A four car garage is located in the rear.

The new Methodist church in Montville has been inclosed by the Peck McWilliams company. The new structure is of brick construction with steel supports for the roof. It is 30 by 104 feet with two ells each 30 by 30 feet. Work is being done from plans prepared by Cudworth and Thompson of Norwich. The interior is now being lathed.

A new cottage being built in Montauk avenue has been inclosed. The new structure is to be for single family occupancy two stories in height and of frame construction.

"Talks On Electric Service"

New Residential Lighting Rates

Your Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners are glad to announce to the residential users of electricity served from the Department distribution system a new schedule for this class of service.

Rate Form

This Form of Rate has been in use for the past six years by many of the utility companies in Connecticut and elsewhere. It was adopted by this Commission after a very careful study by competent rate engineers employed to investigate service conditions, and it is our belief that this new rate will not only effect a reduction in the cost of electric service to a large majority of the consumers in Norwich, but will permit additional use of service for better lighting, for the many home labor-saving devices, for electric refrigeration and cooking at a much lower cost than at present.

Combination Rate

The new rate is a combination of 3 cent energy rate with an initial charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours or less. The low energy rate will make it possible to use electricity much more liberally in the home at a very much lower additional cost than is possible under the old rate form. The initial charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours provides for that part of the cost of service involved in the department's investment in power plant, distribution lines and other facilities which are installed and kept in operation to supply electric service twenty-four hours a day, at the touch of a switch. Since these costs are fixed in amount and do not vary with the amount of electric energy taken through the meter, the initial charge is based upon the number of rooms in each customer's house or apartment. It has been found from years of experience that the size of the house bears a distinct relation to the amount of equipment that the Department must install and keep in readiness to serve each home, and it has proved to be the best of several plans that have been tried throughout the country.

RATE "A" GENERAL SERVICE

Available to all customers served over retail distribution lines, for lighting, heating, cooking, refrigeration and general purposes.

RATE

3 cents per kilowatt hour with a charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours used each month according to the following table:

RESIDENCE LIGHTING SERVICE

For the first three rooms or less..... $1.35
For each additional room ..... .10

ELECTRIC RANGE SERVICE

No increase in the charge for the first five kilowatt-hours will be made for range capacity up to six kilovolt-amperes. Above six kilovolt-amperes, the charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours will be increased by $1.00 per kilovolt-ampere, unless the range can be operated through a current limit switch, in which case, the charge for additional capacity may be waived.

POWER SERVICE (Residential)

Refrigerators and Small Household Motors.

The charge for the first 5 kilowatt-hours will be increased 50c for the first ½ kilovolt-ampere or fraction thereof; $1.00 for the first ½ kilovolt-ampere; $1.50 for the first ¾ kilovolt-ampere; and $2.00 for the first 1 kilovolt-ampere of motor capacity connected, plus $1.00 for each additional kilovolt-ampere. The kilovolt-amperes shall be determined by the name plate readings of the motors or by indicating instruments. Washing machines, vacuum cleaners and small hand used motor driven appliances are excluded under this classification.

WATER HEATER SERVICE

A credit of 1c per kilowatt-hour shall be allowed on all energy used for water heating purposes, provided same is served thru a double throw switch or current limiting device. This credit shall be determined by a sub meter on the water heating circuit.

DETERMINATION OF ACTIVE ROOMS

The number of rooms shall be the real estate rating, omitting bathrooms, attics, basements, and halls not used for living purposes.

OLD RATE

10c per kilowatt hour.

NEW RATE

8c per kilowatt hour, plus the initial charge.

KILLINGLY PEOPLE REGRET J. A. GILBERT'S RESIGNATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 11—The passing of Selectman John A. Gilbert from the official life of Killingly is a matter of regret to the hundreds of electors who have supported him as a candidate since he first became a selectman of the town 30 years ago. That he is not again numbered among the republican candidates for town offices this year is by his own choice. Mr. Gilbert arose in the crowded party caucus last evening after Representative Arthur W Williams had presented his name for the place of first selectman and with thanks, declined the honor.

For several years Mr. Gilbert has expressed his desire to retire from public office, but insistent persuasion continued to keep him in the field. Following last year's election he declared he was serving his last term. In recent weeks he was urged to reconsider, but could not be induced to do so.

There were real reasons for the republican leaders to desire the continuance of Mr. Gilbert in the office of selectman, these reasons being common to those who have so long supported him. In this office, the greater part of the 28 years he served as first selectman, he had acquired a grasp of town affairs, and an insight into its administration equalled by few selectmen in Connecticut. In his long experience he had come upon intricate problems arising from unusual situations, and it is a matter of record that he met them with a striking degree of success. He years ago acquired an intimate knowledge of statutes pertaining to town administration, particularly with those dealing with this town's responsibility for incompetent or indigent persons, and many were the cases where he saved Killingly important sums of money, in being so alert that no such persons were foisted upon Killingly to support when they were legally residents of other towns. Similarly, he guarded the town's interests in many other ways that only one of his training and business acumen could have done. When Attorney E L. Darbie proposed a rising vote of thanks to him for his public services toward the close of last night's caucus, and which was unanimously given, the persons who showed him this honor, while nearly 400 strong, were but a proportion of the people of Killingly who would have been pleased of the opportunity to do likewise. The town senses the fact that it has suffered the loss of a really valuable official in Mr. Gilbert's retirement, but he feels that having reached the age of 74 years he would step aside for a younger man.

Brooklyn republicans, in a caucus marked by no intensive contests, have nominated the following candidates for town offices: Assessor, Homer G Beecher; board of relief, Sidney W. Bard; selectmen, E. M. M. Marlor Charles A. Parker; agent town deposit fund, Judge Oscar F Atwood; auditor, E. C. Babson; grand jurors, Samuel Boyd, Frank M. Bedard Miss Laura Pike; collector of taxes, John M. Bessette; constables, Stephen Coffey, Edwin Bennett, Arthur Whitman; registrars, Charles H. Blake Frank A. Moore; school committee Joseph B. Stetson, E. C. Babson was chairman of the caucus and Sidney R. Bard clerk.

JUDGE TUCKER PASSES FROM POLITICAL LIFE OF BROOKLYN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 11—In the person of Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly another long prominent citizen of this town will have disappeared from the roll of public officials after the election on the first Monday in October. Judge Tucker declined nomination this year to succeed himself as a member of the board of relief. Nearing 80 years of age, and having gradually relinquished various activities of a public or semi-public nature, he now is to step completely out of official life. Here, again, is a citizen to whom the town owes a debt of gratitude for his public services. Through the passing years he has served as judge of the town court, as a member of the school committee and in other public capacities as well as having membership for a long term on the board of relief. His unvarying ideal was to give of his best, and he did that to the benefit of the town and he is honored for it.

Past Commander Ira A. Warren of Leo J. L'Hommedieu post of the American legion remains of the opinion that Danielson has a chance of being selected as a site for the proposed Veterans' hospital for southern New England, or at least that it can be secured for some location in this immediate vicinity. No decision as to a location has been made, Mr Warren understands. This being the fact he is urging further effort by the chamber of commerce and all other agencies and by individuals that may have some plan or are able to suggest some satisfactory site for the hospital, a stipulation being that from 200 to 300 acres of land will be required.

DANIELSON, Sept. 11—Killingly's interest in politics this season was accentuated tonight when nearly 300 democrats turned out for the party caucus to name candidates for town offices. PUTNAM

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR REPAIR OF PUTNAM BRIDGE

PUTNAM, September 11.—Selectman William P. Warren today was in receipt of a complete report of the conditions existing at the Providence street bridge which recently was declared unsafe. The report was submitted to the board of selectmen by Engineer C. E. Nord of the state highway department, with two schemes for the reconditioning of the span, and was accompanied by a letter from State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, who recommended that the town approve the second scheme. The bridge is a 7 panel fishbelly truss, built in 1889 by the Berlin Bridge company of East Berlin. The material in the structure is presumably of an early type of Bessemer steel, which through many years of constant use has become corroded and is unsafe. Long steel girders have become rusted and need replacing they being too weak to carry the posted load of six tons safely. The engineer said that the truss beams, another means of suspension are badly weakened due to corrosion.

The first plan recommends new "I" beams which would allow the bridge to support an eight-ton load. Yet he says this plan would not be economical as the trusses themselves would not be strong enough to carry the load of eight tons. If, however, this plan is carried out Engineer Nord estimates that the cost will be in the neighborhood of $2,300, and annually will require a state inspection. The second scheme, requires new "I" beams instead of wooden bents such as are in use on the side of the structure. Two new light trusses would also have to be installed so the floor of the span would be strengthened. With this work completed the life of the bridge would be extended for 20 years more and would cost the town about $4,000 to have the work done.

Engineer Nord also submitted a third plan, that of building an entire new concrete arch bridge, such as in use at Pomfret street, which would cost the town $35,000 to erect.

Selectman Warren said this afternoon that the board of selectmen had voted last evening to present the situation to the voters at the annual town meeting in October and accept their decision as to what should be done. This afternoon he consulted legal talent, as to whether the town has a right to close the bridge to public passage, since it is unsafe in engineer's viewpoint.

About a year ago, City Engineer George W. Perry examined the structure and made a survey of its weakened points, informing the selectmen that something would have to be done to recondition the ancient span. His recommendation of having state bridge engineers examine it, was complied with and the result, was almost identical with the survey made by Mr. Perry. Much of the weakened condition is due to an automobile accident, ramming a large overhead truss, damaging it so badly as immediate repairs were necessary to allow traffic to pas safely.

City Engineer George W. Perry, and his assistant were in Pomfret this morning making a final check-up in the vicinity of the scene where the fatal shooting of State Trooper Irving H. Nelson of Danielson state police barracks, took place on Good Friday evening, April 6.

Recently Engineer Perry completed a survey of the highway between the Dr. S. B. Overlock estate and the so-called Green's four corners, and today completed a map to be used at the trial of the "Ice Box Bandits," Arthur G. Raymond and Roland Lalone. Mr. Perry has been summoned into court by the state. As each eye witness of the shooting describes the shooting of Officer Nelson, Mr. Perry will point out to the court the locality in which the witness was.

Mr. Perry's maps are very complete and every minute detail is contained in the drawings.

Dewey Tetreault of Main street, Putnam, was arraigned in city court this morning before Judge M. H. Geissler, to answer for a charge of breaking and entering the Dady Silk mill on Bullock street, Monday morning.

It is alleged that Tetreault was intoxicated when he made his way into the silk plant by breaking a pane of glass in the rear of the mill. Superintendent Andrew V. Frost of the mill appeared against the Putnam man, stating that he discovered him, about six o'clock Monday morning asleep in one of the alleys. Mr. Frost stated that nothing was taken from the mill.

Tetreault pleaded guilty to the charge. Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner reported to Judge Geissler that he had violated the rules of his probation as ordered by the court when he was arraigned on another offense about a year ago. Tetreault offered no alibi to Mr. Gardner's statement, except that he admitted he only reported once.

Judge Geissler imposed a sentence of 30 days in Brooklyn jail on the first charge, in addition to costs of $10.14, and also added costs of $10.74 cents which were never paid on the previous count. Tetreault began his sentence of 51 days this morning.

Following the session of court, Prosecuting Attorney Eric H. Johnson, recommended to Judge Geissler, that he set the first Monday of each month as a day when the probation officer, clerk of court, judge and the prosecuting attorney meet to confer, relative to the unpaid fines and suspended sentences, and also listen to a detail statement from the probation officer, as to how prisoners committed to his care are behaving. This, Mr. Johnson felt, would eliminate any further violations of the probationary sentences, Judge Geissler thought the plan to be valuable to the conduct of the court. Clerk of Court Archibald Macdonald Jr., also informed Judge Geissler that several cases where the defendant was ordered to pay his fine in installments and has failed to comply with the court's decision, leaving his files and records open. Mr. Macdonald felt that the court should take some action to make the court debtors pay the fines at once. To eliminate this matter Judge Geissler stated that an index filing system should be installed in the court room. He also informed the police that they would cooperate with Mr. Macdonald in collecting the outstanding fines.

Funeral services for Leander Deotte were held this morning at Sacred Heart church in West Thompson. A mass of requiem, celebrated by Rev. George J. Donahue, pastor of Holy Trinity church in Pomfret was largely attended by relatives and friends of Mr. Deotte. Mr. Deotte was instantly killed Sunday afternoon on the Boston-Hartford line of the New Haven railroad at Mechanicsville, when he was struck by the Boston-Hartford express. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery at Putnam.

Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police and Guy Zito, a local taxi driver, left by auto this morning for Montreal, Canada, where they will attend the hearing of a Canadian attorney charged with forgery of checks that were paid him for Mr. Zito.

Before Justice Percy P. Tourtellotte in town court in North Grosvenordale Monday afternoon, Alfred Letoil of Mannville, R. I., pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs of the court. Letoil was arrested by State Trooper James Carmody of Danielson state police barracks Sunday evening after he had figured in an accident in Grosvenordale, in which his friend Marjoine Lozeau of Central Falls, was seriously injured and remains a patient at the Day Kimball hospital.

Samuel Magnason of Middletown, Conn., arrested by State Trooper Carmody, Sunday evening, charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor was also in court. He entered a plea of not guilty the court over-ruling his plea and imposing a fine of $100 and costs of court. Magnason refused to pay the fine and took an appeal to the superior court. Magnason's arrest was brought about after he had figured in an accident near Wilsonville on Sunday evening.

Officers of the Danielson state police barracks were in Putnam today serving subpoenas on witnesses to appear Thursday in Willimantic at the hearing of Lalone and Raymond, alleged slayers of State Trooper Officer Nelson. The majority of writs demanding the presence of the witnesses in court, were served in Pomfret, Webster and Dudley, since only Sergeant George Liard of the Putnam police and Special Officer Fred Bechard are linked with the hearing. Officer Bechard, was crowded off the highway on School street by the speeding bandits and Sergt. Liard witnessed the car passs through the city, although he was unaware of the shooting of the state policeman in Pomfret, but a few moments before.

Ceril Remillard and his sons Ceril Jr., and John returned Sunday from a motor trip through New York state and Canada.

Richard Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Howard of Mechanics street, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, recovering from a self inflicted bullet wound in his foot. Howard was examining a weapon and had it pointed down. The gun accidentally exploded and the lead entered his foot, leaving a severe wound.

The first meeting of the new city water commissioners was held last evening. Messrs Thurston, Kent and Dubois, newly appointed commissioners met to discuss the various problems involving their department and also laid out plans for settlement. As the meeting was a private affair it is not known whether or not any discussion of the standpipe-reservoir question had.

The newsstands of the city were deluged with eager readers tonight endeavoring to obtain the earliest news of developments at the trial of Lalone and Raymond, alleged slayers of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson, which began today in Willimantic.

NATIVE OF BALTIC DIES FROM INJURY DUE TO FALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 11—Following illness resulting from a broken hip received in a fall at Watch Hill July 28, Miss Catherine E. McGrath, 70, died in the Westerly hospital yesterday afternoon. Miss McGrath had been in the employ of J. Frank Champlin, proprietor of the Ocean House at Watch Hill, for over 40 years as housekeeper, until ill health compelled her to resign about three years ago to take up easier duties at Ninigret Lodge. She was born at Baltic, Conn., in 1858, being the daughter of William and Hannah Fitzgerald McGrath, but had spent the greater part of her life in Westerly and Watch Hill. The only surviving near relative is a brother William McGrath, of Westerly.

In Providence the past week, on vote of Westerly town council, Town Solicitor John Ferguson appeared before the state harbor commission on a petition from property owners at the east end of Atlantic avenue, near the Weekapaug bridge, requesting the removal of fences erected from the property of Miss Annie Chapman into the breachway. It is claimed in the petition that Miss Chapman's fences are extended into low water and as the state claims jurisdiction over such land, the petitioners think Miss Chapman should be ordered to remove her fences. Attorney John Ferguson, Jr., representing the property owners on the north side of the highway, has filed the petition. It was stated at the office of the harbor commission that the matter would probably not be considered until a week from tomorrow, when a regular meeting of the board will be held. Hobart R. Ayers of Pittsburgh owner of Hillandale farm in Haversham, was present at the hearing and spoke in favor of the proponents of the petition.

His case was continued for sentence, on his payment of costs of $3.60. CLARK TEA ROOM CLOSES AFTER BIGGEST SEASON

The Clark Tea Garden closed recently after the biggest season since the tea room was opened five years ago. Automobiles from every state in the union came to the tea garden that overlooks the harbor, the best view in the fishing village. About 35,000 patrons were served during the season. Fifty-five automobiles were packed on each side of the street in one day and 260 people came on that same day. In 24 days a record was broken with 5,000 visitors. Several steam yachts have tied up at Olson's dock coming from New York, Florida, Philadelphia and other places, owners and guests coming ashore to see the tea room, claiming it is one of the best in New England. Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion of the world, in his salt and pepper suit and straw hat came from New York in his Packard car to have tea and cake. The managers of the tea room are Rodney Clark and Jerry Bacon, with a staff of eleven helpers.

Mr. Bacon will go to Cuba for the winter. He is a great bicycle rider and expects to enter a race with the champion of that country. Mr. Clark has not made up his mind yet whether to stay in the village or spend the winter in the sunny south. Both have worked hard to make the tea room such a great success.

The house of Boone Spink on Main street is being repaired and shingled.

GRAND-DADDY OF CRABS CAUGHT AT PALMER COVE

Reading the fisherman's log that belongs to Capt. Alden Brooky, two young men, John Bracci and George Daveau wanted to see how the blue shell crabs were for this month, after every crabber in town had the crab net in action. The good book read that this is the best time of the year to get crabs. So taking the boat "Shoot Again" and going over to Palmer Cove to try their luck they found the crabs O. K. The wind was blowing a little. When the two crabbers from the South End of the village got the scoop nets swinging the crab was sure to land in the bottom of the boat. George Daveau looked and thought what he saw was the bottom of a water bucket; but found it was a large crab trying to get away. He soon landed the monster of the crab family and it proved the largest ever taken into the village. Getting out a rule the figures read 21 inches from claw to claw. It weighed 2 pounds and 1 ounce. It contained enough crab meat for a family of four for a Sunday dinner. One old fisherman, Peter Crumb who has seen more blue shell crabs than any one in Noank had to wipe off his gold rimmed glasses before he would believe it was a real crab. "Gee! Where did that one come from? Never thought that a crab as large as that was around this part of the country, unless it was in the water at Winsted!" The two men got 200 crabs for their afternoon's work.

JACK ELLIS' DOG BETTY IS NEVER LATE TO SCHOOL

When the school gates were opened at 8:30 Monday morning by Janitor L. Smith, meaning that the school bell would ring at 9 to call back the children after their summer vacation, at the first stroke of the bell, Betty, a dog owned by Jack Ellis came on the run barking and landed in the school yard to welcome the children. Betty knew that the fall term had started. No matter where the dog is, on hearing the bell she will run for the school yard and play ball with the boys. If the ball is thrown over the fence Betty will bring it back. She is loved by all the children. Before 3:30 o'clock, the time to let them out she is on the steps of the school waiting for them. It took only three weeks for Owner Ellis to train the brown dog all her tricks.

The teachers in the school are the same as last year, except Miss Mary Miner who takes the place of Mrs. McKnight in Grade 4. Mrs. Hope Peterson is singing teacher.

The proceeds of the fair will go towards it. The Legion's motto is "We stick together in peace or war."

During intermission Leland Bishop sang "Get Out and Get Under the Moon," with Fitch at the piano. A moonlight dance was a feature. Billie McDonald is traffic cop and sees that the automobiles are parked in order.

There's a New Frame of Mind in NEW ENGLAND

TALK with the keenest-minded men in town. Read the statements of the New Englanders whose range of facts and scope of vision span the continent and build no trivial plans. Harken to the still, small voice of your own convictions as you remember any successful business, your own community, and our New England as they were two brief decades ago. What say? Is there not a new frame of mind in New England?

PROGRESS IN BILLIONS

Last year New England's 20,000 industries made and sold four times as many billion dollars worth of product as they made in 1907 . . . And those four-fold billions went to the industries and individuals who first achieved that new state of mind now spreading throughout New England.

A new frame of mind! Not only in manufacturing but also in matters of civic improvement, good roads, transportation, all forms of commerce, recreational development, agriculture, marketing methods and advertising! A new pulse—and a new impulse! A new tendency to study more broadly, to inquire and test and alter, to improve, to think and act collectively, and to take counsel together for mutual benefits.

GREAT CHANGES—FOR THE BETTER

It has always been thus. New England has always been able to adjust its tremendous powers and advantages to changing conditions. Farming, whaling, clipper ships, mine development, railroad and nation-building—all these have been relinquished as New England's primary interests. Each change required the the achievement of a new frame of mind.

GREATER OPPORTUNITIES

Generations ago New England became the workshop and playground of the nation. It is greater than ever today as an industrial and recreational region—greater as a land of opportunity. This time the new frame of mind is creating NEW METHODS rather than new interests, new and modern technique in marketing merchandising, and best of all, a new sense of solidarity and common policy between the six historic commonwealths which make up this great region.

QUALITY OF MIND COUNTS

Today with only 2% of the land area of the United States, New England has 7½% of the population and 16% of the savings of the entire nation. New England has the wealth . . . the equipment . . . the man-power . . . the traditions . . . and the new-born state of mind which make this a land of opportunity—industrial, commercial, educational, and recreational.

And this new frame of mind, if it has helped others, can help your private interests, your neighbors, and your own home town.

VIOLENT SPECULATION IN MARKET FOLLOWED PERIOD OF IRREGULARITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Violent speculation for the advance was resumed in today's stock market, after an opening period of irregularity. Prices of several active issues fell back 1 to 4 points at the start on overnight selling inspired by the stiffening of money rates yesterday. These offerings were readily absorbed, and a series of bullish demonstrations started which carried nearly two score issues to record high levels on gains ranging from 2 to nearly 12 points. Trading, which had shown a tendency to turn dull on the reaction, picked up on the rally, the day's sales running well over 4,000,000 shares.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 1-2 per cent., with a plentiful supply of funds available. More money came into the street during the day, and 'outside loans" were arranged as low as 7 per cent. in the afternoon. Time money rates continued firm, with 7 per cent. asked for the shorter maturities.

Buying orders were spread over a broad list, but the motor accessory, food, copper, mail order and steel shares gave the best exhibitions of group strength. Pools were again in the market on a big scale, and the flood of orders which poured over the brokerage wires from all sections of the country indicated that they were attracting a large public following. Sale of a stock exchange seat at the record-breaking price of $410,000 was widely commented upon as a bullish development.

Except for the publication of a series of favorable earnings statements, the declaration of a 50-cents extra dividend on National Biscuit and a 2 for 1 split up of American Chicle, there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Wall street was eagerly awaiting the return from Europe on Friday of William C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, who is expected to have something to say regarding plans for a world curtailment of crude oil production.

Briggs Manufacturing was one of the sensations in today's market, climbing more than 5 points to a new high record at 52 1-8 on a turnover of nearly 250,000 shares. One block of 35,000 shares changed hands at 50, the largest individual transaction in any issue since the current "bull" movement started. Buying was based on reports that earnings in the last half of the year, due to heavy Chrysler and Ford orders, would approximate $5 a share, as against slightly more than $1 in the first half.

Montgomery-Ward continued its sensational climb by touching a new high record at 264, or 147 points above the year's low, but it slinped back to 257, up 8 points net, on realizing. Union Carbide ran up 11 1-2 points to 181 1-2 and closed at the top. Motor Products soared 14 points to 166 and then dropped back to 151. Advance Rumely common and preferred, American Bosch Magneto, Atlantic Refining, Butterick, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Commercial Solvents, Detroit Edison, International Business Machines, Loose Wiles Biscuit, National Dairy Products, National Tea, the Purity Baking issues, Stanley Co. of America and Wright Aero all sold 5 or more points above yesterday's final final quotations, most of them setting new peak prices.

Steels were heavily bought in expectation of large last quarter earnings. Republic, with a gain of 5 points at 79 1-2, a new high, was the feature. Accumulation of the coppers was stimulated by reports of unusually low reserve stocks and predictions of higher commodity prices. American Smelting ran up 6 points, and Greene Cananea 5, while Anaconda, Chile and Cerro de Pasco moved into new high ground.

A sharp rise of more than 2 cents a bushel in corn prices, in reflection of a lower than expected government crop estimate, featured the commodity markets. Wheat prices advanced fractionally. Cotton fell back about $1 a bale. Coffee and sugar quotations were firmer.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading with sterling cables quoted around $4.85 3-32.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—(AP)—Unexpected curtailment of the 1928 official estimate of corn production led to sharply higher prices for corn today and also lifted up wheat and oats. Special notice was taken that most of the falling off in the probable yield of corn is in the states which as a rule furnish the bulk of the commercial supply.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous, 1 5-8 to 2 3-8 net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to 5-8 up, oats at 1-8@1-4 to 1-2@5-8 advance and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 7 cents.

General surprise over the government figures indicating 141,000,000 bushels reduction of the probable yield of corn, as compared to the average of unofficial estimates, made the corn pit today the market leader from start to finish. Commission houses and previous speculative sellers were active and persistent buyers, whereas offerings were largely restricted to holders who found themselves in a position to realize profits. Besides an excellent cash demand was in evidence.

Meanwhile, arrivals of corn in Chicago today totaled only 79 cars and despite the advances in price of future deliveries the quantity of old corn booked today for shipment to this city amounted to but 28,000 bushels, whereas the open interest in September corn contracts here is nearly 22,000,000 bushels.

The country offered new corn more freely, and 348,000 bushels were purchased by Chicago houses, mainly from Illinois points, but this corn is about all to arrive not earlier than December. On the other hand, shippers here took 176,000 bushels of corn today from Chicago stocks, and vessel room was chartered for 235,000 bushels to go to Buffalo and Georgian Bay.

Wheat values derived their firmness almost entirely from the strength of the corn market. The upturns in wheat were in the face of favorable harvest weather in Canada, prospective bearish Canadian government crop estimates, and virtual stoppage of export demand. The world's available supply, though decreased 1,250,000 bushels for the week, and the European crop summaries were construed as rather unfavorable. Oats tended upward with other grain, and because oats receipts were small.

In the provision market, lard was firmer but meats were inclined to drag.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The steel industry continues to show healthy gains in comparison with a year ago. Ingot production of the U. S. Steel corporation is around 77 per cent of capacity, about unchanged from a week ago, compared with 70 per cent at this time last year. Independent companies have been increasing their activities steadily, being now around 78 to 79 per cent, an increase of 1 per cent over the previous week. A year ago they were at 65 per cent.

E. M. Herr, president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. reports sales ahead of a year ago, reports from all branches indicating continued improvement in volume the rest of the year.

The August Steel payroll in the Youngstown area reached a peak for the year at $7,111,395, exceeding July by $846,000 and $250,000 more than in August, 1927, reflecting the high operating rate of valley steel plants.

Sinclair Pipe Line Co, placed orders for 51,000 tons of steel pipe for additional gathering lines and to increase capacity of its trunk line to Chicago from 25,000 to 75,000 barrels daily. One half of the business went to National Tube and the balance was divided between Jones & Laughlin and Bethlehem Steel.

NEW LONDON PUBLIC IS PEEVED AT ELECTION METHOD AND RESULTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 11—Yesterday's election failed to be an election, as candidates running for the different offices failed to secure the requisite number of votes. Another election will be held Sept. 24, at which eight candidates will be on the ticket: Malcolm M. Scott, Robert B. Chappell, John F. Murray, William C. Fox, David B. Seamon, Freeman E. Kenerson, Henry H. Coogan and Joseph F. Fitzpatrick. Those eliminated in the balloting of yesterday were Emily C. Speirs, W. Alpha Lewis and Joseph Perrone. So poor was the turnout of voters yesterday that many citizens and several candidates today indignantly expressed their disappointment over the lack of interest being shown in city affairs. Many declared that they did not intend to vote two weeks hence. Through the use of the voting machine it was anticipated that he results of the election would be made known at an early hour. However, final returns were not reported until after 9 o'clock last night.

Little interest was manifested in the election except that shown by the candidates, many of whom put in the whole day at the polls, or in an effort to get out the vote. All who were so occupied express a feeling of resentment that their efforts must be repeated two weeks later. All have expressed themselves as in favor of a voting system whereby the candidate receiving the highest number of votes would be elected. A referendum vote for a change in the city charter is strongly being talked of. However, leaders of the party state that the better way to bring about the desired change is by legislation, and plans are being made to bring a bill to that effect before the next session of the general assembly, in January.

There was a still alarm this evening around 7 o'clock, when a lumber pile near the corner of Green and Pearl streets caught fire. After a few minutes work, firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The damage was confined to discarded boxes.

KEENAN STORE RAIDED— PROVES DRY AS SAHARA

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 11—The police today raided the store of Mathias Keenan, 320 Main street in a search for liquor. The efforts of the raiding squad were not rewarded with success, for nothing having any resemblance to liquor was found in the store. The warrant ordering the search of the store was by orders of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, who supplied such information as was in his possession and the warrant was signed by Judge S. Victor Prince. When the officers arrived at the store they started a systematic search for booze, but in spite of delving for secret hiding places, the existence of booze was not revealed. Keenan has conducted a malt and hop store since prohibition, together with selling all of the appurtenances used in the manufacture of home brew.

According to Santacroce, he was driving his automobile on Main street about 11:30 o'clock and at the corner of Church street it was struck by a car driven by Clark. The latter stopped and then his identity was revealed. He, however, would not remain until the arrival of Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin. Santacroce, as well as Joseph Apicelli, Linney Kay and Joseph Sesero, declared that Clark was intoxicated. Santacroce's automobile was damaged.

An Essex automobile, carrying Connecticut markers, N-5753, was reported at police headquarters this morning by Patrolman John Foley as having been parked on the wrong side of Summit avenue for several days. WITHDRAWAL WITHOUT COSTS IN RIGHT OF WAY SUIT

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been made in the $8,000 damage action and injunction suit brought by the Quaker Hill Home Building Co. against Frederick L. Goss, proprietor of a store and gasoline station at the junction of the old Colchester road and the New London-Norwich turnpike.

The suit was returned to court a few months ago and it arose over a dispute as to an alleged right of way, which the company claimed was being usurped by Goss. The latter claimed that his deed showed no right of way.

The disputed land was at the rear of the store or near the channel which leads from the Old Colchester road to the turnpike on the Norwich side of junction. The home building company claimed that the building erected and contemplated by Goss obstructed a view of the highways and was depreciating the value of property in addition to making traffic at that point dangerous.

The facts were looked into by counsel for all parties concerned. Attorneys Perry J. Hollandersky and Foster K. Sistare represented the company. The firm of Hull, McGuire & Hull represented Goss and Attorney Charles A. Gallup looked after the interests of the town of Waterford.

An agreement was arrived at, for it was discovered that the plans of the old Colchester road at this point had been lost and there seemed to be no way of finding the line as originally laid out.

New London architects drew up a new map, to which all parties agreed, and the selectmen of Waterford visited the scene and accepted the newly made plans, which are now recorded in the town records.

The home building company quitclaimed certain land and Goss also quitclaimed certain land, and under the new arrangement, the small strip of road leading between the highways is now wider and safer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

One of the most significant events in the history of motion pictures will occur tomorrow, when the Broadway theatre introduces to this city the marvel and wonder of our scientific age, Vitaphone talking pictures.

First shown in August, 1926, at the Warner theatre in New York city, Vitaphone created a furor in the theatrical and scientific world. For years science had been trying to synchronize the speech and actions of characters upon a screen and it was not until the scientists of the Bell Telephone company and the Western Electric company discovered the secret about three years ago that the invention was accomplished. At its debut in New York city, Vitaphone was exhibited to one of the most distinguished audiences ever grouped inside a theatre. People were astonished and scientific minds were amazed when Will Hays the head of the motion picture industry, appeared on the screen and actually spoke. At the end of his brief speech there were salvos of cheers. Vitaphone was a reality. New York had seen and believed.

Now in its second year of existence, Vitaphone has been accepted by all the leading cities of the country. Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Detroit, Atlanta, Portland, Cleveland and Buffalo have signified their approval of this marvelous device in a manner that is unquestionable. Thousands upon thousands have been flocking through the doors of theatres in these cities to glimpse the wonder of the world. And the interest is unflagging.

Like the silent motion picture itself, Vitaphone has been sought eagerly.

Spreading over the country with the rapidity of wildfire Vitaphone has, within two years, been installed in 500 theatres throughout the United States. Conservative estimates have placed future installations at a mark that is almost unbelievable. To some, however, this is no wonder, for Vitaphone has proved to be a universal delight. No section of the United States preponderates in the number of theatres using the Vitaphone. North, south, east and west are equally desirous of listening to and seeing characters talk upon a screen, that was hitherto as silent as the proverbial Sphinx.

The Broadway theatre feels a pardonable pride in announcing the debut of Vitaphone in Norwich. After months of preliminary work required to fit the theatre for the installation, the day is now here when the management can present the invention to the public. Nothing the Broadway theatre has ever done, they feel, can match this feat of obtaining the Vitaphone. Secured at a great expense, the Vitaphone, they believe, is here to transform the mode of entertainment, but more particularly, to make more enjoyable the hours that are spent in the motion picture theatre.

Like the sophisticated audience that at the Warner theatre in New York attended the innovation of Vitaphone city two years ago, the first night audience at the Broadway theatre will have the same thrill that comes to a person witnessing an epoch-making event. The great stars of the opera world, the legitimate theatre and the screen are coming to Norwich to speak, for the first time, from the shadowy silences of the screen. Great artists like Martinelli and Talley of the Metropolitan Opera, people who get thousands of dollars for one recital, will be seen and heard in renditions of the classical operas that lived through centuries of time. World famous concert stars, of which Mischa Elman, noted virtuoso, and Efrem Zimbalist are examples, will play the instruments that have earned them the fame of the entire civilized world. This city will be thrilled to hear the crooning voice of Jolson and to see his image as he sings a song to that famous "Mammy" of musical lore. The unsurpassed delight of listening to Lionel Barrymore, Dolores Costello, May McAvoy, Lois Wilson, Irene Rich, Alec B. Francis and numerous other stars of the motion pictures deliver spoken lines of a dramatic play will be the privilege of audiences at the Broadway theatre.

The wonders that are held within Vitaphone were, with the aid of the Bell Telephone company and the Western Electric company, developed by Warner Bros. When others had refused to consider talking pictures, Warner Bros., pioneers at heart, gave an audience to Vitaphone and instantly realized its great possibilities. In the face of skepticism and opposition they dared when their competitors hesitated. Today when the entire motion picture industry is talking about sound pictures, Warner Bros. are advancing far ahead of the field with a confidence that is born of practical experience and the assurance of the successful pioneer.

Audiences at the Broadway theatre will be able to see and hear the great personalities of the stage, motion picture and the opera through Vitaphone, the perfect method of synchronism. It was after many months of research and exhibition of devices to make talking pictures that the management of the Broadway theatre decided to choose Vitaphone as the only way to see and hear a perfect reproduction of the voice and actions of a character upon the screen. And anyone who attends the Broadway theatre during a Vitaphone program will remark that there is a perfect facsimile to the living thing when it is seen and heard in Vitaphone. When, in a picture a telephone bell rings, you hear the constant ringing of the bell, and when an automobile motor purrs you actually hear the motor whizzing. In certain street scenes the Vitaphone has been able to capture the hubbub and chatter of a section in a great metropolis. There is nothing that escapes the all-enveloping microphone.

Palace Theatre

When to love is to flirt with death is the story told in the Tiffany-Stahl production, "The Scarlet Dove," that opens its engagement at the Palace theatre today. This story, which was written and directed by Arthur Gregor, whose own career has been more interesting than any fiction he can create, has as its heroine a young Russian girl whose pure white innocence is being sold by a socially ambitious aunt to a roue whose purse needs refilling for his extravagant pleasures.

With a great deal of suspense, frequent thrills and many heart throbs there is unfolded a romance between the little bartered bride and a handsome and chivalrous young lieutenant in the czar's army. His superior officer is the girl's husband, so that, when the girl runs away from her husband and evidence points to the lieutenant as responsible for her death, this young man is in a predicament that makes exciting drama.

How the story ends for these two who loved in the face of death we will leave for your enjoyment at the Palace theatre. Lowell Sherman plays the husband with the perfection one expects of this finished artist, Robert Frazer is the lover and Josephine Borio the wife. An enchantress role falls to Margaret Livingston—and she is enchanting. There is a strong audience appeal to Columbia's "Broadway Daddies," which opened at the Palace theatre today. Here is a is a photoplay which runs true to the title, giving an intimate picture of night life in New York.

Columbia deserves great credit for bringing to the screen a portrayal of chorus girls, "daddies" and the idle rich at play, at work and at home without an objectionable sceen. It is a clean, wholesome picture which may be enjoyed by the whole family.

The plot development is skillfully handled presenting a society drama naturally, forcibly and with many tense moments. The entire action takes place along the Gay White Way and on Fifth avenue. There are beautiful interior scenes and some unusual views of Broadway at night.

Breed Theatre.

Picture fans who like fast-moving comedy filled with laugh-provoking situations and complications that lead to romance will find these ingredients in "Powder My Back," Irene Rich's latest starring vehicle which opens the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

Irene Rich as Fritzi Foy, musical comedy queen, who subsequently marries the man who had closed her show because of its nudity, gives a characterization that proves she is just as much at home in a comedy role as in a more serious part.

"Powder My Back" was directed by Roy Del Ruth. The scenario was written by Robert Lord from a Joseph Jackson adaptation of a Jerome Kingston story.

Miss Rich is supported by Audrey Ferris, Andre Beranger, Carrol Nye, Cissy Fitzgerald and Anders Randolf.

Featuring Patsy Ruth Miller, "The Red Riders of Canada," FBO production, is scheduled to unfold its thrills on the screen of the Breed theatre today as the added feature.

The daring and hardships of the Northwest Mounted bringing the law into the frozen wastes of the great northwest are said to be vividly pictured in this thriller adapted from the magazine story, "The Pirates of Muskeg," written by William Byron Mowery and adapted for the screen by Louis Sarecky and Oliver Drake.

Strand Theatre

Playing today and tomorrow Richard Barthelmess in The Noose—a dramatic photoplay. The story—

A boy's hand holds a smoking revolver. Nickie Elkins stands beside the dead body of Buck Gordon, gangster and head of a rum-running ring. The shooting occurs in the Box Stall Cafe, where the gang hangs out. Dot, one of the chorus girls, is in love with Nickie and asks him why he shot Buck. "Because he was no good," replied Nickie.

He is arrested for the shooting and is up for sentence. He gives the same reply, refusing to tell why he shot the gangster, and is sentenced to be hanged. The wife of the governor interests herself in the boy. She intercedes in his behalf, but the governor is firm, and says he cannot commute sentence unless the boy tells the reason for the crime.

The governor's wife continues to plead for Nickie's life, up to the night before the execution. The governor remains firm. During the night, the wife prays for the boy. A ghostly figure goes to the telephone and calls the warden over the governor's private line at daybreak. A voice tells the warden the sentence is commuted. He stops the execution.

New England Council

BOSTON, Sept. 11—With the cooperation of 75 New England newspapers, of which the Bulletin is one, the New England Council, all-New England development organization, this week begins a demonstration of its belief in modern advertising.

These 75 newspapers, as a step in promoting the economic progress of New England, are contributing in the neighborhood of $50,000 worth of space to further the purposes for which the Council has been working since its inception in 1925. They will print a series of advertisements, one each week, telling the story of the council and of New England's advantages and progress.

Each of these advertisements will reach a total circulation of more than 1,600,000 and as every one of these papers is read by many more than the individual purchasers, the power of newspaper advertising and the scope of the public attention which these 75 papers will draw to the "New England movement" as organized in the Council is apparent.

The action of these 75 newspapers in making this concrete expression of their belief in the future of New England, and in the work of the Council, was praised by President John S. Lawrence of the Council, who declared that "the newspapers are providing a concrete example of the sort of cooperation which the council seeks to stimulate among all New England interests. There is no limit to the possibilities of accomplishment in New England if all factors in the community will work together for the common welfare in this manner." The plan by which these 75 newspapers will print the series of advertisements resulted from the action of a group of New England newspapermen all of whom are intensely interested in the Council and its achievements. Thees men suggested that the subject of newspaper cooperation with the council be placed before a group of representative editors and publishers. At a meeting held in Boston at which 20 publishers were present the response was instantaneous. Since that time the number of papers participating has increased from 20 to 75. Among the newspapermen who first sponsored the idea were Col. Frank Knox of the Manchester, N. H., Union, Sherman Bowles of the Springfield, Mass., Republican, George F. Booth of the Worcester, Mass. Telegram, and Frank E. Langley of the Barre, Vt., Times.

In the preparation of the campaign the work of constructing the "copy" has been donated by the Kenyon Co., advertising agency of Boston, the typography has been given by James G. Clarke of the Wood, Clarke Press of Boston and the preparation of the "mats" has been donated by the Western Newspaper Union.

Of the advertisements in the series, there will be two devoted directly to the work of the New England Council, two on the recreational resources of New England, and two on the New England Council's Farm Marketing Program. The latter has been cited by farm organizations outside New England, particularly in California, as the most modern and advanced farm marketing procedure yet devised. In addition, six advertisements will be devoted to stories of successful New England industries illustrating how they gained prosperity through modern merchandising and advertising. In the interest of national prosperity, it is the purpose of the New England Council, first, to develop and maintain a sense of the importance of New England as an economic area of the United States; second, to determine what is necessary to develop and maintain New England's economic progress; and, third, to promote New England's economic progress. The Council is composed of 72 men, 12 from each of the six New England states, and is the permanent and executive body of the New England Conference, at which each year some 1,200 or more New England leaders gather to consider ways and means of promoting New England's welfare and prosperity. The first New England Conference was called as the result of the decision of the six New England governors that an all-New England organization interested in the prosperity of the entire area was desirable. The first conference, which met at Worcester, Mass., organized the Council as its executive body. Conferences have since been held at Hartford, Conn., Springfield, Mass., and the Fourth New England Conference will be held next November 15 and 16 at Portland, Me. Since its organization John S. Lawrence of Boston and Topsfield, Mass., has been president of the Council and Dudley Harmon of Wellesley is executive vice-president. Council headquarters are in the Statler building, Boston.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR THREE ARE IMPOSED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Two men and a woman entered pleas of "guilty" in the superior court here Tuesday and Judge Allyn L. Brown imposed jail sentences for each one. As this concluded the business of the September term of the criminal court, an indefinite recess was declared.

Two Go to Jail

Arthur S Dart of Montville and Mrs. Loretta M. Beebe Loper of New London were each given six months in jail when they pleaded guilty to charges of adultery.

Attorney George Curtis Morgan represented the woman and Dart was represented by Attorney Thomas M. Shields The pair were arrested on Aug. 6 last, at Montville, through a peculiar circumstance. The woman had been living at the home of Dart and his wife. The Darts had six children. Mrs. Dart was taken to the Norwich State hospital.

At this time, according to State Attorney Brown, Dart told the Loper woman to leave his home. She refused to go and he complained to the authorities. She was taken into custody with the result that she told of her relations with Dart. Then he was arrested.

Judge Brown, in passing sentence, ordered the woman to be confined in the Franklin street jail in New London, the man to serve his sentence in the jail in this city.

Criticises Justice's Acts

Lauren Maynard of East Lyme was before the court and pleaded guilty to three counts for violation of the liquor law.

Maynard received a fine of $200 and costs and a jail sentence of 30 days on one count of selling a pint of liquor to State Trooper Peter B. Busch on Aug. 28. He is also to pay costs of the lower court. Two other counts, keeping with intent to sell and reputation, were nolled.

After the accused was put to plea, Attorney William T. Connor stated that he was about to address the court and also the press in an attempt to have other justices about the country learn what he considered wrongful acts in the administration of justice

Attorney Connor accused Justice Charles Watrous of East Lyme, State Policeman Smith and the grand jury of East Lyme of "railroading" his client. The barrister said that when Maynard was presented before Justice Watrous, he was not given time to obtain counsel, although he asked for it. Mr Connor said that Maynard pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor law and was fined by Justice Watrous $600 and costs.

Then, according to the attorney, Maynard expressed intention of appealing and Justice Watrous denied the motion, which the lawyer said he had no right to do.

Immediately, said Attorney Connor, Justice Watrous withdrew his fine of $600 and bound Maynard over to the superior court. This act brought Maynard unlawfully before the criminal superior court, said Mr. Connor.

Attorney Connor said that there were a good many people who have come to the opinion that in some of the justice courts there is some pretty high-handed work going on, not only in liquor cases, but in automobile cases. He said that he hoped that his message would reach the eyes and ears of other justices and that they would profit by it.

State Attorney Brown said that more care should be taken by justices in conducting their courts and said that if there was any question regarding the lawfulness of Maynard being before the superior court he could issue a bench warrant.

Advance photographs of the House of David baseball team which is to cross bats with the Taftville Athletic association next Saturday have reached town and are arousing a great deal of local interest, not only among the fans, but among the populace in general. These players belong to the House of David cult, which does not permit its male members to shave their faces or cut their hair. Headquarters of the cult are in Michigan and it achieved some notoriety some time ago when its leaders "King" Benjamin Purnell and his wife "Queen" Mary were being sought by the state for alleged violations of the law. The rule of the cult has not been relaxed even in the case of their ball team, and as a result the players all have long whiskers and ringlets reaching to their shoulders. Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write your name and address in the special coupon you see at the end of this announcement, and send for a bottle to try. This complimentary bottle is forwarded prepaid without charge of any kind.

POETRY

The Trees at Twilight

The mystery of trees at twilight
Fills me with a vague unrest.
Somber cedars, tall straight poplars,
Lowly shrubs on the earth's green breast.

Spirits they are, entombed, enchanted
Mortals who lived here long ago.
Feeling the kiss of the summer sunshine,
Or cold caress of winter snow.

Stalwart soldiers off to battle
Like tall straight pine trees on a hill
Mothers weeping for their first born
Sad willows grieving by the rill.

Country folks, old-fashioned, kindly,
Orchard trees with bounteous yield,
Lovely folks, reserved and haughty
Like cedar trees in a barren field.

Happy children, scattered, growing
Like bushes, green on every side,
Lovely girls in a garden straying
Magnolia trees sweet scented pride.

A leafy church with choir birds singing
God's cathedral, an oak tree tall,
Grandparents old, serene and peaceful
Like linden trees by the garden wall.

When the dawn's first light chases darkness
The shadow of my fancy flees.
But with the first pale star of evening
Comes the mystery of trees.

Some Other Day

There are wonderful things we are going to do,
Some other day;
And harbors we hope to drift into
Some other day.
With folded hands the oars that trail
We watch and wait for a favorite gale
To fill the folds of an idle sail
Some other day.

We know we must toil if ever we win
Some other day.
But we say to ourselves there's time to begin
Some other day;
And so, deferring, we loiter on,
Until at last we find withdrawn
The strength of the hope we leaned upon
Some other day.

And when we are old and our race is run,
Some other day.
We fret for the things that might have been done
Some other day.
We trace the path that leads us where
The beckoning hand of grim despair
Leads us yonder out of the here,
Some other day.

HOOVER CONFERRED WITH COOLIDGE AT WHITE HOUSE

General Political Situation Was Discussed—President Coolidge Expressed a Desire to Be Helpful to the Republican Presidential Nominee—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler Pledges Support to Hoover and the Entire Republican Ticket.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12— (AP) — Herbert Hoover conferred for more than an hour with President Coolidge late today at the white house, but at the end of the meeting declined to reveal whether the chief executive would participate in the republican speaking campaign.

He did say, however, that the president had indicated his desire to be helpful. It was disclosed that they discussed the general political situation.

The meeting of the two was the second of the day. The nominee welcomed Mr. Coolidge at the station this morning upon the president's arrival here from his summer vacation in Wisconsin.

At the conclusion of the conference, the president walked with Hoover to the entrance of the white house's executive offices. In the hallway they encountered Secretary Mellon on his way to the office of the president and the three posed for photographers while Rob Roy, the president's collie, frisked about the doorway.

Hoover was driven immediately to his home where he had as a dinner guest Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the eastern campaign advisory committee. The senator previously visited Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, and discussed the results of the Maine election, which he said, "pointed the way to a republican victory in the national election."

HOOVER STUDYING THE EQUAL RIGHTS QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—Visits with President Coolidge today began and ended the day for Herbert Hoover.

In between times the republican presidential nominee assured a delegation from the national woman's party that he was studying the problem of a constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights with men, but he could not pledge himself to support any change in the constitution without an exhaustive advance investigation.

Hoover greeted his former chief this morning at the station as Mr. Coolidge returned from his summer's vacation in the northern Wisconsin woods. He, however, had only a brief meeting with the retiring leader of the party and a more extended conference was arranged late in the day at the white house.

After welcoming the president, the nominee went to his personal headquarters to complete his Newark, N. J., speech and received a number of callers.

The delegation of women, the principal group which visited the nominee today, presented through various speakers an appeal for an amendment which would wipe out state restrictions of "the economic freedom of women."

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER TO VOTE REPUBLICAN TICKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—H. Edmund Machold, chairman of the New York state republican committee, tonight announced that Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, had pledged his support of Herbert Hoover and the entire republican ticket.

Machold said Dr. Butler told him that although he would support Hoover because he believes the election of the republican ticket is best for the country he would not retract his criticism of Hoover's position on prohibition and naval armament, which the Columbia president expressed recently in a letter to the New York Times.

NOMINEE SMITH AGAIN CONTRADICTS MILLS

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 12—(AP)—Bent on getting everything shipshape before his departure Sunday night on his first campaign tour, Governor Smith put in a lengthy hitch at his desk today, one moment engaged with state business, the next tackling some phase of his presidential campaign.

For the first time since his nomination at Houston he took cognisance of what has been termed a "whispering" campaign against him by issuing, for publication in newspapers tomorrow morning, a formal statement which brought into the open a charge that he was "disgustingly intoxicated" at the New York state fair in Syracuse two weeks ago.

The statement was headed "nailing a lie in the whispering campaign," and its concluding paragraph branded the accusation which the nominee had been informed was being circulated against him in West Virginia as "slander." It was issued from the executive offices.

In another statement, which he dictated to a stenographer during his daily conference with newspapermen, Governor Smith again assailed Odgen L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury and the republican gubernatorial nominee in New York two years ago. Commenting on Mills' latest attack on his management of the state's fiscal affairs as carried in the morning papers, the presidential nominee declared:

"Mr. Mills has said all over again the same things he said during the campaign in 1926. He said the state debt was not reduced. That statement is not so. He said that the increase in resources had not been applied to tax reduction. That is not so. The direct tax, as I said in my statement (of last Monday) was reduced by some $18,000,000."

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF NEW BEDFORD STRIKE IMPROBABLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Hope for an early settlement of the New Bedford, Mass., textile strike faded today with a report of New Bedford delegates to the convention of the United Textile Workers of America, and the organizations committee on policy was working tonight on its recommendation for a course of action.

These recommendations and the committee's suggestions for textile legislation are to be presented to the convention tomorrow.

At today's session William E. G. Batty, leader of a dozen delegates from New Bedford told the convention that the determination of the strikers was such that there was no hope of ending the dispute by acceptance of a 10 per cent wage reduction. The strike, now in its twenty-second week, could last indefinitely, he said, with the present popular response to appeals for funds.

Batty said there was no trace of discontent among the strikers, reporting that they all would rather remain out of work than yield to a wage cut.

The arrival of the New Bedford delegation was delayed until this morning because they were needed in New Bedford to conduct negotiations with the operators in the hope of a settlement.

WON AIR RACE FROM ONTARIO TO LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12—(AP)—William H. Drury, pilot of a Waco plane, was announced winner of the international feature event of the 1928 national air race today when he landed his plane at Mines Field at 3:05 p. m. The race started at Windsor, Ont. The final dash was made from Las Vegas, Nev., where Drury hopped off at 12:03 p. m., three minutes after his sole rival, Kennedy Whyte, had taken the air.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12—(AP)—James F. Fenton of Lawrence, who yesterday suffered a broken neck while tackling a runner in Holy Cross football practice, died here this afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital. Members of his family were at his bedside.

NOT TO PUSH THE FRANCO-BRITISH NAVAL ACCORD

GENEVA, Sept. 12—(AP)—The first official disclosure that the Franco-British naval accord has not been entirely accepted by other nations was made this evening by Lord Cushendun at a session of the disarmament committee of the league of nations assembly.

"Unfortunately," he said, "intimations have reached us that our compromise (the Franco-British naval accord) may prove distasteful to other parties concerned who have the same right as we to have their votes and their voices heard."

Lord Cushendun also entered his opposition to an immediate fixation of the date for the meeting of the preparatory disarmament commission.

Just prior to these moves he had been sitting in the council, hurrying as soon as the council adjourned to the disarmament committee room. He arrived just in time to hear Joseph Paul Soncour, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies of France, argue for fixing a date for the meeting for the preparatory commission for disarmament.

Lord Cushendun immediately intervened in an attempt to prove that it was much better to follow the American idea and allow the chairman of the commission the prerogative of convoking the commission whenever he deemed the divergencies of views sufficiently overcome to justify votes of progress.

TO NAME PRINCIPALS OF ALBANY BASEBALL POOL

BOSTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—Clarence A. Barnes, candiadte for the republican nomination for attorney general of Massachusetts, today declared in a letter to Gov. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, that, in a public address next Saturday, he will name the principal operators of the so-called Albany baseball pool. He said also that he will name the headquarters of the pool which, he declared, was "within two minutes walk" of the capitol.

Controversy over the pool arose when Barnes recently wrote the New York executive asking: "What new method of law enforcement do you intend to inaugurate as president of the United States with regard to the eighteenth amendment that will be more effective than your handling of the notorious Albany baseball pool?"

In reply, Gov. Smith accused Barnes of playing politics and invited him to go to that city and point out the headquarters. Barnes accepted the challenge and set September 19 as the date. Today Gov. Smith wrote to Barnes informing him that he would be out of the city on that date but had instructed the district attorney of Albany county to meet Barnes and receive any evidence the latter had to offer.

WON NATIONAL WOMEN'S SAILING CHAMPIONSHIP

COHASSET, Mass., Sept. 12—(AP)—A 12 footer, flying the flag of the Indian Harbor Yacht club of Greenwich, Conn., and captained by Miss Lorna Whittelhey, won the American national women's sailing championship here today for the second time and carried the second leg of the Mrs. Charles Francis Adams trophy back to Greenwich.

Miss Whittelhey carried as a crew the Misses Edith and Helen Wills of Greenwich, Conn., and took two out of the three races.

PRISONERS IN SALEM JAIL WENT ON STRIKE

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 12—(AP)—Twenty prisoners assigned to work in the reed shop at the Essex county jail here today went on strike in protest against a new jail rule which deprived them of a half hour recreation period in the evening.

The action of the prisoners did not result in any trouble and they were remanded to their cells. According to jail officials the rule was enforced because of the escape Monday night of four prisoners. It was also said that the strike would have no effect on the the enforcement of the new regulation.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

GENOA, Italy, Sept. 12—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes and their daughter, Elizabeth, sailed for New York yesterday on the steamer Conte Biancamano.

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 12.—(AP)—An appeal filed by Sir Ukoji Rao, former maharajah of Indore, against the jurisdiction of the Bombay high court in the suit for 154,000 rupees (about $60,000) damages filed against him by a woman was dismissed yesterday.

Plot To Overthrow The Spanish Gov't Was Foiled

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 12—(AP)—Overthrow of the Spanish government and the arrest of all its high officials for immediate trial and prompt deportation were the avowed aims of the plot against the rule of Primo de Rivera according to news trickling across the Spanish frontier.

The plot, says "Le Petite Gironde" one of the leading newspapers of this border city, was thwarted by the dictator's police. The police appear rather proud of the success of their dragnet coup and have given out considerable information respecting it.

The newspaper states that the frontier towns of Hendaye and Bayonne have heard that nearly 2,000 arrests have been made in different parts of Spain. The prisoners are said to include all the leading plotters and it is added that the Archbishop of Saragosa, the Rev. Vidaly Veraguer, has been invited to retire to a convent in order to save himself from going to prison.

Taking advantage of the absence in Sweden of King Alfonso, the police say that the Spanish liberal and republican elements, together with communists, decided to strike a blow which had been scheduled for later in the autumn. Martinez Anido, minister of the interior, got wind of the plot early Tuesday and immediately conferred with police officials.

They drew up a list of persons to be arrested. Taxis scoured Madrid throughout the early hours of Tuesday, more than a score of arrests were made in the capital, including Alexandre Lerroux, leader of the liberal republican party.

In Barcelona Barrio Verro, former deputy, headed the list of prisoners, several newspaper men, officials of some lodges of Freemasonry and the president of the local branch of the League of Rights of Men were also taken into custody there.

Today the council of ministers is understood to have held a long session at Madrid at which it was decided to empower the police to arrest on sight Francisco A. Cambo, leader of the Catalonian separatist party and Sanchez Guerra, a former prime minister of Spain. It is understood that Senor Guerra is sojourning on the French side of the border.

All sources agree that no official government announcement has been made respecting the situation. It is figured, however, that a communique of some sort will be issued soon as this has been the custom in the case of previous plots against the government in Spain.

SUIT TO TEST POWER OF FED. RADIO COMMISSION

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—A suit to test the power of the federal radio commission and its right to reduce broadcasting facilities was filed in the United States district court today in ehalf of station WCRW, Chicago, which was among more than three score stations whose power was ordered reduced by the commission recently.

Attorneys representing Clinton R. White, owner of the station, said a similar suit would be filed in behalf of station WEDC of Chicago and that a temporary injunction will be requested prohibiting the commission from enforcing its order.

The bill of complaint said the provisions of this act are so drastic as to entail possible fines of $165,000 and imprisonment for 150 years if the station operated on a power in excess of that assigned to it for a period of one month, adding that such provisions intimidate operators of stations from asserting their legal rights.

RENEE ADOREE FILES COMPLAINT FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Renee Adoree, motion picture actress, today filed a complaint for divorce from William S. Gill to whom she was married June 27, 1927.

The actress charged her husband with desertion and cruelty. The complaint, filed by her attorneys, accused Gill of calling her vile names, of expressing the hope she would "break her neck" while driving the car, and with causing her great humiliation by removing all the furniture from their home when he "deserted" her September 5th, a week ago today.

The complaint gave the actress' name as Renee Gill, while at her marriage a year ago she gave the name of Renee Adoree Moore. She formerly was the wife of Tome Moore, film actor.

Transcontinental Air Race Is Under Way

Veteran Fliers Are at Controls in Non-Stop Flight For Los Angeles.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Sept. 12—(AP)—One of the greatest air races in the history of aviation was under way tonight.

Roaring across the continent huge ships built to cover thousands of miles without a halt, [illegible] veteran fliers were at the controls of the non-stop racers in the Transcontinental Air Derby.

With Mines field, Los Angeles, as their goal, the big planes took off at long intervals today. Clifford McMillin of Syracuse, N. Y., the first to start, was forced down by motor trouble in Pennsylvania, his ship undamaged.

Nine planes took the air in a mighty non-stop marathon to Los Angeles, but before many hours were passed two had been forced down en route and another had given up the attempt and returned to the starting point.

The first to come to grief was the Stinson piloted by Clifford McMillin of Syracuse. It landed on a Pennsylvania mountain top shortly after leading the field into the air.

The only other Stinson in the race got a clogged gas line tonight and also made a forced landing in Pennsylvania. The second Stinson was piloted by Randolph Page of Northville, Mich.

The plane that came back was Mrs. James A. Stillman's Bellanca North Star, piloted by Arthur LeBoutillier, who reported an imperfectly working engine.

That left six planes in the race, four of which can share in the $22,500 prize money.

The six are the Yankee Doodle of Art Goebel, the favorite, another Lockheed Vega owned by William Thaw II, famous war flyer, who rode as passenger; Charles A. Levine's Trans-Atlantic Columbia; A. Buhle sequiplane, piloted by N. B. Namer of Spokane; and Bellancas piloted by George Haldeman, Ruth Elder's ocean pilot, and Emil Burgin, known as Long Island's hard luck flyer.

The take-offs occupied the whole day and gave several thrills to a crowd estimated at about 10,000.

McMillin was the first off at 10:34 a. m. and the last entry.

As there is almost no night flying hereabouts, airport officials believed the plane to be one of the non-stop entrants in the transcontinental air race from New York to Los Angeles.

SCIENTISTS ADMIT CERTAIN LIMITATIONS

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 12—(AP)—A tendency among scientists toward greater openness of mind to certain tenets upon which most religions are founded is regarded by some as a development of the convention of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, concluded here today.

Last year the association's president, Sir Arthur Keith, stated his belief that there was no life after death.

This year the new president, Sir William Bragg, declared his belief in the existence of a soul and a divine being after life.

The scientists apparently have abandoned the seemingly confident position of last year that either now or some time in the future all the phenomena of life can be explained. This year some of the most eminent speakers before the association have called attention to certain of the limitations of science.

CHINA AND SPAIN TO ADHERE TO PEACE PACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—With word from China and Spain to the state department today of the intentions of those governments to adhere to the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the renunciation of war, speculation again asserted itself as to what attitude the senate would take toward that instrument.

This centered around whether stipulations made by Great Britain and France in correspondence prior to the compact's approval constituted reservations to the treaty, and whether senate ratifications would be equivalent to resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia, by reason of that nation's adherence.

5 Men Killed When Oil Tanker Exploded

Vessel Was at Sea Off the Coast of Southport, N. C. Men Were Injured.

SOUTHPORT, N. C., Sept. 12—(AP)—[illegible] men were killed and four others injured in an explosion at sea today on the tank steamer Shreveport, bound from Philadelphia to gulf ports, off Frying Pan Shoals near here. Twenty-nine survivors were rescued by the Spanish steamer Aldecoa and brought to the quarantine station here.

The dead are: A. Bergman, chief mate; D. M. Dagaro, pumpman; Swen Person, machinist; the boatswain, unidentified; Hopkins, first mate.

The injured are: Captain S. A. Simmons, of Baltimore, master of the vessel; M. Goldberg, of Philadelphia, seaman; R. S. Churchill, Cliftondale, Mass., steward; Fred Linderberger, address unknown.

The ship was demolished by the explosion but at latest reports tonight had not sunk. The coast guard cutter Modoc had been ordered to stand by.

Survivors said the first explosion came with terrifying suddenness, tore away the bridge deck and midship housing and rendered the wireless useless. The ship almost immediately was enveloped in flames, they said, and before the crew could take to the boats, three more explosions occurred.

The bodies of Bergman, Dagaro, Person and the boatswain were not recovered and the consensus among the survivors was that they had been blown to bits by the first explosion.

Hopkins was taken from the ship in a dying condition and was dead when the Aldecoa reached the scene 45 minutes after the first explosion.

The four injured were not thought to be seriously hurt and their speedy recovery was predicted at the hospital here.

Captain Simmons said he had had no time to send even a wireless call for help and that the Aldecoa was attracted to the scene by the smoke arising from the burning tanker. The crew had taken to small boats when the rescue ship arrived.

The "Shreveport" was a 4,000 ton tanker operated by the Cities Service company, of New York. She was traveling in ballast from Philadelphia where she had just finished discharging and was en route to gulf ports to pick up another cargo of oil.

SEC'Y JARDINE ADVISES FARMERS TO HOLD WHEAT

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—W. M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture advises farmers to "hold your wheat," in a statement issued by the republican national committee today in which he expressed belief that a continuance of a republican administration will aid the farmers.

Mr. Jardine, who was here en route to Washington after a western trip, said: "The purchasing power of 30 important agricultural commodities was 93 in July this year compared with 69 in 1921, the low point following the World war depression.

"There is no sound economic reason for depressed wheat prices," he added. "Farmers who sell their wheat without regard for the market may have cause to regret it later. Our experience has taught us that large production usually has an unduly depressing influence on prices early in the season, and a subsequent upward corrective tendency can generally be expected."

Jardine cited the "need for effective legislation to enable farmers to prevent price depression due to seasonal surpluses through price stabilization." He said such a plan would receive the support of the republican administration.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE ASSAULTED GOVERNOR

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Judge J. E. Reynolds, 78, defeated in his race for the democratic nomination for the state supreme court bench, sought to "beat up" the governor of Louisiana, aged 35, today, but the governor sidestepped.

Judge Reynolds' attack against Governor Huey Long was said to have been precipated as the outgrowth of support the governor gave Reynolds' opponent in the democratic primary.

The two met on the street today, and according to witnesses, when Governor Long greeted the judge with a "good morning," Judge Reynolds started to extend his hand, and then recognizing the governor, changed his gesture to a swing with his fist. Gov. Long averted the blow, and stepped back as the judge prepared for a fresh onslaught.

"The judge struck at me and I just walked away," the governor said. "The judge is an old man and I would not attempt to defend myself from anything he might do. After he struck at me I patted him on the shoulder and said, 'Judge you had better hold your temper,' and then I walked away."

SHOT MAN DEAD WHO HAD EXTORTED MONEY FROM HER

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—A shabbily dressed woman who at 30 is the mother and sole support of nine children and who expects another baby in two months walked into a police station and quietly laid a pistol on the sergeant's desk.

"I just killed a man," she said, "I shot him at his home while he slept. Lock me up."

The woman was Mrs. Ada Johnson, a widow who appeared old beyond her 30 years and her victim was Dominick Finn, 32, married and a former constable.

Mrs. Johnson, whose oldest child is 15, told the police that she sold liquor to support her family and that Finn found it out and extorted money from her in return for his silence. When she had no more money, she said, he forced her to submit to his attentions on a threat that he would have her arrested.

"My twin boys, eight months old, are his," she told the police, "and the baby to be born in two months is his. A baby was born to his wife in a hospital Monday. Yesterday I asked him for money for my baby. He told me he would bring some but never came so I went to his home, climbed in a window and shot him while he slept."

The oldest son accompanied her to the police station. The eight other children were found at home asleep and were not informed of the shooting. Mrs. Johnson was held without bail on a charge of murder.

RESULTS OF TUESDAY'S PRIMARY IN WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 12—(AP)—After trailing his opponent since last night Albert Johnson stepped out in the lead today in his race for congress from the third Washington district as returns from yesterday's primary trickled in.

Johnson, who has been the third district's representative since 1912 and is chairman of the house immigration committee, gradually moved up on Homer T. Bone, Tacoma lawyer, during the day, overcoming Bone's majority of 9,000. This afternoon when 538 of the 627 precincts in the district had reported, Johnson showed a lead of 1,598 votes.

Gov. Roland H. Hartley continued to pile up a big lead in his fight for nomination by the republicans as candidate for governor to succeed himself. His nearest opponent was E. L. French.

A. Scott Bullitt, Seattle lawyer, was well in the lead for the democratic nomination for governor. His closest opponent was Judge Stephen J. Chadwick.

Kenneth MacIntosh had a good lead over Miles C. Poindexter in the republican race for U. S senator. Poindexter, formerly was U. S. senator and was attempting a comeback.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS SEIZE LEVINE PLANE IN FRANCE

LE BOURGET, France, Sept. 12—(AP)—The airplane which Charles A. Levine left behind when he sailed for home was seized by customs authorities late this afternoon on the ground that regulations had not been completely complied with when it was brought here from Germany.

The "Queen of the Air" as Levine dubbed his latest plane, is rapidly being deserted by those who have planned to use it for a transatlantic flight. Levine landed in New York several days ago and today Mabel Boll took the boat train for Cherbourg en route to New York.

Workmen had begun to take down the plane preparatory to crating and shipping it to the United States, when the customs men intervened. With the elimination of this contender the transatlantic air season for 1928 is regarded as closed. Dieudonnee Costes, leading French contender, has hinted lately that his attempt will be delayed until the spring of 1929. With the equinoctial season near it is likely that all other airmen aspiring to an Atlantic crossing will fold up their wings for the winter.

COOLIDGE BUSY WITH MEMBERS OF CABINET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—With the necessity for "doing something" about the $94,000,000 treasury deficit expected next June 30, uppermost in his mind, President Coolidge discussed reduction of federal expenditures with his cabinet officers immediately upon returning to Washington today from a three-months vacation in Wisconsin.

Met by all the cabinet officers at present in Washington, the chief executive indicated at the station that he desired to confer with a number of them as soon as possible. Upon reaching the white house he hurried to his office and had Brigadier General H. M. Lord, director of the budget, summoned.

After his conference General Lord said that he had discussed budget matters with the president and that they had both given some consideration to the impending deficit. The budget director said that no definite plans for reduction of expenditures had been worked out, but that the administration would do all it could to impose upon the government an even stricter economy than is now practiced.

Secretary Kellogg of the state department was the first cabinet member to visit the executive offices, where he remained for more than an hour. At the end of the conference the secretary of stat said that he had not made any formal report concerning his recent trip to Europe to sign the anti-war treaty. It was known, however, that the president was anxious to learn at once Mr. Kellogg's impression regarding the reception of the treaty in Europe. He desired also to hear if Mr. Kellogg had any additional information concerning the reported Franco-British naval agreement.

Secretaries Wilbur of the navy department and Whiting of the commerce department, Postmaster General New and Attorney General Sargent also called on the chief executive during the day. While the visits were mainly of a personal and social character, in the course of the conversations Mr. Coolidge left a decided impression on the majority of his callers that he intended to devise rigorous measures to curtail federal expenditures for the rest of the current year to reduce as much as possible the estimated deficit.

ASHURST AND HUNT LEAD IN ARIZONA PRIMARY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 12 (AP)—With only scattered precincts in Arizona's more isolated regions unreported, U. S. Senator Henry F. Ashurst and Governor G. W. P. Hunt, both incumbent democrats, led all opposition late today.

Senator Ashurst held more than a three-to-one advantage over C. W. Rutherford, his opponent for the democratic nomination, and an equal lead over Ralph H. Cameron, republican, who in turn was doubling the vote of F. R. Stewart, his opponent.

Governor Hunt's overwhelming lead rolled up last night when returns had been received from only the Phoenix district, dwindled to a mere majority over J. H. Kerby with the receipt of returns from outlying districts.

Judge John C. Phillips, leading in the race for the republican nomination for governor, was a bare 1,000 votes ahead of John H. Udall, his closest rival, but led Celora M. Stoddard, the third candidate, by three to one.

STATE C. E. CONFERENCE AT COLUMBIA LAKE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 12—A week-end conference of the union officers and presidents of Christian Endeavor societies of the state of Connecticut is to be held at the Center church camp at Columbia Lake Saturday and Sunday when it is expected that about 160 of the leaders of Christian Endeavor in the state will be on hand to plan the program for the year 1928-'29.

E. P. Gates, general secretary for International Christian Endeavor, and Mrs. Gates will lead the conference in General Methods. Russell J. Blair, field secretary for New England Christian Endeavor, and Mrs. Blair will lead the conference on Union Activities. "Mike" Carlson, physical director of the Hartford Y. M. C. A., is in charge of the recreational conference, while Rev. Vere W. Abbey, state president of C. E., will be the presiding officer and is to speak at some of the sessions. The group conferences will be in charge of the state superintendents for the various departments of work. In graded Christian Endeavor, Miss H. V. R. Woodworth will be in charge of the alumni work, Miss Dulcie Cole, intermediate, and Mrs. H. W. George of the junior work.

In connection with program building, Rev. C. S. Applegate of the Federated church at Middlefield will conduct the conference on evangelism and the "Quiet Hour." Rev. V. L. Phillips, pastor of the Congregational church at Kensington, will conduct the conference on Stewardship, G. T. Bochmal, on Citizenship, and Rev. T. H. W. Jones of Mansfield, the one on missionary work.

Mrs. G. S. Murray of New Haven will be in charge of literature, Mrs. R. S. Kruse of West Hartford will see that the Christian Endeavor World is represented and the former state president will present plans for publicity which will be of special interest to the state workers. F. C. Bidwell of Hartford has charge of finances.

Any members of Christian Endeavor societies, whether officers or not, are invited to these sessions. It is especially hoped that all of the near-by societies will hold their Sunday meetings at Columbia Lake at 5 p. m. so that they may partake in the lake-side service.

A difficulty in arranging such a program is in taking care of such a large group, but owing to the kindness of the officials of the Center church of Hartford, their summer camp has been made available for the use of the conference. Mrs. Merton C. Andrews of Willimantic has made the arrangements for the catering so that although physical comforts are not expected at a camp, the delegates will be taken care of in the best possible manner. It is hoped to hold affairs of this kind annually in the future.

Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms a report meeting will be held of those working on securing subscriptions for the proposed new metal industry here. More than 80 men are engaged in this work and it is anticipated that a favorable report will be received. Work has already been started on putting the S. C. S. Boc Co. plant in shape for operating purposes.

Numerous local merchants have already agreed to take stock and there are in addition many professional and civic-minded persons who are favorably impressed with the proposition. The inventor will accept the proposals of one or two other cities in case the required $12,600 is not raised here and will probably move to eastern Massachusetts. He is still holding the option open to this city and the local men interested anticipate a consummation of the deal whereby a new industry will be secured for Willimantic.

At a largely attended session of the local Exchange club Tuesday evening, Alfred P. Abbe gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Alaska. President Robert H. Fenton was in charge of the session. The meeting next week will be held on property of William F. Maine in Mansfield, a forest tract, and Prof. Albert E. Moss of the Connecticut Agricultural college will deliver an address on "Forestry" and a beefsteak dinner will be served.

WEDDING

McQuade-Ottenheimer

Miss Helen Claire Ottenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry Ottenheimer of this city, was united in marriage with Hugh Ralph McQuade, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McQuade of Chaplin, at St. Joseph's church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. Henry E. Quinn, performed the ceremony and the nuptial high mass was sung by Rev. William E. Dunn of Warrenville. During the mass a quartet rendered music and Arthur E. Roy, tenor, sang Jordan's "Ave Maria" at the offertory.

The only attendant for the bride was her maid of honor, Miss Therese Leonine Nollett of this city. William L. Maloney of Middletown was Mr. McQuade's best man. Robert Anthony Bligh and Ernest Lawrence Opperman, of Torrington, brothers-in-law of the bride, were the ushers.

The bride was very attractively gowned in a Patou model of madonna blue transparent velvet with hat to match while she carried a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Nollet was becomingly attired in beige crepe romaine with a contrasting hat and shoes of autumn brown. Her corsage bouquet was of tea roses and larkspur.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the Nathan Hale hotel, served to the members of the immediate families. Music was furnished by Quinlan's orchestra.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's parochial and Windham high schools and has been employed as supervisor at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone Co. for the past five years. Mr. McQuade is also a graduate of Windham high school and the Mechanical institute of New York city. At the present time he is engaged as a contractor and builder in Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. McQuade left later in the day by automobile for Maine, en route to Canada on their wedding tour. They will be at home in a newly built home on Woodmere road, Stamford, after Oct. 1.

The local Chamber of Commerce has been informed of the presence in this city of an agent or agents soliciting subscriptions for magazines on the basis that votes will be given for college assistance. While this plea is sincere in many instances, it has been found to be just the opposite in others. A check-up has been made throughout the state of a similar scheme and gross abuse of this proposition discovered even when the young men were working for a prominent national magazine. When the facts were called to attention of the state manager of the magazine the matter was rectified. Secretary Earl J. Arnold of the Chamber of Commerce has repeatedly asked that his office be notified of the presence of such solicitors in this city so that they may be checked up.

Yesterday a prominent businessman called at the office chamber to report an instance of having paid by check, which was subsequently cashed, for an advertising proposition. Up to the present time he has been unable to get in touch with the company in question, his letters having been returned with the notation, "Not in Directory." It is pointed out that it would have been much easier to check this scheme and the firm, prior to signing for space and paying for it.

Miss Eliza A. Hutchins, aged 81, of Columbia died at her home there Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, after having been in ill health for some time. Miss Hutchins was born in Poland Springs, Me., on Oct. 6, 1846, a daughter of Asia and Eliza (Armstrong) Hutchins. She removed to this state with her parents at an early age and spent the greater part of her life in Columbia. She had been a great benefactor to the Columbia Congregational church, of which she was one of the oldest members, and also to the community, as had other members of her family. Miss Hutchins is survived by two nephews, Henry B. and Lester J. Hutchins, of Columbia.

Local merchants have reached a decision to stage a fall opening in the early part of October. James B. Fullerton is chairman of the committee in charge, the members of which are the same men who put on such a successful spring opening. The merchants here are also to conduct two Dollar Days in 1929, when at least 100 local business firms are expected to co-operate. Plans for the first of these events will be started shortly after the new year. The committee in charge of the fall opening will hold a meeting in the near future, when plans will be inaugurated to make this an outstanding event.

Joseph Laflamme and Patrick Clifford, both of this city, were sentenced to serve 30 days each in the county jail at Brooklyn Wednesday morning in police court. John Sullivan of 349 Valley street, who was also charged with intoxication, was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $17.15. He was placed on probation for three months to pay the assessment. In the case of Ernest Ellison of Windham, charged with motor vehicle law violations by having defective brakes and lights on his car, fines of $2 and costs on each count were imposed by the court, the assessment amounting to $11.65. Ellison was arrested by State Policeman Walter W. Wood of the Stafford Springs barracks.

The announcement was made Wednesday following a conference between officials of the Community Hotel Corp. of this city and representatives of the American Hotels Corp., that the resignation of Daniel F. Daley, manager of the Nathan Hale hotel since its opening, had been accepted. Mr. Daley came to the Nathan Hale from the Colonial hotel at Gardner, Mass., and is one of the pioneers with the American Hotels Corp., coming to them after various affiliations in New York and Massachusetts. It was also announced that Charles E. Mayo, who has been chief of the front office staff at the Nathan Hale, is appointed acting manager. Mr. Mayo came to the Nathan Hale after a long experience in hotels, including the Arlington in Boston, Mass.

Word has been received here of the death in Springfield, Mass., Tuesday morning of Charles H. Moore, at his home, 86 Montrose street. He was born in Unity, N. H., the son of George C. and Almira J. Moore, and for the past 11 years had made his home in Springfield. In 1896 Mr. Moore opened a Grand Union Tea Co. store in Holyoke, Mass., and was promoted to sales manager of that company in 1912, with headquarters in this city. He was in the employ of the Grand Union Co. for 29 years until he resigned on account of ill health four years ago. Besides his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Moore, he is survived by one daughter, Miss Dorothy Moore, and a brother, W. E. Moore of Wethersfield, Vt. He was a member of the Holyoke lodge of Odd Fellows and the Hope Congregational church of Springfield.

A large number of inquiries having been received at the Chamber of Commerce in regard to the status of the new silk manufacturing industry for this city, money for which was recently pledged, a statement has been issued that the project is still in the process of consummation and that no other city is being considered but Willimantic. The officials of the company are desirous of commencing operations here as soon as possible. The delay in announcing a definite decision has been due to the continued critical illness of a member of the firm and the consequent attendance at his bedside by his partner. The representatives of the local interests state that in the event of his death additional plant facilities will still be a problem with the company although the decision might be delayed. The directors of the chamber are not asking subscribers to pay their first installments until further notice. The pledges made are remaining intact and no effort is being made to use them for any other purpose than that for which they were intended.

talesman to be examined of the total and the 44th today. The state had used 19 excuses and the defense 38, out of 50 allowed to each.

The jury was completed at 2:40 o'clock. The full jury for the trial follows:

1. Everett Kimball, 54, Scotland, farmer.
2. George N. Perry, 41, Scotland, farmer.
3. Nelson A. Bennett, 58, Sterling, retired granite contractor.
4. John C. Huntington, 44, Killingly, farmer.
5. L. Dexter Crawford, 53, Windham, silk thread manufacturer.
6. Richard Burchnall, 32, Hampton, farmer.
7. Ellsworth C. Backus, 66, Brooklyn, cotton mill foreman.
8. A. M. Bassett, 52, Ashford, carpenter.
9. Silas M. Wheelock, 55, Putnam, wool manufacturer.
10. John Pringle, 57, Killingly, machinist and farmer.
11. Howard F. Goodwin, 36, Ashford, mechanic.
12. George H. Sanderson, 45, Plainfield, bookkeeper.

All are married but Bennett who is a widower.

As soon as the jury box was filled Miss Marjorie Bradford of Putnam, assistant clerk of the court, immediately took the roll call and administered the oath. Lalone and Raymond were then presented and the charge of first degree murder on, which an indictment was returned against the accused by a grand jury in session in this city, April 21, was read.

Recess was called until 3:30 o'clock during which a new seating arrangement was made whereby the two state and five defense attorneys occupied separate tables. Lalone and Raymond were removed from the prisoners pen where they have remained during the examination of the veniremen and seated near their attorneys. The taking of testimony began as soon as court resumed at 3:30 o'clock.

The first witness was George W. Perry, civil engineer of Putnam, who stated that at the request of the state police he had made a map of a section of the main highway in Pomfret showing points relative to the scene of the shooting of Officer Nelson. The map was tacked to a board and an explanation of it was made by the witness, under questioning by State's Attorney Bradford. The map shows the highway through Pomfret from a point near the Dr. Overlock home to Green's corner where the highway diverges to the right and left at a fork, one road leading into Putnam and the other to Woodstock. The distance from the so-called Overlock corner to the Green corner was approximated at 1,000 feet. The map shows the location of houses, including the A. B. Briggs home near which the officer died, and includes a drawing of several hundred feet of Pomfret street which was described as being level and straight for nearly one mile. The position of electric light poles and ditches was also given. The map was entered as exhibit A.

The second state witness was Francis J. Higgins of 27 West street, Worcester, Mass., insurance man and owner of the Willys-Knight sedan alleged to have been stolen from Worcester and used by the accused on their death-dealing ride through Connecticut. The car was found abandoned in Dudley, Mass., the day after the shooting of the state trooper. Higgins said that he had owned the car but two days when it was stolen from Walnut street, Worcester, at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of April 4. He described the car as a "Foursome" five-passenger sedan, light green in color and equipped with a trunk on the rear. He had notified the Worcester police of the loss and on April 7 he went to a garage in Webster, Mass., to identify the recovered machine. He found the rear vision window broken. The left rear door window was also broken. There was a bullet hole through the spare tire and gasoline tank, a dent in the rear of the body as if a shot had gone out from inside the machine and later a workman in a plate-glass shop in Worcester found three revolver shells on the front seat. It was estimated that the gasoline tank would hold about 10 gallons despite the bullet puncture. Two photographs of the car in its somewhat battered condition were identified by the witness and introduced as exhibits B and C. Upon cross-examination of the witness by Attorney John J. Moynihan it was brought out that several pieces of glass were found in the interior of the car.

Mrs. Bessie B. Ascher of 30 Leete street, Springfield, Mass., who conducts a haberdashery, was the third witness. She testified that on the night of April 4, between 6:30 and 7 p. m., she had sold caps to three young men. Not having anticipated that she would be called today, the state did not have the caps, which are in possession, on hand to exhibit and the conclusion of Mrs. Ascher's testimony was postponed until Thursday.

The next, and fourth witness, was Mrs. Mary Hannifin who is proprietress of a textile store at 172 White street, corner of Orange street, Springfield, Mass. Although greatly hampered by a series of objections from the defense attorneys, State's Attorney Bradford succeeded in bringing out from this witness that early in the evening of April 4, a sedan bearing three young men had hovered about the front of the store, first being parked directly in front and, later on the opposite side of the street. Mrs. Hannifin became suspicious and secured the number of the car. Some of her testimony that was not admitted on the court records owing to defense objection was to the effect that she had turned the number over to Police Officer Tuttle of the Springfield department. Officer Patrick J. Tuttle of the Springfield police was next called. Practically all of the state's attempts to have him testify that he secured the number of the car from Mrs. Hannifin and turned it over to police headquarters were blocked by the defense. Tuttle was subjected to a strong, but brief cross-examination by Attorney John C. Mahoney.

The sixth and main witness of the afternoon was Raymond P. Gallagher, 30, member of the Springfield police department since December, 1922, and assigned to motorcycle duty. Officer Gallaghe said that about 5:15 o'clock on the evening of April 6, he spotted the alleged bandit car bearing the Massachusetts registration 401,976, traveling down State street in Springfield at a rate of from 30 to 35 miles an hour, and following almost the center of the street through heavy traffic. The officer gave chase but was hampered by traffic and had gone about one-half mile down State street before he overtook the machine. He followed the car first on one side, getting a full profile view of Raymond, and then on the left side, getting a view of Lalone, who was driving. At the corner of Terrence and State streets, Lalone gave the car a quick turn to the left to enter Terrence street and the officer was forced to the curb, where he and his machine fell to the ground. About this time several shots were fired out of the machine and the officer saw that Raymond was leaning from the front seat and firing a revolver through the rear vision window, which was broken by the first shot. The officer returned fire, firing three shots at the car. He did not know whether any of the shots took effect. Upon remounting his machine the officer went to a police telephone box to notify headquarters and rode into Longmeadow, where he notified a police officer. The car had apparently made a safe get-away, however. The next day he went to Webster, Mass., where he saw the machine and noted the broken glass and bullet hole in the gasoline tank. He worked with the Worcester and Massachusetts state police on the case. When shown a photograph of Lalone he immediately identified the man. In a police line-up in Worcester of about ten men he again identified Lalone and Raymond without hesitation. This identification was on April 11. The two young men were taken to the Springfield jail. Officer Gallaghe said that one of the shots fired from the fleeing machine cut a hole in the left elbow of his coat but did not harm him. He said that the first shot was fired by Raymond and at a distance of about 25 feet.

The cross-examination was by Attorney Moynihan and was centered on the two questions of why the officer did not notice whether there was a trunk on the rear of the car and why he did not pull up in front of the machine sooner to cause it to halt. This examination was underway when court adjourned at 5 o'clock until Thursday morning.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON'S NEW THEATRE WILL OPEN THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 12—Thureday night a promise of the early summer season to the people of this and surrounding communities will have come true, and Danielson can boast that it now has one of the most handsomely appointed theatres of any town of its size in southern New England. Tonight is set for the reopening of the house, which has been closed since early July.

Those who were familiar with the theatre will hardly recognize its interior so complete has been its transformation. It has been remodeled and redecorated from pit to dome. It has been equipped with new leather upholstered seats and had an entirely new lighting system installed. Rich, heavy carpeting of the identical pattern in use at Roxy's theatre covers the aisles and the space back of the seats at the rear of the house. Velvet and silk draperies are lavishly used throughout the theatre and are no small factor in bringing out the beauty of the new decorations and completing the picture that has been wrought. There are retiring rooms for ladies and for gentlemen, an added feature. Not an inch of the interior surfaces has been overlooked by the decorators in developing a harmonious ensemble of coloring. A new and elaborate drapery is arranged in the proscenium arch and an entire new set of scenery has been installed.

Outstanding in all that has been done in so completely modernizing the theatre is the installation of an $8,000 Kilgen organ. The fact that the space formerly given over to boxes is now screened and draped afforded opportunity of placing the organ pipes back of the screen where the boxes formerly were at the right of the stage. Tonight John Kehoe, well known Boston musician, is to be the guest organist, his visitation insuring a special musical treat incident to the opening.

One of the important changes made in the interior arrangement involved doing away with the center aisle. Under the new seating plan there are two side aisles only. Patrons, it is believed, will find the change much to their liking. Overlooking no detail that might add to the comfort of the theatre-going public, the management has installed a new heating system and devices for purifying the air.

The lobby of the theatre has received the same careful treatment as the interior and gives the first inkling of the extent of the work that has been done. Suspended over the sidewalk at the theatre entrance is an ornate canopy that fairly flames with electric lights, beacons to those who would be entertained in surroundings both comfortable and pleasing to the eye.

Arthur A. Dean enjoyed a delightful visit today with one who stepped out of the distant past to greet him and to review with him some of the incidents that marked the bicycling age in which they were well known figures. Mr. Dean's visitor was A. G. Fisher of New Haven, an enthusiastic rider back in the 90s. Nearly 40 years have elapsed since Messrs. Fisher and Dean had met. Mr. Fisher was en route to Boston for the annual reunion of the Wheel-Around-the-Hub club, its membership made up of men who were devotees of bicycling so many years ago.

When members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., meet in the parish house of the Westfield Congregational church Thursday afternoon of next week Miss Adah Danielson will tell them something of her impressions and experiences on her recent visit to Yellowstone Park. The hostesses for the occasion are to be Mrs. Harry E. Back, Miss Annie Hutchins, Mrs. Mary Tayntor, Miss Amelia Hutchins, Mrs. Alice Lembach, Mrs. Hugh Mason and Mrs. Marcus Wood.

Miss Sylvina C. Norton, president of the Home Missionary union of Connecticut, and Miss Carolyn D. Smiley, one of the secretaries of the American board, are to be the speakers next Tuesday afternoon at a missionary rally to be held in the Congregational parish house. Miss Norton's subject will be The Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut, as it affects Home Missionary Work in Our Churches. Miss Smiley will tell of the American Board and its relation to Foreign Missionary Work. Misses Norton and Smiley are making a tour of eastern Connecticut, emphasizing the union of home and foreign missions, so all of the women of the church are invited to attend next Tuesday afternoon's meeting.

Former Warden Walter Anderson remains an enthusiast for the establishment of an airport in Danielson. This is a project that Mr. Anderson has advocated and labored for during the past several years. In his trip about New England in connection with his business affairs he has noted what other towns no larger than Danielson are doing to provide facilities for airmen. These activities have inspired him to a renewed ambition to have Danielson get in line with an aviation field, and to be one of the first to do so, that it may reap whatever prestige would go with such a development and in the interest of advertising and developing this community.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was engaged today in completing his finding in the case of Hazel D. Johnson, the little colored girl who died as the result of injuries sustained on September 4, when she was struck, in Columbia, by an automobile driven by Louis R. Lipman of Hartford. The child subsequently died at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic. The coroner's finding shows that the accident was unavoidable, and that fact absolves Mr. Lipman from responsibility.

Days are again slipping by without any progress worth mentioning being made on the construction of the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway. However, in the interest of C. A. Haggerty, the contractor, a bond has been filed to cover some claims for which attachments were placed on equipment a few days since, and the hope is that the work will be in full swing again in the immediate future.

Officials of the town will be engaged on Saturday next in examining the qualifications of those who wish to be made voters. The process of entering the electorate is neither as complicated nor trying as many of the candidates believe, and at the request of one interested in seeing as many new voters made as possible, it may be stated that the questions asked are very few and not at all difficult to answer. In addition the process of admission includes little more, ordinarily, than reading a paragraph or two, from sections of the general statutes of Connecticut.

Today J. Carl Witter acted as starter of the races at the Woodstock fair, the first of the county agricultural shows of the present season.

Sidney S. Stone, one of the veteran contractors of Danielson, was reported seriously ill today.

Daniel A. Smith of Moosup is constructing a small garage on lower Dyer street, where another cottage also is being built for Miss Regina Jarrie of Danielson.

With the nominations all made, the only contest forecast for the town election the first Monday in October will be for places on the board of selectmen. Only three of the four candidates can be elected.

Sewer construction recently authorized through a section of Stearns street by the borough is now underway, and the work being done constitutes an additional difficulty for motor traffic negotiating the route.

Numbers of Danielson people motored to Woodstock today to attend the annual agricultural show, a feature in that territory for nearly 60 years.

Further shipments of ornamental stone for the new Brooklyn Savings bank building arrived here today. The structure is now so far advanced that it will be closed in soon.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer summoned additional Killingly jurors to appear at Willimantic this morning against the possibility of the first panel of selections being exhausted before the Laine-Raymond murder trial jury is completed.

Today applications began to come in to Chief John McFarland of the borough police for the vacancy caused in the department by the resignation of Night Officer John Gebert.

In protecting a right of way, M. H. Berthiaume has caused posts to be placed in a short stretch of street running from School to Furnace street, blocking traffic over a route in use for many years. Recent developments forced Mr. Berthiaume to take the action he has to protect valuable property interests in that section.

At the Killingly end of the Quinebaug bridge a sign has been put in place advising that the best route for motorists traveling to Willimantic and Hartford is via Wauregan and Brooklyn. This is incident to construction work that has left sections of the Danielson-Brooklyn route in torn up condition.

Men in the carpentry department of the Quinebaug mills were today tearing down the last of the old sheds in the two villages of the big mill company on the West Side. During the course of the last several years the company has replaced all the old sheds with new ones, and the work is about to be completed.

At Kurn-Along-Inn last evening Miss Malvina Cote and Miss Lena Bonneau, both of Danielson, were awarded silver loving cups in a blonde beauty contest.

George A. Williams of Dayville is being mentioned among those who may be candidates for the republican nominations for representatives from the town of Killingly in the November election.

PUTNAM

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT OPENING OF WOODSTOCK FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 12—Fair day in Woodstock opened this morning in its array of colors, exhibits, venders, agricultural products, poultry and cattle. This year's display was one of the largest and probably the most costly in the history of the Woodstock Agricultural society, yet the crowds common in past years was not represented because of clouded skies and the threatening rain.

The large exhibit hall was filled mostly with displays of Connecticut grown vegetables, fruit and was beautifully adorned with a center showing of flowers, raised in Woodstock gardens. The Connecticut department of agriculture held the interests of poultry raisers with their display of graded eggs. A representative of the department was present demonstrating several scienic instruments used in the methods of sorting the eggs so the farmers may secure the greatest financial return from the product. A goodly part of the auditorium was devoted to a handicraft exhibit arranged by the ladies of the Senexet Grange.

The Connecticut motor vehicle department occupied a part of the hall. Their exhibit was most simple, yet proved interesting to hundreds who watched. Miss Ethel Usher and George Keane, employes of the department conceived the idea of demonstrating a signal recommended by officials of the department.

Several cattle blue ribbons were awarded Woodstock owners because of their excellent herds.

The horse races were attended by the horse lovers and many thrilling races were seen. Musical selections were rendered during the afternoon by the East Woodstock cornet band, whose position was next to the judges' stand on the race tracks.

A novelty event was a boxing match between two juveniles attired in all the paraphenalia of the ring stars. The two five-year olds battled for four rounds before a crowd of nearly four hundred.

The automobile dealers of the county took advantage of the fair as an open air show room and nearly every make of car was on display.

The venders' section was considerably smaller this year than in past years. The Indian Medicine men were not present with their snake oil wares and the large snakes were not present at the showing. Local merchants were represented with their booths, both advertising and selling their stock to the crowds.

An exhibit of especial interest to many was that of the Connecticut board of education for the blind. The booth was decorated with several articles made by the blind inmates of the state institution and attracted much attention from the fair goers. Until late afternon no rain had fallen to drive the crowds away, yet many departed from the grounds at an early hour, to avoid the threatening shower.

This morning Henry A. Wheelock of the Putnam Woolen company was summoned by the county sheriff to appear in Willimantic as a talesman and prospect for the jury that will decide the fate of the "Ice Box" bandits, Arthur G. Raymond and Roland Lalone, alleged slayers of State Trooper Irving H. Nelson.

POLICE DRAIN CANAL IN SEARCH OF BODY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, September 12—The police of the city were summoned last evening to the trench on Canal street, when it was reported that a man's body was in the small canal. Sergeant George H. Liard, acting captain of police investigated the call and called for men with grappling irons to drag the bed of the ditch for the body. The police watched the outlet, during the hours of last evening and until early this morning, while two men towed their irons the entire length of the mill water supply, failing to find any evidence. This morning Sergeant Liard had the mill owners of the Putnam mills company open the flood gates and drain the trench. A search of the bed was made, but no body was found and efforts to disclose how the top coat found on the bank came to be there was abandoned.

Sergeant Liard said this morning that Officer Sponcey found the coat while he was latching doors in the business section on Pomfret street. He gave the alarm and a thorough search was made at night and was continued this morning. The police have given up belief that anyone fell into the canal, but state that the cloak was left there by someone in search of a little excitement.

The city today was flooded with "college boys" working their way through, by the sale of magazines. One report from a previous call by these salesmen said that the housewife accepted the subscription, made a payment and never received copies of the perodical she had partly paid for. Women are warned not to encourage the salesmen.

The weekly noonday luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club was held at the Putnam Inn today. The members were addressed by William Davison of Putnam who spoke on his work as a member of the state board of charities and institutions. Mr. Davison outlined the efforts of the board to bring the various institutions of the state up to highest levels and to afford the inmates the conditions of those outside.

The meeting was presided over by Rev. James F. English, president of the club, who also filled the vacancy of Secretary E. L. Beebe who is away on his vacation.

Night Officer Benoit Durand was on the lookout last evening for two suspicious characters whom railroad men stated were attempting to enter the Putnam News company at an early hour this morning. The conductor and brakeman called the attention of Supt. W. E. Sault at Putnam, to the attempted break, saying that the men scattered as the headlights of the engine focused on them as the train passed. Mr. Sault and Officer Benoit made a search of the property during the early hours of morning but found nothing disturbed.

The selectmen of the town have set next Tuesday evening, September 18, as a date for a special town meeting when the voters will hear a report on the condition of the steel bridge spanning the Quinebaug at Providence street. They will vote as to how the bridge may be repaired. The voters will also be asked as to whether it should be repaired or a new concrete arch bridge built to replace the present unsafe bridge. An appropriation will also be made to carry out the plan of repairing or that of building a new structure. The selectmen will also be given a right to borrow funds and give town notes to meet the expenses incurred, on whatever plan is adopted by the voters for the repair of the bridge.

The plans as outlined in yesterday's Bulletin indicate that both will necessitate annual expenditures of money if they are adopted, although State Engineer Nord in his report to Selectman Warren stated that the second scheme will lengthen the life of the present bridge by 20 years if adopted and will cost about $4,000. The plan of a new concrete arch bridge similar to that on Pomfret street is being considered as the best and most economical way to settle the question of safety at this bridge.

Next Thursday afternoon will find the business and professional men of the city at the state park formerly known as Priest's Island, where they will enjoy an outing and "day off." According to the programme, no female relatives or friends are invited to participate, as the affair will be confined to the male sex and will be held away down in the most secluded part of the wooded island now converted into a state park.

WHY SMALLEST FIREMAN IS GLAD ON 21ST BIRTHDAY

The smallest fireman in the state, 48 inches tall, a smoke eater in the fishing village, Charles Ellis, had a birthday Tuesday. He claims to be the first fellow in the village up in the morning, taking a long walk at 5 o'clock, after his morning's milk at a farm 2 miles from the village, for his coffee and toast. Ellis has reached the age of 21. He says "Now I can vote for smiling Al Smith for president in November!" Eddie Morgan asked Charles did he think Al Smith has a show to win out and get into that chair at the white house. He answered: "It will be close and the south and west are for Smith strong. He will win out there!" Several fellows gave the smallest smoke eater the horse laugh. "Time will tell!", "Here is a joke I heard among the fishermen at the north dock." Eddie Morgan said: "Al Smith said his next dinner he will eat in the white house. He will if Hoover asks him!" Charles received many presents from his friends but he did want a birthday party. He is the happiest fellow in town to be able to vote for Al Smith.

Boat Ethel E, Capt. Elmer Hewitt at the wheel and Mate William Banks with Engineer Walter Palmer came from the fishing grounds, 90 miles, southeast of Block Island on their last sword-fish trip of the season. While the other boats got through hunting for the fish with a sword a few weeks ago, the crew of the Ethel E. got one sword fish that weighed 286 pounds after a hard battle. The fish put the sword up near the small boat but Palmer was in the boat hauling in the mad fish. After a 5 hour battle he had the fish on deck. Capt. Hewitt thinks that the water was too cold for the sword fish and made it vicious. The boat got three barrels of cod-fish, making a good day. Capt. Hewitt and his crew got 40 sword-fish this season and came up with the rest of the Noank fleet. Now taking off the sword fishing rig they will go flat fishing off Block Island.

Eddie Moran has entered Rogers boat yard as painter.

The lobstermen held a meeting at the north dock and decided that the season would close in about two weeks and the pots will be taken in. President O. W. Beebe opened the meeting, listening to the report of last year, telling if the lobstermen have made a cent or not. About 40 per cent. of them are ahead of last year's catch but this season has been the poorest since the day that Capt. E. Francke caught the 22 pound lobster 20 years ago, where an axe had to chop the pot to get it out. Several new boats have been seen in the fleet out in the race. A lot of pots were lost by big steamers going from Boston to New York and cutting them off in the wheel. Capt Earl Potter lost a pot for two months and could not find it. He was dragging and caught the rope in his net and pulled aboard his own lobster pot loaded with 100 rock crabs and 10 lobsters. He thought it was a packing box or Capt. Kidd's gold treasure it was so heavy. It won't be long now till the lobstermen will be hauling up their boats for the winter and will kiss the lobster season goodbye for this season.

Walter Welles has gone to see his uncle, Peter Turner in Durham, Ct.

Lewis Carpenter of Niantic was a caller in the village recently.

Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford, who is spending his vacation in the village, is a former pastor of the Noank Baptist church. He gave a sermon at the church in place of Rev. E. E. Weise who is out of town for a few weeks and a large crowd of church members were standing to the door to hear him.

There was special music by the Noank church orchestra and fine singing.

Edward Jenssen, of New York, is home for a few days' visit.

Are you one of the great majority who won't buy the same kind of car again

FAR above fifty per cent of car owners, when asked in a recent investigation if they intended to buy another car of the same make as their present one, said "NO".

They are the dissatisfied. They know that they are not getting all the motoring pleasure that they might have and so they will turn to something different from what they are now driving.

If you are one of these dissatisfied ones, don't buy a new car until you have tried out a 1929 Reo Flying Cloud, the car that does all things well.

THE PRESIDENT RETURNS

President and Mrs. Coolidge are back in Washington. The vacation season is at an end, or nearly so. They have been spending several week in Wisconsin and return to the capital greatly refreshed from such let up in their official duties as the summer capital, no matter where it is, affords. That they are in better health and rested will be gratifying to the whole country. That is what they went for and that is the goal fixed by most people for a vacation.

Upon getting back to Washington it was characteristic of the president that he should plunge immediately into the work that has piled up while he has been away. It is not to be supposed that governmental affairs have been laid aside completely during his stay in Wisconsin. Such is never the good fortune of a president. No matter where he is spending such time as he can get away from the national capital there are always plenty of routine matters which command and get his attention. His recreation and pleasure are obtained after they have been completed.

President Coolidge has always been a stickler for keeping up with his job. He tackles it early in the morning and sticks by it until done. His day involves a schedule which is by no means easy to follow, and it is inevitable that he should be desirous of picking up such touch with the various departments of the government as has been difficult during the stay in the west.

President Coolidge is the first president to demonstrate that the summer capital can be in western as well as eastern states. That is, it is possible for him to spend his vacation in North Dakota or Wisconsin, or any other of the states in that region and others equally distant provided congress isn't in session and government conditions will permit. It is a move which has permitted him to get in intimate touch with conditions in that part of the country and to permit the people of those states to get a close-up of the president which might not otherwise be possible. It is, however, not a precedent which others must follow.

"SCHOOLHOUSE AHEAD"

We are back once more to that season of the year when the schools are open, when thousands of children are going to them and returning, when they can be expected to be in the streets or highways near the buildings and when as a matter of precaution all drivers of automobiles should reduce their speed and be on the lookout against accidents.

In other words we have returned once more to that season of the year when those frequent signs, "Schoolhouse Ahead," mean something. The vacation season is over and there is no excuse now for not respecting the warning.

This does not mean that there is no degree of responsibility resting on the shoulders of the boys and girls, but it is a well known fact that where children are concerned there is no telling when they will dodge into the road in the course of their play, dangerous though it may be, and create a situation which may mean serious injury or even death. The driver of a vehicle is best prepared to meet such a situation when his machine is under control through reduced speed.

Through instructions which are given at home and to which emphasis is added in the schoolroom, the children are repeatedly warned to keep out of the roads and to look before crossing. Some of them obey such advice to the letter, but others do so only when something else isn't getting their attention. Any one of many childish pranks may send them darting into the road heedless of what may be encountered. The importance of being prepared to deal with such conditions if encountered ought to be appreciated by the motor vehicle driver.

There are those children, however, who take delight in inviting an accident. They yield any part of the road unwillingly, place themselves as near as they think will escape the fenders and jeer at the drivers. Nothing is more tantalizing than such actions especially when from a group of children a few insist in walking to the wrong side of the road directly in the path of the auto.

Children in the street are always a problem and safety lies in so driving at points where they can be expected that accidents will be prevented.

THE WOOD FUND

Excellent was the thought back of the idea of raising a fund of $2,000,000 in memory of General Leonard Wood, the money to be used for the purpose of fighting leprosy. General Wood was particularly interested in this struggle. He was likewise deeply concerned in the Philippines and it is a well known fact that it is on the island of Cullon that one of the greatest efforts is being made for the conquering of this dread disease. There are being treated at the present time 6,000 patients.

There were the days when it was believed there was no cure for a leper. Such is not the case today. They are being cured every year and it is the purpose of this Wood Memorial fund to carry on research in the best methods of producing and using chaulmoogra oil which has done so much against leprosy, to improve the existing hospital facilities at Cullon and the new station to be established at Cebu and to train and maintain a large staff of nurses and doctors to give treatment wherever it is needed. That makes an appeal to those who are interested in suffering humanity.

However much has been accomplished by the use of chaulmoogra oil it is not unreasonable to suppose that improvements can be made and that greater results can be obtained. One of the greatest encouragements for increasing the fight against leprosy has been given through the success already obtained under present methods of treatment and the belief that further research will furnish additional advantages is justified.

That one half of the fund which is considered necessary to meet the requirements of this movement is gratifying. It nevertheless leaves plenty of opportunity for those in the country who are interested and able to see that the remaining million is raised and put to work in such a magnificent humanitarian cause.

Efforts to centralize the work of fighting leprosy should mean that new cases will get that intensive consideration which they need, though this will not mean any let up in the work among the patients who have been much longer afflicted. The Philippine government has many uses for the $2,000,000,000 it appropriates for health work, so much so that it cannot assume the additional burden which the leprosy fight calls for. It is a cause, however, in which widespread interest should be manifested in this country.

RASKOB AND MAINE

At a time when it is being disclosed that Maine never before gave such a majority in a state election preceding a national contest, the statement that was made by Chairman Raskob of the democratic campaign committee is certain to be taken with a generous supply of salt. His endeavor to present an undisturbed front is conspicuously strained. When he says that Maine is a republican state and was expected to go republican, there is no difficulty in agreeing with him. But when he declares the campaign was not conducted on national issues and that it ought to have gone republican by a larger majority he is of course simply fanning the wind.

Maine did what was expected of it in going republican and in going republican by a large majority, but when it did so by more than 80,000 votes, following such efforts as were made by the republicans in putting forth republican policies as they affect the nation, it becomes manifest that the voters of that state could be and had been awakened to the importance of the contest and even without a record vote it was possible to pile up a record majority.

Such an expression is not going to be allowed to pass without due consideration, even on the part of the democrats and Chairman Raskob. It portends too much even in a republican state. Had Maine's majority been no more than it was four years ago, or had it even failed to reach the 50,000 mark, it would have been seized upon by the democrats as evidence that Maine was not enthusiastically republican. The inference then would have been that it was democratically inclined. No such interpretation can be gained from the overwhelming republican vote of Monday.

A FAIR PROPOSITION

Considering the traffic problems of smaller communities it is not surprising that those in New York city loom large. There is a tremendous volume of street traffic to be handled and it is growing each year. Bridges have been built, tunnels have been constructed and ferries are in operation and yet there is need for greater relief from the congestion.

The expense of meeting such a situation is equally as big as the problem. Huge outlays have been made and more are in the offing. Something must be done and it is quite natural that thoughts should be turned to the placing of tolls on whatever construction is resorted to in order to meet the expense. It is a case of giving accommodation to those seeking it. They must pay if they use the ferries, they must pay if they use the tube and it is fully understood by the public that it is quite as desirable to pay for facilities which have ben provided for their particular advantage as for any other service.

However much opposition there has been to the old toll bridge, or toll road proposition, those who have waited for ferry accommodations until patience was exhausted, or who have been obliged to drive long distances to get to the same point which permits them to meet the toll which permits them to go on their way without delay.

If New York can reach a quicker solution of its traffic problem by resort to more toll bridges or tubes, relief which would be afforded to the highway users would be gladly obtained through such a method. It would simply be a case where those getting it would be paying for their service. Most people recognize that as fair, especially since tolls under those conditions usually end when construction costs have been met.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: It is hard to live so that everyone will follow in your footsteps.

Those who are waiting to spend their vacations at the world's series begin to realize that it won't be long now.

The democratic view is that they are going to win with ease but that doesn't jibe with the call to boost the campaign fund to five or six million.

When ex-Governor Foss of Massachusetts, a democrat, declares for Hoover possibly there will be some revision of the figures concerning the republican majority in the Bay state.

SHE KNEW WHAT SHE WANTED.

This is a story about a highly improbable coincidence, whereby a stenographer named Nellie, who was unusual enough to know what she wanted, got just that. Improbable coincidences are improper in fiction, but they sometimes make quite juicy bits when they happen in real life.

On Monday Nellie discovered a place where she could get just the kind of permanent wave she wanted in exchange for a scrap of paper with the figure "20" on it and some remarks about the treasury of the United States.

On Tuesday Nellie looked at herself in the glass and fairly yearned for that wave. The screen actress she most admired had one. It was the perfecting touch necessary to make her beautiful, to put her, as she expressed it, "on top of the world." But the three scraps of paper she had left over from last week's pay check only had figure "18" on them and there were the rent and a lot of other prosaic details.

On Wednesday Nellie knew that she had never in her life wanted anything quite as much as she wanted that wave. Her hair, she decided, looked "simply frightful," with the accent on the "fright." Susan

MOLINARO PROPERTY SALE ADVANCED TO OCTOBER

The date of sale of property belonging to Maria and Fortunato Molinaro at 129 Thames street in this city has been set ahead from Sept. 17 to Oct. 8, at 11 a. m. by Judge Charles E. Waller in the court of common pleas to satisfy a judgment lien for $630.85 in favor of Attys. Max Boyer and Arthur T. Keefe for counsel fees due.

Mrs. Molinaro is now in jail awaiting trial in the superior court for criminal libel, while the police are seeking her husband on a similar charge.

Last January the attorneys, through their counsel, Harry C. Brogan, obtained the judgment. It was for counsel fees, alleged to be due the attorneys for representing the Molinaros in superior court suits.

Later when the judgment was not satisfied a judgment lien was placed on the property and an action for foreclosure of the judgment lien was filed. In this case, Judge Waller gave judgment and ordered the property sold on Sept. 17, appointing John A. Moran of Norwich a committee of sale and Attys. John H. Walker, Hibbard R. Norman, and John R. Tarrant, appraisers.

Meantime the Molinaros obtained other counsel and the attorneys attempted to agree on the matter and did agree to settle the matter without sale of the property. Monday in the common pleas court session in this city the matter again came into court with the result that Judge Waller has set the date of sale ahead to Oct. 8 retaining the same committee of sale and same appraisers.

WEST WILLINGTON PEN LEADING AT STORRS

Out of a possible lay of 310 eggs for the month of August George Lowry's pen of White Leghorns from West Willington, Conn., laid 272 eggs. This Connecticut bred pen produced at a rate of better than 88 per cent. At the end of ten months Lowry's pen is within 88 eggs of the total score made by Hollywood's pen from Woodinville, Wash., the winning pen of last year's contest. This is the sixth consecutive month the entry of George Lowry has succeeded in making the best score.

It is to be expected that production will ease off from now until the end of the contest. The total production for the month for all breeds was 20,807 eggs or a yield of 41.9 per cent. This figure represents a loss of 3,762 eggs when compared with last month's total. The contest birds have produced a grand total of 235,692 eggs in ten months or an average of better than 168 eggs per bird.

Changes Among the Leaders.

An error in compiling the records was responsible for not having given the Barred Rock pen owned by Kerr Chickeries, Inc., of Frenchtown, N. J. third place last month.

Only two changes were noted amongst the leaders during the month of August. The pen of Barred Rocks owned by Kerr Chickeries, Inc., of Frenchtown, N. J. has relegated the pen owned by R. W. Bishop of Guilford, Conn. to third place. A pen of White Leghorns owned by George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich. has displaced a pen of the same breed owned by Hansen's Leghorn Farm of Corvallis, Wash.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY IN JEREMIAH BRENNAN DEATH

Sorrow brought to Mrs. Dennis Bowen of Central avenue last week Wednesday by the report that her brother, Jeremiah C. Brennan, had been killed when strick by an express train at Reading, Penn., has bee nturned to a different feeling since the body has been brought here to a Norwich undertaker's rooms and it has been pretty definitely decided that it is not the body of her brother. The body has now been sent back to Reading.

One of the peculiar facts about the case is that the clothes sent here from Reading appear to be those of Jeremiah Brennan, but a nephew who has seen the body declares positively it is not that of his uncle, and one of the facts which seem to establish that it is a case of mistaken identity is the peculiar malformation of the fingers on one hand which the relatives of Jeremiah Brennan know he did not have.

JONES HAS CLOSE CALL IN DAY OF UPSETS IN NATIONAL AMATEURS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

BRAEBURN COUNTRY CLUB, Newton, Mass., Sept. 12—(AP)—The downfall of five former American title holders and a close call for King Bobby Jones himself, today furnished a succession of upsets and thrills in the opening rounds of match play of the amateur golf championship.

With his crown hanging in the balance, Jones staged a desperate uphill fight in his second match to outlast R. Ray Gorton, home club veteran, and win by the margin of one up at the 19th hole, after he had easily disposed of the New Jersey champion, J. Wolcott Brown, by a score of 4 and 3 in the morning round.

This victory for Jones, the first extra hole match he has ever played in the title tournament, brought to a spectacular climax a day that saw the defeat of the man regarded as his most dangerous rival, George Von Elm of Detroit, the only man who has beaten Bobby in the last four years of championship play.

Von Elm, eliminated in the first match of the day by Arthur W. (Ducky) Yates of Rochester, N. Y., by 3 and 2, faded out of the title picture along with four other ex-champions—Francis Ouimet, Max Marston, Jess Sweetser and Chick Evans—and the champion of Canada, C. Ross Somerville.

Drizzling rain most of the day beat down on the shattered hopes of these golfing Giants as the field of 32 that started this morning was abruptly cut down to a select group of eight. This array is composed of six Americans, led by Jones, and two British contenders led by their own champion, T. P. (Phil) Perkins. The survivors, in the order in which they will start play tomorrow morning at ten o'clock follow:

Upper Half:

Phil Perkins, Great Britain, vs. John Dawson, Chicago.

Dr. Oscar F. Willing, Portland, Ore., vs. Geo. Voight, New York.

Lower Half:

Phillips Finlay, Boston, vs. Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, St. Paul.

John B. Beck, Great Britain, vs. Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta.

Only a brilliant comeback by Jones, after one of the worst outward nine holes he has ever had in big tournament play, saved the three-time American champion from suffering the same fate that befell Von Elm and other favorites. Where he had played subpar golf in the first round to trim Brown, the Georgian lost six strokes to par and two holes to Gorton out of the first four. Only the fact that the home club star himself was going poorly kept him from running up an overwhelming lead at the time when the champion was so badly off his game.

A birdie 4 wasn't god enough to win for Jones at the tenth where Gorton shot an eagle 3, laying his second shot dead. Bobby squared the match at the twelfth but was down again on the next as Gorton bagged a birdie 4. It took another birdie, a 3 by Jones on the 15th, to again bring about a deadlock that lasted to the deciding hole.

While a huge gallery looked on in the rain, Gorton saved himself on the eighteenth in dramatic fashion, holing an eight foot putt for a half in five after topping his drive into the rough, playing backward and finally reaching the green on his fourth shot. Jones on in three, had a 25 foot putt which he laid dead, partially stymying Gorton. The latter curled his ball around and into the cup to an accompanying din of cheers but this heroic effort was wasted when he sliced his tee shot in the first extra hole into the rough and lost the match.

Von Elm, victim of a first day upset for the second straight year, found an enemy in his putter as well as in Yates. The former champion tossed away what few chances he had on the greens while Yates, playing par golf the most of the way, took a lead of 3 up at the turn and settled the issue on the sixteenth green. The Rochester star's success was sensational but short lived for he was put out in the second round by the British champion, Phil Perkins, 2 and 1.

Perkins himself, had a close call from elimination in the first round, winning the longest match of the day when he went to the twenty-second hole to beat youthful Donald K. Moe of Portland, Ore., one up.

George Voigt of New York, the medalist, continued his sensational golf at the expense of Jess Sweetser, whom he beat, 3 and 2, in the second round, after disposing of Billy McPhail of Norfolk, Mass., by the same score, in the morning.

Voigts faces another severe test, however, tomorrow when he meets Dr. Willing, who exhibited the most sensationally consistent golf of the day. The Portland, Ore., dentist, continuing the great pace that he set to qualify yesterday, trounced the southern champion, Watts Gunn of Atlanta, 4 and 3 in the first round and then overwhelmed the British star, Eustace F. Storey, in the second round 6 and 4.

Dr. Willing was in astonishing and virtually unbeatable form breaking the resistance of his opponents in both rounds by negotiating the outward nine holes in 34, one under par. Altogether he was three under par in the morning round for 15 holes and one under par for 14 holes in the afternoon—a total of 29 holes in four under perfect figures. Gunn cracked under this pace after himself going the first nine in 35 and, holding Dr. Willing to a one hole margin, Storey wilted quicker.

Ouimet's defeat by Phillips Finlay, his Boston fellow townsman, was one of the most astonishing of the first round, for the former champion stood 4 up at the eighth, and looked a certain winner, only to collapse on the homeward route. While Ouimet was completely losing control of his shots, Finlay squared the match at the 15th, took the lead on the 17th and ended 2 up on the home green. Finlay had no trouble disposing of John D. Ames of Chicago, in the afternoon, 5 and 4.

Chick Evans, 1927 runner up, fell in the first round before his fellow townsman, John Dawson, who had to equal the tournament record of 71, one under par, to beat the veteran 2 and 1. Dawson went on in the second round to beat Fred Wright, Jr., of Boston, 3 and 2.

Ross Somerville, the Canadian champion got safely through the first round at the expense of the western champion, Frank Dolp of Portland, Ore., by a margin of 2 and 1 but the Dominion star lost one down to John Beck, in the afternoon.

Johnston completed the third round brackets with two victories over New England youths, beating T. Suffern Tailor, Jr., of Newport, R. I., in the first round, 2 and 1, and eliminating George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Maplewood, N. H., in the next, 3 and 2.

MANY LOCAL ATHLETES LEAVING FOR COLLEGE

Norwich, in general, and Norwich Free Academy, in particular, again sends forth its sons to the colleges of the land within the next few days and a decidedly large number of these will strive for honors in the athletic world at their schools.

The class at N. F. A. probably leads the list of prominent athletes who are entering colleges this fall. The championship teams at the local school during their past four years have emptied many from the latest list of alumni into other halls and classrooms. Most of the large colleges in the east will have visits from former athletic stars of the Academy this fall.

Jarvis- Greene Head List

Heading the list without doubt are the "baseball twins," Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene. Jarvis enrolls at Holy Cross while Greene takes up his studies, also in the Bay State, at Boston university. Each has made his greatest reputation in baseball but Lloyd was also a basketball star while Johnny scintillated in football and track, but it is doubtful if such promising baseball prospects as these boys will be allowed to compete in other sports.

Mace Goldblatt, captain of the state championship team that the Academy had last spring, goes to William and Mary college in Williamsburg, Virginia, along with Steffy Cimikoski, a graduate in 1927 and another baseball luminary. Both have already left for school, stopping in New York for the Yankees-Athletics series. Another local boy enrolled at this school is Sam Wilcox, entering his junior year who last spring captained the first golf team that has been known there.

Billy Tirrell, a prominent football and baseball player at the Academy in his last two years, enters Wesleyan while Joe Viau, basketball and Tom Vithano, and "Blub" Shea, football, are all going to Holy Cross with Lloyd Jarvis. Jim Kelly, basketball, football and track, and Ed Brewer, baseball and football, go to Niagara university. So much for the latest graduates at N. F. A.

There are others who have already earned their spurs in college sport who will return to do more battling.

Pheno Tombari and Marty Gilman, the former, baseball and football, and the latter football, enter their junior and senior years, respectively Conn. Agricultural college. Jim Moore, track, Jim Williams, Fred Schwartz, Charlie Hagberg, Sam Schliefer, all football, are others returning to the state college. Dan Polsky goes to Brown with extra bright chances for a regular job on the varsity eleven this fall while Red Fidell is already at camp with Polsky, striving for a position on this team.

The list may not be complete but as far as we can recall at present, it lists those who will carry Norwich and N. F. A.'s name onto college campuses for the next ten months.

JOE FABER TO PLAY WITH TAFTVILLE A. A.

Joe Faber, local ball tosser who started the season with the Montreal club of the International league and then was sent back to the York, Pa., club with which he had played for several years, is to be in the Taftville A. A. lineup against the House of David team on Saturday. Faber will play with Taftville during the J. B. Martin series which starts on Sunday. As everyone knows Joe is a smart ball player and his work in the Taftville-Riverview series last season was one of the highlights of the games. Faber is slated to play at short with Mondi Normandin at second.

ONLY TWO FRENCH STARS LEFT IN TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12—(AP)—American tennis stars rose in their might today and defeated the formidable French contenders for the United States national singles championship in three out of five great battles.

Of the five Frenchmen who started play in the third round this afternoon, only two advanced to the semi-finals, Henri Cochet, the favorite for the championship, and Jacques Brugnon. Jean Borotra, third of this noted triumvirate, fell by the way side along with the "tennis kids" of the tri-color, Chritian Boussus and Rene de Buzelet.

Outstanding heroes of the epoch making battles along the Franco-American front were that substantial citizen and newspaper owner, of New Rochelle, N. Y., Francis T. Hunter, and handsome young Frits Mercur, former star of the Lehigh university tennis team and now a vendor of insurance.

Hunter's slugging racket, dealing out vicious drives which actually kicked divots out of the turf, sent Borotra, the "bounding Basque" toppling down to defeat by the eloquent scores of 0-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

Fully as heroic if not so successful was the part played by Mercur, when in the fading light of dusk, he battled the one and only Cochet, stroke for stroke before he finally succumbed to the genius of the marvelous French shot maker. Coming from behind, Cochet won by scores of 4-6, 11-9, 6-4, 6-4.

LUCY-DEVLIN BOUT TOPS ALL-STAR CARD AT NEW LONDON ARENA TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S CARD

Main Bout, 10 Rounds
Hughie Devlin of New Bedford vs. Pete Lucy of Bridgeport

Semi-final, 8 Rounds
Joey Duggan of New London vs. Al Gillette of New Bedford

Semi-final, 6 Rounds
Spike Moreno of New Haven vs. Johnnie Bedell of New Bedford

Preliminary, 6 Rounds
Tommy McCarthy of Norwich vs. Rene Lubear of New Haven

Curtain Raiser, 4 Rounds
Sailor Oster of the U. S. C. G. vs. Jimmie Brown of New Haven

Boxing fans who love to hear the spat of leather gloves on well conditioned bodies know that the above card means action, and plenty of it. For real fast boxing there is no better class than the bantamweights and four of these little fighting machines appear on the card—Hughie Devlin, Pete Lucy, Joey Duggan and Al Gillette. Devlin and Lucy hook up in the ten-round main go with Duggan and Gillette furnishing the amusement in an eight-round semi-final. These two bouts are both return engagements, Devlin having beaten Lucy to a decision last spring and Gillette having won a technical knockout over Duggan. Both Lucy and Duggan are out to even matters and plenty of gloves will fly during the 18 rounds of fighting.

Johnnie Bedell, another New Bedford youngster, is slated to take on the rough and tough little New Haven battler, Spike Moreno, in the other eight-round attraction. Moreno must make 118 pounds for Bedell and yesterday he was balancing the beam slightly under this figure. At 118 Moreno is at his best weight and can make any of the boys in his division put on steam to win.

Norwich interest is centered in the six-round preliminary when Tommy McCarthy, local featherweight matches punches with Rene Lubear of New Haven. McCarthy has shown decided improvement during the past few months under the tutelege of Joe Connelly and can handle himself in the ring with more confidence than he did last winter. McCarthy, however, meets a hard boy in Lubear and the fight should be well worth seeing.

The opener finds Sailor Oster of the Coast Guard taking on Jimmie Brown of New Haven in four rounds. This is the only heavy bout on the card the boys being in the 155 class.

The winner of the Duggan-Gillette bout will be given a chance at Harry Goldstein the New England bantamweight title holder, if Promoter Fakourey can get Goldstein's signature on a cotnract. The winner of the Devlin-Lucy bout is slated for a bout with Al Beauregard in the near future.

Promoter Fakourey as usual has arranged to reserve a section for the Norwich fans and tickets may be had by asking for the Norwich seats.

ORGANIZING EIGHT TEAM BOWLING LEAGUE HERE

Claude Combles, Chip Dugas and Mike Morin, leaders of the bowling establishments in Norwich and Taftville are planning to organize an eight team bowling league in the eastern part of the state. It is proposed to have teams representing the Aetna alleys, Palace alleys, Taftville, Jewett City, Plainfield, Danielson, Moosup and the state hospital. The teams will be of the five man calibre. It is expected to open the league on Oct. 1st.

McGraw-Kaplan Bout Postponed

HARTFORD, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Phil McGraw-Kid Kaplan bout slated for the local ball park tonight, was postponed because of threatening weather. The fight will be staged tomorrow night.

CLARK AGAIN PITCHES ROBINS TO VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1—(AP)—Watson Clark, Brooklyn southpaw pitcher, sent the Robins a little further along the road to the .500 average for the season that is their aim by turning in his second victory in three days over the Phillies today. The scores was 6 to 1.

The Mississippi portsider limited the Phils to five hits, all of which came in three innings. This gives him a record of 12 hits and three runs in two victories here.

Brooklyn laced the offerings of Ray Benge, Philly ace, for 8 hits and 5 runs in the first two innings before he was taken from the box. Walsh followed him and stopped the Brooklyn scoring until he gave way for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Bob McGraw finished the game and was touched for four successive singles which netted one run in the ninth inning before Flowers fanned with the bases full. The Robins collected 17 hits, four of them including the only one that went for extra bases going to Herman. The three Philadelphia pitchers went through the game without issuing a pass.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR SERIES TO BE MADE MONDAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Plans for the world series will be completed on Monday when President E. S. Barnard of the American League and President John A. Heydler of the National league meet with representatives of the pennant contending clubs of each circuit in New York at the call of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The rules call for the opening of the series in the park of the club winning the American League pennant but the dates remain to be set. The tentative schedule opens the series October 3 with another game in the American league park on the fourth.

Should Chicago or St. Louis win the National league pennant there will be an off day for travelling with the series being resumed in one of the two cities on October 6 and continuing for three days, the last two games, if necessary, will be played in the American league club's park.

If the New York Giants, Cincinnati or Pittsburg come through in the National league race the series will be resumed in the National league park on October 5.

Commissioner Landis has issued invitations to representatives of the New York and Philadelphia clubs of the American league and the St. Louis, Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati clubs of the National circuit to attend the meeting.

CARDS CLOSE HOME SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER REDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12—(AP)—Despite the fact that they were out hit 7 to 5, the St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead in the National league to three full games in the last home game of the season.

A walk, a single and a sacrifice in the opening stanza enabled the Reds to get their only score of the game, while the Cardinals collected their counters in the fourth when a walk, a balk, two singles and a stolen base were transformed into runs.

The New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs, leading contenders for the pennant, were idle. Score:

PITTSFIELD CLINCHES SECOND PLACE IN EASTERN LOOP

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 12—(AP)—Pittsfield won two games from Bridgeport here this afternoon making ten successive wins for Manager John Collins' club, which today clinched second place in the Eastern league race.

Joe Cascarella registered his 17th victory of the season in the first game shutting out the bears two to nothing. Cascarella batted in one of Pittsfield's runs and Wilkie the other in this contest. Bishop also twirled well for the visitors.

Pittsfield took the second game, 7 to 5.

Cubs Buy Moore

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—The purchase of John Moore, 22 year old outfielder of the Reading club of the International league, by the Chicago Cubs was announced today.

Moore is hitting .326 in the international circuit and is leading the league in triples with 14. He will report to the Cubs at Boston Saturday.

Wineapple Not to Play Football

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12—(AP)—Major league baseball scouts who have been eagerly seeking the services of Eddie Wineapple, star twirler of the championship Providence college nine of last spring will breathe easier, as the result of the decision of the Dominican southpaw not to play football this fall.

Bootleggers are paying a big part of Wisconsin's bill for maintaining the public school system. R. W. Dixon, state prohibition commissioner, made this revelation when he reported that fines from liquor law violations had turned more than $2,500,000 into the school fund during the last eight years.

DOUBLE BILL AT TAFTVILLE SUNDAY

Manager Fred Eribeck of the J. B. Martin club has arranged a double attraction for the fans of Norwich on Sunday when the American League Junior team plays the Holy Name team of Jewett City preceding the first game of the J. B. Martin-Taftville A. A. series.

The Junior game will go on at 1:30 o'clock while the big game will start at 3:15 o'clock. The junior game should be fully as interesting as the major attraction for these two young teams are evenly matched and play some mighty fine baseball. Last Sunday at Jewett City the Legion Juniors played a tight game in which the Taftville team lost by a 1 to 0 score. The game was a pitching battle between Sammy Raymond and Bernal of the Jewett City team. The Junior League champions are out to even up for this defeat and a fast game can be expected.

The major attraction is bound to furnish plenty of good baseball as both teams are at the present time playing brilliant ball. Taftville has signed Joe Faber for the series while Manager Eribeck is negotiating for the services of several well known ball players. More about the lineups of the clubs will be announced later in the week.

YANKS FALL BEFORE ATHLETICS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Professor Cornelius McGillicuddy marched solemnly about the premises of Jacob Ruppert this afternoon gathering up the bits of wreckage. In them he found one practically unused ball game, which he promptly appropriated by a score of 4 to 3 over vigorous and sustained protest by the Yankees. The Athletics so escaped from the Bronx with one victory in four engagements, and vanished into the west trailing the champions by one and one-half games.

The battle moved through almost eight innings as a pitcher's duel between Waite Hoyt and Howard Ehmke, and then developed quickly into a contest of strategy between Messrs Huggins and McGillicuddy. The winning blow was Max Bishop's home run with two out and none on base in the ninth. This smash over Babe Ruth's head into the right field seats brgke a 3 to 3 tie in favor of the Macks and so unnerved Hoyt that he turned the reins over a moment later to George Pipgras.

The veteran Ehmke, battered and beaten in almost all of his recent starts, pitched magnificent ball against the champions until he wrenched his knee in delivering the ball to Tony Lazzeri in the eighth. The tall, right hander so injured himself that he had to give way to Oswald Orwoll with two out, the A's one run ahead and the bases full of Yankees.

Orwoll was no part of the blonde dragon of last Saturday in Boston. He promptly passed Lazzeri to force home the tying run, and then worked the count to three and two on Mike Gazella before finally retiring the Yankee third baseman on a high fly to Haas.

Such antics were very trying upon the nerves of Connie Mack, already sorely taxed and Walberg was found in the center of the diamond in the ninth to defend the new margin the Macks had built up with Bishop's home run. The Rube passed Collins for a starter, giving the 40,000 fans, something to yell about, but settled to his task and retired the next three men without incident.

Although Ehmke gave the Yankees ten hits in the seven and two-thirds innings he worked, he fanned six and so scattered the drives that he seldom was in trouble. Three Athletic double plays came in handy in blocking just that many incipient Yankee rallies, although Hoyt batted in a run while hitting into a double kill in the fifth.

The champions started the scoring with one in the third by bunching two singles with a pass and a force out, but the A's came back with two in the fourth and would have had more but for some dense base running by Al Simmons.

Cochrane doubled and Al walked, only to be trapped off first a moment later on Bengough's snap throw to Lazzeri who sneaked over to the bag as Gehrig moved to for an expected bunt. As a result Cochrane was forced off second and run down, and Simmons was lucky to get safely back to first.

Singles by Foxx and Dykes and a sacrifice fly by Miller followed immediately, sending two runs across the plate, the second made possible by Combs' wild return of Miller's sacrifice.

A pass to Robertson, Bengough's single and Hoyt's smash into a double play put the Yanks on even footing again in the fifth, but the seventh saw the A's jump ahead once more on singles by Boley, Bishop and Haas.

The eighth inning crisis which the Athletics weathered just when it seemed they were sending another game to the bow-wows, began harmlessly enough. Combs singled to Boley, but died trying to make third on Koenig's smash into left for a base. Gehrig obliged with a strike-out and Connie ordered Ruth passed. Meusel next was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were filled. The fans, now with the Yanks, yelled madly for a base hit as Lazzeri marched to the plate. Ehmke seemed to take an extra step forward in delivering the ball to Tony and apparently wrenched his right knee. After a long consultation in the middle of the diamond among members of Prof. Mack's board of strategy, Orwoll was called into action.

The pennant trail remains long and hard for the Mackmen, but they have at least a chance after winning this last battle with the Yankees. The runners-up have 13 games in the west and must win eleven of these to take the flag if the rejuvenated champions do so well as to register ten victories in their 15 skirmishes along the western front.

Such respective performances would give Connie the pennant by half a game. The half game factor will remain until the end as the Athletics have one Boston game permanently washed from the schedule, while the Yanks will play the full 15, barring future rains.

GREAT VARIETY OF EXHIBITS AT THE FAIR IN KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 12—Cloudy and generally unfavorable weather marked the opening today, the first in the series of four days of Washington County Agricultural fair at Kingston. Beginning at daylight exhibitors were on their way to the fair grounds for a final touch to their entries, that the judges might not be delayed in reporting to the superintendents of their various department at 11 a. m. Never has the Midway been crowded with so many shows and exhibits and the cattle barns, even on the first day, were filled, also almost all the old exhibition stalls on the east side of the fairgrounds.

The card of afternoon races had an added event for 2-year-olds besides the regular announced races for two two-year-old divisions and one three-year-old division of the Yankee Stakes. The management had set the day apart as "New England Breeders' Day." There are 10 stake races and two class events on the four-day program. There will be races da"y.

Race Secretary Andy Hazard announced the officials as Edgar F. Power of Boston, starter; George W. McKenna of Providence, presiding judge; William J. Pearson, Providence, James R. Jenkins, Edgewood and Frank Browning, Narragansett, associated judges and timers. One of the features for the horsemen today was a clambake attended by members and friends of the Trotting Horse Breeders of New England. After dinner there was a general discussion on the breeding of colts in this section.

President Henry D. Bailey stated that those who attend the fair this season in the evening will have an opportunity to visit every building on the grounds. This has been made possible by the installation of electric lights in every building.

ANEMIC BOY GAINS 11½ POUNDS

To McCoy Laboratories:

The benefits derived through the use of your Tablets by my oldest son have been so remarkable that I feel obligated to let you know of them.

My son, who is sixteen, due to arduous studies at high school and to a too rapid growth, became thin and pale and did not gain the necessary nourishment from his food until he started to take McCoy's Tablets. In a little over two months he has gained eleven and a half pounds and feels and looks one hundred per cent better than he did before starting to use them.

Several others to whom I have told this story have used your Tablets with almost equally as good results and I have no hesitancy in recommending their use to anybody in need of a good tonic and body builder.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 50c boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two $1 boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co. or any drug store in America.

EAST LYME MILKMAN SHOOTS AT HOLD-UP MAN IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 12—Negro bandits, believed to be of the novice type, attempted to hold up and rob Theodore Goodrich, East Lyme milkman early this morning, when they stopped Goodrich as he was delivering milk on the outskirts of the city. Goodrich fought off the crooks and one of them was shot; for the milkman opened fire on the crook who, it is believed was seriously wounded, although he escaped with his confederate. The police of the surrounding cities, as well as the state police, Groton barracks and Hartford, have been requested to be on the lookout for the Negroes, although Goodrich could give but a meagre description of the holdup men. It is believed that the crook shot will be apprehended, especially if he seeks medical treatment at a hospital or the office of a physician in this vicinity for all hospitals and physicians have been notified. The detective bureau was engaged throughout the day in a check-up of all New London Negroes with a police record, as well as those who are considered of the criminal type.

Goodrich arrived on Fitch avenue to make his delivery of milk about 5:30 and as he drove through the thoroughfare, the car was approached by the gunmen, one of whom wore a dark handkerchief over his face, two holes having been cut in the handkerchief for eyes. The masked crook jumped to the running board and leveling a revolver at Goodrich's head, called twice, "Hold 'em up Buddy." Instead of holding up his hands as commanded Goodrich struck the bandit's uplifted hand and at the same time pulled out his own revolver, firing three or four shots. One of the shots undoubtedly took effect, for the crook leaped from the car and fled, joining his companion, who, it is believed, entered their automobile, a touring car that was parked about a hundred feet from the location of the holdup. Goodrich drove to New London where he reported the holdup at police headquarters. Patrolman Harry Watterson accompanied Goodrich back to the site of the attempted holdup. Automobile tracks showed where Goodrich's car was stopped and from that point to where the bandit's car had been parked was a stream of blood, which was not found after the tracks of the parked auto were revealed leaving the side of the road. Officer Watterson making his report at police headquarters, the officer and Automobile Patrol Officer Albert Iverson made a tour of the countryside in search of the bandits. The Willimantic police, which department is equipped with a broadcasting instrument was asked to send out an alarm. Goodrich was held up about a year ago and then too, was successful in beating off the crooks, which fact caused him to arm himself with a revolver.

THREE PRISONERS TAKEN FOR WETHERSFIELD TERMS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 12—Three prisoners, who were convicted at the criminal term of the superior court just ended at Norwich, started their respective terms of servitude today when they were taken to the state's prison at Wethersfield by Sheriff Sidney A. Brown. Two of the prisoners were from New London. Stephen Huval, submarine base sailor, was sentenced to not less than one nor more than three years for automobile theft. Huval, with Stephen Burka, another sailor and Richard Glidden, formerly of Groton, now of Narragansett Pier, were implicated in a wholesale theft of automobiles, besides purchasing autos that had been stolen and then selling them. Burka was sentenced to nine months in jail and Glidden's case was continued until the next term of court. The other New Londoner is Charles Grady, formerly of Main street and at the time of his arrest proprietor of a general store at Montville. He received an indeterminate sentence of not less than one, nor more than two years on a charge of statutory burglary. Grady burglarized the jewelry store of A. J. Preston, Thames street, Groton, and the Groton Hardware company. Much of the loot taken from the stores was found in a clump of bushes in the rear of stores. It was believed that Grady, who formerly was employed at the jewelry store, intended to transfer the loot to the Montville store and make it a part of its stock. The third prisoner is Edward Haskell, Norwich, convicted of living off the earnings of a prostitute and who was sentenced to not less than three and one-half years nor more than five years. Haskell's conviction resulted when it was disclosed that he accepted a part of the earnings of his wife.

The condition of Councilor Edward L. Streeter, Jr., 581 Ocean avenue, who was admitted to Home Memorial hospital yesterday, suffering from a throat affection was reported as being somewhat improved today.

So easy, and sure! The chart told her just what foods could be cooked at the same time, with the same amount of heat. It also gave the oven temperature required. She set the HEAT CONTROL—gas did the rest.

GREAT ADVANCE IN STOCK PRICES WAS CHECKED BY PROFIT-TAKING

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—A spectacular advance in stock prices, which carried scores of issues up 1 to 11 points to new high records, was checked by heavy profit taking just before the close of today's market. Final quotations were irregularly higher. So great was the volume of trading that the ticket fell half an hour behind the market in the early afternoon, and never caught up. Total sales were 4,579,100 shares.

A plentiful supply of call money at the renewal rate of 7 1-2 per cent, a series of favorable merger and dividend developments and the establishment of another new low level by sterling exchange, increasing the possibility of gold imports, formed the background for the upward movement. The optimistic tenor of the weekly steel trade reviews and a decline in the daily average of crude oil production last week also had a favorable effect on speculative sentiment.

The opening of the market was one of the wildest ever witnessed in Wall street, particularly in the absence of any unusual overnight development. National Cash Register and Studebaker each opened with blocks of 10,000 shares at new high records. Curtiss jumped 6 points on the first sale, General Motors 5 and Radio 4. The first sale of Briggs Manufacturing was a block of 15,800 shares at 53. Stanley Co., of America, opened with a block of 30,000 shares at 69 3-4, an overnight gain of 10 3-4, just prior to the announcement that control of the company had been acquired by Warner Bros. Pictures, but it sold down to 53 2-4 at the close.

Opening prices, in several cases, proved to be the highest of the day. Loose Wiles Biscuit, for instance, opened 4 points higher at 38 3-4, a new high record, and then sold down to 32 5-8, closing at 33 1-2. Montgomery-Ward opened at 257 and closed at 248, off 9 points net. Commercial Solvents opened at 219 and closed at 210, off 8 points. Allis Chalmers, Fox Film, Greene Cananea, Midland Steel Products preferred, National Tea, Union Carbide, Warner Bros. Pictures "A," and Wright Aeronautical showed net declines of 3 to 6 points.

Buying orders were distributed over a broad list, with leading commission houses reporting a flood of out-of-town orders, particularly from the middle western cities. New leaders were quickly brought forward by pool managers whenever the old favorites showed signs of wavering. The list of new high records included such popular shares as U. S. Steel common, Republic Steel, American Smelting, Anaconda Copper, Texas Corporation, Johns Manville, Studebaker, Mathieson Alkali, Briggs Manufacturing, Murray Corporation, Corn Products and Detroit Edison. Several others, including General Motors and Chrysler sold close to the year's high levels.

Reports of higher dividends stimulated the demand for the tobacco shares. Tobacco products climbed nearly 6 points on the raising of the annual dividend to $8. Revival of activity and strength in Standard Commercial Tobacco was in anticipation of the declaration of a stock dividend of 10 per cent at the next meeting of directors. United Cigar Stores was again in demand on expectations of an early announcement of the Schulte-United merger plans.

Commodity markets were firmer, but the day's gains were small. Wheat advanced a fraction of a cent a bushel and cotton a few cents a bale.

Establishment of a new low by sterling exchange, with cables on London quoted at $4.85 1-16, was the only development of consequence in the foreign exchange market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Prices showed some hardening tendencies on the bond market in somewhat more active trading today, although there was widespread irregularity as money rates continued high.

Coppers were a strong feature, Andes 7s gaining 2 1-2 points in heavy trading, while Anaconda 7s made a 2-point gain, crossing its previous high. A number of second grade rails also made marked gains, while first grade rails were inclined to heaviness. Industrials were irregular.

Chesapeake & Ohio 5s jumped 3 1-2 points while Erie 4s, St. Louis Southwestern first 4s, and Seaboard Airline 6s, improved a point and more. St. Paul and Rock Island issues were under pressure, and Western Pacific first 5s and Union Pacific 4s sagged fractionally. Susquehanna 5s dropped nearly 2 points.

Utilities were inclined to weakness. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s, a recent strong feature, yielding 2 points in heavy selling, while Pacific Coast Co. 5s went to a new low in a like drop, and Northern States Power 5s, A, fell 2 points. Detroit Edison 5s, however, gained more than a point.

In the industrials, steel issues were generally strong, Central 6s rising 1 1-2 points to a new high, while Bethlehem 7 1-2s, and Gulf States 5 1-2s, were firm. Illinois Steel 4 1-2s, however, sagged nearly a point. CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Reversing the celebrated maneuver of the French king's army, wheat prices marched right down the hill today, and then marched up again. Commission houses and previous speculative sellers of wheat turned to the buying side when values failed to establish a new low record for the season despite official figures indicating a North American surplus big enough to allow 2,000,000 bu export every day in the year. Reports of near famine in the Ukraine district of Russia were a bullish influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8c higher, with corn at 1-8c decline to 1 7-8c advance, oats 1-8 and 1-4c off to 3-8c up, and provisions varying from 5c setback to a rise of 2c.

According to some authorities, the Canadian government crop report, although pointing to the largest yield of wheat ever known in Canada, was not as bearish as many traders had looked for, some predictions of late having been for a total about 25,000,000 bu in excess of the official figures. However with the Canadian government forecast 310,000,000 bu over last year's harvest, selling pressure enough developed here to carry the market down to within 1-8c of the lowest price which December delivery had reached yet this season.

Then rallies set in, with the upturns owing in some degree to word of heavy rains likely to cause delay to movement of domestic spring wheat northwest.

In addition to late reports that Russia would be forced to buy foodstuffs on account of distressed conditions in the Ukraine, the fact that the domestic spring wheat movement is not of large proportions attracted increasing notice as the day drew to an end. Trade talk was current to the effect that good wheat is being well taken by mills, and that premiums on all kinds of milling wheat show a tendency to harden. Under such circumstances, the market all around went above yesterday's finish and closed at nearly today's top level.

Corn prices hardened up sharply today for September contracts, but deferred deliveries tended to sag. With receipts small here as well as west and southwest, much buying was in evidence on the part of traders short of corn to fill requirements before Oct 1 on the other hand, new crop deliveries were hesitantly affected by official reports that much corn is already out of danger from frost. Oats were steadied by the fact that receipts lacked volume.

Firmness of hog values upheld the provision market.

Bron, chairman, said this trade amounting to $100,000,000 for the first three-quarters of the current fiscal year against $55,000,000 in the same period last year, was playing an important part in the industrialization program of the Soviet Union.

BLACK BASS DISAPPEAR FROM TADPOLE THIS SEASON

With the black bass season drawing to a close, local fishermen are having considerable to say about the apparent disappearance of bass from Tadpole. Long years of fishing in this local pond yielded nothing but bullheads and pickerel. Then, suddenly, during the summer of 1925, fishermen were astonished at the appearance of large mouth black bass in Tadpole. Bull head fishermen, with worms for bait, returned every evening with great strings of bass, whoppers too, running as weighty as 3 pounds.

The summer boat loads of bull heads and plenty of fine pickerel have been taken, but not a sign of bass. No known record tells of bass fry or fingerlings ever being planted in Tadpole pond, yet for one summer in the 75 since the pond was flowed, more than 100 bass were taken from its waters.

A surprise shower was given Mrs. Philip Lamoine of Sylvandale Monday evening at the home of Miss Doris Burr in Lisbon. The A. C. G. club sent a gift, as did the telephone girls of the local exchange. Mrs. Lamoine having been a former employe. Many other gifts were showered upon this recent bride. Games, music and refreshments were pleasant features of the evening. The young women who sent gifts were Misses Isabel Marshall, Bessie Thompson, Mildred Olson, Margaret Gohery, Ruth and Julia Sayles, Mildred and Harriett MacGuggage, Doris Burr, Loretta Alley, Mrs. Tyler Gilbert, Mrs. Beatrice Dominique and Ethel Fiske.

Down in the sandy flats below the Quinebaug railroad bridge, sand knotweed is in bloom, this little area being its only local habitat. Many passers-by on Main street are stopping to admire a bouquet of this little seen and little known local flower. It gives a rosy tinge to the yellow sand as its clean bare stems spread into a slender raceme of tiny rose tinted flowers.

The Woman's Mission Circle of the Baptist church held its September meeting, Mrs. A. M. Brown presided. Nineteen were present. A letter of acknowledgment for couch covers, draperies and curtains for a room in the new dormitory at Mather Industrial school, Beaufort, N. A new map of Africa has been purchased to facilitate the work. Mrs. G. H. Prior had charge of the meeting and gave a short introduction to the book and the map. The chapter covered was "the one on "The African in His Environment" which was divided into two parts, the Country and Its People. Under the first head the great rivers and their barriers to travel, the surface, the water supply, the snow fall, health and vegetation of Africa were described by Miss Ida Foster, Mrs. N. J. Babcock, Mrs. E. A. Gray, Mrs. Lena Hewlitt, Miss Belle Guy and Mrs. E. R. Gardner. The second part was taken up by Mrs. Phebe Gray, Mrs. E. E. Seates, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Miss Ruby Thornton, Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. C. F. Gardner and Mrs. A. M. Brown, who considered the races of Africa, the molding of African destinies, the original African, the uniformity of villages and the ruler of the village, community spirit and occupations. The meeting closed with a poem "Give a Thought to Africa" by Mrs. S. F. Brown.

There was a social hour at the close of the meeting at which Mrs. E. R. Gardner served tea, assisted by Mrs. Swift.

How many Telephones?

WHETHER your home is large or small, it should have enough telephones. The cost of an extension telephone is very little. The convenience is great. If possible, adequate telephones should be planned in advance, and concealed channels made a part of your building plans.

New homes of the larger type may require two or more main lines; or, in the more pretentious establishment, a carefully planned intercommunicating system.

But an extension telephone is important to the small home also,—and can be readily installed after the house is built, if necessary.

KELSEY DESCENDANTS ARE TO MEET IN CLINTON

This week Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15-16, the national association of Kelseys, will meet in Clinton. All of Kelsey blood, or connected by marriage, of whatever name, will be made welcome.

Practically all Kelseys descended from one of the leading "Planters" who helped found the church and settle the town of Clinton in 1667. The Plantation was then called "Hammonasset," and soon after, Killingworth. This William Kelsey, born in Essex county, England, 1608, had 19 grandsons. More than one thousand of the descendants of these have now been located and are being invited.

The schedule of events will include, on Saturday, sight-seeing parties personally conducted, a business session in the afternoon and a grand banquet, with a galaxy of notable speakers in the evening.

Sunday forenoon, a great memorial service in the colonially founded Congregational church, will end the formal parts of the program.

A central committee of 16 eminent names have brought this great convention to pass. They are represented locally by an enthusiastic committee on program and housing, headed by Joseph J. Kelsey of the Kelsey Engineering company. Out-of-state people or any others will be recommended to comfortable rooms with or without board and in every way made welcome.

Among the major objectives—besides good fellowship and renewing of family ties—will be a second volume of the Kelsey Genealogy. Volume one, covering the first four generations in America (about 180 families) is already done and ready for distribution. The preservation of an old homestead, plans for a monument, etc., are also to be taken up.

One of the great moving spirits in this achievement is the committee's secretary, Earle L. Kelsey of Torrington, Conn., backed by Hon. Horatio N. Kelsey of New York and Higganum, Conn., Rev. David S. Kelsey of Hadlyme, Conn., Prof. Erwin B. Kelsey of Yale, George H. Cushman, Chattanooga, Tenn., Raynor W. Kelsey, Haverford, Pa., Mrs. E. P. Houch, Denver, Colo., William A. Kelsey, Washington, D. C., Clarence H. Kelsey, West Orange, N. J., and Judge Frederick L. Wolff of the supreme court of Nebraska.

BECOMES DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE PERSONNEL BUREAU

Miss L. Alice Ramsay of Easthampton, Mass., is entering this week upon her duties as director of the Connecticut college personnel bureau. Miss Ramsay was graduated from Connecticut College for Women in the class of 1923, and later received the M. A. degree from Columbia university. During her four years at Connecticut college, she was the manager of the dining hall as well as postmistress at the sub-station at the college.

Since her graduation from Connecticut college Miss Ramsay has been engaged continuously in Y. W. C. A. work in New London, Brooklyn and New York city, serving in the capacity of girl reserve, membership and social secretary as well as being a teacher of psychology. Miss Ramsay is well known in New London, having served at the association there as girl reserve secretary in 1924-25. As a worker with young people, Miss Ramsay has proved most successful.

The personnel department at Connecticut college is performing a far more important task than many people realize, for through it graduates and undergraduates are kept informed of desirable and promising positions suited to individual training.

The position has previously been held by Miss Agnes Leahy of this city.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A striking contrast to the sudden rise of Janet Gaynor is the case of Margaret Mann, the "60-year old Cinderella." After 12 years of trudging from studio to studio, this woman achieved a feature role when Fox chose her to play Grandma Bernle in the picture "Four Sons." By her outstanding performance she is now firmly established as an actress of the first rank.

This little, white-haired Scotch lady who looks anything but an actress, made her first public appearance as Martha Washington at the San Diego exposition in 1915. She gained the role through answering an advertisement, prompted by the illness of her husband. The fact that she resembled Martha Washington offset her lack of experience and she was hired for the part at a very nominal salary.

Then came the news that Fox Films was to make a screen version of the story "Four Sons," as a super-feature. Dissatisfaction of John Ford, Fox director, with tests of every established character woman in the film colony led to him to explore, as a final resort, the ranks of the extra unknowns. Margaret Mann was among those considered and, as a sixtieth birthday present, she was given the leading part in the production. Once given a chance to show what she could do, this old lady astounded everyone by the way in which she interpreted the part of Grandma Bernle.

In addition to the sixty year old Cinderella "Four Sons" which is coming for an extended run to the Broadway theatre has a notable cast of players new and old who have helped make this picture the outstanding success of the present season. Among them are June Collyer, Charles Morton, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., Ruth Mix, daughter of the famous Tom; Ferdinand Shumann-Heink, son of probably the world's best known and best-loved singer. Archduke Leopold of Austria, Earle Foxe, Albert Gran and August Tollere among others.

Palace Theatre

There will be a happy reunion at the Palace theatre today. The cause for the joyful proceedings is the reunion of Jack Holt in Zane Grey productions produced by Paramount. The picture that heralded this most pleasant combination brought together again was "The Vanishing Pioneer," a story by the famous author of western stories.

As if to celebrate the return of Jack Holt under the Paramount banner, the producers have surrounded the star with an excellent supporting cast. In fact the cast in support to Holt might even be termed all star. There is Sally Blane, an "up and coming" youngster, who is both pretty and adequate for her role; William Powell, the very popular suave villain, in spite of his characterizations of "bad" men, and right along with him is Fred Kohler, he of the sneering face, and a most capable actor. Guy Oliver portrays the role of Miss Blane's father and Roscoe Karns furnishes comedy relief. Marcia Mannon is good as the "apron woman."

However, the really big highlight of the production is the appearance in the first sequences of young Tim Holt, son of the star. It is easy to discern the strain of acting ability running through the Holt family. Young Tim does very well for the time he is permitted to appear before the camera with his illustrious father.

Strand Theatre.

When a producer makes a successful picture the usual thing that occurs is to either make a similar picture or if impossible to do this, they pick out some theme of a similar nature and title it as near as they can. This has recently occurred to that very successful picture that recently closed the Embassy theatre, New York city. The Scarlet Lady with Lya de Putti, Warner Oland and Don Alvarado. Titles with "Scarlet" are being put on pictures by the score but there is only "Scarlet Lady" and that picture will be shown for three days, starting Sunday, Sept. 16 at the Strand theatre. This picture was shown at the Embassy theatre at $2.00 and will be shown at the Strand at popular prices.

We are proud to say we have secured for so early a showing to the theatre-going public of Norwich this stupendous production. It is a vivid and colorful drama of Russia just previous to and following the revolution. The theme is developed from a human interest angle relating the adventures of a prince who loves a girl of the lower classes. The fortunes of the revolution make these two change places and when the girl gets the upper hand she makes life miserable for the prince who she believes has wronged her.

Alan Crossland is responsible for the direction. He has brought to the screen a production that will go down in history as one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

In addition we have Harry Langdon in Saturday Afternoon, a side-splitting comedy and the beautiful colored art classic, Rose of Killarney.

Breed Theatre.

One of the greatest aggregations of character actors ever gathered together for a single picture is seen in First National's "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," which comes to the Breed theatre next week, commencing Sunday.

This is the picturization of John Fox, Jr.'s, great story of the Kentucky Mountains. Richard Barthelmess is starred in the title role, and the people of the story are typical mountaineers of the Civil War days. Only in Hollywood could such a cast be gathered together.

Included in the list of players are Gardner James, the youthful actor who has played so many important roles in the past few years; Victor Potel, famed for his comedy parts; Eulalie Jensen, famous for her characters; Nelson McDowell, whose characterizations are always fine; David Torrence, the splendid actor; Martha Mattox, well-known to screen fans; Mark Hamilton, the long, lean comedian; Walter Lewis, Ralph Yearsley and Bob Milasch, clever character men; Claude Gillingwater, the pompous and skilled actor; Gustav von Seyffertitz, one of the greatest "heavies" in pictures; Walter Rogers, William Bertram and a host of others.

These people fairly live their parts on the screen and were chosen from thousands of available actors and actresses as the best suited for the respective roles.

First National Pictures has given this story a marvelous production, and Alfred Santell never did a finer piece of directing.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" will always be known as one of Barthelmess' greatest pictures, and its coming is awaited with keen interest by theatre goers in this city.

Hupp's August Best on Record

All Hupmobile shipment records for August, in both domestic and foreign business, were smashed last month, according to a statement made by R. S. Cole, general sales manager for the Hupp Motor Car corporation.

August was the seventh consecutive month, Mr. Cole stated, in which shipments during the current year exceeded any corresponding month in Hupmobile history.

Detailed totals show that shipments during the month amounted to 7023 cars. This was 74 per cent greater than the highest total in any previous August—that of 1926 when 4025 cars were shipped—and marked an increase of 4410 cars, or 169 per cent, over the shipments of 2613 cars in August of last year.

Since January 1, 50,457 Hupmobile cars have been shipped, by far the largest total ever recorded in any eight months of the company's history. It is not only an increase of 23,007 cars, or 84 per cent, over shipments for the corresponding period of last year, but Mr. Cole pointed out that it actually exceeded the entire Hupmobile production for the full twelve months of 1927, when 41,150 cars were shipped.

"In eight months time we have shipped 123 per cent of our total production for the year of 1927, and we have still four months to go," said Mr. Cole in announcing the figures.

Activity in domestic business for the month was paralleled by similar increases in business with other countries. Shipments to Canada were the largest ever reached in any August in Hupmobile records and brought the total Canadian shipments thus far in 1928 to 1543 cars, or 339 more than the total reached in the entire 1927 Canadian shipments of 1144 cars.

Similarly, export shipments have registered a heavy gain over August of last year, and over the first eight month period of 1927. Foreign shipments in August numbered 566 cars as compared to 250 in August of last year, a gain of 126 per cent. Export shipments during the first eight months of 1928 totaled 4,087 cars, an increase of 101 per cent over the same period of 1927 when 2,055 cars were exported.

"The enthusiastic welcome which is being extended everywhere to our 1929 Century models has greatly enhanced heavy demand that has been keeping Hupmobile production at record breaking activity throughout the whole of the present year," said Mr. Cole.

Reports from our dealers in every part of the country clearly indicate that the popularity of both the Century Sixes and Eights is greater today than ever before. This is proven by the fact that, in spite of our strenuous efforts to keep pace with the demand by speeding up our production schedules, we were obliged to carry over into September 2300 unfilled orders.

"The current year already stands out as the most successful period in our long history, and what the record breaking figure will be on December is hard to foretell."

WOULD TRAIN SINGING TALENT IN NORWICH

The course in artistic singing which Loretta Higgins is announcing at her home 228 Broadway is of widespread interest to music lovers in the city and vicinity. Miss Higgins is a Norwich girl who achieved notable personal and artistic success in Paris, London, Dublin, Edinburgh and other European cities following her debut in "Louise" and in "Carmen" with the Paris Opera Comique at the International Festival in Zurich, Switzerland. Success in concert, recording and radio work are among her achievements.

At the time of the all star New York production of "The Constant Nymph" Miss Higgins was engaged by Basil Dean the eminent playwright and producer, to train the cast in the music, the score being specially composed by Eugene Goosens. Her work in this connection won widespread and favorable comment in the press and as a result, Miss Higgins continued her work training young singers for their roles in Broadway productions. When interviewed yesterday Miss Higgins said:

"I believe strongly that there is abundant musical talent in Norwich which has never been brought out and I would like to help to develop it. This is my native town which has always shown an interest in my career and I would like to devote such talents as I have to that end. I think community singing and solo singing could be greatly developed here. We have it is true, the splendid Women's City club, but I think much more could be done to teach young people to develop their own talent—often unsuspected, to give pleasure to themselves and to their parents and friends."

New London County Fair

One of the many unique features of the New London county fair to be held at Norwich Sept. 27, 28 and 29 will be an old fiddlers' contest. This contest is being arranged by a special committee of three consisting of H. R. Branche, Dr. Ier J. Manwaring and Daniel Polsky, and the keenest interest is already being manifested by the old boys who are out to win the prize of $50 to be awarded by the judges.

Those who are eligible to enter this old fiddlers' marathon will be residents of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island which will include the members of the Old Fiddlers club of Chepatchet, R. I.

The judges from eastern Connecticut will comprise two of the three upon whose decision the title of champion old fiddler of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island will rest and the committee have been most fortunate in their selection having secured Prof. Ed. Tinkham of Sprague for New London county and Uncle Joe Shippee of Plainfield for Windham county. Mr. Shippee will also be heard in some solo numbers on the splendid old violin which won for him the title of best New England fiddler, $50 in gold and a gold medal at the Albee theatre contest two years ago, at Providence.

The program as agreed upon by the leading old violin players in this contest and upon which the judges will render their decision will be as follows:

Rules governing eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island old fiddlers' contest to be held at the New London county fair at Norwich Friday, Sept. 28th, 1928. In the new dance pavilion commencing at 1.30 p. m. d. s. t.

1. All contestants must be 50 years old or over.
2. Each contestant will be permitted to play five minutes.
3. Each contestant will select his own music (not over three pieces.)
4. The $50 will be divided as follows: $20 first; $15 second; $10 third; $5 fourth.

All those eligible and wishing to enter this championship contest will send their name, address and year of birth to H. R. Branche, chairman, 26 Mohegan road, Norwich, Conn. The society will furnish piano and banjo accompanists and those participating will have the privilege of having either or they may play alone if they so wish.

William A. Spink of the Old Fiddlers club of Rhode Island, and one of the best old time players of that state has assured the committee that his club will be well represented at this contest. This will prove a convention of old fiddlers artists, something never before attempted in eastern Connecticut.

The press will be furnished with a list of all entries together with their address and what their standing or record may be as prize winners, as fast as received. Naturally we shall expect New London county to do its bit. Let all those eligible register without delay.

Grain Co. Leases on Water Street

The Norwich Grain company, with headquarters at North Alhambra, Mass., which was burned out this spring in its Norwich store at 41 Water street, has just leased the adjoining property, the Farnum building at 31-37 Water street, for a term of years. The lease was placed by John A. Moran, the real estate broker, for Bell Bros., who bought the Farnum building by auction a few months ago. The grain company lease is for an initial term of five years with privileges of renewal for a much longer period. Alterations and repairs will be at once undertaken at the building to adapt it to the uses of the grain company.

Morley's Hat Store Located

Morley's hat store, which, for most of its 22 years in Norwich has been located in a store on Franklin square, has now removed to the Shannon corner store on Shetucket street, next to Liggett's, where Patrick J. Morley has an exceptionally well arranged, inviting and attractive place of business, a store 78 feet deep, in which he has installed the latest of shelves, show cases and fixtures to display his excellent line of hats and haberdashery. At the front are the two windows with the most modern arrangement of lights and construction for haberdashery display. In the store all fixtures are completely new, and of quartered oak, with mirrors in the panels of the hat cabinets which provide admirable facilities for this line in which the manufacturers credit him with selling fifty per cent. of the hats sold in Norwich. The shelving is the Grand Rapids interchangeable type and silent salesmen show cases complete the attractive appearance of the store, which for so long has been one of the leaders in the trade in Norwich.

PILES DISAPPEARED RABALM ENDED MY SUFFERING

"About twenty-five years ago I had a successful operation for piles and have never been troubled since until about a month ago when they came on again. My only thought was an operation, but under the circumstances this was impossible owing to the expense. So I delayed and suffered terribly until about two weeks ago I saw an advertisement for Rabalm. The second application gave me relief and after the third day I haven't had them at all, and no pain now—am like a new man." (For obvious reasons, we cannot give here the name of the man who wrote his testimonial. But we will supply his name and address on request. His letter was entirely voluntary and was not solicited by us.)

If you too suffer from piles (hemorrhoids) you also can find relief without an operation by using Rabalm. Buy some today and start using it tonight. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

POETRY

Does the Pearl Know?

Does the pearl know, that in its shade and sheen,
The dreamy rose and tender quivering green,
Are hid the hearts of all the ranging seas,
The Beauty weeps for gifts as fair as these?
Does it desire aught else when its rare blush
Reflects Aurora in the morning's hush,
Encircling all perfection can bestow,
Does the pearl know?

Does the bird know, when, through the waking dawn,
He soaring sees below the silvered lawn,
And weary men who wait to watch the day
Steal o'er the heights where he may wheel and stray?
Can he conceive his life divine to share,
As a free, joyous peer with sun and air,
And pity the sad things that creep below,
Does the bird know?

Does the heart know, when, filled to utter brim,
The least quick throb, a sacrificial hymn
To a great god who scorns the frown of Jove,
That here it finds the awful power of love?
Think you the new-born babe in first wise sleep
Thinks the gift the heavens have bade him keep?
Yet if this be—if all these things are so—
Does the heart know?

—Helen May.

If I Knew

If I knew the box where the smiles were kept,
No matter how large the key
Or strong the bolt, I would try so hard
'Twould open, I know, for me.
Then, over the land and the sea, broadcast,
I'd scatter the smiles to play,
So that careworn people might hold them fast
For many and many a day.

If I knew a box that was large enough
To hold all the frowns I meet,
I would like to gather them every one,
From nursery, school, and street;
Then, folding and holding, I'd pack them in,
And, turning the monster key,
I'd hire a giant to drop the box
To the depths of the deep, deep sea!

Malcolm Wallace and Cora Stevens, of Marlboro, chose the most conspicuous place in Vermont for their wedding, the topmost point of Mt. Mansfield, 4,393 feet above sea level. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. F. Gamble, of Stowe, Vt. The wedding was the culmination of an engagement that took place at the same spot last summer.

A 10 1-2-inch hawksbill sea turtle, which lived through the experience of being swallowed by a huge tiger shark and was rescued when the shark was captured by sailors off Nassau, is being attended for his injuries at the New York aquarium. At the aquarium it was found the turtle's shell had been injured, one flipper hurt and the neck bruised. Jonah, as the turtle has been named, is recovering rapidly.

Just before closing his grocery store at Porterville, Cal., J. S. Smith removed the money from the cash register and wrapped it in a piece of paper preparatory to placing it in the safe. At that moment a belated customer came in to buy some ham. Smith wrapped the ham in paper similar to that containing the money. The next morning when he opened the safe he was greatly concerned to discover two slices of ham. Later the customer returned with $75 worth of "ham" and was rewarded with an extra slice.

While today walruses are practically confined to the little visited arctic seas, within historic times they have been common as far south as the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the recent finding of a skull on Georges Bank, off the coast of Massachusetts, seems to indicate that these mammals came down as far south as northern United States water perhaps no longer than 200 or 300 years ago. This interesting specimen, consisting of the fore part of a walrus skull with the tusks still in place, was recently dredged up by the steam trawler Mariner at a depth of eighty fathoms. Colonel J. M. Andrews has turned the skull over to the Boston Society of Natural History.

FOUR CONNECTICUT MEN IN CANADA HURRICANE

To be witnesses of a hurricane flashing its way through the forest and expecting any minute to have it pick up and carry away the cabin under which they had taken protection from the storm is an experience that will linger in the minds of four eastern Connecticut men to their graves. Such were the conditions and more too, in which Fred and Zu Dugas of Taftville and James Knight and Ernest Dubreuil of Plainfield found themselves at Camp Greenwood two hours after they arrived. The camp is situated near Lake Cypress, forty miles from St. Michaels, Can., the nearest town.

The four men, who have arrived home, reached the camp at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, just two hours before the hurricane started its onslaught in that district. Seeing the storm bearing down upon them, the four sought shelter in the log cabin, where the cylindrical shaped monster could be plainly seen in all its fury. Coming toward them with great rapidity the storm devastated everything in its path, grasping in its fangs huge trees as though they were just so much paper, and dropping them some distance away. Hundreds of trees were uprooted and then other objects were attacked in the same relentless manner. From their position in the log cabin they saw rowboats about 25 feet long, picked up by the hurricane, carried through the air and then cast aside.

All this was very interesting to the party, one of the members said, but at the time they did not realize the position in which they were placed due to the destruction caused by the storm which, incidentally, swept off the roof of the cabin under which they had sought shelter and cast it aside amid hailstones, the size of hen's eggs. There was no rain, but the cyclone in its march across the lake made it appear as such, when it sucked up huge quantities of water and let it fall. The hurricane continued on its irregular course and struck the little town of St Michael's forty miles away, where a survey taken after the storm showed that 590 windows had been broken and considerable property damage laid in its wake.

An inspection of the damage done by the hurricane in the vicinity of the Connecticut men's camping and fishing headquarters showed that it would be almost impossible to make their way through the debris to get to their automobile which was parked two and a half miles away on the road leading to the camp. The machine had been left there on the Tuesday afternoon of the storm because of the poor condition of the road and a bridge and the trip to the camp was made on foot.

The party were compelled to remain at the camp for four days, during which time they existed on the fish caught in the lake and waited patiently for the road, which was completely blocked, to be cleared by the forest rangers. The rangers did not appear and the provisions were becoming low, so on the advice of the Indian guide the party agreed to start out and make their way through the tangled mess. Their supplies were loaded in a canoe and taken down the river by the Indian guide, but in the party's estimation his chances were very slim for a safe arrival.

The Connecticut men struck out for their tedious trip back to the automobile, two and one half miles away, hoping that the hurricane had spared their machine. The first two miles were the hardest, this distance being covered in just four hours, while better time was made on the remaining half mile on foot. Luckily the machine was not damaged by the storm, as it passed about a half mile to the left of the car. All the members of the party arrived back safe to the machine, but on the trip in one of them escaped serious injury when he fell through a hole in a bridge and landed 25 feet below in a soft bed of sand. He came through with a severe shaking up.

Arriving back in Montreal after seven days in fishing and camping at Camp Cypress, Camp Greenwood and Camp Bee, the men were interviewed by a Canadian paper. They had their picture taken, which was printed in the paper along with an item of the harrowing experiences. Fishing in the Canadian waters is excellent, stated one of the party, any quantity of pike weighing from 7 to 8 pounds being caught on the trip. Four pike were caught by the party, each of which was 36 inches long and weighed between 9 and 11 pounds. "I will never forget this trip as long as I live," said a Taftville member of the party.

SPOKE ON CONSTITUTION BEFORE NORWICH ROTARY

In accordance with the request from International Rotary the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club Wednesday noon was devoted to the topic of The Constitution. For this meeting the speaker of the day was Rev. Arthur Wheelock of Willimantic, a member of the Willimantic club. Rev. Mr. Wheelock, who was introduced by Myles F. Standish, chairman of the programme committee for September, dealt largely with the background of the Constitution, the conditions of the colonies just previous to the drafting of the document and the various problems that faced the framers. Rev. Mr. Wheelock said:

It is perhaps difficult for us of this generation to realize that the United States of America came near dying at its birth. Such however is the undoubted fact. With the defeat of the British at Yorktown and the resultant signing of a treaty of peace at Paris it was generally believed that the thirteen colonies were started upon a career of peace and prosperity. "The times that tried mens souls are over" said Thomas Paine. "I haven't only retired from all public employments, but I am retiring within myself," said Washington and added hopefully, "I will move gently down the stream of life until I sleep with my fathers."

These are the words of men who thought that tranquility and progress would be the order of events in the new confederation of the thirteen states. But in these hopes they were destined to be disappointed. The most trying time of all was just beginning. It is not too much to say that the period of five years following the peace of 1783 was the most critical moment in all the history of the American people. The dangers from which we were saved in 1788 were even greater than those from which we were saved in 1865. During the Revolutionary war these 13 independent states had been held together by their fear of a common enemy. But even with war going on the Continental congress had steadily declined in power and in respectability. It was much weaker at the end of the war than at its beginning; and there was every reason to fear that as soon as common pressure was removed the need for concerted action would cease to be felt and the scarcely formed union would break into pieces.

The well nigh fatal weakness of the union was caused by the fear of the creation of a federal government endowed with any real sovereignity. Congress was hardly more than a deliberative body. The greatest defect was the lack of any means on the part of congress of enforcing obedience. Congress could call for troops and for money from the states but should any state prove delinquent in furnishing its quota there were no constitutional means of compelling it to obey the call. Besides all this the states retained the power of laying duties on exports and imports and shared with congress the power of coining money and issuing notes, and this soon caused a condition bordering on anarchy.

It was three compromises that laid the foundations of our federal constitution. The first compromise by conceding equal representation to the states in the senate, enlisted the small states in favor of the new scheme, and by establishing a national system of representation in the lower house, prepared the way for a government that would endure. The second compromise, at the cost of giving disproportionate weight to the slaves states, gained their support. The third compromise at the cost of postponing the abolition of foreign slave trade for 20 years, secured absolute free trade between the states, with the surrender of all control over commerce into the hands of the federal government. After these initial steps had been taken the rest was comparatively easy.

There remained the granting of certain powers to congress such as the sole right to coin money, fix the standards of weights of measures, establish post offices and grant patents. To it alone was naturally entrusted the whole business of war and international relations. There was also the important question as to the federal executive. Many wild ideas were broocheed such as a triple-headed executive, to represent the eastern, middle and southern states. And just there was grave objection to a single executive on the grounds that it might lead to a tyranny. But the arguments in favor of a single magistrate of course finally prevailed.

In connection with this subject of the election of a president it is extremely interesting just now before a great national election to notice that the closing words of the constitution are these "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.'

When the constitution was under discussion for ratification by the Massachusetts state convention there was strong complaint on the part of some because no religious test for candidates for federal office had been provided. But strange to say this objection did not come from the clergy. The Massachusetts convention contained a number of Protestant clergymen but they were almost unanimously opposed to a religious test of any kind. When Amos Sipgletary a farmer from Sutton, Mass., declared that it was scandalous that a Baptist or an infidel should be as eligible to office as a Xtan, a remark which naively assumed that Roman Catholics were not Christians, it was the Rev. Daniel Shute of Hingham who replied that "no conceivable advantage could come from a religious test." And the Rev. Isaac Backus, of Middleboro, said rightly "religion is ever a matter between God and the individual; the imposing of a religious test hath been the greatest engine of tyranny in the world." With this liberal stand by the ministers objections to this clause were speedily overruled. And in view of this specific declaration in the constitution it is certainly an anachronism and a betrayal of the spirit of that document for anyone in this 20th century to vote in favor of or against a man on the grounds of his religious belief.

Finally realizing that the document they had drawn up was imperfect a plan was devised whereby congress might at any time, by a two-thirds vote in both houses propose amendments to the constitution or on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states might call a convention for proposing amendments; and such amendments should become a part of the constitution as soon as ratified by three-fourths of the states either through their legislatures or through special conventions summoned for the purpose. This device offered the opportunity for change but guarded against hasty or ill considered tampering with the constitution.

So it was that on the 17th of September, 1887, after four months of anxious toil, through the whole of a scorching Philadelphia summer, after earnest but sometimes bitter discussion, a colossal work had been accomplished, the result of which was to most powerfully offset the whole future career of the human race so long as it shall dwell upon the earth. The scene was ended by a characteristic bit of pleasantry from Franklin. On the back of the president's quaint black arm chair there was emblazoned a half-sun, brilliant with its gilded rays. As the meeting was breaking up and Washington arose, Franklin pointed to the chair, and made it the text for prophecy. "As I have been sitting here all these weeks," said he, "I have often wondered whether that sun is rising or setting. But now I know that it is a rising sun!"

At the business session of the meeting, President Edward L. Jewett presided, with Flint Brayton acting as song leader. Plans for the coming appearance of the U. S. Marine band here were outlined and tickets for the concert distributed to the club members. Matters of routine business occupied the attention of the meeting during the greater part of the session.

GOEBEL LED CROSS-COUNTRY AIR RACE, 23 HOURS, 50 MIN. HAD BEEN FORCED DOWN

As None of the Entrants Had Made a Non-Stop Flight to the Goal, the Officials Declared It "No Race"—Goebel Was Forced to Land in Arizona to Repair a Carburetor —Declared He Could Not See How Any Plane Could Complete the Non-Stop Flight Against Winds and Storms He Had Encountered.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13—(AP)—The feature event of the 1928 national air races, the non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles, tonight was described by air meet officials as being "no race."

Art Goebel, Los Angeles, the only finisher, who reached Mines field at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon to receive the plaudits of the crowd as winner of the race, soon afterward quieted the enthusiasm with the revelation that he had not made a non-stop flight.

Goebel landed his Lockheed-Vega at Prescott, Ariz., earlier in the day, to spend over an hour repairing a troublesome carburetor, and replenishing a dwindling gasoline supply.

Nine planes hopped from Roosevelt field, New York, late yesterday for the long grind.

The last contestant to make a landing short of the goal was George Haldeman of Detroit, who brought his Bellanca down at Albuquerque, N. M., at 5:05 p. m. Haldeman said he was running short of gasoline and bucking bad head winds as he neared Flagstaff, Ariz., this afternoon. Fearing he might be forced to land on dangerous ground, he turned around and with the wind behind him returned to Albuquerque.

Goebel, the only contestant to arrive at Mines field, commented that Haldeman, although flying a slower craft, left Roosevelt field three hours ahead of himself, and that the obvious reason for the Bellanca plane not arriving late today was a forced landing. Goebel said probably lack of fuel ended the flight of the only known remaining contestant, explaining that he did not see how any plane could complete the non-stop grind against the winds and storms he had battled most of the night.

ARRANGING PLAN FOR EVACUATION OF RHINELAND

GENEVA, Sept. 13—(AP)—While a semblance of secrecy has surrounded the conference of six world powers to determine whether allied troops shall be withdrawn from occupied Rhineland territories the Associated Press tonight learned the details of the plan being developed under which evacuation may proceed.

The nations allied against Germany in the World war have proposed, it is learned, the creation of a special commission of "conciliation and verification" which would function in control of the Rhineland in case it was decided to withdraw troops there.

Germany is willing to discuss evacuation on this basis, the Associated Press has been informed on high authority, only provided the commission will be created on the day the last allied soldier quits German soil and that it will cease to have any power after 1935, the date set for evacuation under the Treaty of Versailles.

It is understood that Herman Mueller, German chancellor, has made it clear to the conference, that while this is his view, he must refer the subject to the German cabinet which meets Saturday. Thus he would be able to discuss the matter in the light of their considerations when the conference meets again Sunday, to which date it was adjourned after a short session today.

"SOCIETY BOOTLEGGER" WAS INDICTED IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13—(AP)—Joel D. Kerper, so-called "society bootlegger," was indicted by a federal grand jury today on 33 counts charging violations of the prohibition act and at the same time an indictment was returned against Alfred E. Norris, New York broker, charging conspiracy in purchasing liquor from Kerper.

Bills also were returned against John Brill and Tony De Mayo, employees of Kerper, whose place was raided by federal agents several weeks ago. The agents also found a long list of persons, many of them prominent, which they believe were among Kerper's customers.

From the indictments it was indicated that Kerper shipped choice liquors to his patrons under such labels as "floor paint," "varnish," "olive oil," and "grenadine."

Federal authorities said tonight that Norris' apartments in New York were invaded by prohibition agents several months ago in the midst of a dinner party to friends of his daughter, the wife of a Rumanian diplomatic courier in New York.

MAY HAVE CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT OF THEIR OWN

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 13—(AP)—With no hope of sharing in the honors and rewards, the pilots of three entries forced out of the non-stop air derby indicated tonight that they would put on a cross-country race of their own, starting tomorrow, just for the satisfaction of finishing what they had started.

The ships to participate in the priseless derby are Mrs. James A. Stillman's Bellanca North Star, and the two Stinson entries, all of which were forced out of the race by engine trouble.

The Stillman ship is manned by Oliver Le Boutillier of East Orange, N. J., and George King of Minesa, N. Y., the Standard Stinson by Clifford E. McMillin of Syracuse, N. Y., and C. A. Herrick of Hempstead, N. Y., and the Stinson, Jr., by Randolph Page.

FOUR DELEGATES WITHDRAWN FROM TEXTILE CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—Four delegates to the United Textile Workers of America convention who withdrew today in protest against the unseating on Tuesday of two Passaic, N. J., delegates, tonight said that the membership of the locals they represent will sever affiliations with the parent body.

"We are convinced," their statement to the organization said, "That the United Textile Workers is no more than a company union, serving the interests of the employers rather than those of the workers."

The delegates withdrew at the morning convention session after John De Santo of Passaic, one of the bolters, was ruled out of order when he attempted a protest against the unseating of the two Passaic delegates for "disloyalty" in the New Bedford, Mass., textile strike.

Gustav Deak also of Passaic, and two New York city delegates, joined his protest and the four were directed to keep silent or leave. After their departure, Thomas McMahon, president of the union, said he expected no further withdrawals.

In their statement threatening withdrawal of their locals the four charged that "the United Textile Workers is following the general policy of the American Federation of Labor in failure to organize the unorganized workers and in its lack of militant leadership."

At the afternoon session the convention endorsed a movement for a concerted effort to organize textile workers in the south, passing a resolution for a complete survey of conditions in the industry in that section, where only a few locals exist.

GREETINGS FOR PERSHING ON HIS 68TH BIRTHDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—The general of the armies of the United States, John J. Pershing, was overwhelmed today with greetings and best wishes from hosts of friends on the occasion of his 68th birthday anniversary.

Secretary Davis of the war department took the occasion of the anniversary to make formal presentation of four decorations, bestowed upon General Pershing by the heads of foreign governments during the last few years. The medals had been held in state department vaults until their distribution recently was authorized by congress.

General Pershing was busy all day meeting friends who called personally to offer their congratulations. His office in the war department was transformed into a veritable bower of blossoms.

JOHN COOLIDGE IS BEING LIONIZED IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 13—(AP)—With local restaurant managers, tonsorialists and custom tailors bidding for patronage "by appointment of John Coolidge," New Haven has taken on an imperially patronizing air that bids fair to outdo the solicitude shown the Prince of Wales in his travels. While the president's young son gains the same statistical knowledge as every tyro in the New Haven road's big yellow building, the endeavor to accord him outstanding attention goes on.

The latest notice of popularity that has befallen him is an invitation to occupy a box by himself or with his friend, Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor, at a local picture house. The theatre, however, ties a string to the offer, showing slightly more independence than the rest of the field, in that the invitation holds good for only one specified night.

PARIS, Sept. 13—(AP)—Paris newspapers expressed amusement over Gene Tunney's clash with a photographer after the heavyweight champion had spoken at the American club luncheon. "If you take another foot of film of me, I may have to chastize you," the boxer said to a motion picture cameraman.

SHIP-TO-SHORE MAIL PLANE IS MISSING

CHERBOURG, Sept. 13—Six hydroplanes returned here at nightfall after failing to find any trace of the postal hydroplane which disappeared this afternoon after having been launched 800 miles at sea from the French line steamer Ile de France.

The authorities have notified all ships in this region and all points in the adjacent coastal areas.

PREBYTERIAN CLERGYMAN HAS BEEN EXCOMMUNICATED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 13—(AP)—The Rev. D. A. Hipps was unfrocked and excommunicated from fellowship of the church by the Memphis Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here today. He was charged with conduct and decorum unbecoming for making the remark "That if a man should stand up for the right in the Memphis Presbytery he would have his head cut off."

Soon after unfrocking the minister, the presbytery voted down a resolution "deploring and condemning the effort being made by politicians and newspapers to humiliate and discredit ministers of the church for taking part in the moral questions pertaining to the national political campaign."

The Rev. C. A. Davis of Arlington, presented the resolution calling for Mr. Hipps' punishment and it was adopted unanimously. He said Mr. Hipps had been asked three times to appear and defend himself, but had ignored the requests.

The voting reached a climax when the resolution defending ministers' stand on "moral issues" in the national campaign was introduced by Mr. Davis after the report of the temperance committee which stated that the 18th amendment should be upheld and urged ministers to entreat their flocks to "vote as they pray."

As soon as the resolution was presented the Rev. J. N. Everett, chairman of the temperance committee, moved that it be tabled. The vote was a tie, and the moderator, J. D. J. McClanahan cast the vote that defeated the move.

DRY DEMOCRATS ARE IN SESSION IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Sept. 13—(AP)—A group of "dry democrats," representing 17 states, met here today and organized the National Constitutional Democratic committee to work against the presidential candidacy of Governor Smith, who was termed a "bolter." A statement issued after the meeting said:

"It is of the utmost importance to the life itself of our party that it be democratized by repudiating the brazen attempt of its present leaders to commit the party to a policy of nullifying the Constitution by destroying the present law and the further attempt to put the sovereign states into the business of selling liquor.

"We believe that Governor Smith's defeat by an outstanding majority will serve to rebuke the unauthorized attempt he had made to make ours a wet party and will contribute significantly to the rededication of the party of Andrew Jackson to battle for the preservation of the Constitution and the maintenance of the integrity of federal laws."

OIL STILLS EXPLOSION CAUSED THREE DEATHS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13—(AP)—Three men were killed and seven others severely burned when a battery of crude oil stills at the Standard Oil Co. refinery at El Segundo, on the coast near here, exploded and sent blazing oil in all directions.

The men killed were cleaning around the still when the explosion occurred. The blast shook several neighboring beach towns. The men injured were working at some little distance from the stills.

A general fire started by the explosion was extinguished with the aid of a special solution used in that work.

CASE OF THE "PHANTOM STABBER" IN SHELTON

SHELTON, Conn., Sept. 13—(AP)—Winifred Thompson, 17, of 262 Myrtle avenue, Shelton, a telephone operator at the Ansonia-Derby exchange, was attacked by a man whom she believes to be the "phantom stabber" who for many months terrorized girls and women on the streets of Bridgeport. Accompanied by Edna Jennings, also of 262 Myrtle avenue, she was on her way home about 10 o'clock tonight, when she was attacked and stabbed with a sharp instrument which made a wound in her breast.

MAN WAS KILLED BY LIGHTNING IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Sept. 13—(AP)—James Brown, 63, of Tynsboro, Mass., a suburb of Lowell, was instantly killed by lightning late this afternoon and his brother-in-law William Watson, of this city, is in a critical condition as a result of the bolt which struck just behind them as they stood under a tree at Goodwin park, seeking protection from a severe electrical storm.

Brown is said to have been a golf course engineer and to have been the designer of the Hartford Golf club course here. Watson is a former golf professional here.

ROCCO AND O'DONNELL NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

BOSTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—A jury in the Suffolk county court tonight returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Milton Rocco and William F. O'Donnell, charged with the murder of John J. Donovan, also of this city.

Rocco and O'Donnell were charged with having shot Donovan to death as he was driving his car in South Boston on the night of December 27 last as a result of a bootlegging argument.

Policeman Killed, Bandit Captured

Dead Outlaw, Wanted For Dynamiting a Truck in Pittsburgh, Was Taken in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 13—(AP)—Paul Jaworski, one of the men who engineered the sensational dynamiting of an express company truck in Pittsburgh two years ago, and then escaped from the Allegheny county jail while awaiting execution for the death of a guard, killed in the holdup, was shot and captured here today. He was believed dying tonight.

Jaworski was brought down as he tried to escape from a house where he had taken refuge after a fight in which he killed one patrolman and injured another.

Patrolman Anthony Wieczorek was killed by a bullet in the head and George E. Effinger, a fellow officer, was in a hospital tonight from wounds received in the fight. Ben Majsterok, a bystander, was injured by a stray bullet.

Jaworski was surprised by the patrolmen and two Pittsburgh detectives who walked into a restaurant in an outlying section where he was seating with a companion. Jaworski opened fire without a word and Wieczorek fell dead the first shot. Effinger and the two detectives closed in on the fugitive, but he made his way out of the restaurant and ran to a house in a lumberyard two blocks away. The officers followed, pouring bullets at him as he fled, but he got to the house apparently uninjured. The companion disappeared during the chase.

A flying squad of police, and every available patrolman and motorcycle officer in the vicinity were summoned and the officers closed in on the house. For several minutes, Jaworski held them at bay, and then, his ammunition apparently running low, he dashed through the back door, firing as he came. Patrolman Youra Koudela met him at the door and dropped him with a charge of buckshot.

The payroll robbery which led to Jaworski's conviction for murder was one of the most spectacular in recent years.

A mine planted under the pavement demolished the truck on March 11, 1927, and killed a guard. Jaworski and his gang escaped with a payroll of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Co. totalling about $104,000. They were captured on a farm several days later, and most of the money recovered. Jaworski was convicted of murder for the guard's death, and was awaiting execution when he escaped from the Allegheny county jail just 13 months ago today.

Detroit police also were hunting him as a suspect in connection with a hold-up there last June 6 in which a patrolman was fatally wounded and part of the weekly payroll of the Detroit News was stolen. He was wanted also for questioning in connection with other Detroit robberies.

NO REAR PLATFORM SPEECHES BY SMITH

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 13—(AP)—Despite entreaties from democratic leaders in the territory he will traverse that he say at least a few words at various way stations, Governor Smith intends to adhere to the six-speech program he has mapped out for himself on his first campaign tour.

The democratic presidential nominee reiterated today that during the entire campaign talks from the rear of his special train and in the open air would be absolutely taboo. He is determined to conserve his voice and strength, and has held all along that it would be a mistake to wear himself out making impromptu speeches, under conditions where it would be difficult for his words to carry to the far fringes of the crowd.

At station stops on the trip through west and northwest, which will get under way Sunday, and on future jaunts before election day, the governor intends to go out on the rear platform to let those round about get a look at him, but he plans to limit himself to shaking hands and exchanging greetings with well-wishers.

On his first tour the governor six-scheduled speeches are in cities in as many states—at Omaha next Tuesday night, where he will discuss farm relief, and then at Oklahoma City, Denver, Helena, St. Paul and Milwaukee before returning to Rochester to attend and address the New York state convention of the democrats on Oct. 1 and 2.

THREE SCHOOL GIRLS DROWNED IN DANBURY

DANBURY, Sept. 13—(AP)—Three school girls were drowned in Merson pond, on the outskirts of the city, early tonight when one of the trio went out beyond her depth and the other two lost their lives in a futile attempt at rescue. The dead are: Ida Platt, 9; Dorothy Platt, her sister, 11, and Frances Doctor, 11.

Florence Cielgelsky, aged about 9, a playmate of the children, was the only witness to the tragedy. She said that she was sitting on the bank when one of the girls waded out about 15 feet ove, her head. The other two young bathers reached the place where their playmate disappeared and unable to swim also went under.

MISSING MAN FOUND IN DOPED CONDITION

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 13—(AP)—Edward F. Kelly, New York business man, who has been the object of a wide-spread search since his mysterious disappearance from his summer home here, last Tuesday, was found here tonight in what police described as a "doped" condition.

Two hours after being found, Kelly was still unconscious. Attending physicians were using a stomach pump in an effort to revive him. His condition was pronounced as serious.

When found, he possessed only $1.75, although he had several hundred dollars at the time of his disappearance.

CONFESSED HOLDING UP MIDDLETOWN GAS STATION

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 13— (AP) — Victor Galianto, 18, was arrested today charged with holding up a gas station near here last night, getting only $2.50. He confessed to the police and implicated Fred Bellocchio, 18; James O'Rielly, 17, and Dominic Bozo, 17, all of Hartford. According to the police, the youths from Hartford became acquainted with Galianto while they were inmates of the state reform school at Meriden.

Gas Station Tender Identified Raymond

Harold Lester, 16, Tells of His Experience on Evening That State Policeman Nelson Was Killed

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 13—Considerable progress was made today in the trial of Roland G. Lalone, 21 and Albert J. Raymond, 20, so-called "ice-box" bandits of Worcester, Mass., charged with the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson at Pomfret on the evening of April 6. At the close of today's session the state had introduced a total of 25 witnesses, six of whom were called Wednesday afternoon. The witnesses were called in an order to show the sequence of events leading up to the shooting of the officer and the attempt to definitely incriminate the accused in the killing.

It will be recalled that the witnesses Wednesday were George W. Perry, of Putnam, civil engineer who drew a map of Pomfret and the scene of the shooting; Frances J. Higgins of Worcester, owner of the Willys-Knight sedan stolen from Worcester and said to have been used by the murderers; Mrs. Bessie B. Ascher, proprietress of the Ascher Haberdashery in Springfield, who claims to have sold caps to Lalone and Raymond and one other young man on the night of April 4; Mrs. Mary Hannifin, owner of a textile store in Springfield, who secured the numbers of the Willys-Knight and turned them over to the Springfield police; Patrick J. Tuttle, Springfield patrolman, to whom the car numbers

RETURN FLOW OF GOLD TO THE UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—A return flow of gold to this country today appeared definitely to have started with the announcement of Wertheim & Co. that $2,500,000 in gold purchased through the Bank of England is to reach this country Sept. 21. It will be deposited immediately in the Federal Reserve bank.

Sterling cables were quoted today at $4.85 1-32, the lowest price so far this year, and which permits a narrow margin of profit on gold imports.

The shipment of gold from the Bank of England is regarded in Wall street as being probably the first of a number of shipments which will restore to this country a portion, or possibly all, of the upwards of $500,000,000 exported since last fall. The continued export of gold in recent months has been blamed for the stringent credit situation which sent market money rates to high levels, and was believed to be beginning to have an effect on money for commercial use.

The metal was exported at a time when other countries were attempting to stabilize their currencies on a gold basis.

HOOVER CONFERRED WITH SEN. MOSES AND KELLOGG

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13— (AP) — Herbert Hoover plunged anew today into an analysis of the difficulties that he may encounter in the northeastern states in his fight for the presidency.

The republican nominee concluded a series of conferences with Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the eastern campaign advisory committee, which included a detailed discussion of the various phases entering into the campaign in that section. Hoover also received a report on the political situation in Vermont, the home state of President Coolidge, from a delegation from that state.

Between times he made some last-minute changes in the speech on labor which he is to deliver next Monday night at Newark, N. J., and conferred with Secretary of State Kellogg. Neither Hoover nor the secretary revealed the nature of their conversation. Secretary Kellogg gave a negative answer when asked if they had talked about the treaty for renouncing war or his participation in the campaign.

POLICE ARE LOOKING FOR STOLEN AIRPLANE

SYRACUSE, Sept. 13—(AP)—A police dragnet thrown out over northern New York today had failed tonight to trap the person who stole an airplane from the Utica airport some time during the night and raced it 90 miles north, only to crash in a marshy field near Lowville.

The crash of the stolen plane occurred before daylight and the farmers who hurried to the scene did not get a good description of the flyer. He told them he had taken off from Elmira and was forced down in the mist when on his way to Alexandria Bay. He said he was leaving at once for Watertown.

The plane was a Travelair, owned by Richard Yule of New Hartford. The thief is believed to have been an experienced pilot, since he took off from a strange field, with a strange plane in the darkness. They believed he must have had confederates. The flyer was believed to have suffered an injury to his leg in the crash. The wing of the plane was crumpled and the propeller damaged.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY WIND AT RINDGE, N. H.

KEENE, N. H., Sept. 13—(AP)—A terrific wind, arising during the height of an electric storm late this afternoon, swept the town of Rindge, 22 miles east of here, causing heavy property damage and terrifying the population. No deaths nor injuries were reported.

The wind, which was of tornado velocity, swept an area about four miles in length and half a mile wide. It uprooted trees, felled chimneys, swept shingles from roofs and caused houses to sway on their foundations.

Telephone and telegraph poles were felled an communication was almost entirely disrupted.

SHIPS IN DANGER ZONE OF A WEST INDIAN HURRICANE

Storm Swept Across the Island of Porto Rico, Leaving the City of San Juan Isolated—Center of the Storm is Expected to Reach Eastern End of Haiti Early Today—U. S. Weather Bureau Cautions "This is a Dangerous Storm" and Warns Shipping to Be Careful.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—A hurricane howled across the West Indies toward Haiti and Cuba tonight, such meagre reports as there were arousing a general fear that this was far more than any ordinary equinoctial storm.

The wind was reported blowing at 80 miles an hour and getting worse by the minute.

The center of the storm, described in United States weather bureau warnings as "dangerous," was expected to reach the eastern end of the island. No information as to loss of life or property damage was received here.

The United States weather bureau issued this warning:

"This is a dangerous storm. Great caution advised vessels in its path. Its center will likely pass south of Mona Passage (between Santo Domingo and Porto Rico) late tonight and near or slightly south of city of Santo Domingo Friday morning."

There are several ships in the danger zone. The passenger steamer San Lorenzo of the New York and Porto Rico line was scheduled to leave San Juan today. As no word was received from the captain, the New York offices believed the ship was at sea.

Franz Romer, German, sailing alone in a collapsible rubber canoe, is in that area. He left San Juan Tuesday for Miami, Fla.

The French Cable company's San Juan manager sent this message late today:

"A storm of considerable intensity has been passing over Porto Rico since 3 a. m. The wind has reached a velocity of 80 miles. We are unable to communicate with the rest of the island and I cannot give any details.

"The wind is increasing in intensity every moment. In San Juan business is completely paralyzed. All transportation services are suspended and electricity is cut off."

The National City bank received this cable from San Juan:

"San Juan banks closing at 10:15 this morning. Bad hurricane passing over island."

West Indian hurricanes are of the greatest frequency the last of September and the first of October.

Shipping is believed to have suffered heavy losses. The freight steamer Helen pulled its anchor during the storm and drifted on to rocks at the harbor entrance. Just before dark two sailing vessels in the harbor appeared to be sinking.

The roof of the Hotel Palace in the heart of San Juan was carried away, as was also part of the roof of the Union club. Hundreds, if not thousands, of homes in San Juan are believed to have suffered either partial or total demolition. Trees by the thousands have been uprooted, many of them smashing into homes and falling across streets.

Cocoanut trees and other palms in the garden of the governor's palace have been flattened, while in the palace itself windows and doors were blown in by the wind and the building flooded with the torrential rain.

At the weather bureau tonight it was stated that San Juan probably has borne the brunt of the storm so far as the island is concerned and that probably the south side of the island has suffered much less than this area.

Such are conditions tonight, even with the wind diminishing in force, that it will be days before communication between the city and all the island can be restored.

$2,000,000 DAMAGE REPORTED; HURRICANE STILL RAGING

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 13—(AP)—Damage approximating $2,000,000 is believed to have been caused by a tropical hurricane which struck here early this morning. Late tonight the hurricane was still raging.

The wind reached its highest strength at about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Immediately before that time the weather bureau's anemometer registered 132 miles an hour, but the instrument was carried away by the gale. The wind blew more than 100 miles an hour for five or six hours and is believed at times to have attained a velocity of 150 miles an hour.

Tonight the city was in darkness and completely isolated from the rest of the island, all telegraph and telephone lines being down and transportation, even about streets here, being stopped. The extent of loss of life or injuries was undetermined.

MOTHERS TERRIFIED BY KIDNAPING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 13—(AP)—The rendezvous of the Mafia were searched today for ten-year-old Billy Ranieri while terror-stricken mothers kept their children at home and locked the doors against the dreaded kidnapers.

Chicago's chief of detectives and the deputy police commissioner were drawn into the search for the boy, who vanished on his way home from school a week ago today, much as Bobby Franks disappeared at the time of his slaying four years ago. But the threat of death or violence to the boy and the fear of the Mafia they believed was behind the plot had sealed the lips of family and friends, and the police had slender clues upon which to work.

Today a squad of Italian detectives worked with A. Frank Ranieri, contractor and father of the boy, in an effort to "plant" some of the $60,000 ransom demanded by the kidnapers. Alice Ranieri, 12-year-old sister of the child, told a chum her father already had paid $1,000 to the gang, but was told he must pay more before Billy would be released.

Billy was returning home from school last Thursday when he was kidnaped by two strangers in an automobile. Mrs. Rose Gondeck, only known witness of the kidnaping, told the police what she saw:

"I saw a big automobile follow him into an alley. He heard it, I think, for he stopped and looked back. He moved over toward the fence to let it pass. As it came up to him two men jumped out and picked him up. They put him into the machine and drove away."

The next day Ranieri reported his son had failed to come home from school. He kept secret the letter he had received that morning, telling that Billy had been kidnaped and would be killed if a ransom of $60,000 were not paid.

MADRID CELEBRATES RIVERA'S DICTATORSHIP

MADRID, Sept. 13—(AP)—Madrid donned its brightest colors and gayest mood today and acclaimed the fifth anniversary of General Primo De Rivera's dictatorship.

In an atmosphere clouded with rumors of revolutionary plots delegations from every province of Spain took part in a procession of loyalty to the government. The marchers required five hours to pass the reviewing stand.

The police took special precautions and no unfriendly incidents marred the festivities. Picturesque provincial costumes, folk songs and dances provided a brilliant background for General Rivera's picture of national unity.

Reports of wholesale arrests of revolutionaries in widely scattered regions failed to dampen the public's carnival spirits.

Reports of the number of arrests vary from less than 100 to 2,000.

La Nacion stated that the army and navy had remained 100 per cent loyal to General Primo De Rivera, and that the government retained absolute confidence in its armed forces.

Always a Perfect Wave

By Edna Wallace Hopper

On the stage, in public and at private functions my hair always attracts. During my performances women never fail to ask the secret of my perfect wave and the youthful, lively sheen of my hair.

It is very simple. I wave my own hair. First I moisten it with my liquid hair-dress, Wave and Sheen. I use a comb to apply it. Then I carefully insert the combs. I tie a piece of chiffon over my head. By the time I am ready to complete my toilette the waves are in to stay.

A radiant sheen, free from stickiness, is the chief charm of this simple method. Wave and Sheen is the only preparation I know that does not give the "plastered" effect.

You can get a bottle of my Wave and Sheen at any toilet counter. It is guaranteed. 75 cents.

were given by Mrs. Hannifin; and Raymond P. Gallagher, Springfield motorcycle police officer who figured in a shooting affray with the occupants of the sedan and who later picked Lalone and Raymond from a police line-up in Worcester as the occupants of the car.

60 Witnesses Present

When court opened at 10 o'clock this morning about 60 state and defense witnesses were present in the court-room. Lalone and Raymond came in under the usual heavy guard which acts as an escort in commuting to the county jail at Brooklyn. Both were nattily dressed and throughout the day retained an air of utmost confidence and took the occasion to grin affably at some of the testimony introduced.

Motorcycle Officer Gallagher of the Springfield, Mass., police department was recalled to the stand as the first witness for the day. The cross-examination started Wednesday afternoon by Attorney Moynihan was resumed and the officer was subjected to a severe grilling as to his certainty of identification of the two youths and the methods pursued in accomplishing this. The chase of the Willys-Knight sedan, bearing the Massachusetts registration 401,976 was briefly reviewed. The testimony then shifted to the identification of the defendants at the Worcester detective bureau on April 9. While the officer re-affirmed his testimony that he had had no difficulty in picking out a picture of Lalone and later selecting both men out of a police lineup, the defense sought to show that several suspects had been brought in by the Worcester police.

State's Attorney Bradford then introduced a photograph showing the corner of State and Terrence street, Springfield, where one of the occupants of the sedan, said by Gallagher to have been Raymond, and the officer himself exchanged revolver shots. The photograph was entered as Exhibit D.

Testimony of R. G. Skinner

Russell G Skinner, who said that he resided in Terrence street, Springfield, on April 6, last, was the seventh witness for the state. He said that between 5 and 5.30 of that afternoon he was walking along Terrence street when he heard the sharp squeaking of brakes. He turned to see a car come into Terrence street from State street and saw Officer Gallagher, whom he knew by sight, fall off his motorcycle at the corner. The car shot down Terrence street. Skinner said that he took the numbers, Mass. 401,976. He observed that there were two men in the front and the one not driving and answering the description of Raymond was turned about and fired two shots through the rear window and in the direction of the unmounted officer. He had also had a good view of Lalone, the driver, and identified him later at the Springfield jail. He was cross-examined by Attorneys Thayer and Moynihan.

Saw Speeding Car

James M. Dineen, member of the Pine street fire station of the Springfield fire department testified that he was standing in front of the fire station when he saw a car speed down Pine street and into Cedar street. The speed of the car and the fact that a fluid, probably gasoline, was flowing in a trail behind the machine attracted his attention. He said that the car was a sedan, and there were two men in the front seat but he could not recognize them.

Martin L. Bowen, also of the Pine street fire station, said that he was looking out of the window of his room in the station when he saw a sedan coming at a terrific speed. The car swayed in negotiating the corner and there was a fluid leaking out onto the pavement. He also noted that there were two men in the machine.

Frederick E Murray, a third member of the Pine street fire station and witness No. 10, corroborated the testimony of the previous two witnesses. Attorneys Thayer and Mahoney cross-examined these witnesses.

Traced Bandit Car

John P. Fleming, lieutenant of police, assigned to the detective bureau, of the Springfield department was called to the stand by Special State's Attorney Harvey. He said that he had traced the alleged bandit car from a point on Terrence street, over Pine and Cedar streets to a point on Orlean street where the trail of liquid ended. While this fact was not brought out in court, it was taken for granted that the liquid was undoubtedly gasoline leaking out of the tank through a hole caused by a bullet from Officer Gallagher's gun. This was not affirmed as a fact inasmuch as Officer Gallagher did not know whether his bullets had found their mark in returning the fire from the fleeing machine.

Lieutenant Fleming testified that Lalone and Raymond were taken from Worcester to Springfield April 11 and after questioning were removed to the House of Correction in Springfield the following afternoon. The lieutenant was subjected to a severe cross-examination, the first objective which was to show that the accused, especially Lalone had been abused and battered and kept from sleeping during the grilling by the officers. The officer emphatically denied any abuse of the youths and absolutely denied that he had washed any blood from Raymond's face before taking him for arraignment and fixing of a bond. The officer declared that Lalone was in perfect condition other than that he needed a shave. Raymond suffered only from a bloodshot eye.

The cross-examination brought out that counsel for the accused were not allowed to see Lalone and Raymond until the police investigation was completed. Judge Yeomans took occasion to comment on this fact, classing it as "unusual" procedure in civilized circles. A further explanation of this by the witness was successfully objected to.

Testimony of Clergyman

Rev. Felix J. O'Neil of Stafford Springs testified that while driving back from Springfield via East Longmeadow on an afternoon of which he could not recollect the date, he passed a machine in which were two men and which was also travelling toward Stafford Springs. He noted that the car was a Willys-Knight sedan as he was especially interested in that model car. He had forgotten the date and also the first three numbers o fthe registration which he had retained for a time.

Robert T. Hurley of Hartford, commissioner of the Connecticut state police took the stand and explained a government map showing Massachusetts and Connecticut and containing colorings to show cities and highways related to the case.

Mrs. Bessie B. Ascher of Springfield was recalled to identify two of the three caps which she testified as having sold to three young men on the evening of April 4, two of whom she identified as Lalone and Raymond. She gave reasons for remembering the date and the transaction and said that the youths told her they wanted new caps as they were going to a dance. The caps were one dollar each and were paid for by Lalone. The caps, one a tan and the other a gray check, were entered as Exhibits G and H respectively after the trademark. The Ascher Haberdashery had been identified.

Court reopened after the noon recess at 2 o'clock and Georgianna H. Comptois of 12 West street, Worcester, Mass. took the stand. She told of having rented a garage stall to two young men answering the description of Lalone and Raymond on March 23, last. here was a third young man with them. At first the trio put a Chrysler roadster in the stall and about midnight of April 4 they drove in with a Willys-Knight sedan. This car was removed the next day and neither it nor the young men were seen afterwards. The garage rental of $10 for the month had been paid and the receipt given to Lalone who gave his name as Eddie Gibbons of Cedar street, Worcester.

Miss Ruth Comptois, daughter and Joseph J. Comptois, husband of Mrs. Comptois, corroborated this testimony in part.

Photographer Identified Pictures

Alphonse Morin of Webster, Mass., photographer identified pictures of the sedan while it was lodged in a garage in Webster, following its recovery. Two pictures of the sedan had already been entered as exhibits and a third was entered as Exhibit I for identification purposes.

Witness Identified Raymond

Harold Lester, 16, of 51 Lewiston avenue, Willimantic, one of the star witnesses for the state was the next and 18th witness. He said that about 6:15 o'clock on the evening of April 6, he was tending to the filling station conducted by his father, Harry L. Lester, on West Main street, this city, when a car drove in from a westerly direction. A young man whom he identified as Raymond got out and said he wanted five gallons of gasoline. Lester told him to shut off the mot.. and Raymond very tones told another man who was lounging in the rear seat of the machine, to turn off the switch. This the man in the car did by leaning over the front seat. Lester said he wondered how Raymond could have been heard on the inside of the car and this led to his discovery that the rear window was broken, noting that only broken bits of glass remained in the frame. He asked about this and said that Raymond told him he had had brooms in the car and they had smashed the window. He claimed that Raymond asked the distance to Putnam and to Webster and after paying for the gasoline drove off in an easterly direction down Main street. He remembered that the car bore Massachusetts numbers the first of which was four. He was severely cross-examined by Attorney Foss of the defense on his identification of Raymond. Raymond was taken before the witness and his features scrutinized. The question of a mole or other skin-defect on the left cheek bone was heatedly debated. A photograph of the filling station was entered as Exhibit J.

Frank Upton, police officer in Springfield testified that he was driving along Cedar street when a car shot around the corner and forced him to the curb. He took the numbers and remembered that it was a Willys-Knight sedan in which were two men. There was something leaking from the machine onto the pavement.

Willimantic Policemen Testify

Captain Frank McLean, Sergeant Grant Bombria and Patrolmen Albert Montie and Frederick R. Laramie of the Willimantic police department were successfully called to the stand. The text of their testimony was that they were on the look-out for a Massachusetts car on the night of April 6. Sergeant Bombria and Officers Montie and Laramie, stationed at various posts along Main street saw the car go through the business section in an easterly direction. They were delayed in securing a car in which to give chase and although went as far as Sherman's corners in South Chaplin, three miles from here, they did not again sight the machine. It was seen that two young men were in the car and that it was a green sedan. Officer Montie had secured the numbers

Description of Murder

Albert E. Day of Pomfret, a chauffeur, said that about 7:15 o'clock of the evening of April 6, he was driving along Pomfret street toward the main highway when he heard a machine coming at a rapid rate of speed toward the junction of the street with the highway at Overlock's corner, near the home of Dr. Overlock. He also saw a state police officer stationed on a motorcycle at the corner and expecting that there was trouble he pulled up and stopped. A Willys Knight sedan shot past him on Pomfret street and the brakes were applied to make the corner. The officer yelled, "Pull up and stop" but the car kept going easterly along the main highway leading through Pomfret. The officer gave chase and the car, which had speeded up after making the turn, slowed down again. Day followed in his machine and it appeared to him that the officer, who was riding to the left of the car, was talking with the occupants. There was a flash of bullets, witness believing that three shots were fired. This was almost opposite the home of A. B. Briggs near Green's corner. The officer fell or got off his motorcycle and clutching at his stomach as if in pain, he lurched into the yard of the Briggs home, staggering a distance of about 30 feet before he dropped. The sedan took the right hand road at the Green corner, going in the direction of Putnam. Witness was among the first to reach the wounded officer and he drove him to the home of Dr. Overlock. The officer was groaning and shortly after reaching the house Dr. Overlock told witness that the man was dead. Day said that he did not get a good look at the occupants of the machine.

The last witness of the day was James Byrnes of Pomfret, who conducted a gasoline station between the Overlock and Green corners in Pomfret at the time of the shooting. He said he saw Officer Nelson go into a store near the Overlock corner shortly before the shooting and then saw him come out and drove off on his motorcycle. He did not see the officer again until after the shooting. At this point court adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

Of course you know I was sorry to hear that you have been having so much trouble with your arches, but I feel sure that I have some news for you that will put an end to it at once.

Saturday I invested in a pair of shoes that I think are just the kind that you need. I bought them in the UNION SHOE STORE (in the Murray block) and they are called the TREADEASY and are designed to relieve arch trouble, pains in knees, weak feet, corns, callouses, bunions and other foot ailments, caused principally by ill-constructed shoes. The UNION SHOE have had them for three years, they tell me, and the demand is constantly growing. They are a "joy" to teachers, sales ladies and others who spend hours on hard floors and of course this class certainly includes housewives like ourselves.

They have Double A's to D's for widths in standard stock and other widths can be ordered for you if they do not have them on hand. The combination lasts gives a snug fit in heel and allows freedom for toes and ball of foot. They come in several different styles which are graceful and good-looking and yet have the most important feature—Comfort. These shoes are made by P. W. Minor & Son, Batavia, N. Y., and are very reasonably priced.

The next time you come shopping I would be glad to go with you to the Union Shoe where you can be fitted to some of these health shoes. Realizing how largely general health is influenced by the kind of shoes we wear I am very anxious to have you try these TREAD EASYS and be restored again to the comfort you should enjoy. Let me know what you think about it and just when you can come down. Don't put it off too long.

YOURS, JANE.

THE BEAUTY OF THE NEW COATS WILL SURPRISE YOU

The cloths are unusual and the furs are better than ever.
There will be no better time this year to select a new coat than now, while the assortment is complete.
One reason is because the coats were made during recent months when there was a plenty of time for care in workmanship; the coats which will be made later will be hurried through the process, with the usual result of haste.
The furs on the coats are better than on those which will be used later because there is a limited supply of the better grades.
At this time it will be possible to accept orders for "special measure" coats; later there will be difficulty in obtaining the better cloths.
It will be profitable for you to see the coats as early as possible, when we have plenty of time to show them all to you.
If you should select one, we will lay it aside until you are ready for it; come in and take a good look at them.
The prices are $25.00 and better.

SEEKING THE WEST

Within a few days the democratic presidential candidate will set out for a trip through the west. It is to be a speaking tour and is for the purpose of gathering strength in those states where it is believed sentiment can be stirred up for democratic votes. Republican and border states will be visited.

It is the hope that an appeal will be made that will win over the farmers. It is not a new ambition. It was visibly set forth at Houston and it has been kept to the front as much as possible since then in spite of the discouraging outlook in view of the expression from those states.

At this time, however, there is need of trying to straighten out the uncertainty that exists between the platform plank and the attitude of the candidate as expressed, and the assurance which has been given by Chairman Raskob and the cold water which has apparently been thrown by Candidate Smith upon the equalization fee. Apparently the corn belt is to be invaded in an attempt to reconcile the differences and win over the farmers.

The farmers are for the most part republicans and it is reasonable to believe that they are going to remain so. Those farm leaders upon whom the democrats were relying to support Smith are not only endorsing but actively working for Hoover with a very few exceptions. The farm bloc almost in its entirety is backing the republican candidate, while the few farm leaders who have declared for Smith in hopes that he would endorse the equalization fee are no longer being heard from. That much talked of committee of 22 representing the northwest exists only now in history. It is not working because it was impossible to keep it together.

It is only logical that the farmers should place their dependence upon the republican candidate and the assurances he has given concerning the farm problem. They recognize the importance of republican principles in maintaining the country's prosperity and they know the danger of substituting something else. The farmers will successfully resist campaign promises made for votes even as their leaders have. The chance of creating a revolt have long since faded.

WORKING OUT WELL

Among the states which have been putting to a test a law which requires the imposition of a life sentence where a person has been convicted of a fourth felony is Michigan. That state has been endeavoring to give greater protection to the law abiding public by putting the confirmed criminals where they will not be at liberty to prey upon the people. Michigan is doing much the same as New York in this respect and the Detroit News points out that "the bulk of evidence indicates that it is getting good results."

Nevertheless efforts have been made to bring about a change in the criminal code of the state with particular reference to this law. This has been prompted to some extent by the fact that there have been one or two instances where the law has been employed when the offenses which made their conviction possible appear to be minor. They could have been dealt with probably in some other manner without having any serious effect upon the public. And yet it is to be expected that any and all who can be included under the provisions of that law should take due warning and so conduct themselves that there will be no opportunity for arrest or conviction even if they do not commit offenses, minor or otherwise, the law doesn't affect them. If they haven't been convicted three times for felonies they have considerable leeway. But if there have been three felonies committed by an individual and he is still ready and willing to commit more and take the chance of being caught it is only proper that society should expect to be protected from the operations of such a person.

Recently an attempt was made to get the Michigan State Bar association to recommend a change in that law, but the association refused and it is the belief of the News that public opinion generally in Michigan will approve that decision. Evidently the time hasn't arrived when the lawyers of Michigan think that there should be an encouragement of a law which is giving needed protection to the people and leniency established in its place that would subject them to the operations of confirmed criminals.

REGULATING BROADCASTING

Not until the second Sunday in November will the new regulations concerning radio broadcasting be put into effect. In the meantime there will be opportunity to study the effect of the changes and it is possible that some of the protests that have been made will be heard and adjustments made if actual injustices are shown.

Those who are accustomed to find the various stations at familiar points will be obliged to look them up elsewhere after the new plan becomes effective. This will, of course, be general. It is applied to all parts of the country alike and it is put forth by the radio commission after long study in the belief that it will bring about the improvement which has been so long sought.

Other attempts have been made to clear up broadcasting conditions. Some improvements have been obtained but there are not many radio fans but what will admit that there is still plenty of opportunity for betterment. Whether the change that remains to be put into effect will accomplish all that is desired remains to be seen. There will be a change in wave lengths and kilocycles that amount to an upheaval. Some stations are made more powerful while others are less, but in the effort to end the confusion in broadcasting many more stations are made to share time. Under the changes announced the number of stations will be less by 103. That will still leave 629, but not all of those can broadcast at the same time for which many a radio listener will be more than thankful.

Only those who tackle such a problem can understand the difficulties involved. It will never be possible to satisfy everyone. The effort must be to accomplish the best possible results to the satisfaction of the greatest number of people. Possibly the newest plan will not do that. If the test does not meet the requirements it will be necessary for the commission to proceed again. By constantly keeping at it the difficulties will be kept to a minimum and every change ought to bring us nearer to that point.

IT DOESN'T PAY

Fourteen killed in two grade crossing accidents discloses an unusually large toll for such affairs, but those cases simply serve to accentuate the fact that crossings are dangerous at all times. It makes little or no difference whether they are in Connecticut or in Rice, Minnesota, where an entire family was wiped out when the auto was struck by an express train.

How frequently it is reported, as was done in this case, that the crossing was "an open one, with a view of the track for long distances in each direction." Likewise it is too common a situation where the corner, as in this instance, developed the theory that the head of the family "was attempting to beat the train to the crossing."

Just what would have been gained by waiting for that train can be best understood now when it is realized that the seven members of that family who are dead would be alive today but for the reckless chance taking with human life.

Just what would have been gained had th train been beaten is insignificant. The machine might have been a few hundred feet farther on its way but the risk involved in attempting such a gain was most certainly unjustified. It is a practice that doesn't pay.

Grade crossings must get respect. It is only part of the responsibility which every driver should assume. It corresponds to the responsibility of an engineer who must respect signals. He might take chances and get by but such engineers sooner or later get caught and are promptly removed, if in fact they don't accomplish their own removal through death. Safety on highways as well as on the railroads lies in respecting danger spots and signals. A railroad crossing is a danger signal in itself.

SOME TEXAS SENTIMENT

Much has been said about Texas. It is one of those states which in the past has been quite as certain to support the democratic candidates as Maine has been to go republican. Texas hasn't a habit of going republican but it is a state where they take their politics seriously and there was evidence of that this week at the state convention.

Texas was not pleased with the turn of events at Houston which resulted in the nomination of Alfred E. Smith. It was not pleased by the manner in which certain of its leaders put their pride in their pocket and sought to make the best of the situation. Efforts have been made to reconcile the differences but the situation is not healed.

The displeasure of the democratic voters of that state was displayed in no uncertain terms this week when the attempt was made to exclude delegates from certain of the counties and resentment of such effort was manifested by withdrawing from the convention crying "Goodbye Tammany." Texas is a large state with many delegates but when it is represented that there were 300 in the party that left it is evident that they represent much similar sentiment throughout the state.

Texas hasn't a big republican vote, so that a big revolt among the democrats will be necessary to accomplish a turnover. No republican estimates have underaken to place Texas in the republican column, no republican claim has been made upon its electoral votes but it is not possible for such a large defection from a state convention to occur without creating considerable uneasiness. It doesn't augur for harmony in a democratic state.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Cheer up, Indian summer is still ahead.

Poison gas should have no more standing in politics than it has in war, and that is none at all.

John Coolidge is to learn railroading from the bottom up. Many a railroad head has gone to the top by that route.

Civic sentiment in Philadelphia is said to back the cleanup in that city, but it has taken it a long time to let its wishes be known.

That treasurer of a southern mission board who is short a million in his accounts, seems to think it is a good idea to stay a long way from home.

"Hoover will pledge aid to New England," says a headline. Maine has already taken that for granted and displayed its enthusiastic attitude toward Hoover and his policies.

THROUGH MAGIC GLASSES

There was a hush over the dining room of the Students' Art club as the newest girl entered. She was being appraised from the tips of her trim brown suede slippers to the tops of her short chestnut curls as she paused, looking about for a vacant place at one of the little round tables.

The club was about to nod its head in approval when suddenly, out of a clear sky, the new girl lifted a long-handled lorgnette to her eyes and surveyed the room from one end to the other before she leisurely selected a place at a table in the far corner.

The dining room gasped, mentally. After dinner the girls gathered in an indignant group in the parlor and unanimously dubbed the newest girl "Miss Got Rocks."

"Positively no one with any sense would use those things," Nancy Rutledge declared. And the club agreed.

Just after dinner one evening in the winter Miss Dennis, the directress of the club, stopped Nancy in the hall.

"Two main-floor opera seats for tonight have been turned in, Nancy, and it's your turn to go," she said. Nancy was delighted.

"Dorothy Graham will have the other seat," Miss Dennis told her, and Nancy dashed upstairs to tell the girls that she was going to the opera. But later, when Miss Denfis introduced her to her companion for the evening. Nancy only stared. For Dorothy Graham was "Miss Got Rocks"!

The two girls talked little going downtown and the strained silence was not broken even after they were ushered to their seats. Nancy was conjuring up to herself scathing remarks to make at the moment when "Miss Got Rocks" should begin surveying the audience through her lorgnette. But the remarks were never made, for two good reasons.

The first was that, when "Miss Got Rocks" presently took out not the expected and despised lorgnette but opera glasses on a gold stick, with which she calmly surveyed the assembling audience, Nancy was much too exasperated to frame her indignation into words. The second was that when the time came when she might have framed the words she found she didn't want to!

"Would you like to use them?" she heard "Miss Got Rocks" saying from her pinnacle behind the opera glasses. Nancy, unable to say anything expressive enough, meekly took the gold stick and lifted the glasses to her eyes. And at that moment, though neither of them knew it, the story of Dot Graham's popularity at the Students' Art club began.

For, subconsciously, Nancy felt her back begin to straighten up from its slumped position in the seat, her eyebrows arch, her shoulders shrug slightly, her head lift imperiously. She had the sensation of looking down from the heights of a throne. It was like looking at the world through another person's eyes.

Even her little finger curved upward from the gold stick, her other hand went up to her throat in a graceful pose and her ankles crossed themselves in a queenly fashion. The effect of the things was uncanny. It was wonderful to observe the ultra-smart audience from the end of this slim stick.

Nancy had never known anything like it. It was as though she were floating up in the air. She could not bear to lower the glasses from her eyes. "Miss Got Rocks" broke the spell.

"How do you like them?" she inquired.

"Why, they're wonderful," Nancy stammered. Reluctantly she handed them back. Then she turned confidentially to "Miss Got Rocks" and the ice was broken.

"Sarah, Sarah," Nancy awoke her roommate when she returned that night. "Dot is just wonderful."

"Dot?" repeated Sarah Sleepily.

"'Miss Got Rocks,' I mean. I looked through her opera glasses—they're on a stick, too. And you simply can't imagine what a feeling they give you!" Nancy sighed in ecstacy.

"One look through those lenses makes you see things in an entirely different light," she exclaimed. "Even a sweeping glance around does wonders for your self-esteem, while a single level of that gold stick at the theatre audience— well, you must try it sometime!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13— As a presidential nominee, Herbert Hoover is establishing a reputation for saying nothing for publication, outside of his set speeches, a practice that gives him a sort of preliminary white house atmosphere.

While his opponent, Governor Smith is continuously in the news columns with side remarks or exchanging letters with his political foes, the former commerce secretary is just about as silent as the fisherman of Brule.

Only the president enjoys complete freedom from quotation in dealing with the press in Washington. Cabinet officers, particularly secretaries of state, surround themselves with special rules to be observed in their daily meetings with the press in the busy seasons; but usually what they have to say gets printed in such form as to leave no doubt in anybody's mind as to who said it. The president sees the press twice a week. Any infraction of the rule of non-quotation in his case is regarded as a grave offense. The press recognizes that his position makes it necessary that a degree of reticence be observed.

With Hoover back in town, his headquarters in the Moran mansion have taken on almost the same air of aloofness and dignity that surrounds the white house itself. Busy scribes throng in that direction to pick up what crumbs of political news they can, but there are no free and easy meetings with the nominee to report.

Curtis a Mixer

Senator Charlie Curtis of Kansas, the other end of the republican ticket, has altogether different campaigning habits. So far he has done his campaigning in railway day coaches and automobiles. He is out, mixing with the folks, at every stop. That's his idea of how to go about getting elected. He is always ready with a handshake and feels he loses no dignity by announcing personally that his name is Curtis if he sees doubt as to his identity in the eye of an interested bystander. It is just part of the political game to the Kansas senator and he found it good in his early campaigning experience in Kansas to meet folks always as he would if he had never dreamed of seeking public office.

Another Curtis theory is that political audiences don't like to have speeches read to them. In his first three important addresses after his acceptance speech, the Kansan carefully prepared and gave to the press in advance the text of what he planned to say; then wholly disregarded that text when he came to points, but set his remarks to words suggested by the moment. It caused considerable confusion among the reporters who had sent off stories based on the advance matter only to find more snappy expressions of the same ideas in the actual speech itself when delivered, but that happens frequently to reporters and they get used to it.

Donovan "Insider"

Going back to the Hoover campaign establishment, Assistant Attorney "Bill" Donovan seems to be very much in the inside ring of Hoover advisors. Those who made the pilgrimage to Palo Alto and back with the republican nominee regard the Hon. William J. as about the most authentic source of information as to Hoover views and campaign strategy plans. In fact, they have already named Donovan as successor to Attorney General John Garibaldi Sargent if Mr. Hoover wins.

Nurse Cohoon

Calls Sykes Comfort Powder "A Healing Wonder"

Franklin, N. Y.—"I am a graduate nurse of Binghamton State Hospital and have used boric acid, rice powder, and many others in my work, but I have never found anything equal to Comfort Powder to heal the skin. This little baby's sore, chafed skin was quickly healed by Comfort Powder after everything else had failed. In fact, I find Comfort Powder 'A Healing Wonder.'"—Mrs. I. W. Cohoon, Franklin, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. For twenty years it has been used and endorsed by physicians and mothers, and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

The Friend Who Stands By

"When trouble comes your soul to try,
You love the friend who just stands by.
Perhaps there's nothing he can do;
The thing is strictly up to you,
For there are troubles all your own,
And paths the soul must tread alone;
Times when love can't smooth the road,
Nor friendship lift the heavy load.

"But just to feel you have a friend.
Who will stand by until the end;
